25 Aspirants In Race In 9 Ridings

Four Seats Held By Liberals Five By PCs

In only one of the nine ridings in this district is there not a battle between Liberals and Progressive Conservatives. That constituency is Prince Edward - Lennox, where the deputy PC whip, George Tustin, is being challenged by an independent, Donald Thompson. Mr. Thompson's last-minute nomination removed the sitting member's chance of acclamation.

In those nine ridings, five seats are held by Progressive Conservatives and four by Liberals. Formerly there were 10 ridings where there are nine now.

The ridings of Peterborough West, Hastings-Peterborough, and Frontenac have disappeared. Peterborough West is plain Peterborough, Hastings - Peterborough is absorbed into the huge riding of Hastings-Frontenac, and Frontenac has been divided between Kingston and Hastings-Frontenac.

LOST SEAT

The man who lost his seat in the redistribution was W. R. Aylesworth (PC, Frontenac). He is now contesting the altered riding of Kingston against the sitting member, W. J. Henderson (L, Kingston).

In only three of the ridings is it a two-party contest. Dr. F. M. Graham, a Liberal, is opposing the sitting member for Victoria, Clayton W. Hodgson, who won a 1,496 majority in the 1949 election.

George S. White (PC, Hastings-Frontenac), the former member for Hastings-Peterborough, is being opposed by Clute W. Foster, a Liberal. Mr. White, a Madoc lawyer, won Hastings - Peterborough with a majority of 1,897 in 1949.

George Tustin, who had a majority of 1,470 in the 1949 election, will battle for the Progressive Conservatives against an independent, Donald Thompson.

FOUR-WAY FIGHT

In one riding—Ontario—it is a four-way contest. Michael Starr, former mayor of Oshawa, won the seat for the PCs in a by-election following the resignation of the sitting member, Walter Thomson. Mr. Thomson resigned to take over the leadership of the Ontario Liberal party.

40,000 BALLOTS FOR PETERBOROUGH riding are being printed today in the city for the election on Aug. 10. Some of them will be included in the 36 ballot boxes that go to the country polling places and mailing of boxes to the more distant points will start on Wednesday. District Returning Officer J. Arthur McClellan, right, looks over a sample of the printing job with apprentice pressman Don Robinson.

Armies Begin To Pull Back Along Front

No Violations Reported In Early Hours Of Truce Agreement

SEOUL (AP) — Allied and Communist armies today began pulling back front-line troops all across the battle-blistered Korean front.

United Nations forces started withdrawing at daybreak. Chinese and North Korean Communist units were seen pulling back during the day.

Each side must withdraw two kilometres--about 1¼ miles— to form a demilitarized buffer zone across Korea.

Far behind Red lines, the Allies began evacuating islands off both the east and west coasts of North Korea. The islands had served as radar station points, ground control stations for air strikes against the Communists and for air-sea rescue operations.

THURSDAY DEADLINE

In keeping with the armistice signed Monday, the battlefront withdrawal must be completed by 10 p.m. Toursday (9 a.m. EDT.) The Allied-held islands must be evacuated by 10 p.m. Aug. 5.

In the early hours of the armistice no violations or incidents were reported. At the final 8th army briefing of correspondents, a staff officer said the last infantry action was a patrol clash at 2:55 a.m. Monday on the eastern front—some 19 hours before the truce became effective.

While Allied and Communist soldiers moved freely in the open today, the joint Allied-Communist military armistice commission held its first meeting at Panmunjom to begin supervision of the truce.

Gen. Mark Clark, UN commander, completed signing copies of the truce document—those that had been taken north Monday and signed by the Red high command—and flew back to his Tokyo headquarters.

MARKER SIGNS

The 2½-mile wide buffer zone will be marked off on its southern and northern boundaries with marker signs at numerous intervals and with ground panels for aerial observation.

On the western front, the U.S. 1st Marine Division began pulling back its front-line units at 6:30 a.m.

Marines reported that unarmed Chinese wandered through the new buffer zone and "came close enough to our bunkers to ask for a cigarette."

"We didn't fraternize with them," the marines said.

The Reds, waving flags, went to work in full view of the marines to clean up the battle area around their positions and pick up their dead.

Allied troops were under orders to leave nothing of value.

South Korean units, whose actions were in doubt until President Rhee announced Monday they would not obstruct the truce for the time being, also began pulling back.

HISTORIC WORDS — Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Commander of the Eighth Army, announces the armistice between UN and Red forces in the Korean War. He is speaking from his headquarters in Korea.

Truce Commission Meeting Discusses Administration

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies and Communists agreed today to start exchanging almost 87,000 prisoners of war Aug. 5 and the joint military armistice commission set in motion machinery for enforcing the Korean armistice. Once the long-awaited prisoner exchange gets under way, the Reds will free about 400 men daily at Panmunjom. The UN command said it will deliver about 2,760 daily, including 360 sick and wounded.

Detailed prisoners exchange plans were adopted by the military armistice committee for prisoner exchange as five different truce bodies gathered in Panmunjom.

Maj.-Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, who heads the Allied team on the joint military commission, described the first meeting of the group today as "like walking a tightrope."

Bryan said the UN command was ready to start exchanging prisoners this week, but he doubted if the Reds would be able to begin that swiftly. The Aug. 5 date was announced later.

COMMISSION MEETS

The commission meets again at 11 a. m. Wednesday (10 p. m EDT today).

These other developments punctuated the first full day of the Korean armistice:

1. Allied and Red forces began pulling back about 1¼ miles from the battle front to create a 2½-mile wide buffer zone. They blew up front-line fortifications. The UN also began evacuating key islands off both North Korean coasts.

2. South Korean President Syngman Rhee said he had received assurances that if the post-war political conference breaks down, the 16 United Nations with forces in Korea "are determined to fight with us jointly in a complete unity of purpose."

3. Polish and Czech officers were travelling from Peiping the Red China capital, to Panmunjom, where they will take up posts on the neutral nations supervisory commission. Swiss and Swedish delegates, now in Tokyo, were due within 48 hours. The commission will police the truce.

4. Gen. Mark W. Clark and Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., senior Allied truce delegate, returned to Tokyo from Korea

As staff officers agreed on plans for exchanging prisoners, the UN command began moving North Ko-

Altering History For Votes Drew Charges

OTTAWA (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, has accused the Liberal party of altering Canadian history to capture votes in the Aug. 10 general election.

He made the charge Monday at a free-for-all nominating convention in his own riding of Carleton, where all candidates appear on the platform on nominating day and appeal to the voters for support.

Mr. Drew said Prime Minister St. Laurent had stated in his first election speech that Canada's economic strength, her stature and unity had been achieved while the Liberal party was in office.

"Did you ever hear such utterly incurable modesty?" he said. "That is the most wonderful modesty I have ever heard."

From the way the Liberals speak, he said, "you'd think that everything came about under a Liberal government." But, he said, the CPR, the CNR, the CBC and unemployment insurance all came into being while Conservative governments held office in Ottawa.

NOT IN RUSSIA

"We are not living in Russia where you can change history to fit your own claims," he said.

Carleton's traditional nominating convention gave Mr. Drew, John H. McDonald, Liberal candidate, Stewart I. Crawford, CCF, and Eric K. Fallis, Social Credit, an opportunity to speak on the same platform. Mr. Drew and Mr McDonald were deluged with cat-calls and hoots from the audience, but the CCF and Social Credit candidates were able to speak without serious interruption.

Mr. Drew spoke first and was followed by Mr. McDonald, who said the Progressive Conservative

Prime Minister Urges Canada Continue Defence

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, making his second appeal for Ontario's vote on Aug. 10, has called on Canada to continue her defence build-up, despite the Korean truce.

The truce, he told about 3,500 persons who filled the London arena Monday night, was won by the free world's military strength. That kind of strength was the only language the enemy appeared to understand.

While the truce, signed Sunday night, may bring some savings in defence costs, such as in ammunition, there can be no substantial reduction in Canada's $2,000,000,000-a-year defence budget until there is real peace in the world.

If the Liberal government is returned on Aug. 10, it will maintain

U.S. Will Fight Seat For Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary John Foster Dulles said today the United States will not buy Korean unity at the price of Red Chinese membership in the United Nations. He added that the U.S. has the right to veto any move to grant the Chinese Communists a UN seat

He said, however, he did not think a veto would be necessary.

Dulles announced that he will fly to Korea next Sunday to confer with South Korean President Syngman Rhee. They will discuss problems coming up in a Korean political conference, and the negotiation of a U.S.-Korean security pact.

Dulles disclosed for the first time officially, although it has been publicly known for two weeks, that the United States had agreed with Rhee to walk out of the political conference if after 90 days it appears to be a sham, with the Reds negotiating in bad faith.

Talking at a press conference, Dulles also disclosed officially that the United States has indicated it would be willing to include in the defence part with Korea a provision giving the U.S. the right to station forces in or around Korea for the purpose of preserving peace. Rhee had asked such a provision.

Plane Flies Atlantic In 4 Hours, 14 Mins.

FAIRFORD, England (CP)—A United States Air Force B-47 jet flew from Canada to England in four hours and 14 minutes today.

There was no previous record for the run from Goose Bay, Labrador to Fairford air base but Col. Elliott Vandevanter Jr., commander of the aircraft, said it was without a doubt the fastest time ever made over that route.

The jet averaged about 600 miles on the flight of about 2,500 miles.

(A British twin-jet Canberra last Aug. 26 flew from Northern Ireland to Gander, Nfld., a distance of 2,072 miles, in four hours and 19 minutes).

Another B-47 today flew from Maine to England, about 400 miles longer than the flight from Goose Bay, in a record four hours and 45 minutes.

Have Uncovered More Evidence

GASPE, Que. (CP)—Searchers combing the bush for new clues in the slaying of three Pensylvania bear hunters have turned up additional evidence, provincial police said today.

Police said they could not disclose the nature of the evidence without harming their investigations. They described it as "interesting and satisfying."

Capt. J. Alphonse Matte, in charge of the investigation, said he went into the bush Monday night to examine the new evidence.

He said searchers have not yet found the skull of Eugene H Lindsey, 45, eldest of the hunters whose bear-mauled remains were found scattered through the bush about 65 miles west of here.

CCF Proposes To Help Pay Polio Treatment

WINNIPEG (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, Monday challenged Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to clarify his stand on a national health plan before the federal election Aug. 10.

Speaking to an enthusiastic audience of about 800 at the Winnipeg Playhouse theatre, he said the prime minister's statement that the Liberal party is pledged to support a national health plan is as dishonest as Progressive Conservative leader George Drew's claim he will lower taxes by $500,000,000 if elected.

The CCF leader laid his charges before his audience with neat precision. He rarely raised his voice.

He said Canada is one of three countries in the world without a national health plan. The others are the United States—"that citadel of reaction"—and Australia.

The Liberal claim to being pledged to support a national health plan means nothing, he said. They have been deceiving the people of Canada for 34 years on this question. It is the number one issue of this election.

FIRMS CAPITALIZING

Referring to a polio epidemic now under way in Winnipeg, Mr. Coldwell said the individual has no assurance, if struck by the disease, that he can meet his medical and hospital expenses.

As a result, private insurance companies are capitalizing on the need of Manitoba residents for protection.

"This privately sponsored plan imposes . . . a limit on the amount the company will pay for the cost of treatment," he said. "No provision for treatment is given beyond this limit for those who may require it."

Truce Ousts Canadians From Little Gibraltar

By BILL BOSS

SEOUL (CP)—Post-armistice censorship relaxations today permit the disclosure that Canadian troops will have to abandon Little Gibraltar in the withdrawal to create a 2½-mile buffer zone under the truce agreement. At one time or another the three Canadian regiments which have served in Korea have been connected with Little Gibraltar, a hill position which Canadian forces have defended strongly. The withdrawal must be made within three days.

The easing of censorship disclosed the fact that Canadian forces were holding part of the Korean battle line. The 3rd battalion, Princess Patricias Canadian Light Infantry, held Little Gibraltar, and the Royal Canadian Regiment held lower hills southeastwards. The Royal 22nd Regiment was in reserve.

HOOK POSITION LOST

A famous Hook position, long the Commonwealth division's south anchor and with which the Canadians have been associated, was also lost to the demilitarized zone. It is now held by Australians.

The armistice Monday fell on the 1,111th day of the war and the eve of the Commonwealth division's second anniversary.

The Canadian forces devoted today—first of the three they have to complete evacuation of their positions—to removing ammunition. During the next 72 hours they must get everything they want to keep out of the area and that includes everything likely to be useful in building a new semi-permanent headquarters in new areas. However, mindful that the armistice may be only a pause in the hostilities, they gave top priority today to ammunition.

De Gasperi Gov't Falls In Italy

ROME (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi's eighth government fell today, cut down by a no-confidence vote. It was the first time that the 72-year-old Christian Democrat leader suffered such defeat since he took the reins of Italy's government on Dec. 10, 1945.

There were howls of delight from the Communist and extreme Socialist left as the 282-to-263 vote was announced.

It was the first time since before the advent of fascism that an Italian government was thus overthrown.

For the weary De Gasperi there remained the formality of offering his resignation to President Luigi Einaudi for the government he had reluctantly agreed to form two weeks ago, following the national elections.

The Italian constitution requires that the government must have the confidence of both Chamber and Senate.

The president immediately adjourned the session indefinitely, pending notification to the deputies to reconvene after formation of the new government.

De Gasperi, who had declined to come to an accord either with the extreme right composed of Monarchists and the Fascist Social movement as well as with the extreme left Communists and Socialists, clearly indicated again today that he would held to his centre line. This meant that De Gasperi, or another member of his party, would like to try to bring together in a new government the members of the centre parties.

East Germans Queue For Food

BERLIN (AP) — More than 100,000 hunger-driven East Germans swarmed into West Berlin to pick up free Western food today in a mass demonstration of communism's failure to feed its own people.

They began queueing at dawn. The crowds grew by the hour. By mid-afternoon it looked as if the turnout would exceed the 120,000 fed Monday when the big American-backed relief program began. The two-day total fast approached the 250,000 mark.

With $15,000,000 of food donated by the United States at their disposal, the free West Germans expect to feed more than 1,000,000 of their brothers behind the Iron Curtain before the two-week operation ends

Blocked by Moscow's veto from shipping the proferred U.S. food into the interior of Soviet-occupied East Germany, Western authorities had feared the "come and get it" plan adopted as a substitute would reach only people from East Berlin and nearby areas.

But they came by the tens of thousands from far out in the Soviet zone.

Taft's Condition "Has Deteriorated"

NEW YORK (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft's physical condition "has deteriorated," New York hospital announced today.

The Ohio Republican recently underwent an exploratory operation of the abdominal wall to investigate a hip ailment.

The announcement was the first that did not take an optimistic view of his condition.

It had been announced last week that he would return to Washington on Wednesday. A statement from the hospital Monday said only that his departure would be delayed.

East German Reds Admit Big Underground Movement

BERLIN (Reuters) — The East German Communist party today admitted a widespread underground movement has gained a grip in parts of the Soviet zone, affecting particularly factory workers.

The admission came in a report approved at a party central committee meeting last weekend and published in the party newspaper Neues Deutschland—which is under new editorial control following the expulsion of editor Rudolf Herrnstadt.

The report said the "Fascist" underground was organized by the United States and led by former Nazis and bourgeois elements.

This movement had gained ground with the workers in several large factories and had also affected the Red zone's youth, including the tightly-disciplined Free German youth organization. In some towns there were other anti-government groups independent of the underground, the report added.

The report—one of the frankest documents ever published about the inner workings of the East German Communist party — admitted that party members had "lost their heads . . . panicked . . . retreated before the opposition" under the pressure of the workers uprising June 17.

It said the party had taken a false path in "developing heavy industry at too great a pace, repressing and liquidating the middle classes and the large landowners class, forcing farmers to join collective farms, imposing impossible delivery quotas on farmers and neglecting the farmers and workers problems."

Four Perish In Resort Fire

ROSENDALE, N.Y. (AP)—Four or possibly five persons perished today and at least nine were injured in a fire which swept a resort hotel at nearby Williams Lake.

Firemen said one woman was fatally injured in attempting to jump to safety. They later found the charred bodies of three or possibly four persons in the blackened ruins of the two frame structures of the hotel which housed more than 100 guests.

Those hurt suffered injuries leaping from second-storey windows after the fire was discovered at 4 a.m. The alarm was given by the crew of a passing New York Central freight train. Repeated blasts were sounded on the locomotive's whistle to rouse the sleeping vacationers.

Two of the resort's main buildings were destroyed.

French Strike Against Rebels

HUE, Indo-China (Reuters)—The French high command today threw 10,000 troops into an attack against a Vietminh Communist force about 30 miles northwest of this east coast town.

The French hope to trap and wipe out a 2,000-man "troublesome but hitherto elusive" Vietminh unit.

First reports said the operation began successfully.

Mine Union, Officials To Meet With Fine.

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Daley of Ontario announced today that labor and management representatives from the strike-bound Broulan Reef mine in Timmins will meet with Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer, here Wednesday to try to settle their wage dispute.

The names of the union and management delegates have not been released. Earlier it was reported that Broulan would not send a representaiive to the meeting.

Originally scheduled for today, the meeting was postponed because the labor minister had other business to attend to in the Niagara area.

Mr. Daley said he will return as soon as possible "to get in on the talks at the earliest possible moment."

902 Candidates Have Been Nominated

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Liberals have the biggest slate of candidates for the Aug. 10 general election, with the Progressive Conservatives right behind them

The government party named 264 contestants in Monday's nominations for the 265 House of Commons seats, and the official opposition put up 250.

Both the big-parties in their formal nomination day filings gunned heavily for the Ontario and Quebec seats where the issue could be decided.

So did the CCF and the Communist Labor Progressives. Social Credit, despite earlier expectations of an eastern invasion, largely stuck to the West.

Social Credit, which picked off the British Columbia administration last year, ran only nine candidates east of the Prairies, one in New Brunswick and eight in Ontario. The party had a total of 71 in the running.

HIGHER TOTAL

All parties nominated a total of 902, compared with 848 in the general election of four years ago and the record of 954 in the 1945 voting.

They were split this way:

Liberals, 264; Progressive Conservatives, 250; CCF, 172; Social Credit, 71; Labor Progressive 100; others, 45.

In 1949, with a 262-seat House compared with the 265-seat chamber now following the redistribution of the last session, the Liberals nominated 260 and the Progressive Conservatives 249. The CCF had 180 candidates and Social Credit 27. The Communists then had only 19.

This time, the major parties, except for Social Credit, spread their candidates through every province. They shot their ammunition largely in the decisive Ontario and Quebec territory which will return, respectively, 85 and 75 candidates.

NECK AND NECK

In Ontario, the Liberals named 84 and the Progressive Conservatives 85. In Quebec, the Liberals put up 75 and the Progressive Conservatives 73.

A total of 280 was nominated in Ontario, compared with 267 the last time out, and 232 in Quebec against 253 four years ago.

Behind these provinces came 22-seat British Columbia, which picked up four seats out of redistribution and where 100 candidates jumped into the running. Largely Liberal-held at dissolution, British Columbia will be contested by an almost-equal division of Liberal, Progressive Conservative, Social Credit and Communist opponents.

The Ontario candidates include 67 CCF, 29 Labor-Progressive, and seven others.

CCF nominations in the province were down from the 76 put forward in 1949 while the eight Social Credit entries were up from four that year. The Labor-Progressives led by Tim Buck, again seeking election himself in Toronto Trinity riding, nominated 22 more candidates than in 1949.

NOT CONTESTING SEAT

The only seat the Liberals are not contesting is Prince Edward-Lennox where Donald Thompson, Independent, is opposing George Tustin, Progressive Conservative, who held the seat in the last House. The last-minute nomination of Mr. Thompson upset the possibility of an acclamation for Mr. Tustin.

Find Wreckage Of Missing RCAF Plane

SUDBURY (CP) — RCAF pararescue and ground search parties were set to converge early today on the Adobe lake area, 35 miles northeast of here, where the wreckage of an RCAF mustang fighter, missing since July 18, was sighted Monday.

The wreckage was spotted by FO. Alan Weekes of Edson, Alta., while on routine search patrol in a Beechcraft Expediter from the North Bay RCAF base. He was copilot in the plane piloted by FO. Roger Smith of Montreal.

The wreckage, a pinpoint in the dense wilderness, was kept under surveillance by search planes while a hydro commission helicopter was flown in. But the helicopter couldn't land at the crash scene because of the tall trees.

It set down on Adobe lake, about a mile from the crash site, but the bush was judged too dense to cut through before dark. The ground search party was to head toward the wreckage after being landed on the lake while the pararescue group baled out at the crash scene, weather permitting.

RCAF officials at North Bay, centre of the search, said there was no sign of life at the crash site.

The mustang, piloted by FO. J.L. Suttie of Saskatoon, was one of nine aircraft from No. 403 reserve squadron, returning to their home base at Calgary after participating in a defensive exercise in Eastern Canada. It disappeared a few minutes after leaving North Bay for the Lakehead on the second leg of the flight.

U.S. Wants To Limit Delegation Members

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. may press for a United Nations delegation to the Korean peace conference made up exclusively from among the 17 countries which actually fought the Communists.

This was reported under consideration today after Senator William Knowland (Rep.-Calif.) told the Senate "we must not allow neutrals who sat out three years of war" to have a decisive voice in the peace talks, due to begin within 90 days.

Authorities said State Secretary Dulles and his principal advisers have started a close study of plans for the conference. One proposal up for decision is whether to try to limit the delegation to the countries which made direct military contributions.

The UN general assembly has been summoned to meet Aug. 17 to receive a formal report from the UN command on the Korean armistice. It will have the responsibility of deciding the site for the political conference with the Communists to try to work out a permanent Korean peace settlement. It will also consider an agenda and composition of the UN delegation.

PM Repudiates Whispering Campaign

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday night he repudiates any person in Quebec who starts a "whispering" campaign against George Drew because of his religion.

The Roman Catholic prime minister said he hopes the Protestant Progressive Conservative leader will be just as "forthcoming" in repudiating those in the Protestant sections of the country who may start a "whispering" campaign against Mr. St. Laurent.

Mr. St. Laurent told a Liberal rally that Mr. Drew had urged him in a speech at Trois-Rivieres, Que., to repudiate the "whispering" campaigns. He was glad to do so.

Kent To Enter Army

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Kent, 17-year-old cousin of the Queen, will join the army this September to begin a military career. He will enlist as a regular soldier and be sent to Sandhurst Military Academy for preliminary training.

rean and Chinese prisoners by ship to the mainland from Koje and Cheju Islands off South Korea.

About 3,600 Koreans and 1,200 Chinese were in the first group.

The prisoners will be held at Yongdongpo on the outskirts of Seoul and at Munsan, the Allied prisoner - of - war commaad announced.

Precautions were being taken to head off possible Red demonstrations such as occurred during the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners last April.

Col. L. C. Friedersdorff, head of the UN team on the military armistice committee for prisoner exchange, said the Reds reported they hold about 500 sick and wounded prisoners. They gave no break down by nationality.

The UN holds about 3,000 disabled Communist prisoners.

Friedersdorff said the exact time the exchange will start Aug. 5 was not set.

The Reds have said they will hand over 69,000 North Koreans and about 5,000 Chinese.

The allies also hold 7,800 North Koreans and 14,500 Chinese who have said they will not return to communism. These prisoners will be moved to the neutral zone near Panmunjom while Communist agents try to persuade them to go home.

ADMINISTRATIVE DETAILS

Bryan said the first session of the military armistice commission was devoted to administrative details, including ways to get joint observer teams quickly into the buffer zone dividing UN and Communist armies.

Bryan's aides on the commission are a British general, a Thai general, a U. S. Navy admiral and an American Air Force general.

Disgruntled president Rhee told his people South Korea fears there may be a larger war in the future, but "for the time being at least," he welcomes a truce.

Rhee said "from our point of view" the political conference "is hardly likely" to settle the problem of Korean unificaton.

Meanwhile, North Korea's Pyongyang radio quoted premier Kim Il Sung as saying North Korea "will increase and intensify its national defences."

The North Korean premier, in a broadcast heard in Tokyo, told a "victory celebration," that at the same time "all efforts should be made to stabilize livelihood and enhance the economic conditions of the country."

The four - country supervisory commission will form inspection teams to police 10 ports of entry —the only ones through whica men and arms can pass in and out of Korea. Five are in North Korea and five in South Korea.

The Communist high command named Lt.-Gen. Lee Sang Cho as head of its half of the military armistice commission. Lee, who only Monday was a major-general, was on the Red truce delegation.

leader was working "hand-in-hand" with Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec, "the arch enemy of Canadian federalism." Both Mr. Drew and Mr. Duplessis were opposed to the tax rental agreements despite the fact they had been signed by all provinces except Quebec.

After Mr. McDonald had spoken, he took a 10-inch knife, decorated with a blue bow, from his briefcase and handed it to Mr. Drew to "cut taxes." Mr. Drew declined the knife, but later accepted it as the "symbol" of the job needed to be done in cutting government "waste and extravagance."

PROMISES TAX CUTS

In a recorded free-time political broadcast over the CBC's Dominion network, Mr. Drew promised $400,000,000 in income-tax cuts if his party is elected. He said the income tax exemption for a married person would be raised to $3,000 from $2,000 and the exemption for a single person to $1,500 from $1,000. The other $100,000,000 of $500,000,000 in tax cuts proposed by the Progressive Conservatives would be met by reductions in indirect taxes, Mr. Drew said.

Mr. McDonald accused Mr. Drew of not looking after the interests of the people of Carleton, but the Opposition leader said he had "spoken many times" in the Commons on behalf of the people he represented. Mr. McDonald also criticized Mr. Drew, who lives in Ottawa's exclusive Rockcliffe Park area, for not residing in Carleton riding. Mr. Drew said that two former prime ministers, Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Robert Borden, represented Carleton but did not live in the riding.

SHOULD LIVE IN RIDING

"You are not a prime minister," Mr. McDonald said later. "You should be living in this riding. It's good enough for me to live in."

Mr. McDonald said if the Progressive Conservative party forms the next government, "many civil servants will be dismissed." He also said he doubted that Mr. Drew could cut taxes by $50,000,000 a year.

Mr. Crawford urged Carleton voters to support the CCF party to prevent another recession. The CCF party, he said, was the party with the most interest in the welfare of this country.

Mr. Crawford said he doubted that the Progressive Conservative party could claim credit for unemployment insurance.

"They called it relief," he said.

Mr. Fallis said the Social Credit party would not form a coalition with any other party in the new Parliament.

He suggested that if there were any coalition it would be between the Liberals and the Progressive Conservatives. He said the two parties had formed coalition governments in the past in Manitoba and British Columbia.

The Social Credit candidate said Canada would never enjoy "peace-time prosperity" until the nation's money system is changed. The Social Credit party "will make you free and give Canada truly free enterprise."

Each speaker was permitted to have a supporter speak for five minutes on his behalf. Hon. Thomas Kennedy, former Progressive Conservative minister of agriculture in Ontario, spoke for Mr. Drew; George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, for Mr. McDonald; Allan Schroeder, a CCF party worker, for Mr. Crawford, and Mrs. Solon Low, wife of the Social Cedit leader, for Mr. Fallis.

Canadians Work As Reds Relax

SEOUL (CP) — Chinese Communist soldiers sat on their hillsides today drinking cooling draughts while Canadians hauled ammunition out of their positions preparatory to evacuating them Thursday evening.

The sweltering Canadians, accustoming themselves to the armistice, exchanged shouted wisecracks with the Communists. Some Reds ventured into no-man's-land but none entered Canadian territory.

Maj.-Gen. Michael West, Commonwealth division commander, has ordered troops not to fraternize with the enemy but the Chinese launched an ardent courtship of the Canadians.

The Reds hoisted banners in front of their positions. One read: "Congratulations to the Canadians who are going home soon."

The Canadian troops laughed and wondered whether the Reds had private information from Ottawa.

Canada's defence machine to build strength to a point where aggressors would not dare launch an attack, said Mr. St. Laurent as his audience applauded.

Security was important to Canada. If maintenance of the defence machine helped prevent future wars, then Mr. St. Laurent felt he had done his duty and that the money was "well spent."

The Progressive Conservatives, he said, have promised to reduce defence spending by more than 10 per cent. This promise, Mr. St. Laurent charged, is "contempt of Parliament" and "thoroughly irresponsible."

There had been some "examples of waste" in the defence department, too many teapots, neckties and forks purchased and thefts of scrap and hiring of horses, but these things would have to be multiplied a great many times before the Progressive Conservatives could make savings of $250,000,000 a year in defence costs.

A reduction in defence expenditures is possible for Canada, Mr. St. Laurent said, "If we can get a real pacification in the Far East."

"But I ask you whether you think George Drew (Progressive Conservative leader) or anyone he can select is more likely than Mike (external affairs minister) Pearson to make an important contribution to peace-making in Asia."

The Liberals would like nothing better than to reduce defence expenditure substantially, if it could be done without endangering Canada's security.

"But everywhere I go," he said, "I keep reminding my audience that Canada is not defending herself by herself. If we want our partners to do their share to defend the free world, we must do our share and keep our partners satisfied we are doing our share."

The Progressive Conservatives had charged the Liberal government with contempt of Parliament, but, said Mr. Laurent, "I suggest quite seriously that this Conservative promise to reduce defence expenditures by more than 10 per cent is contempt of Parliament. These defence expenditures were authorized by Parliament as recently as last May, and not one Conservative suggested at that time that they should be reduced." Travelling by train, Mr. St. Laurent leaves this western Ontario university and industrial centre today for Tillsonburg, St. Thomas and St. Mary's. Tonight he plans to attend the Shakespearian festival at Stratford to witness the staging of Richard III.

Paul Martin, Canada's UN delegate, addressing the same meeting as the prime minister, said Mr. St. Laurent played a "prominent" part in the Korean truce. The part he played was embodied in his friendship with Prime Minister Nehru of India and the leaders of the United States.

If it hadn't been for the discussions the prime minister had with U.S. and British officials the Indian resolution for ending the Korean war might not have been adopted by 55 UN member countries.

State Secretary Pickersgill said the Korean truce was the first fruits of five years of work of the Canadian government. The government should not be changed at this critical time.

Mr. Coldwell said he was not criticizing the private companies for taking a fair profit. He said the prime minister had indicated his support of this type of medical plan.

He said under the CCF government of Saskatchewan, the costs of polio treatment are born by the government medical plan. The individual may be transported by air ambulance and receive the most up-to-date treatment but pays nothing beyond the regular $10-a-year contribution.

The CCF leader said the Progressive Conservatives "will not cut much ice in this election." He predicted the loss of the two Newfoundland Conservative seats, no gains in the Maritimes, a doubtful result in Quebec and not more than five seats west of the Great Lakes.

He accused the government of refusing federal aid to Winnipeg for educational purposes and said Mr. St. Laurent will never permit low-cost, subsidized housing while he is prime minister.

Mr. Coldwell said a firm economy depends on a firm agricultural industry. The present government has turned away foreign markets for Canada's agricultural produce, he said. It has favored uncertain United States markets.

Mr. Drew was again the target for a final blast. He estimated the Tory leader had already promised benefits involving an expenditure of more than $2,000,000,00 and a tax reduction of $500,000,000. "He is a promising Conservative," said Mr. Coldwell.

Canadian Troops Take Over Division Defence Sector

IN KOREA (Reuters)—Canadian troops in a few days will take over defence of the whole sector now held by the Commonwealth division, the Canadian brigade commander, Brig. Jean Allard, said Monday.

During the armistice, they will man a series of outposts along the sector, while other Commonwealth units reorganize and train, he said.

After the truce was signed Allard thanked his men for their "magnificent" performance during the war. But he warned them that their new job will require the strongest discipline and more vigilance than ever before.

"There must be no chance of peace being broken by our side," he stressed.

Most Commonwealth units held no celebrations to mark the end of the fighting. Canadians and their comrades-in-arms were relieved but somewhat cynical.

"This was the only war we had," said WO. J. B. Griffiths of Kingston. "Now they've gone and loused it up." Then he added seriously: "But I guess it's a good thing."

"It is hard to say why the truce was put off for so long," said Gnr. H. A. Anderson of Port Arthur. "I don't suppose it will make much difference to us anyway."

What effect will the armistice have on the Canadian troops?

Lt.-Col. Tony Poulin of Quebec City, a member of the Van Doos, told The Canadian Press: "It has not sunk in yet. It will take two or three days to realize it."

Lt.-Col. Ken Campbell, Perth, Ont., of the RCRs, said: "That's so—it would be more of a reality if the men knew what it means in terms of going home."

Lt.-Col. Tony MacLachlan of Halifax, of the 3rd battalion, PPCLI, commented that the troops had taken the news "pretty much in stride."

"The Patricias knew they were on the home stretch of the Korean assignment anyway, they were due to leave in two or three months."

Actually, every Canadian soldier to whom this correspondent has spoken has indicated that "when do we go home" is the uppermost reaction. The $64 question is whether the government still will dispatch the 2nd Highland battalion to relieve the Patricias or whether the Patricias' departure in October means reduction of the brigade to two battalions and whether next spring rotation may remove it altogether.

Meanwhile, the armistice flurry obliged Brig. Jean Allard, commander of the Canadian brigade, to leave Robert W. Mayhew, Canadian ambassador to Japan, to the care of his staff. He met Mayhew on the road Monday while the ambassador was departing following a visit to the brigade area. The commander was returning, just in time to say farewell.

Mayhew flew back to Tokyo today and flies to Canada next week.

During the last days of the fighting, Allard was extra prudent with the Canadian troops, avoiding unnecessary risks. It now can be disclosed that early in June, he took the initiative in the Canadian area of limiting Canadian patrols to halfway across no-man's-land, enough to ensure that the immediate "front yard" was clear of the enemy.

The Canadian forces avoided all provocative contact and limited artillery fire to sighted targets, nightly harassing fire and retaliating to the enemy fire in the ratio of 5 or 10 to 1.

Since early in June no Canadian patrol has penetrated enemy positions.

Latterly the Chinese tended to abuse this "understanding," sending patrols in close and thereby causing suspicion that they might attempt a last-minute bid to alter the cease-fire line in the Canadian area. But this did not materialize.

The last heavy shelling endured by the Canadian troops was on Monday, attributed to retaliation for Commonwealth fire directed into the enemy area for the benefit of TV camera men. Chinese fire fell, but there were no casualties.

By Wednesday evening Britannia Camp, a transformed Canadian field dressing station at Tokchong, is expected to be ready and equipped to receive returning Commonwealth prisoners of war. However, divisional patients there now will not be reduced to the 50 the field dressing station will handle during the big switch until just before the exchange begins.

Lieut. Bill Beaman of Portsmouth, Ont., who will interrogate the Canadian prisoners, flew to Kure, Japan, today for briefings on Commonwealth procedure. He is due to return Saturday.

Defence Needs Remain High

OTTAWA (CP)—The shooting has stopped in Korea but officials here said Monday the truce isn't likely to change the pattern of economic life in Canada or the strength of Canada's defences.

"The only difference between today and yesterday is that the shooting has stopped," one official said. "The danger remains and the need of maintaining our strength and equipment is as great now as before the truce."

The 25th infantry brigade in Korea will remain at its present strength of about 7,000.

The truce will mean no quick trip home for the men. The only prospect of a homecoming in sight is one that has been scheduled for some time. This is the rotation of the 3rd battalion of the Princess Patricia's. They will be replaced this fall by the 2nd Highland battalion now training at Wainwright, Alta.

Some minor cut-backs in production can be expected in ammunition and possibly medical supplies. But production of other industries to feed, clothe and equip an army will be as necessary now as before the truce.

Veterans Unexcited About Peace News

TORONTO (CP)—A group of Korean veterans who learned the war was over after their return to Canada said today the news of an armistice brought only a few cheers.

More than 300 troops, 58 from Ontario, arrived here today on a special train. They were told of the truce signing when they pulled into Winnipeg station on their way home from the West coast.

"There were so many breakdowns in peace talks that not many of the boys thought an end to the war would ever come," said Maj. Edwin Fraser of Oakville, Ont.

Cod Desert Cape

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP)—The cod have just about deserted Cape Cod. Cod now is running fifth in value behind haddock, redfish, seaherring and lobsters. Biologist Clyde C. Taylor of the North Atlantic Fishery Investigations says it's because Cape waters are getting warmer and the cod likes cold seas.

Cobourg Soldier Hopes For Real Peace

TOKYO (CP)—Canadian soldiers on leave here, some of them just out of the Korean front lines, took the news of the Korean armistice calmly, many of them thinking of buddies.

"It will mean a lot to the boys to get back to their families," said Pte. Gilbert La Perade of Montreal. "My brother is still over there and I won't be doing any celebrating until we are together again."

Pte. Jack Warden of Cobourg, Ont., said: "I hope it will be a full peace. My friends still in Korea will be pleased."

L. Cpl. Arnold Lauzon of Ansonville, Ont., mentioned President Syngman Rhee of South Korea: "I am very happy it is over but I cannot help feeling we have gained little since June, 1950. I hope that the United Nations and the Reds will come to an agreement which will please everybody including Syngman Rhee. One thing is sure, he's a mighty hard fellow to please."

HAVE WE HELPED?

Cpl. Clare Fisher of London, Ont.: "I cannot help wondering if we have helped Korea. After all, the north and south are still not united."

Maj. Alex Christian of Vancouver, officer commanding the Canadian detachment in Tokyo: "From our point of view the continued acceptance of casualties without gain appears to be senseless."

Sgt. Marcel Desjardins of Ottawa: "I am sure that my fiancee will be glad, too."

MORE ABOUT—
902 Candidates

William Benedickson, running in Kenora-Rainy River as a Liberal-Labor candidate, has the backing of the Liberal party.

There will be three five-way contests, 38 four-way battles, 25 three-cornered scraps, and 19 two-way fights. There were no acclamations.

Two Liberals are running in the eastern Ontario constituency of Glengarry-Prescott. Before the ridings were merged, one represented Glengarry and the other Prescott in the last House.

Two A. C. Casselmans are fighting it out for Grenville-Dundas in Eastern Ontario. Arthur C. Casselman is the Liberal candidate and Alra C. Casselman the Progressive Conservative.

MAJOR FIGURES

All major figures in the Commons parties were renominated. Prime Minister St. Laurent will be running again in Quebec East against four opponents. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, is out in Ontario's Carleton county, which takes in part of Ottawa, where he has opposition from representatives of all the major parties.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, is running again in Saskatchewan's Rosetown-Biggar against four opponents including a Communist. Solon Low, Social Credit leader, is up against three contestants in his Peace River riding near the north end of the Alberta-British Columbia border.

Communist leader Tim Buck, who has never sat in the Commons, is the Labor-Progressive candidate in Toronto Trinity, trying to take that seat away from Lionel Conacher, Liberal and old-time athlete.

The Commons' only woman member, Mrs. Ellen Fairclough of Hamilton West, was renominated there as a Progressive Conservative.

She was one of an unusually large number of women, 43, named to contest this election. Twenty-two of them are running in Ontario.

National Health Plan Issue Of Election, Coldwell Says

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister St. Laurent says Canada should continue her defence build-up until no possible aggressor would dare attack her or her allies. In a political campaign speech Monday night at London, Ont., the prime minister said the Korean truce will mean some savings in defence costs, such as ammunition, but there must be more than an armistice before there can be any subtantial reduction in Canada's $2,000,000,000-a-year defence budget. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, was in his home riding of Carleton, Ont., for a rough-and-tumble nominating convention at which all four candidates spoke from the same platform.

Later, in a free-time political broadcast over a CBC network, Mr. Drew said a Progressive Conservative government would shear $400,000,000 from income taxes. Tax exemption for a married man would be raised from $2,000 to $3,000 for a single person from $1,000 to $1,500. The other $100,000,000 of the promised total $500,000,000 reduction in taxes would be met by cuts in indirect taxes, he said.

NO. 1 ISSUE

At Winnipeg, where a polio epidemic is raging, CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said a national health insurance plan, advocated by the CCF, has become the No. 1 issue of the election campaign.

He said an individual in Manitoba now has no assurance, if struck by polio, that his hospital and medical expenses will be met. As a result, private insurance companies were capitalizing on Manitobans' need for some protection.

"This privately-sponsored plan imposes, like all such private plans, a limit on the amount the company will pay for the cost of treatment. No provision of treatment is given beyond this limit for those who may require it."

The reason, Mr. Coldwell said, was that private companies must try to make a profit. He then described Saskatchewan's hospital insurance scheme.

"If Saskatchewan, a single province with limited financial powers, can provide services of this kind to its people, then surely the federal government, with almost unlimited financial resources, can do something more than merely pass the responsibility to private companies to give Canadians whatever health protection their profit-making schemes will permit."

CONTINUE BUILD DEFENCE

Mr. St. Laurent told an applauding audience of 3,500 that if the Liberals are returned to power Aug. 10, he would continue to build up Canada's armed services. If this would help to prevent war, he would feel he had done his duty and that defence expenditures would be money well spent.

He contended that a Progressive Conservative pledge to cut defence expenditures by $250,000,000 was "contempt of Parliament."

"You have heard a lot from Mr. Drew and his party about what they are pleased to call the government's contempt of Parliament. The fact is we have never shown any contempt of Parliament. . . . But I suggest quite seriously that this Conservative promise to reduce defence expenditures by more than 10 per cent really is contempt of Parliament.

"Those defence expenditures were authorized by Parliament as recently as last May, and not one Conservative suggested at that time that they should be reduced."

Mr. St. Laurent admitted there might have been some mistakes in defence appropriations—too many neckties, forks and teapots purchased. There had also been some thefts of scrap, but there would have to be a "great many things" of that kind to make up $250,000,000.

TRY TO ALTER HISTORY

At the Carleton nominating meeting in Ottawa, Mr. Drew accused the Liberals of trying to alter Canadian history to capture votes.

He quoted the prime minister as saying that Canada's economic strength, stature and unity had all been achieved while the Liberal party was in office.

"Did you ever hear such utterly incurable modesty?' Mr. Drew asked. "That is the most wonderful modesty I have ever heard."

From the way the Liberals talked, one would think everything came about under a Liberal government. But the CPR, CNR, CBC and unemployment insurance all had come into being while Conservative governments were in power.

"We are not living in Russia where you can change history to fit your own claims," Mr. Drew said.

At Otthon, Sask., Agriculture Minister Gardiner, back on the hustings after attending his daughter's wedding at Ottawa Saturday, said the CCF claims many businesses are making exorbitant profits, but has found out in Saskatchewan that they don't make so much profit.

At Saint John, N.B. L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister, said need of Canadian support for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "is a special need and a special responsibility."

Today, Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Drew will continue their Ontario campaigning for that province's 85 seats. The prime minister will be at Tillsonburg, St. Thomas, St. Mary's and Stratford; Mr. Drew at Niagara Falls; Welland and Hamilton. Mr. Coldwell continues his westward tour with a speech at Calgary.

Says Liberals Approve 1-Party State

KINGSTON — The Liberals have been trying to perpetuate themselves by every possible means, J. M. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative candidate for Toronto-Greenwood, said here Monday night.

Mr. Macdonnell said the Liberals have been arguing there is no adequate alternative to them. "In other words," he said, "they are asking Canadians to believe we have reached the stage of being a one-party state."

The flattery poured on Mr. St. Laurent reminded Mr. Macdonnell of the spate of flattery poured on Stalin.

The Liberals should go further when referring to their leader and say "Mr. St. Laurent who makes the St. Lawrence flow, who causes oil wells to gush and who brings rain to the crops," Mr. Macdonnell suggested.

The Liberals' belief in their indispensability has an extraordinary effect on them, Mr. Macdonnell declared.

ASKS REPUDIATION

"Men otherwise honest will be a party to incredible things. Last November the Prime Minister said no one in this country seriously contends that any of the social services should be eliminated. Mr. Drew quoted this in his opening campaign speech."

Despite this a Liberal advertisement in a Quebec newspaper said that the savings proposed by Mr. Drew would be made by cutting down family allowances by $300,000,000 and pensions $317,000,000.

"I demand, and every honest man in Canada should demand, that Mr. St. Laurent publicly repudiate this and state there is no truth in it.

"If he does not do so, he forfeits the respect of honest men. I defy any man of principle to vote for him honestly," Mr. Macdonnell declared.

The Liberals, by running on their record, are adopting a do-nothing attitude, Mr. Macdonnel said. They express perfect self-satisfaction with what they have done and they say no one else could do better.

"One thing is sure," Mr. Macdonnell continued. "We need expect no economies from the Liberals. They are not experts in economy. They are experts in spending."

Soldier Drowns

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Pte. Edward George Crawford, 19, of Toronto was drowned Monday night while swimming in the Thames river at Dundas St. bridge. Pte. Ron. G. Lapossey, 19, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., said he and Crawford, both of the Royal Canadian Regiment, agreed to race across the river. Lapossey added that he dived in first and looked back to note that Crawford had disappeared.

Farm Price Plan "Hit And Miss"

CALEDONIA — The Liberal Government has never had a floor price policy for agricultural products: it has been only a hit-and-miss policy of expediency, John Charlton told a dinner meeting of the Brant-Haldimand Progressive Conservative Association at Caledonia Monday night.

Mr. Charlton, PC member in the last House of Commons for Brant-Wentworth and candidate in the new riding of Brant-Haldimand, said the Progressive Conservative Party "believes there must be a national agricultural board, including representative producers, to establish fair floor prices as related to production costs."

"Approximately three out of every eight Canadians are dependent on export markets for their livelihood. If our farmers and other primary producers cannot sell their products at a price which gives them a fair return over and above the cost of production, then they cannot buy the manufactured goods purchased by other Canadians. The result," said Mr. Charlton, "is a serious drop in our national income."

The PC candidate said that as chairman of the agricultural committee in the House of Commons, he had pleaded with the government for four years to help the primary producers of the country retain their traditional and stable export markets.

He said that the government's position was very frankly expressed by the Minister of Finance when in reply to a motion by the Progressive Conservative Party that a Commonwealth Conference on trade be requested by Canada he said "we will not support the motion because it would serve no purpose."

Can't See Pickersgill As PM Right Away

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trade Minister C. D. Howe said Monday at a press conference:

"I don't think the newest member of the cabinet should aspire to leadership right away."

He was commenting on suggestions that J. W. Pickersgill is slated to succeed Prime Minister St. Laurent as Liberal leader.

Mr. Howe said he himself has given no thought to retiring after the election and he felt sure the prime minister felt the same way.

IN MONTREAL—George Drew, the national Progressive Conservative leader, speaks to a group of followers at a recent meeting in Montreal as his tour of the province of Quebec drew to a close. The meeting took place in St. James' Market Hall and was jammed to capacity for the rally.

KO'd By Pump Handle

MILVERTON (CP)—Reeve Clarence Mogk of Milverton was knocked unconscious Monday when a steel shaft on a pump at the hydro station bent with centrifugal force and struck him. The reeve suffered fractures of both lower and upper jaw and severe lacerations to the mouth.

MEET MAX SWANSTON

Liberal Advertisement No. 15

Question:

Mr. Swanston, what has your party been able to do for Canadian business?

Answer:

It has taken the fullest advantage of the present huge development in this country to keep business prosperous on all levels. That could have been bungled by a clumsy government, but the proof of the soundness of Liberal policy is that business has expanded and made money consistently since the war, without economic worries or setbacks.

Government Estimates for 1953-1954 indicate that for NON-DEFENCE purposes, the spending will total $2,324,310,015. This is at the rate of $6,450,156 per day. An increase in NON-DEFENCE spending of OVER $1,000,000 per day for every day in the year.

Summary of Outstanding Increases in Services that Could be Cut Down.

1939—Travelling Expenses $541.00 per hour; 1949—$2,517; 1953-54 estimates $6,113 per hour.

1939—Telephone, Telegraph, Postage, $109.00 per hour; 1949—$1,024; 1953-54 estimates, $1,929 per hour.

1939—Publicity, Films, etc. $72.00 per hour; 1949—$780; 1953-54 estimates, $1,142 per hour.

On top of this an additional $6,835 per day will be spent for publicity by the Defence Department. These amounts do not include salaries of publicity personnel.

Howe Prediction:

Truce May Eventually Lead To Lower Defence Costs

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Korean truce may eventually lead to a reduction in Canada's defence expenditures, Trade Minister C. D. Howe said Monday.

The only immediate saving, Mr. Howe said at a press conference, "will be a lessening of expenditures for ammunition." It might be possible to reduce defence expenditures "by the time the next budget is brought down in the spring."

The minister, here for a series of campaign speeches in support of Liberal candidates in the Aug. 10 federal election, said the Korean truce is only an agreement to stop fighting.

"We hope they can work out an agreement to end the war but in the meantime I doubt very much if we can take our troops out of Korea although I hope that before long we can bring them home."

DONWARD TREND

Mr. Howe said he expected to see a "downward trend" in defence expenditures but that there wouldl be "no termination" of existing contracts.

If international tension continued to ease, it should be possible to reduce the strength of Canada's armed forces "certainly within three or four years," but he warned:

"We don't understand what is going on behind the Iron Curtain. No one does."

The minister had this to say on the effect of the truce signing on Canadian business:

"I look for no particular (business) dislocation. The country's defence program is built on top of a pretty substantial civilian economy. A peace settlement in Korea will have very little effect on business.

"I see no possibility of a depression in Canada," continued Mr. Howe. "Someone is always forecasting depressions but Canada is enjoying the best year she ever had."

Oh, Promise Me!

The most remarkable election pledge we have seen in this election campaign was made in Sudbury last Saturday by the Conservative candidate there, a Mr. Larry Lamoureux. Mr. Lamoureux gave this forthright, square, unequivocal, bold and definite promise to the Sudbury electors: "If I cannot get a new post office within five years after my election, I will resign as the member for Sudbury riding".

* * *

Since the legal limit of duration of Parliament is five years, Mr. Lamoureux has nothing to lose by his great promise —even if he should be elected, and even if he does not get a new post office. Who was it who said that election promises are the pitfalls of fools?

Apologies For The Account

In the press of getting Saturday's paper to our readers, a couple of paragraphs in a front-page story slipped in too late to chase them out of the country. The story, with the offending paragraphs, came to us from the Canadian Press teletype wire. The Canadian Press in Toronto had passed it on to all Southern Ontario papers without, we feel, sufficient editing from New York, where it was an American Associated Press story by cable from Tokyo. The Examiner was not the only Ontario paper lured into printing the misrepresentative passages. The account told of the last-minute preparations for the truce signing.

Here are the paragraphs for which apologies are due:

> The first move in the Red plot to set up the scene for a purported surrender was to have doves of peace plastered all over the signing site.
>
> Clark, whose armies drove the Germans out of Africa and Italy during the Second World War, was never known to be a bird-watcher. But he knew the Picasso-designed doves are the Red propaganda symbol of peace.
>
> "Down come the doves," Clark is reported to have snapped, "or I don't go to Panmunjom." They came down.

In the first place, the matter of the doves. We see no harm in having doves of peace represented on the building in which a truce is to be signed. Canadians (and we hope, Americans) are as much interested in peace as the Chinese. Are the Reds to have the monopoly of advertising themselves as peace-lovers?

The second, and chief reason for our dismay at having given the paragraphs publicity is the statement: "Clark, whose armies drove the Germans out of Africa and Italy . . . ". Whether New York and the American Associated Press have ever heard of the Desert Rats, of Tobruk, of General Alexander, of General Montgomery, of the British Eighth Army in Sicily and Italy, we do not know; but we are sure that Canadians and even the Canadian Press in Toronto have heard them mentioned.

In Africa General Clark was always junior to British commanders, and the fine American army played a less important and far shorter part than the British Eighth Army. When the landings were made in Italy on September 3rd, 1943, the Fifth United States Army was commanded by General Clark; his assaulting troops under command were one American corps and one British corps. General Montgomery commanded the other troops — British, Canadian, New Zealand, Indian, etc. of the British Eighth Army. Both Montgomery and Clark were under the supreme commander in the theatre, General Alexander, who remained in supreme command until the Germans were driven out of Italy by the British Eighth and the American Fifth.

We do not withhold praise and credit for the great part the Americans and General Clark played in Africa (in the last stages of the campaign there) and in Italy, but we cannot remain silent before an assertion that General Clark's armies "drove the Germans out of Africa and Italy". Even Canadian troops played a not inconsiderable part, during nearly two years of fighting in Sicily and Italy. So testify the 25,264 Canadian casualties there, including 5,799 buried in Italian soil.

Unfair To Hens?

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has started a campaign against the modern type of chicken farm where the hens are kept indoors in individual coops. It claims that the hens are treated cruelly by being denied the opportunity to scratch around for themselves; the electric lights are on for 1 to 16 hours a day and the coops are so small that the hen can scarcely turn around.

The British Ministry of Agriculture, which is straining every nerve to encourage greater production of food pooh-poohs these accusations, pointing out that if anything were seriously wrong the hens would stop laying. They live sheltered, comfortable lives and moreover do not have to put up with hen-pecking from their companions, it is pointed out.

Precisely so, the hens are living in a sort of Welfare State, where everything is provided for them except liberty. If they have never known anything better it is hard to say whether the small brain of a hen would feel the loss of freedom, and the fact remains that they lay more eggs than the "private enterprise" barnyard hen.

The RSPCA is a very fine institution that has done much to alleviate man's inhumanity to brute creation; but we cannot escape the fact that the whole history of man's relationships with the animal kingdom has been one of shameless exploitation. We eat their young and take away their milk to feed our own young. Incapable of protecting ourselves against the elements we rob them of their fleece and even their pelts. We castrate their males and fatten them up for our tables. Yet we like to cloak it all with a veneer of "kindness to animals."

This very summer lobsters and crabs are being boiled alive, and the impaled worm quivers on the hook, all for the greater glory and pleasure of man.

There is an Indian sect, the Jains, who hold all animal life sacred, even when it is harmful. The Jaina monk is equipped with a broom to sweep insects from his path and a veil to sift them from his mouth. He is forbidden to kill or even disturb the fleas that infest his body.

Jainism on a world scale is impracticable. We must resign ourselves to our role as exploiters, though bodies such as the RSPCA can do much to mitigate unnecessary cruelty. In the case of the hens unnecessary cruelty is not proved unless one is willing to admit that eggs are an unnecessary luxury.

Riding Fit For A Horse

When, according to constitutional requirements affecting the distribution of seats every tenth year, a redistribution was made in 1952, the Federal riding immediately east of Peterborough became the largest in southern Ontario. The new riding of Hastings-Frontenac reaches across Peterborough, Hastings, Frontenac and Addington counties. It covers more than five thousand square miles and is more than twice the size of Prince Edward Island, extending 85 miles north and south, 80 miles east and west. Another oddity about the extensive riding is this: it contains no city or town, not a one. Its chief centres of population are all villages, and all have less than 1,500 people.

The villages in Hastings-Frontenac are: Bancroft, Havelock, Madoc, Marmora, Norwood, Stirling, Tamworth, Verona, Yarker, Newburgh, Denbigh and there is a score of hamlets. The riding has 48 townships.

The member elected in this riding on August 10th will literally take to himself a riding—he will have to be something of a circuit-rider to cover his 5,000 square-mile constituency at all thoroughly. Nor can he depend on wheels to do it: an aeroplane, or high-stepping horse will have to take him where a car is impossible. It is somewhat fantastic to realize that here, in southern Ontario, in a constituency whose southern borders reach to the American boundary, a representative of the people can find some of them accessible only through old-fashioned and even pioneer means of transportation—the horse, the sleigh, or perhaps a Model-T.

Which of the two candidates in Hastings-Frontenac will be the better circuit-rider we cannot say. The Conservative, Mr. George White, the member in the last House for Hastings-Peterborough, is a lawyer and lives convivially in Madoc. During the war he became self-appointed military critic of the Opposition. Latterly in his 13 years in the House of Commons he has been known to speak several times. Mr. Clute Foster, the Liberal candidate, is like Mr. White, a native of the riding, but for many years his field has been very broad. Vice-President of one of the largest chains of retail food stores in Canada, a real estate specialist, and during the war Vice-Chairman of the National Selective Service Board, he retired from business early this year, to devote himself to the district in which he was raised and schooled; ostensibly, to grow trees—reforestation has long been an avocation with him. Which will be the better circuit rider? If age is the determinant, we give Mr. Clute Foster the edge; he is 54. Mr. George White is 56.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Today Prime Minister St. Laurent is taking time off from his election campaign to see a play. He attends the Shakespearean Festival at Stratford this evening. Soothsayers may find hidden meaning behind his choice between the two plays being performed during the season. He is seeing the gory and knock-'em-down Richard III—not All's Well That Ends Well.

Last Chance For Kashmir

By O. M. GREEN

LITTLE DOUBT remains in any quarter that the conference on Kashmir which began in Karachi on Saturday between the Prime Minister of India, Mr. Nehru, and the Prime Minister of Pakistan, Mr. Mohammed Ali, is the best—and last—chance of ending a quarrel which for six years has violently distorted the relations of the two countries, eaten up half their revenues in military expense, and impoverished the merchants, craftsmen and peasants of Kashmir, whose livelihood largely depended on the annual flood of visitors to this lovely State.

For the first time the two Premiers are meeting in person—long realized as the most hopeful means of reaching an agreement. From their informal conversations in London during Coronation week, both emerged in optimistic mood. There are sound reasons in their international relations why both should desire a settlement. And from the standpoint of other nations, the fact that Kashmir has recently been overshadowed by more exciting events, in no way lessens the menace of this "running sore" between two of the greatest Powers in Asia.

It may be convenient to recall briefly the origins of the quarrel, obscured as they have been by so much heated oratory, by so many well-meant but futile proposals by mediators.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN 1947, when British rule ended, the ex-Maharajah Hari Singh seems to have had visions of making Kashmir an independent State, and entered into a stand-still agreement with Pakistan, leaving to her the control of Kashmir's post, telegraphs and communications. Hari Singh's treatment of his Muslim subjects had always been notoriously oppressive, and in August the Muslims of Poonch rose in revolt, proclaimed the Azad Free Government and demanded accession to Pakistan. They were joined in October by tribesmen from the North West Frontier Province, maddened by reports of the slaughter of their co-religionists in the Punjab massacres, and together, the mutineers swept down on the Vale of Kashmir. Hari Singh in panic declared his accession to India, which was accepted by Lord Louis Mountbatten, the Viceroy of India, (who has been much criticised for doing so); but he stipulated that, when order was restored, Kashmir should settle her destiny by a plebiscite; and India flew in troops just in time to save Srinagar from the Invaders.

✧ ✧ ✧

THAT Pakistan did not attempt to stop the invasion is clear enough. Whether she could have done so, only four months after she had started to create a Government administration out of a vacuum, is very doubtful. What is clear is that the late Mr. Jinnah and the late Mr. Liaquat Ali Khan (Governor General and the Prime Minister, respectively, of Pakistan at that time) resisted considerable local pressure for help to be given to the invaders in Kashmir. It was not until April, 1948, that Pakistani troops were sent to Kashmir, not improbably to strengthen Pakistan's position in view of India's having appealed to the United Nations. But it is noteworthy that the United Nations have never accepted India's contention that Kashmir is now legally part of India, since Hari Singh's accession, and that Pakistan is an aggressor to be condemned and treated as such. A cease-fire was secured and a dividing line marked by a United Nations Commission in 1949; but agreement has never been reached on the conditions for a plebiscite. It is fairly safe to say that it will never be held.

✧ ✧

IT IS TO BE remembered that Kashmir as a State is an artificial creation dating from the end of the Sikh War in 1846, when the southern part was detached from the Punjab by the British and transferred to Rajah Gulab Singh, a Dogra Rajput, who subsequently captured Ladakh (a quarter the size of all Kashmir), which had previously belonged to Tibet, and thus unified Kashmir. The five provinces composing the whole State to-day—Jammu, the Vale of Kashmir, Ladakh, Baltistan and Gilgit contain at least as many different races, creeds and languages, mostly separated from each other by mountains. Not unnaturally the past six years of discord have tended to make them fly asunder into their original component parts.

MOST CONSPICUOUS in this transmogrification is the gigantic, passionate and voluble Sheikh Abdullah, called by his friends the Lion of Kashmir. A life-long rebel against Hari Singh's unjust rule, he was actually in prison when Hari Singh fled to India, but was released and left in charge of Jammu and the Vale of Kashmir, as the only man capable of handling the situation.

The true course of Sheikh Abdullah's ambitions was revealed when, in 1951, in defiance of strong protests to India by the United Nations, he held elections for a National Assembly (it is perhaps needless to say that forty-three out of forty-five members were elected unopposed, and thirty more were nominated by the Sheikh) which proceeded to rewrite Kashmir's Constitution, as directed by their powerful master.

TO-DAY, Sheikh Abdullah's domain is virtually a separate republic. He accepts India's control of Kashmir's defence, foreign affairs and communications, and has accepted Mr. Nehru's insistence on the right of Kashmiris to appeal to the Indian Supreme Court, though as yet this right seems more honoured in the breach than the observance. But Kashmir flies her own flag, has elected a President, the son of Hari Singh, makes her own laws and manages her own finances. "We are a hundred per cent. sovereign body", exclaimed Skeikh Abdullah in March last year. "No country, neither India nor Pakistan, can put spokes in the wheel of our progress".

Meanwhile, in the mountainous northern regions of Gilgit and Baltistan, the Azad Free Government has undoubtedly made great progress. It has built hospitals and dispensaries, colleges and schools, it has irrigated and brought under cultivation lands previously waste, and increased the revenue fourfold from its rich forests. As Muslims, the Azad Free Government would naturally incline to Pakistan, but there are signs that it by no means wishes to be tied to the skirts of Karachi; and although it still has to import grain and clothing, it seems in a fair way to stand on its own feet.

OF Ladakh's intentions there is no doubt whatever. To all intents a theocracy, it is dominated by Buddhist priests, and has complained loudly to New Delhi of the many injustices it suffers under Sheikh Abdullah. It demands either accession to India or complete autonomy, and one or the other it appears sure to get. Tempting stories of the benevolent Chinese treatment of Tibet have been drifting across the frontier and there are not a few who forecast that Ladakh will return to her old allegiance of a century ago.

In this complex boiling-up of racial and religious emotion it is farcical to talk of a plebiscite for a united Kashmir. Accomplished fact—material development—has clearly gone beyond the power of any external Government, or agreement between Governments, to force back the dissident elements into the channels of six years ago. When the American Secretary of State, Mr. John Foster Dulles, was in India a few weeks back he is believed to have urged Mr. Nehru to accept the situation as it is and to agree to the partition of Kashmir on the lines broadly indicated. That there would be violent opposition inside both India and Pakistan goes without saying. Yet both Mr. Nehru and Mr. Mohammed Ali would be in a strong position to quell resistance at home if they declared for peace by partition—the first by his unrivalled prestige and ascendancy over all parties; the second by his freedom, through four years' absence from Pakistan as an ambassador, from all political affiliations in Karachi. As an ideal solution, one might imagine a series of States, as they have developed under the joint protection of India and Pakistan, to safeguard the historic route—taken by all invaders of India—from further intrusion.

Letters To The Editor

GASOLINE PRICE RISE

Sir: As you know one large oil company raised its prices on oil and gasoline this last week, and because of this all the service stations decided to do the same, and not one of them offered to the public one valid reason for so doing. So competition, the theme on which we are told business is maintained was strangled.

The Imperial Oil Company, whose financial position was never as good as now, pleaded high cost of crude oil, etc. This is not true because I am receiving less for crude oil through shares which I own than a few months ago. Take the excuses that the service station operators offered. Mr. Ball was quoted as saying we have to absorb the American dollar at par. So what happens? He takes American money and does not lose on it unless he takes it to the bank, and for every dollar he charges four cents more.

The gasoline cost is raised 1.4 cents so they charge the public 1.5 cents. They seem to have bad or convenient memories, because not so long ago gasoline was reduced by about .3 cents on two occasions; this was not passed on to the public. No, the operators kept that. So this increase if at all justified should have been .75 of a cent. Just half what they have raised their price.

American tourists should have to change their money when entering Canada. We don't get far when we take our money over there. On one occasion I walked into a restaurant in Niagara Falls, N.Y., and asked do you take Canadian money. "Yes, but we discount it 12%." The more you go south the worse it gets and they throw it back to you, saying, "This is no good here." So we have to change our money here before leaving.

Have we got a service station operator who will be fair to the public? Or should the motorists organise and boycott any oil company that increases rates without reason?

J. SENRAB.

WOULD APPRECIATE ENLIGHTENMENT

Sir: I have been following the present election campaign and have listened to speeches by the various leaders. I have also conscientiously read through various election manifestos, etc., in order to keep myself informed of the issues on which I shall together with other citizens cast my vote on Aug. 10.

Up to the present I have found nothing whatsoever concerning the attitude of the various parties to the arts. Should they be encouraged or not? If so, how? Are the designs of our postage stamps, coins and public buildings satisfactory? If not, what steps should be taken to improve matters? Is a Ministry of Fine Arts or an Arts Council a feasible plan? What about a National Theatre? Could the danger inherent in state patronage of the arts be avoided?

Admittedly these questions are of interest only to a minority, but other questions affecting minorities (farmers, housewives, business men etc.) have been answered; moreover minorities have often been shown to have swayed the balance.

The lively discussion aroused by the findings of the Massey Commission indicated that there's a growing number of Canadians interested in matters artistic, and while this country may not yet have come of age culturally speaking she is already a husky teenager with plenty of vitality and ideas.

In view of this I would appreciate some enlightenment from the parties as to what their policy will be towards those things that make the distinction between living and merely existing. Nobody in their senses wants culture mollycoddled, but I think I am right in saying that a good deal of people would like to know where we are going and would welcome some coherent statement. I think it true that a bold and enlightened pragmatism unhampered by doctrinaire notions on the inherent goodness (or badness) of state encouragement of the arts, but unswayed by pressure groups and straw ballots is probably the right answer: anything rather than a passive drift.

Perhaps our local candidates may have something to say on these questions, especially as they may affect this constituency.

Yours, etc.,
CHRISTOPHER GLEDHILL.

DID DIG IN

Sir: The following is addressed to Mr. Harrison, re the Mobile Unit.

I think, Mr. Harrison, if you had read my letter more carefully, you would have noticed that I did not state in any part of it, that your mobile unit is an eyesore on our city streets. We appreciate the fact that you have gone to a lot of time and expense to make it a credit to our city streets. Neither did I suggest that you should be put off the streets. I said "live and let live," and give you a corner on a busy street, and let you sell your wares from there permanently, which would be more satisfactory with the rest of the merchants.

Most of us are quite aware, Mr. Harrison, that you have an artificial foot, and should have some consideration, but since you suggest that I should dig in a little harder, I would like you to understand that I got my start in life by using a pick and shovel at the age of 13 years. I did not have an established business nor a going concern given to me on a silver platter which no doubt would ease the pain and expense considerably.

Since you brought patriotism and religion into the subject, (like many others, I don't think this was called for); however, I was the youngest of four boys, my mother was left a widow when I was six years old; she had no source of income, and we had to go out and earn our living peddling papers in the streets of London, England.

My three older brothers served in the First World War in the British Army. One paid the supreme sacrifice like many others, so I think our little family had done its share to protect (as you say) your doorstep and mine.

You stated in your letter that you were in business for 37 years on the same corner, I presume across from Inverlea Park. After all those years you suddenly take an interest in the welfare of the children crossing the street. The big profits from the chip wagon must have been the reason—don't you think?

You mention that the merchants did not petition the Council when you applied for a permit to operate. This was left to the Mayor and council members to use their own good judgement and see that we get fair competition.

In closing, may I take this opportunity to thank my many friends and customers who have helped to make my 12 years in business a success, and to you, Mr. Editor, and your staff, thanks a million.

Yours faithfully,
HARRY CARTER,
Manager, East City Bowl.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM ON TV ROAD

RCAF Members Learn Ground Defence

NORTH LUFFENHAM, England (CP)—Personnel at this RCAF fighter base are learning a few tricks from a former army officer about defending their base against any kind of attack—from the air or on the ground.

The former army man is FO. George Moore of Richmond Hill, Ont., who commands the station's ground defence school and is station defence officer.

FO. Moore and his group of 10 specialists are teaching everyone at the station the ins and outs of self-defence and defence of their station. He learned his job during three years with the Canadian Army intelligence corps, Britain's joint school of chemical warfare and the Royal Air Force Regiment depot.

At one time or another, everyone on the base is enrolled in FO. Moore's school. The first two weeks are spent learning basic defence methods, use of small arms and the rudiments of first aid. Leaders are chosen and trained and every man taught his part in station defence.

LEARN FIELD TACTICS

In the second week, the trainees are instructed in field tactics, heavy weapons, unexploded bombs and other explosives. The men go through mock attacks and counter-attacks to put into practice what they learn in the classroom.

In one mock attack the station defence group successfully repelled a parachute and ground assault, almost wiping out the attacking forces.

"Our aim is to keep the station operational in any attack—whether it involves guerrilla warfare, gas, atomic or any other form of assault," FO. Moore said. "A flying station loses much of its value if it is vulnerable to ground attack by enemy forces."

The defence school's motto is: "To train and organize anyone and everyone against everything."

Transport Firms Standing Pat On Early Offer

TORONTO (CP) — Southwestern Ontario transport companies tied up by the strike of Hamilton and Windsor locals of the AFL Teamsters Union decided Monday to stand on a previous offer of wage increases, already turned down by the truckers. The decision was reached at a special meeting here.

The companies said they were willing to sign agreements with the strikers incorporating the following wage increases, previously recommended by two conciliation boards:

City drivers would get a seven-cent-an-hour boost, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1953; mechanics, 11 cents an hour, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1953; semi-skilled maintenance men, eight cents an hour, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1953; highway drivers, two cents a mile retroactive to Jan. 1, 1953; a further 1-20 of a cent a mile, effective Oct. 1, 1953, and another 1-10 of a cent a mile as of Jan. 1, 1954.

ADDITIONAL 3 CENTS

City drivers, mechanics and maintenance men also get an additional three cents an hour, effective Oct. 1, 1953.

The increase offered highway drivers would result in approximately $1.82 an hour for regular highway operations. For drivers operating tractor and trailer equipment, the increase would average $1.94 an hour.

The premier asked co-operation of both parties in avoiding conflict. He told them he wanted labor to understand its rights, but at the same time not to disregard the law.

Canadian Officers Find It Difficult To Command Katcoms In Their Units

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—While Canadian officers find language difficulties a barrier between them and Koreans under their command, privates and corporals say they can "get across" to their Korean comrades and understand them.

There are 300 Republic of Korea Army soldiers in the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade. In the infantry sections one in every three o rfour men is a Korean who cannot speak French or English.

The Koreans know only the little English they have picked up since the war. The Canadians know much less Korean.

Officers tend to make much of the "barrier."

At the command level, Brig. Jean Allard—who admires "my brave little Katcoms"—says nonetheless "I like to feel at home with my troops, to be able to get their feeling and to be sure they get mine."

Typical of some officers' reactions after four months' experience with the Katcoms are those o 2nd Lieut. Bill Watt of Port Arthur, Ont., a platoon commander with the 3rd Patricias. He has 12 Katcoms among his men, with whom he lives on close terms.

"The language problem is insuperable," he says.

"It renders control difficult. If I were wounded it would be difficult for me to tell a Katcom how to carry on. When he is wounded he can't tell me where he is hurt, or how or where it happened."

But the corporals and the men belittle the language factor. At that level the men have "buddied up," and each Katcom is teamed with a Canadian soldier.

SIGNS ARE HELP — Canadian soldiers in Korea and Koreans serving with them generally get along well together, despite the language barrier, by using signs and a short pidgin English. Pte. Albert Dalzell, of Balzur, Man., is shown with Pte. Kim Kwi Chour from Chonjo, Korea. Pte. Dalzell has served with the 1st, 2nd and 3rd Battalions of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Cpl. James C. McCullagh of Dunnville, Ont., who has made several successful patrols with Katcoms in his crew, says:

"We do very little talking on patrols anyway. In this sort of war you make silent signs to one another—and we all understand one another perfectly."

The "buddy system" is considered to have worked best in the Patricias between Pte. Ronald Hicks of Ottawa (now homeward-bound on rotation) and Pte. Hong Jung Sun. Hicks picked up Korean and Hong English.

"On patrol or on guard," says Hicks, "Hong gives sensible answers to questions."

"His sign language helps out. He can give you a general idea of what's taking place in no man's land and he can also forecast the movements of Chinese patrols by interpreting the signals they give one another when they whistle or throw stones."

One Patricia company commander said that when briefings were basic and in simple English they were successful.

Hence a Katcom is told:

"Patrol. Tonight. We go there (pointing to area of patrol.) Maybe catch Chinese. We go 10 o'clock. Come back four o'clock."

Capt. Art Kemsley of Calgary, second-in-command of a Patricia company, says:

"The best indication that they understand is in the men's only beef against them—their 'old soldier' tricks.

"If it's something nice they understand perfectly. If it's not good they make like they don't. But the NCOs didn't take long to wise up to that one."

A tragic aspect of the language factor, however, came to light in analysis of the RCR's May 2 battle when a platoon position was overrun and held briefly by the Chinese.

Some Katcoms, unable to pronounce the password properly when challenged in the trenches during the battle, were mistaken for Chinese by Canadians who were taking no chances and shot.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Once Canada's greatest lacrosse centres, Mimico and Brampton now require considerable attention by the Ontario Lacrosse Association in order to keep lacrosse alive.

When these two teams reached the end of the road in June, the OLA senior series committee manhandled the situation to a point where it has made senior lacrosse worse for both centres and also the league.

The committee first suggested combining both clubs. Then it gave both clubs a deadline to decide on whether they could finish the schedule.

Mimico players, mostly boys left over from junior Minto Cup days, decided to remain. Brampton decided to quit. That club's players were distributed to Mimico and Hamilton, supposedly to strengthen teams there.

Many of the Brampton players have apparently dropped out of lacrosse. Hamilton has had a few playing games but Mimico's aid just has not shown up.

Mimico is desperate. Clinging to about 10 former juniors, the Mounties are continuing even though they have to ask for players from the opposition in order to make a game.

These young Mounties are to be commended for their efforts. They love the sport, want to play it, and don't want to see it die. In playing, although they take drubbings, they hold the thread between life and death of senior lacrosse in Mimico.

Therefore the only things the OLA succeeded in doing was to let a senior club drop out and some senior-calibre players along with it. The OLA failed to strengthen Mimico. Remember it's never too late.

Of course all this trouble was caused by the OLA throwing out the resident rule. This they don't want to admit. Next season will probably see its return and I hope one that hasn't so many loop-holes it looks like a Swiss cheese.

Lacross now needs a commissioner who will investigate the league problems and come out with an answer. A few players from the strong clubs, plus a little financial aid from the OLA, for the weak sisters, would have made a better league this season. A commissioner could have ordered those moves.

Up Orillia way, the Terriers (the centre of the controversial player problem) seem to be having their troubles. They are in a slump.

Rumors circulating from that way say not enough practices and a few disgruntled players are causing the trouble. Money is said to be the main reason for discontent. Yet perhaps it could be a good play for a soft playoff, pay-off position.

But as far as Trailermen fans are concerned, the Peterborough club's drive for first place is the main attraction. They've shared top rung several times within the week with the St. Catharines Athletics, but every time they get an opportunity to move ahead, the Athletics come up with another win.

Many fans have been keeping a close eye on the games played column and are quick to point out the Athletics have played three more than the Bob Thorpe-coached club. Yes, those games will make a great difference, especially since there's only two points separating the clubs.

Lou Vitarelli's junior Pats have done more than their share in keeping the seniors in the hunt. Lou's lads, especially Bob Allan, Bob Curtis and Willie Logan have really helped fill in holiday and honeymoon gaps.

Jumping over into the junior section for a minute you will see the Pats fighting for a good playoff position. They still have a slim chance of making the second rung.

Lou's confident that if the Pats find their own in the next week or so, they'll skip through to the Minto Cup games.

Incidentally the mid-week sports attraction this week is the appearance of Eddie Feigner, The King and His Court, Wednesday at the softball bowl. He performs oodles of magic with a softball.

TWO DOUBLES by Coach Howie Dalton started rallies twice for the junior Peterborough Liflocs Monday night and resulted in an 11-8 victory over Colborne Dodgers. Dalton (centre, top) holds two bats, one for each double, as he tells Bryan Young and Jim McGrath his hitting secret. They must have listened for Young had three singles and McGrath a double which scored the winning runs. Two Dougs, Ash and Leach (left and right, bottom photo), allowed the Dodgers only six hits.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Doug Ash, Doug Leach Pitch Liflocs To 11-8 Victory Over Colborne At Riverside

Peterborough Liflocs' coach, Howie Dalton, still has the spark to start a baseball club rolling to victory. When factory holidays interfered with his junior Lifloc baseball lineup Monday night, Coach Dalton stepped out to fill in the gap at first base. Besides playing a steady game there, the coach rapped out two doubles which started the Liflocs twice on rallies which meant an 11-8 victory over Colborne Dodgers.

Before game-time Dalton, along with helper, Shockey Mein realized that most of the regulars weren't showing up, most of them away on holidays or working. Dalton quickly sent his bench strenght out, but he was still shy a first- baseman. He had no alternative; he went out.

The Dodgers at the same time suffered from man shortage. All they could bring for the trip was a team, nine players, including their two regular pitchers.

That's the way the teams took the field.

Right off the bat Lifloc starter, Doug Ash, was in trouble. He hit Bill Mitts and walked Irwin post and Earl Bush. Then he was out of trouble, striking out Art Wright and making Dick Bridgman ground out.

Colborne starter, right-handed Jim Hart, also had his first innings troubles. Lead-off man, Bryan Young, clouted a single to right and that started a five run spree for the Liflocs.

Howie Dalton connected for his first double, sending home Murray Byrne and Young. Then the Dodgers started kicking the ball around, making two errors as well as throwing the ball to the wrong place at the wrong time.

Before they finished, three more runs had scored.

Ash mastered the Colborne hitters, striking out six, before he ran into trouble for a second time in the third. This time Earl Bush hit a triple to centre, later scoring on a pass-ball.

The Dodgers started the fourth off with two singles, by Dick Bridgman and Neill Black. Immediately the Liflocs became jittery and immediately they began making errors. Those miscues along with a double by Mitts did the trick. For by the time the inning ended Colborne led 6-5.

The Dodgers kept up the pace in the fifth inning when Black singled, followed by a triple by Ray Hart. Hart later scoring after a putout, making the score 8-5.

The Liflocs started a rally in the fifth when Gord Snape led off with a single, followed up a fielder's choice which cut Snape off at second. Doug Patterson singled and within minutes Bryan Young connected for his second hit, scoring both Jim McGrath (the fielder's choice) and Patterson. That rally ended with two runs.

Meanwhile on the mound for the Liflocs Doug Leach had taken over for Ash in the fifth and was keeping the Dodgers well under control. He also had good fielding, especially by Gord Snape in the sixth when the Dodgers went down, one, two, three.

Lawrence Foley opened the Liflocs sixth with a single to right field and advanced to third when Dalton doubled. A putout gave Foley enough time to cross for the tying run.

Dalton stole third. Gord Snape walked, promptly stealing second seconds later. Then Jim McGrath, Liflocs' thirdbaseman, hit a double to centre, scoring the winning runs, and then scoring an assurance run on a pass ball.

Young led the Liflocs at bat with three singles in four trips to the plate. He also managed to steal no less than four bases during his three times on. Coach Dalton's two doubles and Jim McGrath's double were other batting features.

Find England In Precarious Cricket Spot

LEEDS, England (Reuters) — England was in a precarious position at the close of the fourth day's play in the fourth Test match here, only 78 runs ahead of Australia with five second inning wickets down. If the Australians win today, they keep the mythical Ashes, symbol of world cricket supremacy.

The English eleven's close of play score was 177 for five second-inning wickets.

Highlight of Monday's play was the spirited third-wicket stand of the Middlesex "twins," Bill Edrich and Denis Compton. They scored 77 valuable runs for England after an early Australian success.

In the third over of the day, Ray Lindwall knocked back Tom Graveney's off stump with his first ball, without adding to the Saturday score of 62 for one. But Edrich and Compton batted steadily on a nasty pitch to wipe out the arrears on the first innings.

Feigner, The King Holds Court At Softball Bowl

Eddie Feigner and his four-man softball team, better known as the King and His Court, will make their second appearance in Peterborough Wednesday night when they play the Peterborough All-Stars at the softball bowl in Ashburnham. He drew one of Peterborough's largest sports crowds, more than 3,000, during his first time here.

Feigner's trickery and science with a softball or fastball is the main attraction of the four-man group. He throws a dozen different pitches and has about 20 windups.

As added features Feigner will pitch from his knees, then from second base, and finally from centre field. He will also attempt to throw out several batters while blindfolded.

During the game time-out Feigner will perform a short pitching school and demonstration during which he will show his seven or eight slow, fast and extra fast pitches, as well as curves, drops and trick pitches.

Feigner's teammates include Meade Kinzer, who has caught Feigner in about 500 games, Kenny White at first, Gord Meilicke, a bunting expert, at short, and Jerry Jones who although an extra player boasts a lifetime batting average of .305.

Harold Dormer and Howie Dalton have been selected to coach the Peterborough All-Stars who will have H. Castle, catching; Red Sullivan at first; Tony Kotowski at second; J. Taylor at third; Neil Thompson at short; Toodie Greenlaw in left field; Jack Mackness in centre; and Jack White in right field.

Peterborough will have three pitchers, Haddie Eakins, Jack (Lefty) Doris and Dick West, for the game. It is not known which will start.

In addition to these players others who will likely see action for the all-stars will be Buck Legrow, Gus Leonard, R. Wasson, Reg Leether, Bob Wyatt, Bus Jensen, R. Crowe, J. Driscoll and H. Dalton.

Three Boston Players Listed In Top Batters

NEW YORK (AP) — The resurging Boston Red Sox, who have won 17 out of their last 21 games, have three players listed among the six leading batters in the American League.

George Kell, Billy Goodman and Tom Umphlett have contributed to the sudden Sox rally which has lifted the club into third place, 7½ games behind the front-running New York Yankees. Kell is the league's leading hitter with a .328 average, Goodman is third with .323 and Umphlett is sixth with .309.

Runner-up to Kell is Washington's Mickey Vernon with .325. Figures include games to date.

Monte Irvin of New York Giants has taken over sole possession of the top spot in the National League batting race with a .337 mark. Irvin, tied with St. Louis' Re Schoendienst last week, continued his consistent swinging, while Schoendienst, now .335, was sidelined with an eye injury.

Carl Furillo of Brooklyn Dodgers is third with .324.

$5 Homer Useless In Halted Game

BETHANY—(ENS)—Reg. Edmunds, pitcher for the Bethany Baseball Club is richer by $5 since Friday night's game. His long hit, the only homer of the game landed well over the south fence into the property of Henry Jakeman. Mr. Jakeman, an ardent sports fan offered the award and this is the first time it has been collected. Old timers are remembering a similar award offered by his father, the late Walter Jakeman. Bruce Ryley, veteran of the earlier teams who played in the East Peterborough league and who has been coach of the Bethany boys for the last several years was the only one to duplicate the long hit, 18 or 19 years ago.

The game between Blackstock and Bethany in the North Durham League is labelled "unfinished business". Going six innings a dispute arose over a play on second base over which the umpires disagreed and teams and fans alike getting into a heated argument. Blackstock team refused to return to the field to finish out the seventh inning. The score at the end of the sixth was 12-11 for the visitors. Blackstock led off with 4 runs adding 2 in the second, 5 in the fourth and 1 in the fifth. Dysart their star batter. Neil Bailey in the mound, Cochrane receiving.

For Bethany the count was 2 in the first, 4 in the third, 3 in the fourth and 2 in the sixth. Edmunds had the only homer and Rowan with a triple, Challice and Bob Ryley each with doubles helped bring in the runs. Fans were glad to see Bob Ryley back in the game having been out since July 1st with torn ankle ligaments. Edmunds hurled good ball from the mound with Wilf. Reynolds his battery mate.

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tigers, the most improved team in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior loop, moved into a fourth-place tie with Fergus Thistles, crushing Orillia Terriers 16-6 Monday night.

The Tabbies never trailed, and their goalie, Bud Smith, was brilliant. Tigers led by quarter scores of 6-2, 11-3, and 13-3. Al Doyle led the parade with four goals. Jack Dorney and Doug Davidson got three apiece and Jack Sibbald got two.

Stu Scott got three of Orillia's counters.

Cincinnati Sinks Chicago 16-6

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Cincinnati Reds bombed inept Chicago White Sox pitching for 10 runs in the sixth inning Monday on the way to a 16-6 victory in a weird exhibition game at Doubleday Field in the shadow of the Hall of Fame.

The 7,964 who watched the loosely-played contest saw 27 hits rattle around the place where baseball was invented.

Willard Marshall hit a three-run homer for the Reds in the big sixth-inning attack on Bob Keegan and Saul Rogovin.

Leading Golfers Ready For Open

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Leading Canadian and United States golf players are ready to battle for the Canadian women's open golf championship at the London Hunt and Country Club Aug. 10-15.

Heading the powerful American entry list is Pat Lesser of Seattle, low amatcur in the U.S. women's open championship at Rochester. Edean Anderson of Helena, Mont., the 1952 winner, will defend her title. Other former winners include Grace DeMoss, Corvallis, Ore., and Grace Lenczyk, Newington, Conn.

Canadian hopes centre on brilliangon young Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, winner of the British women's crown this year. She took the Canadian title in 1951. Ann Sharp, Lookout Point, the Ontario Open titlist; Mary Gay, Kitchener Westmount; Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, five-time winner of the tournament; Mrs. J. H. Todd, Victoria and Babs Davies, Vancouver, are other prominent entries.

Dean, Simmons Inducted Into Baseball Hall Of Fame

By JACK HAND

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Dizzy Dean and Al Simmons, two of baseball's former greats, were inducted formally into the Hall of Fame Monday when their plaques were dedicated by George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, in ceremonies held in front of the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum.

They were the 63rd and 64th to be so honored.

Dean, colorful ace of the St. Louis Cardinal Gas House Gang in the early 1930s, beamed good-will as he acknowledged the honors.

"It's the greatest honor I ever received," he said in his Texas-Arkansas drawl. "I want to thank the good Lord for giving me a good right arm, a strong back and a weak mind."

OTHER GREATS

Looking at other hall of fame men sitting on the platform—Ty Cobb, Connie Mack, Cy Young, Ed Walsh and Rogers Hornsby—he said:

"Them's the kind of ball players I'd like to have had behind me all the time."

Simmons, at 245 about 45 pounds over his old playing weight, likewise spoke about "the greatest honor" ever paid me" and then turned to heap praise on his old boss, Mr Mack.

"In the first nine years under Mr. Mack (no former player ever calls him Connie) I was a great ball player under his guidance. After I left (he played with seven clubs in 21 years) I was just another ball player."

Surprising Braves Clout New York Giants In 13-0 Whitewashing

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

If Brooklyn Dodgers play close to .500 ball on their 13-game western road trip opening today in Chicago, the home office will be sorely tempted to start having World Series tickets printed. The Dodgers begin their third western swing with a seven-game bulge over Milwaukee Braves and the deep-rooted conviction that the only serious challenger between them and the pennant is fourth-place New York. They can't forget it was the Giants who caught them and beat them in a pennant playoff in 1951.

The Giants went west with high hopes, too, but they got off to a dreadful start Monday night in Milwaukee, where the given-up-for-dead Braves buried them 13-0.

CAN STILL RECOVER

The Giants, however, can still recover from the beating. They've played good ball in the west this season, winning 14 out of 21 games.

After the Braves dropped three of their four games in Brooklyn during the week-end, most observers figured they were finished. But against New York Monday night Charlie Grimm's lads tried to show the home folks it was all a mistake

They clubbed our New York pitchers for 14 hits and made it easy for lefty Warren Spahn to register his 13th victory of the season and his 30th major league shutout.

Eddie Mathews hammered two home runs, the first with the bases loaded during an eight-run uprising in the fourth inning. The blast was Mathews' second grand slam of the season and his night's work left him with 32 homers in 95 games, one homer behind Babe Ruth's pace in 1927, the year the Babe hit the all-time record of 60.

The game was the only one in either league.

Wings, Royals Lose Games, Bisons Up Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons increased their International League lead Monday night without moving a muscle.

The Herd gained a half-game on their nearest rivals, Rochester Red Wings and Montreal Royals, who lost their scheduled contests. The latter clubs now are 1½ games behind the leaders, with the Red Wings in second spot by one percentage point over the Royals.

The Wings fell 12-8 to the sixth-place Syracuse Chiefs in a 10-inning game at Rochester. Jack Robinson got credit for his first decision of the season, while Ellis (Cot) Deal suffered his eighth loss.

EDGE ROYALS 3-2

Ottawa Athletics edged Montreal 3-2 at the Canadian capital. A pinch hit, two-run homer in the eighth by Don Hoak didn't supply enough punch for the Royals. Fred Gerken whacked a bases-empty round-tripper for the winners.

In the only other scheduled encounter, Springfield Cubs buried themselves deeper in the cellar. The tail-enders dropped a 4-3 decision to the fourth-place Baltimore Orioles. Three unearned runs in the first inning and excellent relief pitching by Tom Herrin gave the Birds the margin.

Savoie TKO's Febela Chavez

NEW CRLEANS (AP)—Rugged Armand Savoie of Montreal boosted his lightweight stock Monday night with a knockout over Febela Chavez of Hollywood, Calif., in 2:25 of the eighth round. Savoie weighed 134½; Chavez 132½.

The durable Canadian started Chavez' downfall in the seventh with a two-handed barrage that had the lighter-punching Californian reeling. He opened up again in the eighth and a lightning-like left hook draped Chavez against the lower rope. Referee Eddie Wolfe counted him out. It was scheduled for 10 rounds.

An examination after the fight disclosed that the Canadian suffered a broken left rib.

4th Club Gives Up Pitcher Tommy Byrne

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fourth American League club has given up on Tommy Byrne, the slender North Carolina pitcher who never lived up to expectations.

Washington Senators announced Monday the sale of Byrne to Charleston of the American Association. New York Yankees, St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox earlier had parted company with Byrne.

With Washington this year, Byrne achieved a 0-5 record.

LINK IN OIL PIPELINE—A 2,400-foot section of 30-inch pipeline is pulled into place at Sarnia, Ont. The $88,000,000 pipeline, which eventually will carry oil from Alberta to Sarnia refineries, runs from Sarnia to Superior, Wisc. The 2,400-foot section was dragged across the St. Clair River bed by huge winches on the Michigan side. A portion of it is shown being placed in a tunned beneath Highway 40, where it was extended into the river. It is expected oil from Alberta will flow through the pipeline about December 1.

T. D. Thomas To Speak For CCF

The man who defeated Ontario Liberal leader Walter Thomson by more than 2,100 votes in the 1951 provincial election is going to speak in Peterborough.

T. D. "Tommy" Thomas, MLA for Ontario riding, will address a rally at the Canadian Legion hall at 8:30 p.m., Tuesday, August 4, in support of Maurice Ketcheson, CCF candidate for Peterborough riding in the August 10 federal election.

Other speakers will include Mr. Ketcheson and William Beggs, Eastern Ontario staff representative of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, a Peterborough alderman.

A native of Wales, Mr. Thomas came to Canada in 1929. He entered municipal politics in 1943 when he was elected to the East Whitby township council. He became reeve of the township in 1948. The portion of East Whitby township in which he lived was subsequently annexed by the city of Oshawa.

A member of Local 222 of the United Automobile Workers since 1937, Mr. Thomas was successful in his first bid for election to the provincial legislature in the general election of 1948 and has represented Ontario riding since that time.

Today she broke open another and it too was three eggs in one.

Store Planned On Lansdowne Starts Reaction

By HARRY THEOBALD

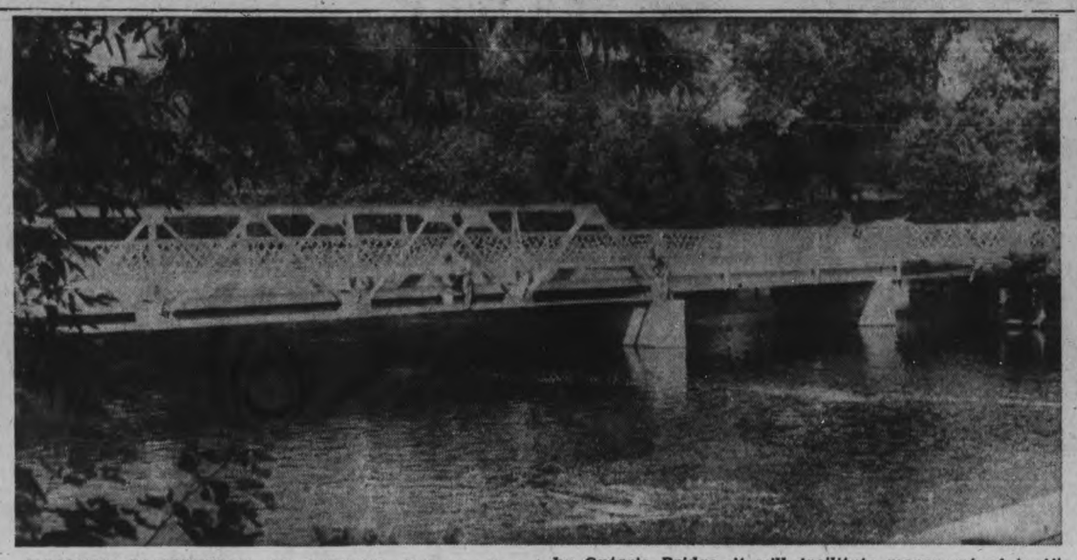
The business potential of a west Lansdowne St. block has soared on the announcement of Simpsons-Sears Ltd. plans for a modern department store on the property opposite St. Peter's cemetery.

Public opinion took several days to realize the degree of confidence of the management of the new Canadian chain of department stores in selecting that location a mile from the City Hall clock.

One of the first reactions was a pressure of enquiry from a prominent realty firm in Toronto looking for adjoining property as a site for a grocery chain store. It is understood, although there has been no official announcement on that detail, that the shopping centre contemplated by Simpsons-Sears will include a grocery unit.

Then there was the recollection that the late Joseph Bell offered to the city his property, west of the purchase by Simpsons-Sears at a sum that was a comparatively small fraction of its recently ascended value.

DOES NOT SPECULATE



The city council cannot buy properties merely for speculative purposes. That is not only custom, but it is also practice dictated by avoidance of competition with individual citizens and their interests. There are also restrictions on the city's latitude in realty affairs, confining deals to industrial, parks, schools and similar community needs. The late William G. Ovens was mayor at that time, and in common knowledge no one was interested in that area at the time. However, the city was trying to persuade Tommy Hughes to move his wrecking operations away from the vicinity of Kenner Collegiate, and suggested that if Mr. Hughes would buy a piece of land fronting on Lansdowne St., and projecting down to the bush on the north side of the CNR the council would consider it a suitable location for Mr. Hughes' needs. That incident is in the past.

More recently, several local business concerns are said to have been dickering for locations in that same section, but stalled until the Simpsons-Sears announcement was published. Then it was too late, at least at the property prices that were then being quoted. That was an opportunity they let slip.

LOTS TO SELL

There was a recent suggestion that, depending on the extent of development in the area, the city might consider selling for housing or other uses some of the property on Erskine Ave. that was bought for industrial sites. However, that is nothing more than suggestion.

Lansdowne St. has been gradually changing its appearance from end to end within the city limits, and even west of them. Simpsons-Sears have given it a further importance, the measure of which cannot yet be estimated.

NEARING COMPLETION AT OMEMEE, this one-lane bridge across Pigeon River, just south of Highway 7, will be opened for traffic in approximately three weeks. Built by Ontario Bridge, it will facilitate movement of traffic bringing grain to the mills at Omemee, providing a shorter route, and lessening congestion on the highway route.

Pedestrian Yells Car Stops, Boy Just Scratched

An observant pedestrian saved a 2-year-old boy from possible death Monday when the child was struck by a car at George and Simcoe Sts.

Danny O'Boyle of Garson, Ont., walked out from between a parked car and a bus into the path of a car driven by Jack Cummings, 37, of 141 Sophia St. Cummings didn't see the child and his car struck him.

E. Ellis of Toronto, standing on the corner, saw the accident and yelled to Cummings to stop. Cummings braked to a halt and alighted from his car to see Ellis pulling the child from underneath his car.

Examination revealed the little boy suffered only scratches on his back. He had been accompanied downtown by Joanne Murphy of Downie St.

$400 DAMAGE

In other accidents $400 damage was caused to two cars when they collided at the intersection of Canal Rd. and Hunter St. Helen G. Downing of West York, was driving east on Hunter and turning left on the Canal Rd., when her vehicle collided with southbound Douglas Currotte, 18, of Lansdowne St. E. P. C. Gerald Emmons investigated.

A parked car owned by Barbara McCullogh of 191 Perry St., sustained damages of $100 when it was struck by a second vehicle driven by Francis Farley, 20, of 87 Perry St. on Sutherland.

The McCullogh car was parked on the south side of the street facing west when Farley, pulling out from the north side, driving east, sideswiped it.

Only $20 damage was caused to the Farley vehicle.

PC J. P. Gillis investigated.

Fish Aplenty Still In Chemong

Chemong Lake fished out, you say? Well don't try telling that to William H. Collins of 161 Montgomery St., who has a cottage on the lake and a bumper crop of fish in the locker.

Monday afternoon he came into the Examiner, beckoned to a reporter, and asked if he wanted to see a catch of fish. The reporter had a look-see in the trunk of Mr. Collins' car. The catch consisted of two muskies—a 37½-incher weighing 15 pounds, and a 33½-incher weighing 10 pounds—also half a dozen pickerel around the four-pound mark.

The pickerel had been caught the night before and the two muskies were gaffed Monday morning — the first day of Mr. Collins' holidays.

"We had another one, before these, it was even bigger," said 12-year-old Gary Collins who got the angling instinct from his dad. "It was so big—I saw it alongside the boat—that I was afraid to try our blunt gaff on it in case it got away; so we lost it."

Apparently there were no tears or recriminations over the loss. The two fishermen went back to their cottage on the Ennismore side of Chemong, opposite Fife's Bay, and picked up a sharp gaff. Young Gary did better this time; he secured both of his dad's catches.

On opening day Gary caught a keeper muskie and from now on that's all they're going to try for. They've already got a locker full of pickerel.

None of this getting up at the first hint of dawn for the Collins.

"I never go out until 10 o'clock or so in the morning," said Mr. Collins. "We catch them. The big thing is to know where they are."

3 Nominated To Contest Peterborough Riding Seat

Now it's official. When Peterborough riding voters go to the polls a week from next Monday, they'll have the choice of three candidates for the House of Commons. To no-one's surprise, the candidates officially nominated Monday afternoon are: Gordon Knapman Fraser (Progressive Conservative), Maurice Ketcheson (Co-operative Commonwealth Federation), and Maxwell John Swanston (Liberal).

There were no last-minute, dark horse candidates to add to the list of three names with which voters have become familiar during the campaign.

Unlike some ridings, where the old-fashioned practice of open debates still persists, with plenty of heckling from overflow audiences, the filing of official nomination papers in the board room of the Canadian Legion hall Monday afternoon was a desultory affair.

MATTER OF FORM

In fact, only two candidates showed up for what District Returning Officer Arthur J. McClellan called "just a matter of form." On hand were Mr. Fraser and Mr. Ketcheson, with Arthur Lewis, Mr. Swanston's campaign manager, representing the Liberal candidate.

The only other people there were Mr. McClellan and Mrs. M. G. McCartney, the election clerk.

"It's the easiest two hours I've put in since the date of the election was announced," said Mr. McClellan. In fact, the nomination papers were actually filed several days ago, along with the $200 cheques required as deposits.

"The papers are all in, the cheques are in and the money's in Ottawa," Mr. McClellan said, a bit wistfully as he recalled the days of red-hot debating in bygone times.

Included in the nomination papers were the signatures of at least 10 supporters and the official agent of each candidate. Mr. Fraser's agent is John C. I. Currelly; Mr. Ketcheson's is Mrs. Helen Yeo, and Mr. Swanston's is Edward O. Fanjoy.

As soon as the two-hour period for official nominations came to a close at 3.00 p.m. Monday, Mr. McClellan wired the names of the candidates to Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay in Ottawa and then gave the names to the printer for completion of "grant of poll" notices, one of which will be placed in each polling place on election day.

START PRINTING

It was expected that the first of the 40,000 ballots required for the riding's 33,219 voters would be printed today.

They will be taken to the District Returning Officer's headquarters in the second storey of the curling rink on Charlotte St. There they will be done up in bundles of 100, 50 and 25 and placed in the ballot boxes along with printed instructions to the Deputy Returning Officers.

The boxes will then be sealed and sent to the DROs by registered mail, starting Friday with those for Galway, Cavendish and Harvey townships in the northern part of the constituency.

On receipt of the ballot boxes, the Deputy Returning Officers will break open the seals and remove the contents. The DROs will then seal the boxes again.

For city DROs, the procedure is different. They will be called to Mr. McClellan's office as soon as the ballots are ready. There they will receive the boxes, ballots and instructions and take the oath of office, administered either by the returning officer or the election clerk. Rural DROs may be sworn in either by their postmaster or a justice of the peace.

There are 95 polls in the riding, 63 in the city and 32 in the rural portion.

Of those in the city, 42 are single polls, 17 are double and four triple. At the last general election, there were 39 single polls, 22 double and one triple.

The existence of double and triple polls in any subdivision depends on the results of the enumeration. If the number of names listed is unusually high, a double, or even triple, poll is set up.

Of the 32 subdivisions in the rural part of the riding, three are double, one having been added at Braley's Corners School since the last election, when there were two.

There is one more subdivision in the city this time and one less in the rural area because of the annexation of a portion of Smith township by the city recently.

Wheat Crop Up Prices Drop 3c

The price of wheat has dropped three cents a bushel in car load lots all over Ontario under the pressure of one of the finest crops this province has ever harvested.

"We are maintaining the price of $1.50 until Thursday morning," Stewart Lockington of Quaker Oats informed the Examiner today. "Beginning Thursday it will be $1.48. Soft wheat was down six cents a bushel in Chicago today."

This new Ontario soft wheat is not only turning out in volume, but its quality is good.

A few deliveries were reported Friday, and quantity began to roll Monday, some of it from stock threshing, but the larger part from combines.

Mr. Lockington said that Quaker Oats Co. was ordering around 100 to 125 bushels of the new fall wheat variety, Genessee, certified, cleaned, treated, and bagged, and a quantity of certified Cornell seed. It is expected within two weeks. Applications for any of this seed will be accepted at the mill.

"We want to co-operate with the Ontario Department of Agriculture if they want any of this wheat including Genessee for their 4-H Clubs or other wheat clubs," Mr. Lockington said. "We'll sell it at just what it cost us."

Machine Severs Youth's Arm In Dad's Plant

STIRLING (ENS)—John Holcroft, Jr., 17, of Stirling, lost his right arm above the elbow Monday afternoon when it was severed as he worked in his father's dry cleaning plant.

He was with his father at the time of the accident, about 2:30 p.m. He was rushed to Belleville General Hospital, where authorities say he might also be suffering from head injuries.

The accident occurred in the plant of Bayview Dry Cleaners.

Police said the arm was torn off at the elbow when the youth got a hand caught in a spinning fluid extractor.

Car Snaps Posts Blames Truck

A Peterborough motorist blames the driver of a half-ton pickup truck for an accident on the Lakefield Highway Monday night in which two guard rail posts were snapped off.

Asa Hawley, 25, of Water St. N., told OPP Constable Harold Armstrong that he was driving north on Highway 28 and had just rounded a curve north of the filtration plant when he had to pull over onto the right shoulder to avoid a headon collision. He said he was confronted by a southbound pickup truck that was passing another car.

Hawley was forced over to the right shoulder where he snapped off two guard rail posts and damaged the grill, front bumper and right front fender of his 1937 car. Neither he nor either of his two passengers was injured.

The truck was followed for some distance by the driver of the southbound car but the car driver finally lost sight of it in the traffic.

Rival For Lift Lock

The Peterborough Lift Lock, long a symbol of the city and a favorite subject for visiting photographers, may have a full fledged rival soon. The new city hall has been receiving plenty of attention this year from visitors looking for a picture to remember Peterborough by. A tourist crouching over his camera under the trees of Confederation Park is becoming more and more a common sight.

No Plans Made For School Site In Subdivision

Delay in approval of the housing development plan on the Hugh Stewart farm has been requested of the department by officials of the Board of Education.

The plan was sent to the Board last week for its approval and on looking it over it was found that no provision had been made for school accomodation. The department in its letter pointed out that as 223 houses were to be built a school attendance of 279 could be expected.

At present the nearest school is Queen Mary and it is filled to capacity. While some relief was given both at Queen Mary and Prince of Wales when the Hatton property houses were removed this has been more than taken up by the new children starting and those who move into the Queen Mary from the Parkhill junior school.

Board officials estimate an enrolment of 279 would require an eight room school which at present costs of construction would be at least $160,000.

Giant Ogopogo In Hiding?

The largest lunge taken this season—and in many past ones—is a matter of hearsay, so far. It hasn't hit the pages of the press because the carcass cannot be located.

Rumour has it that a Mr. Perrin of Toronto, a cottager at White Lake, nailed a 49-pounder during the week-end. Its length is said to be 52 inches and girth 29. The monster is lying in some icehouse at the present time, it is believed.

A check of frozen food lockers in the city and in Lakefield revealed no such prize. There is no phone communication in the White Lake area and we are on pins and needles.

Committee Chairman Bob Balaam of the Jaycee Tourist Bureau seems to have all the verbal dope on it which came from Mr. Perrin himself during a recent visit to the city. But he did not bring the evidence with him.

However, Mr. Perrin promised to do so on Thursday of this week to enter his mammoth fish in the Jaycee Tourist-of-the-week competition. This venture is a new one and to the lucky visiting fishermen go several benefits—free picture for his home-town paper, dinner for self and family, free car wash, a new lure from a city sportsgoods store and gifts for wife and kiddies.

You have the whole city agog, Mr. Perrin.

Cottage Burns On Stony L. Little Saved

Exploding Stove Starts Blaze Quickly Spreads

A four-room cottage owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Baird of 315 Elias Ave., situated on the extreme west end of the north shore of Northey's Bay, Upper Stony Lake, burned to the ground on Monday evening at 7 p.m.

The Bairds had been picking berries all day and returned home to prepare supper. While Mrs. Baird was preparing vegetables at the front dock her husband lit a two-burner gasoline stove.

"In a few moments the stove exploded," Mr. Baird said. The small kitchen walls were soon a mass of flames. He said it might have been caused by a faulty feed line connection.

Mr. Baird had only time enough to grab a few blankets and a camera from the living room as he rushed from the cottage. Two valuable guns were in their car at the back of the lot and two boats and outboard motors at the dock; these were saved. Complete cottage furnishings, summer clothing and a wallet containing $25 were destroyed.

COULD ONLY WATCH

The black smoke driving down the lake attracted cottagers to the scene by outboard boats and together with neighbouring cottagers were only able to watch the building burn. A grove of cedar trees separated the Baird building from a closely-packed cottage colony and prevented the fire from spreading.

"It could have been disastrous," one onlooker said.

The cottage was purchased three years ago by the Bairds from Walter Stewart Ferguson Estate of Peterborough. They spent each weekend there throughout summer and fall and their annual vacations. Mr. Baird, a CGE worker, had completed one week of his current holidays at the cottage this year. The building and contents were insured.

Plan Stadium Of 60,000 Seats

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Allan Lamport said today that plans are under way for a 60,000-seat $2,000,000 civic stadium at the Canadian National Exhibition to back Toronto's bid for the 1960 summer Olympic games. He said the stadium could be finished next summer.

The new bowl would incorporate the existing 24,000-seat CNE grandstand by completing the oval with uncovered cement stands.

The mayor said there have been preliminary discussions on the project and that detailed proposals will be presented to a meeting of representatives of sports organizations, sports editors and sportscasters. The date has not yet been se.

Studebakers Again Available For Delivery

Rae McWilliams announced today from the Peterborough home of Studebakers on the Chemong Road that new cars are again arriving. He can now give immediate delivery to some of the people who enquired when cars were not available, due to the long Borg Warner Gear Co. strike.

He mentioned also that he had just received the news that the 1953 Studebaker models had received the Fashion Academy award in the United States for 1953.

He stated also it is surprising how many people still show amazement at the fact that Studebaker prices on cars, parts, service or trade-ins are competitive with what they expect from other lines. For example a custom Champion 2-door Sedan with license, spare tire and tube and gas can still be bought for $2,284.00; also that such a model kept with good family care can be traded for $495.00 each year.

McWilliams Motor Sales premises and business has grown in leaps and bounds in the past few years, and judging by the number of Studebaker cars you see on the streets today, it must be a good sign that the public like them and the service too. •Advertisement

A Policeman's Lot Can Be A Happy One When A Prowler Or A Skunk Is On The Run

COBOURG (ENS)—Police are chuckling over two incidents of the weekend.

Chief H. Pearse received a call from an agitated resident who said there was a skunk in the house and to please come up and put it out.

Now that is a bit out of the police department line. Even if it were within the scope of the department, there would be some reluctance to act. So the Chief suggested they open the door and eventually Mr. Skunk would amble out.

"We can't, the dog is outside," was the reply.

The Chief said he didn't see that made much difference.

"Yes, but the skunk has sprayed the dog and we don't want him in," came the explanation.

There were no further phone calls, so matters must have worked out all right.

Another householder phoned the police that he thought there was a prowler in the garden.

Police were on the way up when the man of the house decided to start proceedings on his own. He awakened his two grown-up sons on his way out and headed for the back.

The two boys followed shortly and spotted a shadow in the back of the garden. They both made flying tackles and downed the shadow.

It was father.

Incidentally, the prowler was never found.

Four Drivers Affected By Drink, Fined

Four charges of impaired driving were dealt with in magistrate's court Monday. Convicted were Wilbert Thackeray, 25, of 624 Brawn St; Ronald Kelly, 24, of RR7, Peterborough, and Leo Galvin, 45, of 474 Stewart St.

A fourth charge against Vincent Strain, 42, of Norwood was dismissed.

Thackeray was originally charged with drunk driving and pleaded guilty on that account. After evidence by PC Pat Gillis, however, the crown asked the charge be reduced to impaired driving upon which the accused was fined $50 and $2.50 costs.

CAR WEAVING

PC Gillis said he was patrolling Chamberlain the early morning of July 26 when he observed the Thackeray car weaving from one side to another. When he stopped the accused he found him smelling heavily of alcohol, unsteady on his feet and slurring his speech. A part bottle of alcohol and two pints of beer were found in the car.

Thackeray was also fined $15 and $2.50 on a charge of having liquor in an illegal place.

On the charge against Galvin to which he pleaded guilty, PC Ray Caldwell testified of finding the accused's car smashed into the veranda of 236 Burnham St. Sunday. Extensive damage was caused to the veranda.

Galvin, PC Caldwell said, showed signs of drinking, smelled strongly of alcohol and spoke in a stuttering manner. The accused was fined $75 and $2.50 costs and an additional $10 and costs on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a licence.

Strain was charged after his car was observed driving north on George St. July 4, weaving from one side to another. Turning right at Barnardo, his car climbed the sidewalk and failed to stop when turning again at Water.

When Strain was stopped by PC's Eldon McDonald and James Armstrong he smelled strongly of alcohol and admitted having been in a downtown hotel. Additionally, he was unsteady on his feet and did not speak naturally.

NOT ENOUGH

Strain told the court he had consumed seven draughts of beer prior to having been stopped but didn't think it affected his ability to drive.

Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed the charge on the grounds that the crown failed to give more substantial proof of errors in driving.

Kelly was charged with impaired driving following an accident at the intersection of Hunter and Aylmer July 17. The charge was later increased to drunk driving but in court, he was convicted on the lesser offence.

PC's Arthur Beardsmore and Don Erskine said that, upon investigation, they found the accused smelled very strongly of alcohol. He was leaning on the fender of his car which had been involved in a rear end collision with a car driven by Percy Runnalls of 523 Romaine.

BLACK MARIA

After repeated requests to move his car, Kelly was finally deported in the Black Maria.

Kelly told the court he had consumed only three draughts of beer prior to the accident and had refused to move his vehicle until police had taken measurements. Other symptoms of intoxication he attributed to his angry mood at the time.

Magistrate Philp found the evidence fitted a conviction on impaired driving rather than drunk driving and levied a fine of $75 and $8.00 costs.

The Male Animal, Mixture Of Fun, Satire By Thurber

When the male in the human animal is in the ascendancy, the stage of James Thurber and Elliot Nugent's 'The Male Animal' becomes pretty noisy. But the tumult and tossing (of one male by another while the females wail and provoke) is a welcome diversion after the pokey preliminaries of the first act. Even the dialogue in this first part is dull. Whether it was due to the noise, better writing or better stage work, towards the middle of Act 1 the play came alive and stayed alive until the final curtain—which, by the way, was touching and tender.

The play has a rich mixture of fun, satire and crashing lines—like snide references to football brawn versus professorial brain, and a hilarious flash in Act 3 about the garter girl. Here and there the best vein of Thurber is exposed.

FOOTBALLER BOUNCE

Life came in with the boom and beam of David Powell (as Ed. Keller, businessman board member of the university) and Gerry Saracini (as Joe Ferguson, erstwhile football hero of the college). The twain arrived in the mid-western college town and Professor Turner's home for a rousing football week-end. They ran into much else.

The other things, which they finally realized to be slightly more important than football or a new stadium, were a tid-bit of humanism and liberalism against Red-baiting and McCarthyism. In its original version the play antedates McCarthy; its present applicability is therefore a tribute to the writers' perspicacity of more than a decade ago. On the whole, however, 'The Male Animal' is not a startlingly intellectual play.

SEEING RED

Professor Tommy Turner (played by the versatile Harry Geldard) was pawn and bemused core of the row about liberalism, and he, normally quiescent, was also the roused male. This seeing-red double theme was repeated in a younger version, with intelligent student Michael Barnes (Robert Barclay) as the quiver. Mr. Geldard has a fine ease and humour on stage and, Monday night, an ability to deliver the punch lines even from a web of improvisation. Mr. Barclay gave an excellent characterization of the intellectual student.

The ladies in the show are ciphers to the males, but in this guise Barbara Cummings as Mrs. Turner and Charlotte Schrager as her young sister Patricia (of whom Michael was enamoured) played attractively and with understanding.

Others in the cast were Ronald Bailey as the old dean (Mr. Bailey can make a slight role glow), Bryce Larke (oh, so enthusiastic fotoballer), Margaret Braidwood in a minor role this week, Peggy McCombe as the maid Maggie and Jean Campbell, who gave a distinctive, well-turned performance as Mrs. Blanche Damon, the dean's wife.

SARACINI BACK

The set was applauded on opening curtain, and on his first entry Gerry Saracini was given a spontaneous welcome back—Mr. Saracini has been with the Summer Theatre each season since it was initiated. The play was directed by Robert Gill.

If you go to see only male animals cavorting, be prepared for a shock; there's not a bed on the stage. The socio-political theme is perhaps too near the quick to allow Thurber's particular brand of the fey to illumine the production. —T.J.A.

His Credit Good In Police Court

COBOURG (ENS)—Jack Etobico, 52-year-old Roseneath Indian, has a good credit rating in Cobourg police court.

Last Friday he appeared on drunk and illegal possession charges and was fined $10 and costs on each charge. Magistrate W. R. Philp gave him a week to pay.

Saturday night, the OPP found Jack asleep in a ditch in Alnwick township. Monday morning he was in court again.

"What is the charge?" asked Magistrate W. Gee.

"The usual thing," replied Jack. "Ten and costs. That makes $37.50 you owe," said the magistrate.

"I'll pay the whole thing next Friday," promised the Indian.

From past performance, the odds are that Jack will keep his word.

Legislature Facing By-Election Again

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario legislature will face its first by-election since the general election of 1951 as a result of William Houck's resigning his seat as member for Niagara Falls to contest a federal seat.

Members of the provincial House must resign as soon as they are officially nominated for a federal contest. Mr. Houck was nominated to contest the federal riding of Niagara Falls.

At the close of federal nominations Monday, Mr. Houck's was the only resignation received by Speaker M. C. Davies.

Record Tourist Trade

COBOURG (ENS)—Tourist office records show last Saturday night was the busiest night in the tourist business in any year that the office has been in operation.

There were 600 overnight tourists registered at motels and at five of the town's six hotels. A total of 215 tourists registered. These figures do not include cabins and private tourist homes.

Painting Stolen

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Police said a valuable 16th-century painting was stolen from the church of San Giorgio del Greci Monday, stripped of its valuable gold, jewel-encrusted ornaments, and left lying in an alley. They placed the loss at about $20,000. The work, by an unknown Renaissance artist, depicted the Madonna and child.

Douglas Fears Farm Depression

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Loss of the British market for Canadian surplus food stocks has raised the storm signals of an agricultural depression in Canada, Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said here Monday night.

In his first Ontario address of the current election campaign, the CCF leader in Saskatchewan denounced the Liberal government at Ottawa as "fat, indolent, inept and arrogant" and warned the failure of Ottawa to protect overseas markets was paving the way to depression.

Speaking to 200 CCF supporters at an outdoor meeting here, he concentrated his attack on the Liberals, asserting that every agricultural product was in surplus and that prices were falling.

He suggested Canada accept sterling from Britain to pay for goods and "help get rid of 100,000,000 pounds of pork lying in the freezer over here."

"We are not trying to sell a rasher of bacon to Britain. Our eggs, our wheat, everything we produce and which we formerly sold overseas is piling up in Canada."

He said the Liberals want to fight the election on the issue that Prime Minister St. Laurent is a nice man and would make a nice grandfather for Canadians.

"The Liberals have no platform except to have Mr. St. Laurent get off the train and pat children on the head and say this is a great country. What we want to know is how to make it greater."

Pickersgill Denies Report

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—State Secretary Pickersgill said Monday night he has no aspirations to become prime minister of Canada. If he had that ambition, he would have joined a party "with no brains at all."

The 47-year-old former clerk of the Privy Council, appointed to the cabinet about six weeks ago, made reference to reports about his ambitions in an impromptu speech at a Liberal rally, Prime Minister St. Laurent was the main speaker.

"There have been suggestions that I went in with all sorts of ulterior motives and hopes of rising to pre-eminence."

A Vancouver reporter had asked whether he aspired to be the next prime minister and alluding to British Columbia's Social Credit government which "doesn't seem to know much about anything."

Mrs. V. Tully

The funeral service for Mrs. Valentine Tully, 65, of RR 3, Peterborough, who died Friday in hospital, following a short illness, was held Monday at the Bellegham funeral home.

The Rev. C. G. Boyd officiated. The pallbearers were: Courtland Lillico, Ken Darling, George and David Tully, Thompson Craig and Bruce Davis. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Send Bibles To Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—Several copies of the bible have been wafted behind the Iron Curtain by balloons, says an official of the Russian Bible Society, a U. S. organization. Rev. John F. B. Carruthers, the society's foreign relations secretary, who returned from Europe Monday, said he helped set up the project. He said possession of the Russian Orthodox Bible is not outlawed in the Soviet Union but may not be printed or sold.

Attacked, Hurls Clock

TORONTO (CP) — Police said Monday they arrested Jack Young, 21, of Toronto on a charge of raping a 17-year-old girl after a crash of glass and a jangling alarm clock aroused neighbors. Police said the girl broke loose from her assailant long enough to throw the clock through the window.

SIMCOE (CP)—Murray McDowell, 43, was killed Monday when his tractor overturned and pitched him beneath a wheel. He was plowing on his farm south of here when the accident occurred.

Order 14 Men To Appear In Mine Fracas

TIMMINS (CP)—Fourteen men have been ordered to appear in South Porcupine court next Tuesday to answer charges laid in connection with a fracas at the Broulan Reef gold mine last Friday.

The charges were disclosed Monday night after police criticized Walter Brown, mine manager, for giving arms and ammunition to workers in the mine with instructions to shoot invaders.

Sixteen charges were laid against the 14 men, including 10 of common assault, two of wilful damage, two of assault occasioning bodily harm and two of obstructing police. Two counts were laid against two of those charged.

Police said today they had found an automobile fired upon last Friday by a Broulan security officer as seven strikers fled in it back to picket lines after attacking workers inside the mine property.

Officers said the car is owned by Victor Norkum of Timmins.

Police said investigation into the melee, between picketing miners and men who had returned to work, is continuing. They said additional charges may be laid. The accused men are said to be members of the United Steelworkers' Union of America (CIO-CCL). The men went on strike July 12 demanding higher wages.

"HIGHLY IMPROPER"

Staff Inspector Thomas Trimble of the provincial police termed the mine manager's action in arming his staff highly improper Mr. Brown replied he was compelled to issue the arms because he felt the police couldn't or wouldn't maintain law and order at the time.

Mr. Brown charged he had warned provincial police 11 hours before the attack last Friday the onslaught was imminent. In spite of this warning, Mr. Brown said, provincial police had withdrawn their men and did not return to the mine property until 10 minutes after the melee was ended. In the fracas about 40 men were injured, none seriously.

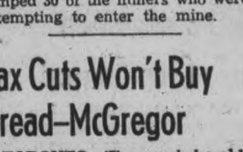
Inspector Trimble said Monday night that after a conference with Wilfred Dumont, assistant crown attorney, that Mr. Brown had been informed he would be held responsible for any shooting which occurred on the property.

The two men facing obstruction charges are reported to have prevented provincial police from entering the mine while the fracas took place. The malicious charges are reported to be in connection with the breaking down of a door and the smashing of windows and equipment when about 50 strikers jumped 30 of the miners who were attempting to enter the mine.

Tax Cuts Won't Buy Bread—McGregor

TORONTO—The much-heralded 1953 tax reductions granted by Ottawa would not put a loaf of bread on a single Canadian table, said R. H. McGregor, Progressive Conservative candidate seeking re-election in York East.

Bread currently retails for 18 cents a loaf. Mr. McGregor Monday night told house meetings of ridings residents, and the saving gained by the average Canadian citizen with a wife and two children through this year's tax cuts equals a mere eight cents a week.



This is the tax reduction, said Mr. McGregor, that Finance Minister Abbott consider a "real social dividend".

It is the intention of the Conservative Party to press for the reduction of taxes, he said.

48 Women Candidates Seeking Seat In Commons

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The jump from the frying pan of the kitchen to the fire of the Commons is attracting more women than ever.

A record number of them are shooting for seats in Parliament. Forty-eight are out to try to boost their sex's representation in the House, upheld by a lone housewife in the last sitting.

They are about five per cent of the 902 candidates nominated Monday for the Aug. 10 election yet they far outnumber the 15 who ran in 1949 and the record of 18 in 1945.

The Communist Labor - Progressive party leads in women candidates with 22. The CCF ranks second with 12. Nine are Progressive Conservative standard - bearers, three Liberal, one Social Credit and one Independent Liberal. They are largely concentrated in Ontario, with 21 women nominees.

Their aim will be to move in along with Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, 48, slender public accountant who has been representing Hamilton West for two years. Mrs. Fairclough is running for re-election on the Progressive Conservative ticket.

MAKING COMEBACK

Her immediate predecessor as the only woman in the 265-member chamber, Mrs. Gladys Strum, is trying to get elected in Vancouver-Burrard. Mrs. Strum, also a housewife, sat as the CCF member for Qu'Appelle, Sask., but was defeated in the 1949 general contest. In her four years, she, too, was the only woman in the House.

A series of nationally-known women are among the group running for election this time.

One is Dorise Nielsen, trying to get the Brantford, Ont., seat as a candidate of the Communist Labor-Progressive party. She sat in the Commons earlier as a representative of the "Unity" party.

Far to her right is Miss Sybil Bennett, greying and aristocratic-looking niece of the late R. B. Miss Bennett is trying to capture Halton, Ont., formerly held by the Liberals.

Then in Quebec there is Mme. Therese Casgrain, leader of the CCF party in that province. Making her second try after an unsuccessful by-election attempt in 1952, she is runing in Montreal Jacques Cartier-Lasalle.

A St. John's newspaper woman making her second run for the Commons is Mrs. Grace Sparkes, the Progressive Conservative candidate in Newfoundlanod's Burin-Burgeo constituency. She will be opposing C. W. Carter, who beat her in the 1949 election that was Newfoundland's first after confederation of that year.

In Ontario, newspaper columnist Margaret Aitken of the Toronto Telegram is taking a crack at the new riding of York-Humber adjacent to Toronto. One of her opponents is another woman, Mrs. Jane Prosser.

Twenty-two of the women are looking for seats in Ontario. Nine more are going after election in Quebec. There are seven in British Columbia, two each in Alberta and Saskatchewan and one in Newfoundland.

Fisherman Lands 29¾ Lb. Lunge

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Jack H. Cromling of Monongahela, Pa., battled a 'lunge for over a half-hour Monday morning at Bradley Bay, south of Campbellford, before finally boating the fish.

It weighed just a few ounces less than 30 pounds and was 21 inches in girth. It was 50 inches long. Mr. Cromling, who has had excellent luck in recent years in the Campbellford area, said he had taken a couple of other 'lunge this season, both of which were smaller. He also has several pike.

The big fellow struck at a pikie-minnow, and gave Mr. Cromling quite a battle before being boated.

Howe Reports Finances In Good Shape

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Monday night that Canada's finances are in "sound condition" with no immediate danger of a recession.

Defending Liberal government trade policies at an election rally, the minister reeled off facts and figures for 40 minutes to support his claim that foreign trade was flourishing as never before and domestic trade never rosier.

"Canada is not losing her markets abroad, she is steadily adding to them," he told an audience of 750 that filled a high school auditorium.

Canadian exports last year totalled $4,400,000,000, he said. This was "more in volume and value than any previous year."

Despite the dollar-sterling problem, continued Mr. Howe, "Canada last year exported more goods to Commonwealth countries than in any previous year.

On the domestic front, said Mr. Howe, "capital investment is the highest in history." Last year Canadians "turned back 23 per cent of the country's total production into capital improvements."

The minister termed Progressive Conservative promises of slashing taxes by $500,000,000 "impossible budgetting."

"You can't cut taxes and at the same time spend an additional $1,200,000,000 as the Conservatives are promising," said Mr. Howe.

History Of TCA Outlined To Rotary Club

The history and beginning of the Trans-Canada Airlines was outlined to members of the Rotary Club Monday at their weekly luncheon meeting by Donald Westman, traffic representative for the Toronto office.

Trans-Canada Airlines was formed by an act of Parliament in 1937, and their first scheduled route was between Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, a distance of 122 miles by air.

To start with, TCA had only 71 employees. The number employed reached the 4,000 mark in 1946 and today, 15 years after the founding, the airlines employs more than 6,000 employees in Canada and at their overseas bases.

FIRST AIRCRAFT

The first aircraft used by TCA were the Lockheed type of airliner.

By 1939 they had extended their flights as far east as Moncton, London, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, New York and Windsor and by 1943 Newfoundland. In 1946 they were flying as far as Chicago and Cleveland.

The first Lockheeds seated only six passengers and they slowly increased their capacity to 10 and 14. In 1946 the Lockheeds were dropped and the DC3s came into use, seating 21 passengers.

Soon even the DC3s became obsolete and the North Stars were brought into service in 1947, which seat from 46 to 52.

With the longer flying range and bigger passenger capacity of the North Stars, the TCA extended their services to Tampa, Fla., Jamaica, Nassau and Bermuda in 1950. The North Stars are used for coast to coast and oceanic runs with a combination of North Stars and DC3s for inter-city services.

Today, the TCA flies over 19,000 route miles compared to the 122 miles in 1937, with 100 flights a day and a plane in the air every 10 minutes.

STILL SPREADING

TCA is still extending its services and by next year they will have eight new Super-Constellation airliners, which will carry up to 12 tons, to be used only on Trans-Atlantic runs. They have also purchased 15 new Vickers-Viscounts, which will be delivered next fall. They will be used for inter-city and coast-to-coast services.

Following his speech, Mr. Westman showed a film on how pilots are chosen and trained for service in the Trans-Canada Airlines.

HEADED FOR ARCTIC — A giant snowblower for delivery to the RCAF station at Resolute Bay in the Northwest Territories is loaded aboard the U.S.S. Wyandot at Halifax. The Wyandot, flagship of a task force supplying Canadian and United States northern stations, will be guided through the icefields by patrolling Canadian aircraft.

Canadians Have Greater Stake Now In Country's Business

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadians today have a greater stake in their country's business than ever before.

Despite American investment in Canada, increased by $1,000,000,000 since 1949, the share of Canadian business owned by foreigners is lower today than before the war.

A survey published in this month's Bank of Montreal business review points out that most of the cash for Canada's new factories, mines and oil-fields has come in recent years from Canadians themselves.

Canada, the review explains, has used foreign capital to speed its progress. "Without the benefit of outside capital, particularly in the early periods of this country's development, the expansion of production, employment and income would have proceeded much less rapidly than has, in fact, been the case."

LARGEST DEBTOR COUNTRY

As a result, by 1939 Canada was the world's largest debtor country. Since then the debt has been partly paid off, for although foreigners have rushed to invest money in Canada, Canadians have invested some $6,000,000,000 in other countries.

Today, the review says, "Canadian capital invested in Canadian-controlled companies operating in the U.S. has risen to a greater extent percentage-wise than the corresponding investment by Americans in Canada."

Canadian overseas investments haven't received much publicity because they are usually only a small fraction of the total amount of money invested in those countries.

Britain's contribution to the building of Canadian railways is "legendary," the review says. Even today some 20 per cent of the total capital of Canadian railways is owned by investors in the United Kingdom.

The first great wave of American capital came during the twenties, when American money was used to open up pulp and paper mills, develop mining and smelting, and expand rail, telephone and insurance facilities.

Canada now is in the middle of the second great wave of American investment, the review says. Since 1949, nearly $1,000,000,000 has been invested here by U.S. companies or U.S. citizens.

About 37 per cent of this new capital has gone into petroleum, while a further 37 per cent has gone into mining enterprises, "largely in the iron-ore fields of Ontario and Quebec-Labrador."

In consequence, mining and petroleum developments are the only industrial divisions in which the share of foreign capital today is higher than it was in 1939. In manufacturing, railways and utilities, Canadians own a greater share of the business than they did before the war.

"Canada's position as a debtor has shown a remarkable improvement," the review concludes.

Bower-McConnell Nuptials

At six o'clock Monday afternoon the wedding took place in George Street United Church of Audrey Marina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor McConnell of Norwood, to Mr. Vernon Leroy Bower, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bower of Baccoro, Nova Scotia.

Gladiolas and hydrangeas formed the setting for the ceremony performed by the Rev. Arnold Mathews. Organist Mr. Charles E. Allen played the wedding music and Mr. Reginald Peters sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the service and "For you alone" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white nylon net over white satin and her veil was caught with white carnations. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Geraldine McConnell as bridesmaid for her sister and Miss Betty Morton as flower girl were in dresses of blue and pink nylon net over matching satin and wore wreaths of roses and lily of the valley in their hair. Each carried a bouquet of pink and white roses.

Mr. Harry Bower was the groomsman and the ushers were Harold McConnell and Wayne Thompson.

The reception was held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. The bride's mother was receiving, dressed in pink crepe and wearing a navy velvet hat and corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Frank Smith of Peterborough represented the groom's mother in the receiving line and she was wearing a blue linen dress with white straw hat and corsage of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Bower left afterward on their wedding trip to Niagara Falls and points west. The bride went away in a powder blue dress and was wearing white accessories.

They will live at R. R. 7, Peterborough, on return.

Women Said To Blame For Holding Women Back

NEW YORK (AP)—What holds women back?

This is the subject of research by members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, as voiced recently by their president, Helen G. Irwin if Des Moines, Iowa.

And the answer, after all these generations of suffragettes and equal rights crusaders, is just the same as it always has been:

What holds women back is—women.

It is a basic fact of human nature that few women consider a career more important than husband, children and a home. They have careers, yes, because of economic necessity for the most part. But in a pinch, faced with a choice between complete dedication to office or home, the home usually wins in a walk.

JOB SECONDARY

There are more working women today than ever before. For instance, approximately one-third of the United States working force are women. Many of them are highly successful, too, in every field from banking to brick-laying. But the normal woman considers even a top-brass job in business or industry secondary to her main job as a successful human being in the multiple role of wife, mother and homemaker.

That's why most women don't go all out to be president of the company or boss of the shop, even when they spend eight hours a day helping earn the family income. Such ambition requires a singleness of purpose that leaves no room for all the other feminine duties—and joys.

Of course, a few women have made the choice in favor of personal ambition, have shut the door on family responsibilities and devoted all their efforts to reaching the top of their chosen careers. But most of them find it's rather lonely at the top.

RARE CASES

With men, it's different. A man can devote all his energies toward getting ahead in his business, can come home too tired for conversation or social activity, and still be considered a devoted husband and father. His concentration on business, everybody realizes, is a mark of his devotion. He is working to provide security for his wife and children and they shine in the reflected light of his success.

But a woman who thinks only of her job, who outshines her husband in the business world, who has no time to give to her children's problems, is considered selfish and unnatural. She usually winds up treading the road to success alone.

There are some cases where husband and wife have been able to follow separate careers in complete amity, dividing family responsibilities fairly, denying their children nothing of affection or care. But these are few and far between.

ARRANGING COLD CUTS

Planning a buffet or picnic tray of assorted cold cuts? Here are some pointers on arranging a picture-pretty cold meat platter:

1. Choose meats which contrast in color as do head cheese and bologna; contrast in flavor as jellied corned beef and sliced tongue.

2. Select meats of varying size and shapes to make an appealing tray.

3. Spark the meat platter with bright color groupings of radishes, pickles, black olives, beets or devilled eggs. Surround the whole with a frill of crisp leaf lettuce.

Oriental Flavor Found In Fall Millinery Parade

By LUCIE NOEL
Special To The Examiner

PARIS— Gilbert Orcel opens the fall millinery parade with a beautifully finished collection borrowing inspiration from the Middle East, Turkey, Greece and North Africa. He returns to Paris with oriental tiaras, glittering embroideries appliques on high chechias or flat puffed berets, cone crowned fez with or without glitter or insect antennae and a series he calls minarets. The Orient is evoked further in colors and line. Highlighting all these ideas he builds them on one and the same principle.

Covered concealed springs hold the hat firmly on the head. Turkish delights, minarets and oriental tiaras are the names he gives to this inspiration.

Orcel's most important development is the setting of the hat far back showing the hair line and often much of the front hair as well as the top. Latter is achieved by cutouts by effects of separating the crown from the brim with the hair showing between. Velvet wired latticework is applied to the edge in rolled thongs or flat bands interlacing or arabesqed looped.

His best chechias are of steel gray, elephant or black velvet. Four corners are stressed by a jewel or by a crossed cord. A black velvet fez has a large teardrop pearl pinned in its upturned brim. A latticed velvet thong loops its way around the brim of back tilted checia and the wearer's hair shows between. Other effects are achievd by flat bows back and front set on shallow puffed blinis.

"Turkish minaret" styles have cone shaped back tilted crowns with curved simitar brims or crescents framing the face. Subtle touches of draping suggest other brims.

Velvets are jewel toned: sapphire, ruby, emerald, Mediterranean, fuschia to coral, range of sky blues, dark grays, lots of black.

Felts have a shiny enamelled look. Tweed and velvet strike a fall note. Following through on the Oriental mood, Orcel exploits paisley embroideries encrusting them in furry felts or making crowns of small fez shapes and contrasting them with a twist of velvet. Silver or tinfoil embroideries decorate antilope checias. Wool jersey is tightly draped.

Hair Mistakes Show Up On Older Women

The hatlessness of summer gives one a good chance to observe the condition of women's hair.

Have you noticed how many older women are still continuing to give themselves (or have given to them) tight permanents? They're much too busy to set their hair often. The result is a frizzy, wild look. A very soft permanent, or no permanent at all if the hair has the slightest tendency to wave, can go without a setting and have a much better look than can a tight permanent.

Other hair mistakes still being made by the older generation of women are sausage curls and set-looking waves. The younger generation of women doesn't, as a rule, go in for these things. Young girls learn much in a beauty way from their mothers but, in this one instance at least, the older women may profitably pay some attention to the younger ones.

How smooth, neat and natural are the styles most of the younger girls choose! No sausage curls or precise waves for them. Why not adapt the same to yourself? If the young girls you see have page-boy hair styles—a timless and pretty style — you might copy the smooth neatness but not the length. Short hair is most flattering to the majority of older women.

Feet Become Forgotten

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD
(Special to The Examiner)

ROME. — Feet are the forgotten part of the woman's anatomy. Her good-looking legs may be world-famous but those good looks are stopping right at the ankles these days. With the sheerest stockings in history to set them off and the world's most luxurious outlay of shoes to choose from, feet are looking—let's face it—just terrible.

Continental women have found a new way to look beautiful and exciting. They have brought back the natural beauty of their feet. Apparently they are lavishing on them the same amount of time and care American women give to hair-do's and manicures.

Well-groomed, graceful feet are the outstanding feature of the smart women here in Rome this week. Many of them are wearing flat-heeled sandals that completely expose their feet. High-heeled sandals cover up as little as possible leaving toes, heels and arches on parade.

It looks as if Americans had developed an ostrich psychology and believe that nobody is going to look as far down as their feet, or else, in their choice of shoes, they have been over-sold on walking comfort and packing light.

The quest for the foot beautiful ought to put new life into beauty columns, beauty salons, and shoe-shopping. It is my guess that "make over my feet" is going to be the first-aid cry of many a returning tourist this fall.

DRESS-UP COAT — Sleek black zibeline in a narrow silhouette is a feature of this dress-up fall coat. It has push-up sleeves and a small collar for jewelled accessory pins.

MR. AND MRS. CLARENCE F. G. WEST, the bride formerly Miss Joan Detlor, were married Saturday by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, at his home, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phillips. Sayer-Johnson

At the Mark St. United Church parsonage on Saturday the Rev. N. D. Patterson performed the marriage of Shirley Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Johnson, and James Edward Sayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sayer, all of Peterborough.

The bride wore a navy linen dress with white bolero and navy and white accessories and had a corsage of red roses. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Jones, Mrs. Jones dressed in pink and wearing white accessories and a corsage of pink 'mums.

The couple will live at 212 London St.

MacLean-Gough

The marriage took place in the parsonage of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Trenton, on Saturday, of Helena Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gough of Peterborough, to Hugh Lachlan MacLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacLean of Cresswell. The Rev. R. C. McLean of Trenton, cousin of the groom, officiated. Bridal attendant was Mrs. Grant Clark of Peterborough and the groomsman was Mr. Kenneth Squires of Oakwood, cousin of the groom.

After the ceremony a luncheon was served at the Dutch Mill Inn, Trenton, for the immediate families and friends. Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Quebec and United States. On return they will live in Peterborough.

NEED FOOD IN MORNING

Many women hurry to get a good breakfast for the rest of the family, then, having got everyone else on their way to work or school, help themselves to a cup of coffee. Neglecting a good breakfast is a bad habit. As many as fifteen hours may have passed since the last meal of the previous day and the body is very much in need of good nourishing food. Fruit or tomato juice, hot whole-grain cereal, an egg, bacon, toast and hot beverage is just about an ideal meal to break that long fast and set the busy worker up for the morning.

DOROTHY DIX:

Reminds Wife Honest Work Is Never Of Low Calibre

DEAR MISS DIX: My problem is my husband's work. We have been marrie... a year and though I knew wh... his occupation was before I married him, I had no idea it would affect me the way it has. His work is of very low calibre; although honest, it doesn't require any intelligence. I'm well educated and have had several years of office experience. My husband has had very little education, and doesn't aspire to any more. His disposition is good; he is a good provider, but I feel he should better himself before we have children. Am I wrong in nagging him about this? I feel so embarrassed when someone asks me what he does. MRS. T. Y.

ANSWER: You are guilty of the most flagrant sort of snobbery. Also, you are beset by a few misconceptions. Honest work is never of a low calibre, and the only thing that would embarrass anyone would be having to admit that their living was provided through dishonest efforts. Since you were well aawre of your husband's situation before you married him, this seems rather a late date to object to it. Your childish reluctance to accept the inevitable simply because your husband's work isn't glamorous, is much more culpable than his manual labor.

What miracle do you expect to change a man who prefers to work with his hands into an intellectual? It takes all sorts of jobs to make the world go round. Often the most necessary are those lacking prestige. All the comforts surrounding you—such as electricity, gas, running water, heat, transportation—are there because some men worked with their hands to install them. True, they were planned behind desks by people of high education, but the planning would have been useless without willing hands and muscles for their execution.

If you have a good, kind, generous man, you have someone to be mighty proud of, regardless of how he earns the living you enjoy. And for goodness make, stop nagging! The advantages of an education certainly haven't made much impression on you, when you behave so foolishly over a matter that can't be altered and is of small consequence anyway.

DEAR MISS DIX: How much should devoted parents expect from their children? I'm 60, but my husband is 62. Six months ago he suffered a heart attack and needs considerable treatment now. He works a little, so we have a small income but not nearly enough to cover doctor's bills and medication. We have two beautiful daughters to whom we gave every advantage, but now they seem to forget we could use some help. Both are married, one is extremely well off, and the other is comfortable, yet they never offer us a cent. MRS. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It certainly is depressing to realize how neglectful children can be. If they would only realize how little elderly parents need, that just a few dollars a week would make all the difference between pinching and comfort. It's hard to ask outright for help that should be graciously offered, but since your daughters apparently have no sense or sensibility, that's about the only way you'll get any assistance from them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Perhaps I'm foolish, but I have a friend of 63 who has been coming to see me for the last couple of years. We go to the movies occasionally, but I feel out of place with him because he's three years younger than I am. There's no question of marriage involved—just companionship. MRS. A. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You aren't foolish at all. Everyone likes pleasant companionship and there's no reason why you shouldn't enjoy the company of a congenial man. The age difference is too slight to be considered.

Drive 20 Miles To Purchase Special Cheese

LONDON (CP) — British actor Robert Morley says his mother-in-law is the sort of person who drives 20 miles to buy the right kind of Gruyere cheese.

The mother-in-law so defined is Gladys Cooper, for 40 years one of the most beautiful actresses on the British stage. Miss Cooper, now 63, is still appearing regularly in the west end as the star of Noel Coward's Relative Values.

As far back as the First World War, Miss Cooper had a special place as an actress. A London columnist says men who were boys when she was a girl "will never forget the incomparable profile on the glossy postcards, the mother of all pin-ups."

Her stage triumphs included The Letter, The Last of Mrs. Cheyney and The Indifferent Shepherd.

Morley's tribute to Miss Cooper came at a London luncheon marking publication of a book about the actress called "Without Veils". Morley, star of stage and screen, said in his speech:

"Proposing Miss Cooper's health is rather like proposing the wealth of the Aga Khan. She has a wonderful ability to master health. I have never known her to complain about anything except a slight headache. She never sits down and hardly eats at all, and that is why she keeps so well."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Serving Fruit As Dessert With Crackers

Seven hundred and thirty desserts per family per year—that's what does it—that's what boosts the incipient insanity rate among mild little housewives like you and me.

Now some women take out all of their frustrations in making desserts: rich, complicated, expensive, full of cream and butter and sugar. Some take out their frustrations in keping their houses so clean that their husbands and children are afraid to walk in the front door. Some women wash the kitchen curtains every month. Some women buy rakish and expensive hats that look like inverted saucepans or pagodas.

All any of them is trying to do is remain sane in this world that is moving too fast, too noisily.

I know a little trick to put more distance between you and the mental institution: instead of making desserts, serve fruits "au naturel" and provide a plate of crisp dainty crackers and some rare cheese.

That cuts out all of this making dessert decisions for three hundred and sixty- five times, for you could do that every day for lunch.

Then you have only the other three hundred and sixty-five dinner dessert decisions to make.

Things are getting better every day.

I know you will serve the plentiful fruits in season because you can't help yourselves, but I have a strong urge to give you desserts that can be done without too much fuss. There will not be a kitchenfull of dirty dishes when you are finished.

CUSTARD RICE PUDDING

This is a winner. (Pete calls it a cock-eyed knock-out (that's good!) and a lallapaloozer.) The dry milk users will like it too. But those who do not keep dry milk on hand just leave it out. It is included to make the dish more nourishing.

Wash 1-3 cup raw long grain rice in a sieve, turn it into top of double boiler and add 2 cups milk, and cook over boiling water for 1 hour, stirring frequently with a fork. Just before the rice is cooked, separate the yolks from the whites of 2 eggs and beat yolks slightly. When rice is done stir into it 2 tablespoons butter, then very slowly (so they will not curdle) stir in the egg yolks. Mix together ¾ cup brown sugar and ¼ cup dry skim milk powder and stir into the rice mixture wtih ½ teaspoon vanilla. Let this cool. Beat 2 egg whites until stiff, then fold them into the cooled rice. Pour into medium-sized buttered baking dish and stand it in larger pan containing 1 inch of hot water. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes. Serve warm with rich cream.

COFFEE JELLY

Make extra coffee at breakfast time and see that 2 measuring cups of it are leftover even if you have to cut yourself off with only 2 cups. Soak 2 tablespoons gelatin in ½ cup cold water for 5 minutes, then stir into it 1 cup boiling water until dissolved, then add 2 cups clear black coffee and ½ cup sugar, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Turn into a mould—preferably a ring mould—and chill until set. You can either serve it with the centre filled with whipped cream or sliced bananas. Pete likes mint ice cream with it—but you know that guy.

FRUIT FOOL

No, that is not I—it's a dessert. Don't you know what a "fool" is? It's gently cooked fresh fruit such as gooseberries, black currants, raspberries, slightly sweetened and forced through a sieve. You chill it. You then measure it and measure an equal quantity (or less) of heavy cream and whip that and fold it into the pureed fruit. Pile lightly in stemmed glasses, chill again and serve. Very simple, light and good.

Andy Hamilton Editor, Dies Of Burns

TORONTO (CP)—Andy Hamilton, 46, well-known Canadian newspaper man, died today of accidental burns suffered last Wednesday. He suffered a relapse this week when apparently on the way to recovery.

Mr. Hamilton was editor in Canada of the London weekly, Canada Review, and had worked as a reporter, editorial writer and desk editor on the Toronto Star, Windsor Star, Toronto Globe and Mail and Toronto Telegram.

Surviving are his widow and a daughter, Linda, 12.

Born in Weyburn, Sask., Andrew Wilfred Hamilton was educated in Weyburn, at the University of Saskatchewan and at McGill University, where he studied economics under a Stephen Leacock fellowship.

He later studied law in Regina and joined the Toronto Star from where he went to the Windsor Star, which he represented in the Ottawa press gallery. He covered the 1936 Coronation in London and roamed Europe for six months before returning to become the Windsor Star's city editor.

He joined the Globe and Mail desk staff in the mid-30s and then became secretary to the then postmaster-general, Hon. Norman Mclarty, and later secretary of the National Liberal Federation.

Later he rejoined the Globe and Mail as editorial writer and moved to the Telegram five years ago as telegraph editor. He became editor of Canada Review last February.

Canadian Poet Florence Livesay Dies In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Florence Randal Livesay, 78, poet and newspaper woman, died in hospital here today.

She suffered injuries last Friday when she fell while travelling by bus from her home in Grimsby to Toronto.

Mrs. Livesay was the widow of J. F. B. Livesay, general manager of The Canadian Press 1919-1939, who died nine years ago. They married in Winnipeg in 1908 when Mr. Livesay was manager of the Western Associated Press, pioneer co-operative news-gathering association and forerunner of CP. They had two daughters, Dorothy (Mrs. Duncan Macnair) now of Vancouver, one of Canada's best known creative writers, and Sophie (Mrs. James U. Stewart) of Belfast, Northern Ireland, an artist.

Born in Compton, Que., Nov. 2, 1874, Mrs. Livesay started newspaper work with the Ottawa Journal, went to South Africa after the Boer War to cover the post-war period, and later worked on the old Winnipeg Telegram and the Winnipeg Free Press.

SOME OF HER WORKS

She was a writer of sensitive verse. Her publications include "Songs of Ukraina," "Shepherd's Purse," "Savour of Salt," and "Marusia," a novel translated from the Ukrainian.

In 1947 she edited a collection of her husband's literary papers under the title "The Making of a Canadian," introduced by a finely sensitive memoir.

Besides her daughters she is survived by a sister, Helen Randal of Vancouver, and three brothers, Stewart of St. Vital, Man., Arthur of Winnipeg and Philip of Vernon, B.C. Alan Randal, news editor of the Montreal Gazette, is a nephew.

Doubts PC's Develop Any Sound Policies

ISABELLA, Man. (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said Monday night the Progressive Conservatives have never given a clear indication that they can develop any sound policies. Therefore it would be unwise to place the country's future in their hands.

In an address to a political meeting here, he said the Conservative platforms of 1949 and 1953 were "like mushrooms that crop up momentarily at election time and then disappear." On the other hand the justice minister said the Liberal doctrine is strongly advocated by the party when it is out of power and is implemented when it is in power.

OFFICER CHARGED—Capt. Martin Franklyn Smith, 34, of Regina, has been brought to Winnipeg for trial on charges of theft in connection with disposal of $30,000 worth of brass metal shell cases. The cases allegedly were stolen from Shilo, Man., military camp in 1952 while Smith was ordnance officer. Smith, born in Westboro, Ont., is married and has four children. Refuse Special Tax Plan For Truman

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune say today the government has refused to let former president Truman spread $600,000 from magazine sale of his memoirs over seven income tax years.

The Tribune says Charles D. Davis, former chief counsel of the internal revenue service, refused to approve an agreement between Truman and Time, Inc. The Truman memoirs are to be published by Life magazine before they appear in book form.

The ruling which the Tribune says Truman sought was not the same as that which allowed President Eisenhower a tax savings on income from his book, "Crusade in Europe."

EISENHOWER ARRANGEMENT

Eisenhower was allowed to pay a 25-per-cent capital gains tax, rather than an income tax on a graduated scale, on proceeds from his memoirs as supreme Allied commander in Western Europe in the Second World War. The ruling saved him almost $400,000 in taxes as the book brought him a gross income of about $1,000,000.

The ruling under which Eisenhower benefited was outlawed by Congress shortly after the decision in the general's case.

Truman will deliver the manuscript in 1954 or early in 1955, the Tribune says and they will appear in Life one year after delivery.

Priest Convicted In Driving Case

WHITBY (CP)—The Rev. R. McMahon, a Roman Catholic priest from Kirkland Lake, was convicted today of driving with his ability impaired and fined $50 or 10 days in jail.

Father McMahon was originally charged with drunken driving after his car collided with a parked transport June 28 near Whitby, 15 miles west of Oshawa.

Ban On Membership

HOLLYWOOD — Members of the Communist party have been barred from membership in the Screen Actors Guild by an overwhelming vote of the guild membership. Results of a mail referendum, announced Monday, showed that 3,769 approved a new by-law banning Communists, the union said. Votes against the bylaw numbered 152.

Allard Canada's Observer As Documents Signed

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PANMUNJOM (CP)—Brig. Jean Allard was Canada's official observer as the documents were signed at 10 a.m. Monday setting an end 12 hours later to fire on both sides of Korea's 120-mile front.

Within a few hours the commander of Canada's 25th infantry brigade had arranged to have his troops advised of their individual responsibilities under the armistice and submit signed statements that each understood his orders. Complete muster parades showed that every Canadian was aware of his task and the brigade headquarters reported that fact to the 1st Commonwealth division.

On returning to his headquarters from Panmunjom and Munsan where he had also observed Gen. Mark Clark endorse the truce documents as United Nations commander-in-chief, Brig. Allard summoned his unit commanding officers. He described to them the scenes he had witnessed and asked them to pass the information on to the troops. Then the brigadier briefed his officers on things to come.

IN GENERAL SHIFT

Like everyone else, the Canadians are involved in the general backward shift which the war theatre must undergo, creating a demilitarized zone between the two still undefeated armies.

Ammunition, equipment and general stores such as barbed wire, pickets, bunker timbers and signals cable must first be carried away. That done, the troops will walk back 1,500 yards and establish themselves there.

The Panmunjom proceedings were in a great oriental-style hall which the Communists built in three days last week.

United Nations spectators sat at the south end of the long signing table running orth and south. Communist spectators sat on the north side, the Chinese in one section and the North Koreans in another.

The Chinese were characterized by the drab anonymity of olive grey with nigh-necked uniforms.

The more youthful-looking North Koreans had more eye appeal with their khaki-green tunics with red and gold epaulettes, and blue trousers with twin red stripes.

IN HONOR GUARD

Pte. Stewart D. Lord of Vancouver, from the 3rd battalion, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, represented Canada in the guard of honor detachment lining the UN delegates' path into the hall.

Brig. Allard rode by jeep to Panmunjom with the Commonwealth division commander, Maj.-Gen. M. A. R West and the commander's new aide-de-camp, Lieut. Lorne Caughill of Calgary and Niagara Falls, Ont. Lieut. Caughill watched the ceremony from outside the hall.

Brig. Allard's message to the Canadians congratulated them for "your magnificent performance in holding the line against numerous odds—for this the Canadian people are grateful and your comrades elsewhere in the Canadian Army are proud."

He offered condolences to the relatives and friends of Canadians who fell in Korea and then said "we now have a new task—that of guarding the peace. For the time being we will guard it in Korea. Let us take this opportunity to prepare ourselves for the tasks we may be called upon to do in future."

Similar Names May Confuse Some Voters

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some of Canada's voters will have to look twice or three times to make sure they're marking their ballots for the man of their choice in the Aug. 10 Dominion election.

For example, Grenville-Dundas in Ontario, is choosing between two Casselmans, each with the initials A. C. Arthur C. is a Liberal, seeking to unseat Arza C., Progressive Conservative and sitting member.

Two Robichauds are running in Gloucester, N.B., with Albany M., the sitting member, a Progressive Conservative and H. J. a Liberal. A third man is in that race, Alphonse Landry, CCF.

In Essex East in Ontario, where Health Minister Paul Martin is seeking re-election, two of his three opponents are J. A. Kennedy, Progressive Conservative, and M: J. Kennedy, Labor-Progressive.

OTHER SIMILARITIES

Among the six candidates in Montreal Papineau are Adrien Meunier and Armand Meunier, each runing as an Independent Liberal.

In Beauce, Que., Raoul Poulin, Independent, is opposed in his bid for re-election by Louis Poulin, a Liberal.

The voters in Berthier-Maskinonge-Delanaudiere in Quebec face as tough an identification problem as any. Joseph Langlois, seeking re-election as a Liberal, is opposed by Joseph E. Lariglois, Progressive Conservative, and Joseph Langlais, Independent. A fourth in the field is Adrian Arcand, Nationalist.

Free Oats For Horses? PM Doesn't Know

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Did the horses at Petawawa military camp get free government oats?.

That's what Prime Minister St. Laurent would like to know, but unfortunately, he said Monday night, there are no records to show whether any oats were stolen from the government.

Mr. St. Laurent touched on the horses episode at the Liberal rally here as he thrust back at Progressive Conservative charges of waste and extravagance in the defence department.

There had been some "examples of waste," he admitted. There may have been too many neckties, teapots and forks purchased when the Korean war broke out.

There also had been some scrap stolen from Petawawa and the affair of the horses, where a sergeant said Mr. St. Laurent, hired horses from Pembroke, because the government's treasury board had been slow in raising rates for teamsters. These things had been reported in the Currie report that sparked a major controversy in the last Parliament.

Sen. Duffus Denies Fraser Responsible For Post Office

Senator J. J. Duffus entered the political fray Monday night. In a speech to 60 Liberals in Lakehurst Community Hall he gave the history of the negotiations and planning for the $1,500,000 federal building in Peterborough and he stated flatly that Gordon K. Fraser, PC candidate, didn't have much to do with getting it.

It was the first major speech by the senator since the federal election campaign got underway. Along with T. J. Carley, QC, president of the Peterborough Liberal Association, and Gus Faux, former provincial candidate in Toronto-Woodbine, he urged the voters to elect Max Swanston to the House of Commons.

Senator Duffs took exception to a statement in which Mr. Fraser was quoted as saying: "I got a $1,500,000 post office in Peterborough and nobody can deny that."

"We admit that Mr. Fraser interested himself deeply in the project," said Senator Duffus. "Why shouldn't he? All the citizens were interested in it. He no doubt contacted the minister on occasions and, from time to time, asked questions in the House —which were courteously answered.

NEVER MET MEMBER

"But when we tell you that one of the main officials of the Department, whom we contacted on many occasions, said it was strange that he had never met Mr. Fraser, it doesn't appear that he had a very strong connection.

"In fairness to the members of our committee it is correct to say that Mr. Fraser's influence did not have much to do with the establishment of Peterborough's new federal building."

The committee referred to by Senator Duffus was formed in 1937, consisting of three members of city council, three of the Chamber of Commerce, and three of the Peterborough Liberal Association. He said that they received permission to buy the Charlotte St. property to erect a new Dominion public building for post office, csutoms and other services.

Outbreak of the Second World War in 1939 caused postponement of the project, but after the war the Post Office and Public Works Departments were again asked to draw up plans for a larger, more complete federal building. The plans were prepared by the architectural firm of William and W. R. L. Blackwell and Craig, of Peterborough.

ONE OF FINEST

"The departments were most co-operative in every respect," said the Senator, "and nearly three years ago equipment for assisting and schooling postal employees from all over Canada on the most modern methods of handling mail was completed. It will be installed in Peterborough's new public building on Charlotte St. which will be the finest in Canada. This equipment has been stored in Peterborough for some time."

Senator Duffus said his fellow senator, William A. Fraser, one of the new members of the committee, had been most helpful; not only with financing of the federal building, but also with the City Hall and Gannon's Narrows bridge.

"Although our efforts entailed many trips to the departments and the government at Ottawa, eventually they were rewarded by the minister's decision to go ahead with the erection of the federal building on Charlotte St. This handsome building is being constructed by Sullivan and Son, of Arnprior . . . under the supervision of William and W. R. L. Blackwell and Craig, of Peterborough."

Senator Duffus gave a detailed description of a long list of improvements in the riding and district obtained by the Liberal committee, going back as far as 1936. The Senator is a veteran of municipal and federal politics. He was defeated in federal elections of 1926 and 1930, but was elected in 1935. And in 1940 Prime Minister Mackenzie King promoted him to the Senate.

Gordon K. Fraser, the PC candidate, has held the Peterborough seat in the House of Commons for the last 13 years.

IMPROVEMENTS

Here are some of the improvements that Senator Duffus credits the Liberal Committee with obtaining: new mail routes; two docks in South Monaghan township; rebuilt dock at Keene; clearing Indian River of weeds; bridge over the CNR tracks on the 6th line of Otonabee; a grant towards the swing-span at the Chemong causeway; $99,000 toward the Gannon's Narrows causeway; raising of the old road running west from the T.A.S. Park so it wouldn't at any time be under water (done in co-operation with the North Monaghan Council); new school and extensions at Curve Lake; new dams on Squaw River and Eels Creek to serve lumber companies and conserve water; cleaned out the Galway township creek; rebuilt the road from the Lift Lock to the old Norwood Road at a cost of $6,000 and then gave it to the city; renovated and remodelled officers' quarters in the Peterborough Armouries; took soil tests in every part of the county and provided a map of the soils for the use of agriculturists; established a tubercular-free area in Peterborough County for benefit of cattlemen; Class A fair and substantial grants for the expansion of Peterborough Exhibition; arranged with the federal and provincial governments to include an alternate route on the Trans-Canada Highway from Ottawa through Peterborough and Lindsay—later joining up with the Ottawa-North Bay route to Western Canada; riprapped the shore of Little Lake from the McDonald home to Little Lake cemetery; riprapped the shore Point St. Charles and started a park there; built the T-wharf at Crescent St., used by swimmers boats and airplanes.

Both before and after the meeting Senator Duffus renewed old acquaintances with many Harvey residents and with some who had come from Ennismore to hear the Liberal speakers.

Max Swanston, Liberal candidate, said that the St. Laurent government if returned, will continue its present policy of introducing social services, reducing taxes and reducing the national debt.

$2,632,000 PAYMENT

Last year alone, he said, the people of Peterborough County obtained a total of $2,632,000 through three types of social security: $1,389,000 to people of 70 years or more drawing the old age pension without the means test; $106,000 to people between 65 and 70 years who are unable to work but draw a pension after a means test; and $1,137,000 to 7,900 county families eligible for family allowances.

Mr. Swanston said many social services had been passed by the Liberal government over the opposition of the Conservatives, but now that these services are in effect and accepted the Conservatives try to take credit for them and claim they supported them in the first place.

He listed special legislation for veterans, including education for their families; assistance for the blind; a national health plan in co-operation with the provincial and municipal governments; a housing program bigger than that of any other country comparable in size; and a defence program.

Mr. Swanston had a special word for the farmers. He conceded that there was some dissatisfaction with floor prices but said that agriculture is more prosperous now than ever.

"Many new people and industries are moving into Canada," he said. "How is this community going to benefit from this great growth? . . . We must have somebody with a voice in Ottawa so we can take part in that expansion. . . I'm asking your support so that I can carry out your wishes and do the work that has to be done in this riding.

"A government member can do more than a member of the opposition. We've had 13 years of a man sitting in opposition. I think it's time for a change."

Mr. Swanston said that the Conservatives have been charging his party with taking part in a mud-slinging campaign. He said he had a high regard for both his opponents in this election and he wouldn't take part in mud slinging or in "that most vicious campaign of all—the whispering campaign".

He was followed on the platform by Mr. Faux and Mr. Carley. Wolsley Northey, was chairman of the meeting.

8-Year-Old Mare Thorncliffe Winner

TORONTO (CP)—Harvey Fleet, a restaurateur from London, Ont., who has been driving harness horses for 20 years, resisted an impulse two weeks ago to retire his eight-year-old mare Ulawin. Monday Fleet drove her to her first victory in 12 starts this year at Thorncliffe Raceway in a photo finish with Bob Sandford's Jean Volo B., another London entrant.

In the day's feature, an elimination race in which the first four finishers in the fifth and sixth races qualified for the ninth, Monday Morning, owned by B. H. Soper of Smiths Falls, won by a head over Wild Moneric, owned and driven by Allan Doan of Essex.

Walls Ranked Sixth Among Contenders

NEW YORK (CP)—Earl Walls of Edmonton today was ranked sixth among the heavyweight contenders for champion Rocky Marciano's crown by Ring Magazine.

Walls rocketed to contention after his knockout victory last month over Rex Layne of Lewiston, Utah.

Two other Canadians were listed in the lightweight division as contenders for champion Jimmy Carter's title. They were Arthur King of Toronto, ranked No. 5, and Armand Savoie of Montreal, listed as No. 10.

Did Santa Amaro Run Race At Bath Of French Horse?

By WILLIAM J. HUMPHREYS
(Special To The Examiner)

LONDON—If horses could talk even a bit of French in this case Scotland Yard would have a short cut through one of the most sensational race track mysteries ever to grip the undivided attention of this nation of racing enthusiasts.

But Francasal and Santa Amaro, two look-alike two-year-olds from France, are bearing nothing but silent witness in their guarded stable at Epsom. And Britain's famous detectives are sleuthing through the maze of bookmaking parlors in London and Paris for a solution to the case of the 2 p.m. race at Bath.

Hot on the heels of the law is a considerable army of newspaper reporters, confident that Francasal, listed as a 10 to 1 winner at Bath July 16, wasn't the rank outsider Francasal at all but the fleet-of-foot Santa Amaro carrying thousands of pounds put up by a small band of conspirators.

Track winnings are treated as tax free capital gains in this land of punishing levies on incomes and it is understandable why many Britons search industriously for the elusive combination of a sure thing and odds that fatten the pocketbook.

But running ringers is both illegal and unsportsman like and suspicious that this trick has been worked even against the profitable profession of bookmaking has aroused the British horseplayers to a man, if the escutcheon of their sport has been smeared they want it wiped clean.

PRIVATE LINES CUT

The first suggestion that something might be wrong came a few minutes before the race. Bookmakers were receiving surprisingly heavy bets on Francasal in the selling plater race and they tried to take the normal precaution of laying off some of the bets with other bookmakers at the track. This would have reduced their losses and also would have reduced the odds on Francasal as the track bookmakers determine the closing price on which off-track bets are paid. But the London bookmakers found that their private phone line to Bath had been cut.

The original theory that lightning had intervened against their defense move now has been dropped and two men and an acetelyne torch are among the quarries being sought by Scotland Yard; with the bookies hurting out loud and the honor of the ancient recreation at stake the suspense story began to unfold on the front pages where it still is.

First of all there was a high and low search for Francasal whose record of six previous starts in France showed nothing more than what one critic called a third place in a fourth class race. While British police hadn't chased horses much since Dick Turpin's time they succeeded in collaring the missing winner.

Francasal was discovered in a stable near Reading. Under the roof of the same quiet retreat, and looking "very similar" to detectives was Santa Amaro. There was one important difference, however. One thoroughbred wore French shoes and the other the standard racing plates of British tracks.

After an interval during which Scotland Yard expressed hope with characteristic politeness that the owner of the two horses would get in touch with them, Maurice Williams, owner of a London wallpaper business and a man with a great interest in soccer, stepped forward. He is said to be the registered owner of both Francasal and Santa Amaro and gives an air of being somewhat surprised at all the excitement.

After making a statement to police he authorized his attorney to tell the press that his principal interest in the racing mystery is £3,500 ($9,800) in bets with which he expressed his confidence in Francasal. He was sure the bookies would honor their part of the contract. But the clerk of the court at Bath already had dented that hope by announcing "Francasal is not the winner."

Furthermore, Scotland Yard is still following clues in Paris and the suburban racing centre of Maisons Lafitte where the two horses appear to have been purchased for racing in England. International complications already have prompted published reports that a sinister sounding Mr. "AAA" is the real target of the police investigation.

He is described as a man of both the upper and underworlds. He is said to mix freely with the international set on the Riviera and to have supplied "information" not otherwise specified to iron curtain countries. Whatever horse it was that ran at Bath seems to have blazed a trail nearly as exciting as the thrill of being steered on to a winner with long odds.

Frost To Unveil Monument To Commemorate Simcoe

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—A monument to be unveiled here July 29 by Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario will commemorate the work of John Graves Simcoe in establishing constitutional government in what is now the province of Ontario.

One face of the monument, sculptured by Elizabeth Wyn Wood of Toronto, shows Simcoe in uniform as first lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada. With him in a long dress fashionable at the end of the 18th century is his wife, who helped him introduce social graces to the frontier settlements.

The other side of the monument, which stands in the town where in 1792 Simcoe convened the first Parliament held in the province, bears an inscription which says in part: "His genius foresaw the greatness of this country and he threw himself into its building with ardor and enthusiasm."

BUILDING STILL STANDS

Simcoe opened the Parliament with a ceremony at the governor's residence, a building still standing on the Niagara river. Soldiers of the garrison smartly turned out in bright scarlet tunics formed a guard of honor for the 40-year-old governor. Salutes boomed from the guns of Fort Niagara and from those of sloops in the harbor.

To United Empire Loyalist and British settlers alike the ceremony symbolized all they had fought for in the recent American revolutionary war.

The governor's new capital consisted of only two houses and some soldiers' barracks in a small clearing hacked from the wilderness.

Prince Edward, father of Queen Victoria, visited the colony in 1792 and was impressed as visitors today by Niagara Falls, then surrounded by unbroken bush.

Simcoe made many exploratory trips to study the country and its people. He travelled by snowshoe and canoe to obtain first hand knowledge which helped him develop transportation and communication.

Typical of Simcoe's far-sighted plans was the enthusiastic proposal shortly after his arrival for the establishment of a university in Upper Canada.

FAST PROGRESS

When Simcoe as recalled in 1796 the population of Upper Canada had increased to 25,000 from the 10,000 of only five years before. Agriculture had made great progress and schools and churches were established.

In 1813 Niagara-on-the-Lake was captured and burned by American forces and only a few signs remain of the colony that Simcoe knew.

The building in which Parliament met remained. Old Fort George which Simcoe ordered built after Fort Niagara was turned over to the United States is still a landmark. So is the 700-year-old "Treaty Oak" where Chief Joseph Brant and his Indians met in council in 1778.

Another famous oak under which Parliament is said to have met one hot day in August 1793 has disappeared but its place is marked by modern Parliament Oak School.

Now a garden-like town of 2,400 people, Niagara-on-the-Lake still keeps alive the governor's name with Simcoe park and Simcoe street. But his greatest memorial is the system of constitutional government he established.

Soccer Players Win Minor Pay Concessions

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's professional soccer players won some minor wage concessions Monday that did little to end their grievances over pay.

An industrial disputes tribunal authorized that the maximum weekly salary for top-flight players be raised from $39.20 to $42 a week for the playing season that runs from late August to early May.

The players' union, which represents some 3,000 professionals, some of them national idols, had asked abolition of the maximum or alternatively a flat rate of $2,800 a year.

The tribunal softened the blow by raising between-season salaries from $28 to $33.60 a week. But the new rates are not mandatory and many of the 110 professional league clubs will go on paying the minimum of $21 a week in the playing season and $15.60 in the summer.

GOING HOME—Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, and his wife, wave to friends before leaving Boston late Saturday for an air journey to the United Kingdom. Mr. Eden, who travelled to the United States seven weeks ago for a bile duct operation, appeared pale and wan as he told reporters, "I have nothing to complain about if my condition goes like this."

Koreans Serve In Front Line With Canadian Brigade

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—One in every three front-line soldiers with the Canadian brigade is a Korean who doesn't speak French or English.

Last March 300 Republic of Korea Army soldiers were attached to the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade and parcelled out among the infantry battalions, 100 to each. There are 1,000 Katcoms—Korean Army troops attached to the Commonwealth Division.

The instructions said they were to be used as soldiers, not as houseboys, batmen, porters, drivers or in other miscellaneous capacity.

Superficially the proportion of 100 Koreans to 922 Canadians looks minor enough but today's armies have more "men behind the men behind the gun" than is commonly supposed.

BATTALION STRENGTH

A Canadian battalion at full strength has less than 400 full-time fighting men. So the proportion of Katcoms to fighting Canadians today is one in three (sometimes one in four).

It seems to this reporter, after a five-week study, that they are esteemed exactly in proportion to the effort the units have taken to overcome the language factor, and to the patience they have invested in teaching them what is wanted.

Today the Princess Patricias are sold on them. The Royal Canadian Regiment reserves judgment. And the Royal 22nd Regiment doesn't care for them.

Brigade Commander Jean Allard says "they are good little soldiers but a team of eight Canadians and three Koreans who don't speak the Canadians' language will never be as efficient as one of 11 able to understand one another thoroughly."

LACK INFORMATION

The blunt fact is that nobody in the brigade seems to have been told the purpose of the attachment. They haven't regarded the Koreans as a permanent part of the brigade, but rather as men attached temporarily to further their training.

Maj. Gen. Gilman C. Mudgett, chief of planning for the Far East Command, told The Canadian Press that the idea was to obtain maximum use from equipment in a theatre by using Korean Army troops to "beef up" its non-Korean divisions.

There are approximately 20,000 such soldiers, called "Katusa soldiers," meaning "Korean Augmentation Troops United States Army," throughout other formations in the Eighth Army.

The Korean Army isn't keen on having Katcoms back because it considers them "spoiled" by foreign discipline and foreign rations.

The Patricias appear to have invested more trouble and patience than most in assimilating their Katcoms. The Patricias like them as soldiers, the Katcoms like being with the Patricias.

LANGUAGE FACTOR

But, as one major said: "Although we like them, language is such a factor that nobody is screaming 'let's have thousands more.'"

At the soldier level Katcoms and Canadians get along fine in both the Patricias and the RCR. With the Van Doos—most of whom don't understand what little English some Katcoms have picked up—the problem is even more complicated and not working out happily.

Capt. Roger Giguere of Montreal, second-in-command of A company, said that his men lacked confidence in their Katcoms and were always "looking over their shoulders to see whether they're still there."

The Koreans are "buddied up" with Canadian soldiers, each operating with a particular Canadian, whose bunker he shares and with whom he stands guard or goes out on patrol.

Katcoms competed for the RCR, wearing RCR colors, in the brigade's July 1 sports meet, and in a battalion cross-country run for which battalion scarves were given as prizes to the first 10 in, four of the 20 went to Katcoms. A Korean just nosed the colonel out of a scarf.

COURAGEOUS SOLDIERS

And in action the little Koreans have shown that they can take it.

During the RCR's May 2 battle when a platoon position was overrun and briefly held by the Chinese, five of them were killed, 14 were wounded and three were listed as missing. They are not considered to have been captured.

Men like Sgt. Albert Rajotte of Hornepayne, Ont., say: "All mine were good—we were shelled all that night and yet they were steady and stayed on in the weapon pits."

And over with the Patricias, who also took a lot of shelling that night, Pte. Hong Jung Sun, a 20-year-old Katcom, dragged in two Canadian casualties, then held a burning candle steady, its molten wax pouring onto his hand, while their wounds were dressed in a bunker.

BUDDIES SHARE RATIONS — Each Korean soldier attached to the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade is "buddied up" with a Canadian soldier, shares his meals and goes into action beside him. Here, Pte. Donald Hicks, 26, of Ottawa, and Pte. Hung Jung Sun, 20, Su-Won, share a laugh over their chow.

TRY NEW WEAPON—Koreans serving with the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade in Korea learn to use new weapons as part of their training. L.-Cpl. Thomas Ashley, of Toronto, shows Pte. Kim Ki Suk, 26, of Taejon, how to handle the Patchett 9mm. machine carbine.

DEATH FROM THE SKY—A crop dusting plane flown by Ken Medders, of San Benito, Tex., lies on its back after crashing in a cotton field in Harlingen, Tex. The plane struck a truck loaded with 35 cotton pickers, killing four and injuring 15. An ambulance attendant searches for belongings of the victims. Medders was not seriously injured.

Doctors Believe Baldness Sign Of Virility

LONDON (Reuters)—The British medical profession today offered some consolation to men who are losing their hair—there is new evidence that baldness and virility go hand in hand.

The magazine Family Doctor, published by the British Medical Association, stepped into a current London newspaper controversy over what makes men bald and what they should do about it.

It made these points:

1. There is no cure for ordinary baldness.
2. There is little hope there ever will be a cure.
3. There is reason to believe that bald men are more likely to be virile than those who keep their hair.

The magazine article told of research carried out in the anatomy department of the Starr medical centre in New York where thick-thatched men known to be lacking in male sex hormones immediately develop first signs of baldness after getting gland treatments.

Conciliation Board Suggestion Rejected

TORONTO (CP)—A 2,000-member meeting of the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union (AFL-TLC) Monday rejected a conciliation board wage recommendation and told its negotiating committee to seek a better offer from employers.

The executive has been empowered to call a strike, which would tie up a large part of metropolitan Toronto's building program, if a better offer is not forthcoming.

The conciliation report recommended a seven-cent increase over the present $2.15 hourly rate. The union originally sought 35 cents but pared its demands to 18 cents during the board's hearings.

Ice Tongs Land Fish

NORTH BAY (CP)—Two Pennsylvania fishermen landed a 48-pound muskie on Lake Nipissing with a pair of ice tongs. Woodrow Park of Bradford, Pa., hooked the fish Friday night. He had no gaff or net to lift the lunker into the boat, so a fishing companion, Don Place, also of Bradford, struck the ice tongs through the fish's gills and heaved it in. The fish was 53 inches long.

Flames leaped 30 feet in the air when the fire broke through the gabled roof of the one-storey cement block building and dense smoke covered a large area. Firemen kept the flames from spreading to nearby houses and a lumber yard.

About 12 employees in the plant at the time of the explosion were driven out by the heat. None was injured.

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier announced Monday night that Canada has concluded a bilateral air agreement with Mexico which provides for the opening of Mexican and Canadian air services between Eastern and Western Canada and Mexico City.

The agreement provides for establishment of routes to be operated by Canadian airlines from Vancouver to Mexico City and onward to Lima, Peru, and Sao Paulo, Brazil and from Montreal or Toronto to Mexico City, possibly via Tampa, Fla., and Monterey, Mexico.

Mr. Chevrier said in a statement that the route from Vancouver will be operated by Canadian Pacific Airlines and the route from Toronto or Montreal by Trans-Canada Air Lines.

The agreement also authorizes operation of a Mexican airline from Mexico to Vancouver and onward to points in the north Pacific. A Mexican airline also is authorized to operate from Mexico to Toronto and Montreal.

Mr. Chevrier said it is hoped both Canadian services will be in operation by the end of 1953.

REDS ARRESTING BERLIN FOOD MOBS

Still Unable To Check Big Crowds

Dense Throngs Wait Their Turn For Western Parcels

BERLIN (AP)— Communist police arrested scores of East Germans who accepted gifts of Western food today but they failed to check the hungry throngs surging through the Iron Curtain.

Those arrested were released a short time later. Their food was not confiscated but in many cases identity cards—vital in the East zone—were taken away.

The biggest crowds yet jammed West Berlin's food relief centres on the third day of the big American-financed relief program which has put the spotlight on food shortages in the restive Soviet occupation zone.

The Communists also harassed but did not halt the movement of food to West Berlin by truck. Other food arrived by plane.

Officials estimated 150,000 food packages would be given away today in addition to the 250,000 already handed out in the first two days.

The first truckload of American food crossed the Soviet zone and finally reached West Berlin after Communist border guards delayed it at both ends of the isolated city's highway link to the West.

The truck, bringing 20 tons of food from the U.S. freighter American Inventor, entered the American sector of West Berlin 20 minutes after German truck drivers had reported Communist police were unloading it and apparently confiscating its contents.

The truck had been halted first—for 2½ hours—at the Soviet zone border 100 miles west of Berlin. After a thorough check by the Communist guards, it was permitted to pass.

Its second delay for checking occurred at Babelsberg, just outside the western sector, where all vehicles coming through the Soviet zone are examined before they are permitted into West Berlin.

FIRST DELIVERY

The food was the first delivery of a $15,000,000 stock being sent by the United States to replenish West Berlin's emergency food

Has Busy Day

NEWMARKET —(CP)— Police speed traps brought motorists to court in droves Tuesday and kept Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake on the bench for six hours. More than 200 traffic cases were on the docket.

St. Laurent Stressing Security First

ST. THOMAS — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent has pitched his latest appeal for Ontario's vote on a "security first" theme.

In contrast to the Progressive Conservative promise to reduce defence expenditures by 10 per cent or $250,000,000 a year, he maintained that Canada is not yet strong enough to make drastic reductions in defence spending without endangering her military power.

He kept hammering home at that argument Tuesday, in a whirlwind tour of six southwestern Ontario centres: Norwich, Tillsonburg, Aylmer, St. Thomas, St. Mary's and Stratford.

Today he swings to the Niagara peninsula, visiting Dunnville, Welland and St. Catharines.

NO IMMEDIATE DROP

"Don't look to us for any 10-percent reduction immediately," he told an outdoor gathering of about 700 persons at the St. Thomas park Tuesday. Canada would be "betraying" her allies if she made such a cut at a time when she expected them to continue their defence build-up and they expected Canada to continue hers.

"We are not going to stop building up our strength under the North Atlantic alliance and we are not going to consent to have our associates stop building up their strength until we have something better than a (Korean) truce," he said.

St. Thomas gave him a bang-up welcome: the freedom of the city and—through Liberal party organization—a parade through four miles of streets, complete with four bands, floats and drum majorettes, the youngest four years old. They marched under a hot sun, while the prime minister waved to the spectators from the back of an open convertible.

ATTENDS FESTIVAL

He took Tuesday night off to attend the Shakespearian festival at Stratford. At all points he maintains his homespun approach to the electors; shaking hands with many of them; talking to the youngsters; kissing a few of them;

Hold 5 Airmen As $4,500 Missing At Lachine

MONTREAL (CP)—Five airmen employed in the accounting department of the RCAF station at suburban Lachine have been taken into custody for misappropriating $4,500. This official announcement came Tuesday night from RCAF headquarters in Ottawa, but reports here had the amount involved as high as $20,000. Air force officials here had little to say. Wing Cmdr. E. R. Johnston, officer commanding the station at Lachine, although admitting an irregularity, said he did not wish to make any comment at this stage.

BOARD APPOINTED

Air Commodore A. C. Ripley, commanding officer of the air transport command, said a board of inquiry has been appointed, but he would not name the members.

Officials would not say how long the payroll padding system had been going on.

The official statement said:

"A routine audit at the RCAF station at Lachine has brought to light irregularity in the financial accounting system.

"Five airmen have been placed in custody pending completion of an investigation ordered by air force authorities.

"Investigation to date shows that approximately $4,500 has been misappropriated, a large part of which has been recovered. Names of the personnel involved will not be released until charges have been laid."

EXPLAINS SYSTEM

Meanwhile, the Gazette says in a front-page story that an anonymous caller who said he worked in the accounting office of the Lachine station disclosed what was going on.

The informant, who claimed at least $20,000 had been embezzled, said the system worked this way:

"One of the five airmen found a loophole in the apparently foolproof air force accounting system.

"The air force did away with the individual pay book accounting system and started a new sheet system.

"All they did was up the amount of each man's pay cheque. At the end of the day they would make up a half dozen or so extra cheques.

"These were made out in the names of fictitious wing commanders or air commodores. The officer in charge would not notice these additional cheques in the course of signing several thousand others."

"PECULIAR DEAL"

One transport command official termed the case a "most peculiar deal" and one that might not have been spotted but for a twinge of conscience of one of the airmen.

Coldwell Sees Discrimination In Tax Laws

CALGARY (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, contends the taxation laws of the federal Liberal government are discriminatory.

At a Calgary public meeting Tuesday night, he also criticized the Progressive Conservatives and Social Credit.

Mr. Coldwell, who continues his Aug. 10 federal election campaign with a speech Wednesday night at Cranbrook, B.C., said Dominion taxation places the heaviest burden on the lower income groups through levies on essential consumer goods.

The sales tax in particular imposed a heavy burden on the customer. It was imposed at the manufacturer's level and was compounded by two or three mark-ups on the cost of the goods and the tax itself

CLINGS TO SYSTEM

Britain, the United States and Australia were among countries which had largely abandoned the indirect tax, but Canada, under a Liberal government, continued to cling to "this discriminating and unfair taxing system."

The last federal budget had cut direct taxes by $197,000,000 with the biggest reductions being given to corporations. But indirect taxes had been cut by only $40,000,000.

Mr. Coldwell said the promise of Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, to cut taxes by $500,000,000 was "as dishonest as when William Aberhart (former Social Credit leader) promised to give everyone in this province $25 a month and to open the gate of Heaven for them."

The CCF leader said he suspects that if the Progressive Conservatives were in a position to cut taxes, they would give the reductions to the "vested interests" from which they draw their main strength.

Social Credit was the "freak of Canadian political movements" and one, he said, containing the seeds of totalitarian ideas of Hitler and Mussolini.

Tougher Trade Policy Drew Promises

HAMILTON (CP)—A "tougher" trade policy with the United States is promised if the Progressive Conservatives win the federal election Aug. 10.

Hon. George Drew, the party's leader, told a meeting here Tuesday night on his final swing through populous southern Ontario that the United States accepts Canadian products only when it finds this convenient.

"I do not intend to deal with the United States except on terms of equality," he declared before an audience of 1,100.

The Liberal government was not taking stern enough measures to meet recent barriers against Canadian imports put up by the American government. It was "strange" that the Canadian government "does nothing" about U.S. restraints on the entry of farm products from this country and also "does nothing" about textiles coming into Canada from the U.S. American firms were dumping textiles into Canada at "far below" cost of production.

WOULD MAKE CHANGE

A Progressive Conservative government would change this. "We will not disregard any attitude of theirs (the U.S.) that does not deal with us on equal terms," Mr. Drew said.

Among the crowd in the high school auditorium where the PC leader spoke were many farmers who live in the rich farmlands near this industrial city.

Mr. Drew charged that Canada has been suffering because of a "neglect" of the Liberal government to keep open Canada's markets.

The attitude of Agriculture Minister Gardiner was: "Why bother about the British market?" A Progressive Conservative government would aim more for this market.

Earlier in the day he attended a picnic near Niagara Falls where he said the recent action of the U.S. government in reducing military appropriations supports his proposal that taxes in Canada can be cut by $500,000,000 a year.

ON TO WELLAND

Then he went on to Welland where he promised a group of school children "to bring government back to the people and get it away from the petty Czars." He

Charge 8 Allied Violations

MUNSAN (AP)—The Communists today charged the Allies with eight violations of the Korean armistice—allegations promptly labelled by the Allies as minor and lacking information. The Reds made the charges at today's second meeting of the joint Korean armistice commission. They asserted three aircraft flew over the demilitarized buffer zone, and that four artillery rounds and one burst of machine-gun bullets were fired after the cease-fire became effective.

U.S. Maj.-Gen. Blackhear M. Bryan, chief Allied commissioner, disclosed after today's one-hour, 22-minute meeting that the charges were lodged by his Communist counterpart, North Korean Lt.-Gen. Lee Sang Cho. The commission recessed until 11 a.m. Thursday (10 p.m. EDT today).

"We were accused this morning," Bryan said. "These were allegations, broad and general, and nothing serious. None have been substantiated."

He added that he had "asked for additional information on which to base further action."

Bryan disclosed also that he had asked that the huge exchange of war prisoners begin Sunday, rather than Aug. 5 as agreed upon Tuesday, but that the Reds could not advance the date.

More than 86,000 prisoners are to be exchanged through Panmunjom within 60 days. About 22,000 North Koreans and Chinese refusing to return to Red rule will be brought to camps within the buffer zone and their fate decided later.

Bryan said the joint truce observer teams which will police the 2½-mile wide buffer zone across Korea's scarred waist "probably will start work Thursday morning."

Armies of each side are withdrawing 1¼ miles on each side of the cease-fire line to create the zone. The withdrawal must be completed by 10 p.m. Thursday.

Reports from the front indicated the withdrawal was proceeding smoothly. Great Allied military caravans churned up dust from the front to rear areas carrying troops, equipment and supplies.

On the western front, Chinese were seen loading a mule train north of the once hotly-contested Bunker hill sector.

Police Leave Gaspe Bush, Relatives Take Skeletons

GASPE, Que. (CP)—Capt. J. A. Matte, who has directed investigation into the mysterious slaying of three American bear-hunters, left today with several other provincial police officers for Quebec where he will report to the attorney-general's department. Capt. Matte, who expressed satisfaction with results of the search carried out in the bush where the remains of the Americans were found, is expected to confer first with Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard.

He did not indicate what his next plans are or whether he thinks there is a possibility of his returning to Gaspe.

Meanwhile, relatives of the slain hunters planned to take the skeleton remains back to Pennsylvania for burial

Police decided not to release the hunters' belongings after a coroner's jury ruled that two of the men, 17-year-old Richard Lindsey of Hollidaysburg, Pa., and 20-year-old Fred Claar of East Freedom, Pa., were "murdered by gunshot wounds at the hands of a person or persons unknown."

The jury found that the leader of the party, Richard Lindsey's 45-year-old father, Eugene H. Lindsey, died of "unknown causes."

The three men left Gaspe June 9 on a bear-hunting expedition. They were last reported seen alive June 10 by prospector Wilbert Coffin who helped them secure a spare part for their truck.

Tuesday, Captain J. A. Matte, head of the provincial police team who led the search for the hunters, announced that searchers had found a brown wallet, identified by papers in it as belonging to Eugene Lindsey.

Capt. Matte said there was no money in the wallet, although Lindsey was reported to have been carrying some $700 when he went into the bush.

He said the wallet was found, ripped open along the fold, on the banks of a small stream not far from where Lindsey's body was discovered two weeks ago.

Police Tuesday night said nothing new had been found since the wallet was discovered Monday. The searchers now are being withdrawn from the rugged bush area they said.

The provincial police team is understood to be looking for two unknown Americans who prospector Wilbert Coffin said in evidence at the inquest Monday night were with Lindsey's party when he last saw them

Steal $4,000 Worth Of Wire

TORONTO (CP) — North York police said today more than $4,000 worth of copper wire was stolen by construction workers from an RCAF warehouse being built at nearby Downsview.

Police said no charges will be laid because they were not called into the case until it was too late to get evidence against the thieves. They said the two men involved were construction company workers who have since been fired.

No air force personnel were involved, police said.

Skirts Slashed In Style War Dior Gowns Below Knee

PARIS (AP)—The first shots were being fired today in the style war over the length of milady's skirts. Anxious husbands, whose pocketbooks will be among the first casualties, watched from the sidelines.

Christian Dior, the father of the New Look, started it Tuesday by decreeing that from now on the skirt must end just below the knee. This reverses the trend set by Dior in 1947, when he covered most of the calf.

Norman Hartnell, the dressmaker to the Queen, was quick to take up the challenge. He told newspapermen in London: "The hem stays where it is. Calf length is the most graceful for a woman's skirts—anything shorter is ugly."

Hartnell designed the Coronation gown. But London courtiers aren't traditional followers of Paris stylists, and there was an indication Dior's trend would be followed by others in Paris.

NOT ATTRACTIVE

At the showing of the Jean Desses collection here this morning skirts were up from the floor but not as much as the barely-below-the-knee length which astonished those attending the Dior showing Tuesday.

Desses had a new guitar silhouette with wide sloped shoulders, pinched waist and high wide hips. Fashion reporters said it wasn't too attractive.

The newest Dior clothes bear so little resemblance to those women are currently wearing that old wardrobes will have to be thrown out if the new style succeeds.

Lopping off your skirts won't be enough. There's a whole new cut that drapes the waistline loosely between the top of the hips and the bottom of the bust.

"LIVE LINE"

The designer's own name for his 1953 creation is the "Live Line." His two new silhouettes he calls "Eiffel Tower" and "Cupola." One is skimpily slim, the other bell-skirted.

In a fashion season which began quietly with few changes in last season's length (12 or 13 inches from the floor) or general lines, Dior's opening came like a thunderclap.

For the first time in many seasons, the legs come into their own, and a lady is permitted to show her calves The new length looks to be about 16 or 17 inches from the floor. To tall women, fat women and bow-legged women, it's a catastrophe.

Armies Pulling Back Smoothly

SEOUL (AP)—The withdrawal of two mighty armies from the Korean demilitarized zone continued smoothly today as the Thursday night deadline approached.

Enemies a few days ago, Allied and Communist troops worked within shouting distance of each other, salvaging material and wrecking fortifications that took months to build.

Although Allied troops were warned by the 8th army against fraternization with the Reds, there were reports of friendly contacts all along the war-shattered front.

Under terms of the armistice signed Monday, both sides are to have pulled back 1¼ miles each from the truce line by 10 p. m. Thursday (9 a. m. EDT)—three days after the cease-fire.

"It took us two years to build this line," one American officer remarked. "Now we've got to tear down in 72 hours millions of dollars of fortifications."

Allied forces were under orders to salvage all possible equipment from the intricate system of fortifications strung across the 150-mile line.

One of the toughest tasks was to remove 12-inch beams used in bunkers. All efforts were extended to salvage the lumber, scarce in this country.

The Reds' job of pulling back was less complicated.

French Troops Fear Rebels Escape Trap

SAIGON, Indo-China (Reuters)—French troops today feared that two Vietminh Communist battalions, encircled northwest of the port of Hue, may have slipped through their trap.

It was reported here that the 10,000 French troops taking part in "Operation Carmargue" had closed in around the Vietminh area until only a six-square-mile pocket remained unoccupied.

The operation, in which air, land, and sea forces combined, was planned specifically to wipe out two battalions which had previously eluded all French thrusts.

The French command tonight thought the Communist rebels might have slipped through the closing trap man by man or in small units. But the French were still ready for a mass breakout attempt in case the Vietminh were concentrated in the remaining unoccupied area.

Earlier in the operation, the guerrilla fighters had put up desperate defence against the advancing French, who had to fight their way into each village. But as the encircling troops squeezed in on the centre of the target area, the resistance fell off.

First Acclamation In General Election

OTTAWA (CP)—Lionel Bertrand, Liberal candidate in Terrebonne, Que., was today declared elected by acclamation when his only rival for the general election of Aug. 10, Philippe Beauchamp, Progressive Conservative, formally withdrew.

Announcement of the first acclamation in a general federal election since 1930 was made by the returning officer for Terrebonne to Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer for Canada.

Mr. Bertrand was first elected to the House of Commons in 1940, resigned to enter provincial politics in 1944, returned to the House of Commons in 1945 and was re-elected in 1949. He is 47-years-old and a weekly newspaer publisher.

No reason for the Beauchamp withdrawal was given in the notification received by Mr. Castonguay.

Williams Signs Sox Contract

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams arrived at the scene of many of his glorious baseball moments today and within a few minutes had signed a contract to play for the Boston Red Sox the remainder of the 1953 season and the 1954 American League campaign.

The famous slugger drove up from New York alone and arrived at Fenway Park at noon, about 27 hours after he was released in Washington from active duty as captain in the Marine corps air service.

His pay, as usual, was not disclosed.

"That's a military secret," grinned happy Joe Cronin, Sox general manager.

The signing took less than five minutes as Williams huddled with Cronin and Tom Yawkey, owner of the Boston club which currently is in third place in the league.

Report Churchill Near End Of Career

LONDON (AP)—A high government leader said today that Prime Minister Churchill is nearing the end of his political career.

Churchill, 78, became exhausted from the burden of his duties a month ago and has been resting since under doctors' orders.

The same informant strongly hinted that Anthony Eden, now recuperating from three operations, will fill some post other than that of foreign secretary when he returns to duty this fall.

Without elaboration the informant said he did not know what Eden would be doing but he would be "in a very important post."

The immediate guess was that Eden, as deputy prime minister, will relieve Churchill of some of the details of the latter's office and that someone else will be named foreign secretary.

CCF Candidate Faces Charge

TIMMINS (CP)—Ontario provincial police said today they have charged Arnold Peters, CCF candidate for Timmins in the Aug. 10 federal election, with common assault in connection with clashes between strikers and workers at Broulan Reef gold mines last Friday.

Peters, also vice-president of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) area council here and president of a union local, was among seven men charged this morning. Twenty-one persons now have been charged as a result of the fight They will appear in court here Tuesday.

Britain Still Wants Talks With Russia

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's top deputies told Parliament today Britain still wants high-level four-power talks with Russia. They denied this conflicts with United States administration views.

Addressing the House of Commons on behalf of the ailing Churchill, acting prime minister Richard A. Butler said "we have achieved unity of aim and policy on behalf of the three Western governments supported by the NATO governments and Western Germany."

He said Britain, France and the United States had invited the Soviet government to a foreign ministers' conference on German unity and an Austrian treaty and a reply is being awaited.

"In any case," he said, "the possibility of high-level conference is not excluded and would be welcomed by the British government."

Taft Somewhat Improved As Family Reaches Side

NEW YORK (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft was reported "somewhat improved" today.

New York hospital issued a bulletin in mid-morning saying the Ohio Republican had a restful night and was comfortable.

He has been in the hospital since early this month suffering from an unspecified hip ailment.

Tuesday, the hospital said Taft's condition had taken a turn for the worse.

This morning's bulletin read:

"Senator Taft had a more restful night. This morning at 8:30 he requested breakfast and ate it with relish. He is having no pain and his condition is somewhat improvd."

FAMILY GATHERS

Taft's family was gathering here after the previous reports that his condition had deteriorated.

Tuesday was the first day of serious reports on the 63-year-old Ohio Republican, who has been at the hospital for several weeks.

Besides Mrs. Taft, the senator was visited by two of their sons, Lloyd and Robert Jr., Tuesday.

Mrs. Taft was flown here from Washington. She suffered a stroke some time ago and now gets around in a wheel chair.

Taft's sudden turn for the worse stirred speculation in Washington concerning changes in the national political scene if his illness should force him out of the Senate permanently.

It could mean that the Democrats, although reported reluctant to do so at present, would wind up in control of the Senate Governor Frank J. Lausche of Ohio is a Democrat and would be considered likely to name a Democrat to fill the spot. This would shift a Republican majority of one to a Democratic majority of one.

Hospital bulletins so far have given no clue to Taft's ailment.

May Allow PoW To Stay In Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Franz Jenisch, German merchant seaman who escaped custody as a prisoner-of-war in 1946 and was re-arrested in Hamilton Tuesday, may be allowed to stay in Canada, it was indicated here today.

Officials said nothing definite has been decided, but there would be precedents for granting Jenisch permission to stay. The 45-year-old man has been working in a Hamilton machine shop since 1947 and told RCMP officers he would like to continue living in this country.

The RCMP is turning him over to the army. Normal army regulations provide that Jenisch would be shipped back to the British authorities, since it was the British who captured him and Canada held him prisoner on their behalf.

However, it was indicated the army will give Jenisch a chance to apply to the immigration department for permission to remain in Canada. The immigration department would deal with the case on its merits.

3 Officers Facing Court Martial

Flying From Korea After Destroyer Huron Goes Aground

OTTAWA (CP)—Three Canadian naval officers are being flown home from Korea to face a court martial arising out of the grounding of the destroyer Huron off the east coast of North Korea July 12.

Naval headquarters here announced Tuesday the three are Cmdr. R. C. Chenoweth of Montreal, the Huron's commanding officer, Lt.-Cmdr. T. J. C. Thomas of Dartmouth, N.S., and Lieut. G. H. Emerson of Bathurst, N.B.

The navy described the court martial as a "routine procedure following incidents of this nature."

The Huron tore aground on an Allied-held island in thick fog while on patrol off North Korea's east coast. She was refloated without aid at high tide and made base at Sasebo, Japan, under her own power.

ONLY SERIOUS ACCIDENT

It was the only serious accident to any Canadian destroyer in more than three years of action in Korean waters, excluding the Communist shore battery hit on the Iroquois, which killed three men and wounded three others. Eight Canadian destroyers have served in Korea

The Huron, holed below the waterline, will be in drydock another two months, the navy said.

The navy said it does not yet know when the three officers will arrive in Canada or exact nature of the charges against them. The court martial will be held at HMCS Stadacona, the navy's Halifax shore base.

Date of the court martial will be fixed after the officers, witnesses and evidence taken at a court of inquiry in Japan arrive in Canada. Four other officers and six ratings are also being flown home as witnesses.

87 Van Doos Suffer Poisoning From Food

By BILL BOS

SEOUL (CP)—Canadian brigade headquarters said Tuesday that 87 members of the Royal 22nd Regiment suffered food poisoning just before the Korean cease-fire became effective.

All but 25 Van Doos and three Koreans serving with the regiment —were back on duty today.

The army said the outbreak, attributed to contaminated ham served at evening meal Monday, was the first occurrence of gastro-enteritis in the brigade.

Actually, the 59th field squadron of engineers had a case of poisoning last week when sappers drank insufficiently - chlorinated water. Only one man was still in hospital.

Reject New Proposal For German Unity

BONN (AP)—The West German government today rejected a new proposal by East German Premier Otto Grotewohl for East and West German officials to draft an election law to unify their country.

"We are not prepared to enter into negotiations with a government which, as has been clear to the whole world since the June 17 riots, is not authorized to represent the interests of the population of the Soviet zone," a government spokesman said.

"Negotiations such as are proposed by Grotewohl have repeatedly been rejected by the (West German) federal government and the Bundestag (lower house of Parliament)."

The spokesman said the Bonn government takes the view that decisions on all-German elections can be made only by the four great powers—Britain, Russia, the U.S. and France.

stocks now being depleted by free distributions to hungry East Germans.

The Soviet zone radio began broadcasting hourly names and addresses of East German food recipients. It charged they were being recruited as future agents by western espionage experts.

The intent of the radio name-calling was clear—to warn East Germans they risk arrest as western agents if they persist in coming to the West for aid.

ON MASSIVE SCALE

But the trek of the hungry continued on a massive scale. Long lines again formed at the 40 West Berlin food distribution points before dawn, in preparation for the 8 a. m. opening.

"It is a revolt against communism as big and as startling as the June 17 riots," one West Berlin official commented.

Western police said a Communist attempt to incite West Berlin jobless to riot against the give-away food program for eastern needy was doomed to failure.

Some Red agents scattered leaflets late Tuesday in front of West Berlin labor offices with phony instructions for the West Berlin unemployed to show up for free food today at points which have been supplying the easterners.

Police said the relief program was so well known in West Berlin that few, if any, of the unemployed could be tricked into vainly going to the food distribution points.

Eyewitnesses reported that two East German women with western food were arrested by Communist police at a railway station in the Soviet sector. They also said some Communist police border detachments in the city have been strengthened, possibly looking towards wholesale confiscation of the free food.

PURGE WIDENS

A vast widening in the purge of the rebellion-besct Communist party in East Germany was reported today by the West Berlin press.

The Socialist newspaper Telegraf, reported that 200 special commissions have been set up to investigate the conduct of all party members during the June rebellion.

Another West Berlin paper, Der Tag, reported that 30 high officials in the secret police have been arrested since that group's chief, Wilhelm Zaisser, was kicked out of his job last week. The paper added that one secret police official in Erfurt committed suicide to avoid arrest.

The Communist press published for the first time an address last weekend by East German Premier Otto Grotewohl in which he backhandedly revealed the great extent of the June riots, in which hundreds were killed and thousands arrested.

Denying the majority of the East Germans rose against his government, Grotewohl insisted "only" 272 communities were in revolt.

Grotewonl ominously warned that "our defences against internal and external enemies will be increased," a statement that was taken by some Western observers to mean that the 100,000 secret police and the 125,000-man Communist "People's Army" are going to be enlarged.

and speaking of the need for more immigrants and more population, but at the same time emphasizing that Canada needs more home-grown babies to maintain Canada's character.

But defence is the main subject. The Korean truce, he said at Tillsonburg, may help Canada save some money—through reduced use of ammunition, aircraft and guns.

But the free world had not yet reached the point where it could "stop the Communists dead in their tracks." It had to "keep going" in its defence build-up. That was the most effective way of stopping aggression.

At Aylmer and at other centres Mr. St. Laurent urged Canadians to vote on Aug. 10—to vote for the person they felt would best maintain Canada's political institutions.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a discount of one per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 98 31-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.78¼, unchanged.

Truck Burns In Accident

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A new truck burned and two cars were heavily damaged in an accident on the Queen Elizabeth Way one mile east of the Welland Canal late Tuesday.

Cars driven by Sidney Kerr and Arnold Condie, both of Mattawa, were returning from the Jehovah's Witnesses rally in New York. They had pulled onto the shoulder of the road and stopped to exchange some baggae when a Whyte Packing Company truck from Stratford, driven by Carl Doerr, crashed into the Condie car and drove it ahead into the other one.

The truck, after going about 50 yards, caught fire and was destroyed. Doerr managed to get out without injury and none of the 10 persons in the two cars was injured.

"I don't know what happened," Doerr said. "I just had no control over the truck."

was referring to his promise to reverse the trend of centralization of taxing power at Ottawa.

His Niagara speech, made within sight of the cataract, was in support of Winnifred Stokes, a newspaper woman who is PC candidate in the new riding of Niagara Falls.

Mr. Drew said the Progressive Conservatives welcome women in politics. There was one reason why he hoped that the party's women candidates would win seats Aug. 10: "There is no place in the whole of Canada that needs a house-cleaning as does the House of Commons at this time."

At Hamilton, Mr. Drew reiterated his party's view that there should be laws on the statute books to ban communism, saying the Progrssive Conservatives propose to deal with this "treachery."

But, he added, his group does not believe in the type of "concentration camps" that the Liberals set up during the war for "some people later proved innocent."

"There should be laws on our statute books," he said, "under which these who serve the Kremlin can be convicted and sent to prison.

"The Progressive Conservatives, and the Progressive Conservatives alone, are prepared to handle these slave dealers in the Kremlin."

Poor Food Standards

LONDON (Reuters)—The Medical Press, a professional journal, complained Tuesday that hygenically Britain is a backward nation where "food is pawed and patted with dirty hands." Urging measures to prevent food poisoning, it criticized Britain's unwrapped bread, exposed meat and fish in butcher and fishmonger stands, and its "primitive kitchens."

Winnipeg Receives New Weather Blow

WINNIPEG (CP)—Records fell faster than the rain Monday night as Winnipeg absorbed another drubbing from the weather

A recorded downpour of .56 inches set this month up as the wettest July and the third wettest month in the city's history. July rainfall to date of 7.50 inches trails only the 10.26 inches in June 1901, and the 9.42 inches in August, 1876.

The year 1953 now is slightly more than seven inches away from an all-time, all-year precipitation record of 29.70 set in 1876.

Been Exemplary Citizen

War Prisoner Captured After 7 Years

HAMILTON (CP) — A former German merchant seaman plans to seek a lawful haven in Canada now that his past has caught up with him.

The life he lived here for seven years as "an exemplary citizen" ended Tuesday for middle-aged Franz Jenisch, who escaped from an internment camp following the end of the Second World War.

He was arrested by RCMP acting on a tip of his fellow workers at a farm implements plant who noticed he bore a remarkable resemblance to a picture in a newspaper series of escaped prisoners still at large.

To Jenisch, who went under the name of Jack William Krach and wondered from day to day whether he would be caught, the end was one of relief that his worries in one regard were over.

GLAD IT'S OVER

He said he knew all along he would be caught sooner or later and "now I'm glad it's over—I'm relieved."

The RCMP constables who surprised Jenisch as he worked at his toolmaker's job said he was pleased when they told him why they had come.

Sgt. Duncan McDonald said the RCMP has no reason of its own to detain Jenisch but he was being held in jail here to be turned over to army authorities in whose custody he was when he escaped from at PoW camp at Cooksville, 15 miles west of Toronto, July 12, 1946.

Sgt. McDonald said no charge will be laid or any action taken against Jenisch by the RCMP. "He's proven himself a good citizen and I hope he's permitted to stay in the country."

He said army officials will turn Jenisch over to the immigration department and then "it's up to them."

"The worst that can happen to him is deporation, but he seems to have such a good case for staying in the country that they'll probably let him stay."

Jenisch was interviewed by immigration department officials who heard his request that he be allowed to apply for legal entry to this country.

Speaking perfect English Jenisch said Tuesday night in a police cell interview that he plans to marry and is "going to try really hard" to become a Canadian citizen. He would go to South America, probably Argentina, if authorities would not allow him to remain.

WON'T GO BACK

He said he escaped because he didn't want to go back to Germany and because a request he made once before to be allowed to remain in Canada didn't stir any action in Ottawa.

"I don't want to go back to Europe ever," he said. "Europe means war, and communism, and hunger for me."

The ship on which he was the engineer surrendered to Dutch East Indies authorities in the Indian ocean when war broke out. The crew was interned in the Dutch East Indies for eight months and was moved to Canada when the Netherlands surrendered to Germany.

After his escape Jenisch met German-speaking people here who helped him with his English and a start on a new life.

William Ireland, a neighbor of Jenisch, said, in speaking of the possible deportation of the former merchant seaman: "They'd be very foolish to put him out of the country—he's a fine man."

Lakefield Scouts End Long Cruise

LAKEFIELD— (ENS)—Lakefield Sea Scouts completed a 270-mile cruise on their ship Warspite 2nd, when they tied up at the home dock Saturday afternoon. This is the longest cruise so far in the log book and was made possible by the powerful 15 horse outboard motor and the manner in which it is mounted.

The route was south to Lake Ontario by way of the Trent Canal and east to Point Anne on the Bay of Quinte, where the Canada Cement Co. played host to the lads and their leaders. The wind was favorable for good sailing on the way back and no power other than sails was necessary until they entered the Murray Canal. On reaching the green waters of Lake Ontario off Presquile Point they found a heavy sea which was why they had made the trip—to sail in the big waves. While the waves were not unusually high, they were considerably more than anything the crew had encountered to date.

The Sea Scouts who signed on for this year's cruise were Jim Galvin, Bob Henderson, Albert Hudson, Bill Hunter, David Payton, Adrian Webb and Bob Williams. Ken Jakins was skipper and Wilfred Lee first mate.

The next important entry in their log will be a visit to Camp Kennabi in Haliburton on August 15, for the annual Scout meet with Sea Scouts from all over Ontario.

Have 100 Candidates LPP Gets Radio Time

MONTREAL (CP)—J. Alphonse Ouimet, general manager of the CBC, said today the Labor-Progressive party, with 100 candidates nominated for the Aug. 10 federal election, now qualifies for free time on CBC networks for political broadcasts.

Mr. Ouimet said that a CBC meeting with qualifying political parties last month decided that free network time should be allocated to other parties, without representation in the last House of Commons, which officially nominated at least 66 candidates in three or more provinces.

The CBC is making available "one period in English and one in French for the Labor Progressive party, which has met the minimum qualification," said Mr. Ouimet.

On the French network the period will be 9:15 to 9:30 p.m. EDT. Aug. 1; the English period will be on the Trans-Canada network between 10:15 and 10:30 p.m. Aug. 4.

Fire Department Helps Study Of Ragweed Pollen

In a study of the habits of the ragweed pollen, the Peterborough Fire Department is assisting the botany and plant pathology division of the federal Department of Ottawa.

Ragweed is the irritant agency of the allergy of hay-fever with which many people are afflicted during the late summer and generally until the first frosts. At least that is its common repute. Its presence in the air is said to be the cause of a personal distress largely indicated by sneezing, watering of the eyes, and embarrassing discomfort.

The crops, seeds and weeds branch of the Ontario Department as distinct from its Ottawa counterpart, lists ragweed as the "weed of this week". Farmers are not likely to do anything about it for the simple reason that they haven't time. The grain crops and their harvesting are pressing heavily on their daylight hours.

At any rate, when a representative of the federal Department recently visited Frank Paterson in quest of help in a daily observation of the ragweed's pollen for the next two months, the Fire Department was proposed. Their station is down town among the people, and it is on duty 24 hours at day.

STICKY GLASS PLATES

"They have left with us small glass plates about an inch and a half by three inches," Chief Ralph Leonard explained today. "We have a place for them at the rear of the fire hall. A sticky substance on the glass gathers dust and pollen from the air. There is a glass for every day. We look after them, placing them and then packing them and sending them to Ottawa. If this investigation accomplishes anything to help people who are allergic to the ragweed pollen, it will be something done outside our regular work."

In the botany of this weed, as mentioned by Ken Best, assistant to Mr. Paterson, the pollen that takes to the air, provoking the big sneeze, is the male part of the plant. At flowering time, this element falls upon the female part, the ovaries, down the stem, in nature's plan of seeding and reproduction.

NATURE PROLIFIC

But, nature is excessively prolific of pollen. Only a small part of it is needed for the purpose of propagation of its weed species. It is the superfuous unfulfilled abundance that is blown into the air, carried about by the winds, eventually overtaking its human victims. Some of it is expected to light on the treated captive piece of glass at the fire hall.

The Ontario department's bulletin for this week says the milkweed plant produces up to 5,000 seeds during the late summer when its pale yellow flowers are in bloom.

"July and August are months that are dreaded by a great number of people (8 to 10% of the population), for it is at this time of the year the ragweed is in bloom, scattering pollen far and wide, and causing a great chorus of sneezes throughout the land. Though few of these people may recognize the plant itself, they always know when it is about . . . Northern Ontario is still relatively free of it, and is an excellent haven for fever sufferers."

Many of Peterborough's streets have their share of ragweed plantations. Just imagine its seeding and pollenizing program from the myriad of plants along country roads and in uncultivated fields!

Industrials Leading In Afternoon Trading

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials led the stock market up in afternoon trading today.

Industrials and golds were ahead as base metals mixed and western oils faded.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals turned stronger. Gunnar led the advance, picking up 50 cents at $8, while Nesbitt Labnie, Chimo Consolidated Gold Arrow and New Larder U posted gains running to 19 cents.

In industrials, utilities, papers, refining oils and banks had gains ranging to the $2 picked up by Canadian Westinghouse. Aluminium New, Southam, Imperial Oil and Toronto Iron A showed good fractional gains. United Fuel B and Kelvinator eased.

In golds McIntyre, Kerr Addison and Preston East Dome led the rally as they added between 25 and 50 cents.

A mixed pattern showed in base metals as higher-priced stocks faded while lower-priced issues edged forward. Up were East Sullivan, Cassiar, Steep Rock and Consolidated Smelters while Falconbridge and Hudson Bay weakened.

The western oils section was quiet. Gains for Canadian Williston and Del Rio were balanced by weakness in Gridoil, Bailey Selburn and Okalta.

Bands Give Concert At Warkworth Park

WARKWORTH—(ENS) —Massed bands of Trenton Lions Club, Stirling, Frankford and the Warkworth Community Band presented an open air concert in Warkworth ball park under the sponsorship of the home band. Maurice Bell, their leader, directed the program and Alan Buchanan was master of ceremonies.

A large crowd from the surrounding district gathered and many visitors also from the other communities accompanied their various bands.

The program consisted of marches, waltzes, overtures, hymns, as well as special numbers.

A vocal quartet from Colborne composed of Paul Haynes, Duncan McGlennon, Fred Harnden and Dick McCutcheon and accompanied by Miss Jean Arkles of Colborne sang some special numbers. A trombone solo, "Bless This House" was given by Ben Thompson of Frankford. Banjo solo and a "Medley of Scottish Aires" by the massed bands were also special features.

200 Conservatives Meet In Cavan

CAVAN (ENS)—Approximately two hundred people attended the Cavan and Millbrook Conservative Association Social evening held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cathcart, Cavan, on Monday evening.

Dr. J. W. Wright, Millbrook was chairman for the program on the spacious lawn where strings of colored bulbs lighted the scene.

Creighton Carr, Bethany sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. Ross Carr. Later in the evening he and his sister Miss Marie Carr delighted the audience with their vocal duets with mandolin accompaniment. Mrs. Lawrence Winslow, Millbrook, contributed two solos which were much appreciated, she was accompanied by Mr. Winslow.

June Wright, Bethany, gave a tap dancing number accompanied by Mrs. Ross Carr.

The highlight of the evening was an address by Charles E. Stephenson, Port Hope, Progressive Conservative candidate for this constituency.

He spoke of the loss of export markets to Britain for our agricultural products and scored the Liberal government for bringing on an election in August when the farmers were having their busy season and many people were away on holidays. He called attention to the advantages we enjoy by living in a fine country and urged everyone to use their right to vote.

Gordon K. Fraser, Peterborough, derided the government at Ottawa for their many shortcomings.

Honorable John Foote, spoke and expressed his complete faith in Hon. George Drew, if he were elected in being able to carry out his sixteen point program.

President of the Progressive Conservative Association for Durham, Alex Carruthers, Garden Hill, spoke briefly and extended his good wishes to Mr. Stephenson for success in the coming election.

The members of the Progressive Conservative Association of Cavan and Millbrook served lunch.

Wilbur Larmer thanked Mr. and Mrs. Cathcart for their hospitality which was seconded by Mr. A. Thorn.

WITH THE CANDIDATES ON HUSTINGS

Campaign Talk Now Largely Rehash Of Earlier Subjects

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

With election campaign time running out, political leaders may be running out of fresh things to say, but there are still plenty of audiences. Campaign talk Tuesday was largely a call-over of previous attacks and counter-attacks. Both Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, were swinging through Ontario. While their leader, M. J. Coldwell was stumping the West, the CCF also threw two top spokesmen into the campaign for Ontario's 85 seats—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan and C. H. Millard, one of Canada's leading unionists.

At Niagara Falls, Mr. Drew said recent acuon by the United States governme.it in reducing its military appropriations supports his view that Canadian taxes can be cut by $500,000,000 a year.

He told an audience of more than 300 that the U.S. government cut its air force budget by $5,000,000,000 by reducing inefficiency and added: "I suspect that President Eisenhower knows as much about military matters as Prime Minister St. Laurent."

REITERATES CHARGES

Mr. Drew reiterated the Progressive Conservative charge that there is waste and extravagance in the national defence department and inefficiency in its administration.

Speaking on behalf of the woman Progressive Conservative candidate in Niagara Falls riding, Mr. Drew said his party encourages women to take part in politics. There was one reason why he hoped Progressive Conservative women candidates would win seats: "There is no place in the whole of Canada that needs a house-cleaning as does the House of Commons at this time."

Later, before a Hamilton audience of 1,100, Mr. Drew indicated a Progressive Conservative government would get tougher with the U.S. in trade relations.

He said it is strange the government "does nothing" about U.S. barriers against Canadian farm products and at the same time "does nothing" about American firms dumping textiles in Canada. The U.S. "accepts Canadian products only when it is convenient to them."

ATTACKS TAXATION

Mr. Coldwell, speaking in Calgary, attacked what he termed "discriminatory" Liberal taxation laws and plugged again for a national health plan. He called Progressive Conservative leader George Drew's promise of a $500,000,000 tax cut "as dishonest as when William Aberhart (founder of the Social Credit party) promised to give everyone in this province (Alberta) $25 a month and to open the gate of Heaven for them."

He said indirect taxes on essential purchases will be responsible for raising about $1,500,000,000, or one-third, of this year's total budget requirements. It was through these indirect, or hidden, taxes that lower income groups bore the greatest tax burden.

He said the CCF had favored raising income tax deductions to $2,000 a year for single persons and $3,000 for married persons, but this had been opposed in Parliament by the Progressive Conservatives. Yet Monday night "the promising leader of the Conservatives" had thrown this "into the jackpot" along with other promises.

He called Social Credit a "very dangerous" freak of Canadian politics, containing the seeds of the totalitarian ideas of Hitler and Mussolini.

BUSY TIME

Mr. St Laurent swept through six south-western Ontario centres.

At St. Thomas, he said the Progressive Conservatives had been promising to reduce defence spending by 10 per cent or $250,000,000 a year, but such a cut would be a betrayal of Canada's allies who were working with her in a defence build-up against any Communist aggression.

He spoke again of his hope that the day would not be "far distant" when Canada could reduce defence spending and allot more money for welfare and to help her friends in Asia.

He told a park gathering of 700: "We are not going to stop building up our strength under the North Atlantic alliance and we are not going to consent to have our associates stop building up their strength until we have something better than a (Korean) truce."

Besides his St. Thomas speech, the prime minister made a trainside chat to 20 persons at Norwich, addressed some 250 at Tillsonburg and another 500 at Aylmer. In the evening he attended a performance of Richard III at the Stratford Shakespearian festival.

BREAK PROMISE

At Brantford, Mr. Douglas accused the Liberals of reneging on a promise made 34 years ago to introduce a national health insurance scheme. He outlined Saskatchewan's health insurance plan:

"We have more hospital beds in proportion to population than any other province in Canada. We have now paid the hospital bills of well over 1,250,000 people. The plan costs only $10 a year for an adult, $5 for a child, with a maximum of $32 for a family—and all hospital costs are paid. We have done that in a small province, a poor province. We are a poor relation compared to Ontario."

At Vancouver, Ralph Campney, associate defence minister, said he believes the federal health program will lead eventually to a national health insurance plan.

At Edmonton, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Progressive Conservative military critic, said the Progressive Conservatives could cut the cost of Canada's armed forces by at least 10 per cent by elimination of duplication and waste.

Today, Mr. St. Laurent speaks at Dunnville, Welland and St. Catharines, Ont., Mr. Drew at Brantford and Simcoe, Ont., and Mr. Coldwell at Cranbrook, B.C.

OLD-TIME POLITICS — A free-for-all nominating convention is traditional at Carleton riding in Ontario. All four candidates appear on the same platform to appeal for election support. Left to right: George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party; Eric Fallis, Social Credit; Stewart Crawford, CCM, and John McDonald, Liberal.

Believes Last Parliament Worst Canada Ever Had

TORONTO. — Canada's last parliament was the worst in the nation's history, Progressive Conservative candidate D. Roland Michener told a garden party meeting Tuesday night.

Order-in-council government, leaders who became complacent and intolerant of criticism gave the last Liberal parliament its description as the country's "worst," Mr. Michener told a meeting at the home of Stafford Robert, 14 Lonsdale Rd.

The House of Commons, he said, has been reduced to the lowest point of authority in Canada's history.

"Government in peacetime by orders-in-council affecting such important matters as freedom from arrest, unwarranted arrest—some of them secret and at least one of them while parliament was actually in session—has had the effect of reducing our representatives assembled in our House of Commons to the lowest point of authority in our history," Mr. Michener declared.

MAJORITY TOO BIG

The top-heavy majority of more than 190 Liberals was regrettable and even the Liberals agreed, he said.

Mr. Michener, Conservative candidate for the Liberal-held seat of St. Paul's, said he believed the persistent rumor that Prime Minister St. Laurent plans to resign before long was accurate.

"If it were not so, Mr. St. Laurent, who is an honorable man, would have said clearly on such an important matter either that he proposes to lead until the next election, or that he does not," Mr. Michener declared.

"We all have the right at this time, and I cannot overemphasize this, to know positively that a vote for Mr. St. Laurent's leadership is just that and not a vote for Mr. St. Laurent, his sucessors, heirs and assigns."

Many good candidates were lost in the Liberal sweep of 1949, he said, "and the too-powerful majority has had a bad effect on both the government leaders who have become too complacent and intolerant of criticism and opposition, and on the back-benchers who exhibit an unhappy and incongruous mixture of docility and frustration."

RUBBER STAMP

"They have made parliament a rubber stamp for the government. In fact the government does not even ask for the stamp of approval.

"Its tax policies have been announced by radio without reference to parliament. The important break with the past that made a Canadian the Governor-General was made outside."

He said both Prime Minister St. Laurent and Conservative Leader Drew are distinguished in their abilities and devotion to Canada and above reproach in their personal qualities. But, he said, one has been made to appear more folksy and the other more distant and reserved.

"Those who know them both appreciate that these are nothing more than popular images, deliberately created. As Canadians we should be proud that our two greatest parties are led by men of such capacity and worth," he said.

No Danger Of Recession Howe Tells Supporters

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Tuesday night Canada's finances are in "sound condition" with no immediate danger of a recession. Defending Liberal government trade policies at an election rally in suburban Point Grey Junior High School, the minister reeled off facts and figures for 40 minutes to support his claim that foreign trade was flourishing as never before and domestic trade never rosier.

"Canada is not losing her markets abroad, she is steadily adding to them," he told an audience of 750.

Canadian exports last year totalled $4,400,000,000, he said. This was "more in volume and value than any previous year." Canada was making a successful invasion of the Latin-American market where the volume of trade—exports and imports—had risen from $33,000,000 at the end of the war to its present level of $560,000,000 annually "divided pretty evenly between imports and exports."

Despite the dollar-sterling problem, contiuned Mr. Howe, "Canada last year exported more goods to Commonwealth countries than in any previous year."

Japan had become Canada's fourth largest customer and export of grain for the wheat year ending Aug. 1 "will toal 580,000,000 bushels—an all-time record."

On the domestic front, said Mr. Howe, "capital investment is the highest in history."

Last year Canadians "turned back 23 per cent of the country's total production into capital improvements." He estimated that capital investment during the present year would be much higher.

The minister termed Progressive Conservative promises of slashing taxes by $500,000,000 "impossible budgeting." You can't cut taxes and at the same time spend an additional $1,200,000,000 as the Conservatives are promising," said Mr. Howe.

He said the Korean truce "is a hopeful indication that defense expenditures can be cut and that would mean reduced taxes—but not right now. We don't know what the truce really means. We must be sure (of peace) before we cut our ability to defend ourselves."

Make Trade Deal

LONDON (Reuters) — A trade deal by which Britain will receive £500,000 worth of matches from Russia in return for the equivalent in British woollen cloth was announced in the House of Commons Tuesday night.

Chaotic Housing Under Attack

TORONTO — The immigration policy of the Liberal government combined with the normal growth of the country, has created a chaotic housing situation, Alan Cockeram, Progressive Conservative candidate in York South, charged Tuesday night.

Five years ago it was admitted by the government that Canada was short 400,000 homes, said Mr. Cockeram before a meeting of Mount Dennis ratepayers.

Today, said Mr. Cockeram, the shortage has increased to 700,000 homes. Despite the influx of immigrants, fewer homes are being built, he said.

Regulations of the government housing corporation are such that the small wage earner is shut out. Only 6 per cent of workers earning $3,000 a year were able to purchase homes through the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., said the candidate.

No effort has been made to reduce the down payment on a government-sponsored home from 20 to 10 per cent, he said.

Only Country To Fight War And Still Balance Budget

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said Tuesday that Canada is the only country which has ever fought a war, balanced the budget, reduced the national debt and cut taxes—all at the same time.

In a speech recorded for free-time political broadcast over the CBC's Trans-Canada network, Mr. Claxton said the Liberal government of Prime Minister St. Laurent "kept faith with the people (and) . . . carried out every undertaking to our allies in other countries."

"Faced with this record of steady progress and solid achievement," Mr. Claxton said, the Progressive Conservatives had been forced to make extravagant promises and "to cover the cost of their promises . . . (by) further extravagances."

HAVE TO BORROW

Mr. Drew had promised in his campaign speeches to do things which would cost more than $1,500,000,000 annually. To make good on these promises, it would be necessary to borrow, to add extra taxes or to cut other expenditures.

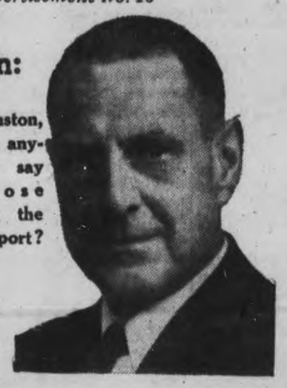
Mr. Claxton reiterated a Liberal charge that it would be impossible for a Progressive Conservative government to make good Mr. Drew's promise of $500,000,000 in tax cuts from surplus and from the elimination of extravagance.

"Mr. Drew says that he would save $300,000,000 in taxes out of the surplus. The surplus last year was just $24,000,000 — not $30,000,000 so Mr. Drew would be $276,000,000 short on that. . . .

BIG SAVING

"He goes on to say that he would save $250,000,000 off defence."

Mr. Claxton quoted Mr. Drew as having specified the Canadian defence budget at $2,500,000,000 in a speech June 29 at Regina.



"The truth is that the figure he gives is $300,000,000 high. Having added on $300,000,000 it is not hard for Mr. Drew to take off $250,000,000. But that dose not represnt a saving to anyone. All that it amounts to is bad arithmetic."

Mr. Swanston, have you anything to say about those horses in the Currie Report?

Answer:

I think the opposition have said plenty about the horses. In fact, they may have said too much to create the effect they intended. What's that old saying: "Give a beggar a horse and he'll ride it to death." They've ridden those horses as only a Tory can ride a dead issue. You can't go far on an overworked horse.

Twelve Days To Go

The candidates are official, the issues are joined and twelve days hence the elections will be made. All major parties are heavily represented and even the cellar party, the Labour-Progressive (Communist) has fielded an even hundred candidates. Perhaps it is not polite to wonder where the L.P.P. got the $20,000 deposit money, nearly all of which will be forfeited, of a certainty. Even its leader, Tim Buck, has never sat in the House of Commons, and has often lost his deposit.

* * *

The Liberals are thickest in the field. Liberal candidates have been nominated for all constituencies except one, that one being Prince Edward-Lennox, in Ontario. The party makes up for this by having two Liberals contesting in the combined riding of Glengarry-Prescott; each sat for half in the old House, before the redistribution. The Conservatives have an imposing roster of 250 candidates, fifteen fewer than the Liberals. The C.C.F. has put up 172, and Social Credit 71—a poor showing east of the Prairies, after their brave talk of becoming a national party. (The trouble with Social Crediters is that they do not know what they are standing for, and some of them hardly seem to know that they are standing.)

* * *

The field of candidates is second largest ever assembled in Canada—a total of 902. The reason for this is not, we suspect, the stirring issues of the day, but the simple fact that there are more seats available than ever before. On August 10th 265 candidates will be elected; in the last House there were 262 seats. Another reason for the increase is that out of whatever pink air the L.P.P. pluck their puppets, the Communists are putting up a hundred candidates, compared with nineteen in 1949.

* * *

Only twelve days to go, and only ten in which to campaign. We note that the heat is increasing somewhat.

Mr. Drew Sets A Fine Precedent

The Conservative leader the Hon. George Drew has ended his campaign in the province of Quebec. The most remarkable aspect of his campaign there was that he spoke in French before French-speaking audiences—not a few words, carefully conned, but the entire speech, lasting thirty or forty minutes. He repeated the performances up and down the province. It was a tribute to a powerful minority as well as one which that minority is increasingly able to exact from politicians who hope to win favour in Quebec. We applaud Mr. Drew's effort and his recognition thereby that Canada is in reality as well as officially bilingual.

Mr. Drew has set a fine precedent. He is the first English-speaking party leader ever to have made himself sufficiently at ease with the French language to conduct an entire Quebec campaign in it. Le Devoir of Montreal has commented thus:

"A leader of the opposition is, by the very nature of his position, a man weighed down with work. Mr. Drew, nevertheless, has devoted time each day to learning French. He has shown, by this long patience, the importance he accords the French Canadian group. He is rendering, therefore, to a minority a respect of which minorities are always particularly appreciative."

Mr. Drew reads his French speeches; he does not speak extemporaneously in the language. But he has made the effort and reads with ease.

It has long been taken for granted that French-speaking national party leaders must be perfectly conversant with English, as was Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as is Mr. St. Laurent. Mr. Drew's precedent and the march of time in Quebec and the Canadian political scene will make it imperative for other English-speaking national party leaders in the future to learn to speak in French. This necessity is concomitant with the new unity in this country.

Formerly it was good enough that each party should have a senior member whose native tongue was French. He operated on the party's behalf in Quebec; the English-speaking leader stayed pretty well away from domestic politics there. So there was the early Baldwin-La Fontaine government, the Macdonald-Cartier combination, and in recent times, the King-Lapointe organization. Under the old dispensation, Canada was a dichotomy in politics, except when a French-Canadian was Prime Minister. A merging of industry and commerce, and the arts and sciences has led to an essential merger in politics. Party leaders henceforth must be as bilingual as Canada has become, expressing in their tongue the new unity which has gradually emerged.

Corean War

Now that the Korean War has been stopped, we may ask ourself what place it will have in history. We may ask, but we shall not attmept to answer it; it is too soon even to guess. We can, however, venture an assessment of a war in Korea which excited the pages of newspapers even in Canada fifty years ago. Then the newspapers referred to the country as Corea.

This war was the extension of the Sino-Japanese war of 1894 when Japan and China fought for control of Korea. Japan overcame China quickly then, but Russia, backed by France and Germany, stepped in to rob Japan of her spoils. Japan then spent the next ten years getting ready for another attempt, while Russia went about extending the Siberian railway through Manchuria, to Port Arthur, of which she had gained control.

During a 1900 campaign, Russia occupied Manchuria. The major powers acquiesced, although opinion was hardening against the Tsar. In 1903 Russia encroached on Korea (aggression is the modern word for it). Japan foresaw danger to her own independence and in 1904 began the Korean war. It was, from reports in the press of the time, and even in historians' views, a tremendous struggle.

In Canadian newspapers of the time we read about the Mikado's strategist, Marshal Yamagata, "the Wellington of the Japanese army" (obviously the British and Canadians were pro-Japanese). Yamagata accused the aggressive Russians of laying plans, long before the war broke out, to maintain an army of 350,000 men, who later poured into Manchuria. Nevertheless, by the spring of 1904, the Wellington of Japan was ready to force a crossing of the Yalu river and to drive the Russians out of North Korea back into Manchuria and Siberia. (The river is again familiar to Canadian newspaper readers.)

Well, the Japanese campaign was strong and swift and it won the war. A judgement of historians is that that Korean war "checked Russian aggression in the Orient" and also made plain that "an Asiatic power had risen able and disposed to enforce a Monroe doctrine for Asia against the Western World." We may expect that the present revived Japan will again be interested in Korea, and in the foreseeable future. It is not without significance that the present Korean War was waged against the Reds from American general headquarters in Tokyo. Japan was not a party to the war, specifically, but up to her eyes in it economically—a foreshadow of Japanese political intervention later.

Six Thousand On Holiday

Peterborough is not doing much work these days—that is, work for pay. Instead it is taking holidays with pay. About 5,780 employees from ten industries in the city are off their jobs these last two weeks of July—4,000 from one plant alone. Together with odds and ends of others on holiday, more than six thousand Peterborough workers are following their own private pleasures. We do not count in this reckoning teachers and their pupils. The latter are too omnipresent to count. Nor do we count housewives; their work has a way of following them, even into Eden.

What are the holidayers doing? The answer is not far to seek. They are, most of them, hereabouts, and for the very good reason that Peterborough is the centre of a good and famous holiday resort area. Why leave, when people from afar pay good money just to come here for a holiday? The fact that there are so many people about means that there must be others of us still at work, to cater to those who are idle: shopkeepers, food purveyors, boat-renters, garage men, life guards, traffic cops, garbage collectors, street sweepers and even newspaper men—for the public weal must be cleansed, guarded and titillated. Outside town, farmers are at work, making a bit of hay, money and corn while the sun shines. Their holidays come in the cool of the year, and if it is too cool, they even go to Florida for them.

It is well for our Peterborough peace of mind that we can holiday at home, instead of having to travel hundreds of miles to seek surcease from city cares. It is frightening to contemplate the traffic congestion on highways and the mobs at popular resorts in the United States, for there some twenty-five million people are now on holiday—most of them having to accomplish it on wheels. Twenty-five million people buzzing around those United States trying to get a happy holiday. Even though six thousand Peterborough folk are on holiday now, we are glad to help the 25,000,000 Americans find repose and fun by opening our Kawartha gates to a flood of them. It is part of our good neighbour policy, and, we are not ashamed to admit, part of our business.

Deer have been holding up traffic on the Niagara Parkway, says the St. Catharines Standard. Sure you don't mean dears on the parkingway?

Paris Nights And Days

By SUZANNE NORMAND

SOMEONE SAID the other day that spring had never been so lovely in Paris. The chestnuts had never been in such a hurry to flower, lilies of the valley more delightfully opulent, shops more ingenious and ornate. Perhaps the same is said every year? Just as strollers, with time to daydream on bridges, always say the Seine as it now is must be more beautiful than when seen last.

There are times when one thinks that the sky over the Tuileries, the hidden away or public gardens, the little carts with forget-me-nots and daisies at street corners and the suspended flight of a summer frock in a shop window are sufficient feast for eyes and mind. But to the familiar street secenes, to all that general, indefinable charm, an active organization, the Paris Fetes Committee, adds a splendid programme of events and entertainments. Everyone can choose out of it what he likes best, or even—and why not? —say, "I choose everything". Everything, that means flowers, music, dancing, races and even fireworks, even sport and even medieval mysteries; decorated waggons, proceeding in slow procession through the city; flower-decked balconies, shop windows like hot-houses, a public procession such as Paris had not seen for many a long year; showering petals and tossing bouquets supreme.

PERHAPS, instead of these streets and pavements flower-filled for a day, we shall prefer the festivities at Bagatelle, where living roses merge with the still precious blossoms that figure the Lyons' silks. In return for the tribute paid to France last year by England, who dedicated a literary garden in her name, Bagatelle is to present a "Shakespearean Garden" around an open-air theatre, to be opened by French and Englishmen. Then, in the Champs-Elysees, a picture gallery is to feature "Paris, its women and its flowers" as theme. While, at the Grand Cascade, there will be the woodland centenary celebrations filled with memories, pictures, ghosts and past and present fashions, the centenary of the Bois de Boulogne, of " Le Bois".

"Paris is well worth a mass", said protestant King Henry of Navarre, who by this won the crown of France. Beneath the stained glass of the Sainte-Chapelle, illuminated, and during celebrations to commemorate the 4th centenary of Henry IV, people will say, "The mass Paris was worth".

THE REPUBLIC is not chary of celebrating memories of the monarchy whenever it is a question of preserving the fine souvenires they left behind. But the upkeep of souvenirs is very costly—Versailles, for instance, to the restoration of which so many friendly countries have contributed with such generosity. At Trianon, the Queen's dear little hamlet also demands the greatest attention if it is not to become more rustic than need be. Galas are still regarded as the best means of saving these fragile beauties.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THE very modern Palais de Chaillot, people will sup in 18th century style to music, songs and plays revived. Twice a week, on Wednesdays and Fridays, Versailles, jealous of the new splendours at Chambord, will rise up in the night with its Court of Honour, great front, sheet of water, fountains and pools featuring illumination and sound effects, fountain displays, night fetes, old dances, romantic ballet, fireworks and music in the trees and in the palace chapels. Versailles is no longer a dead splendour. Light gleams and voices are bringing life back to it in the crystalline dust of the Grand Fountain Displays. For surely light is the very expression of modern enchantment? Paris with its domes, spires and triumphal arches illuminated, set against the velvet of the night, is in itself like a picture taken from some Eastern fairy tale.

IT IS generally known that in the country, on Midsummer's Night, bonfires are one of the most firmly rooted of French traditions. For the benefit of city dwellers, Midsummer Night beacons are to be lit along the banks and quays of the Seine. Festivities that will attract great crowds as they did last year. The programme of ballet, illuminations along the banks and surf riders skimming the water, blazing torch in hand, will end with the launching of two thousand luminous balloons into the sky, a competition in aid of Homeless Children.

A varied, magnificent and popular programme. It is fitting to complete the list with the Arene de Lutece, for in this open air theatre, the largest in Paris, in the heart of the old Schools district, there is to be a non-stop succession of 40 shows from mid-June to mid-July.

✧ ✧

THE MYSTERIES of the Passion, Roman Circus Games, Equestrian Games, tumblers, wrestling, jazz, African ballets, musical comedy and classical drama, jumping and film shows on a giant screen, French folk songs; here the word, "Entertainment", assumes its full original and etymological significance. It may be regarded as a new and bold step too— the revival in this vast amphitheatre of permanent public open air entertainment and all its marvels; moving frescoes, as it were, in which the spectator can find, according to his mood and nature, pleasures that are at once artistic, musical, sonorous and literary.

Unconsidered Trifles

Parishioner: "Ah, Dr. Grimes! How did you like those brandied peaches we sent?"

Rector: "My dear Mrs. Vesper, they were indeed delicious; but what we appreciated especially was the spirit in which they were given."

A man and his wife, celebrating the Coronation, called at a public-house for a drink. The husband asked for a pint and the wife had a cocktail. The woman asked the barman for a cherry, but he didn't understand and fetched the manager, who supplied one. Upon which the barman exclaimed to the husband: "What would you like in your pint—a toffee-apple?"

The male half of a new dance team was pleading with a producer.

"You never saw anything so sensational," he raved. "At the finish of our act I take my partner by the hair and whirl her round for 20 spins. Then I wind up by heaving her through an open window."

The producer paled. "Heave her through an open window?" he repeated incredulously. "Do you really mean to say you do that at every performance?"

The dancer shrugged. "Well nobody's perfect," he admitted. "Sometimes I miss!"

Letters To The Editor

DISCOVERING JOBS

Sir: Having got up early I called at the selective service, only to be informed there were no jobs available and none for some time.

Later, I met a friend who also was told the same old story. During the same day he secured a job with a small contractor. As requested he informed the boy at office of his good luck, only to be told that had he known of his ability to do the work required they already had a job for him.

How come this man's ability was not known or recorded as well as taken into consideration the first visit?

What methods do several of the public servants choose to determine one's efficiency and ability as well as value to the employer?

Could the slow motion or lack of efficiency be the cause?

UNEMPLOYED.

SIGN TO LIFT LOCK

Sir: Being a Quaker employee I have had the occasion and the good fortune to have a job on the Trent Canal this summer. I have worked the evening shift at Lock 20 and swing bridge at Maria St.

I have been greatly surprised at the number of people that have come down there in the evening and asked where to find the Lift Locks.

And several times, after telling them, they will say: "That big cement thing where we came through the tunnel?" They have driven through it and didn't know what it was.

I think our city is missing the bus on this. We have a million and a half dollar project here and we don't even have signs to tell them where to find it, and they all want to see it when they come here, and lots of them go away without seeing it because they can't find it.

Here is a real chance for the Junior Chamber of Commerce to do something worth while for the city. There should be a streamer across George St. at Hunter during July and August, telling them to see the main attraction in town. And a big sign at the entrance to the tunnel saying here is the largest lift lock in the world; stop a few minutes and see it.

Other towns have stickers to put on cars to say they have seen this or that, while we don't even draw their attention to it?

We have a beautiful city here and don't seem to realize it.

I have had people from all down through the States as far as Texas and from Nova Scotia and from our own province: London, Exeter, Toronto.

Stand on top of the steps at the Lock and marvel at the beauty of the lake. One lady from Toronto said to me, "Isn't it heavenly?"

There is a real opening for a conducted tour in an open bus from Lock 19 (Lansdowne St.) to Nassau, from the Lift Locks to Jackson Park. Take about an hour and a half, could be done for 50 cents a head.

And really show people what we have in beauty here. One man asked about where to find the beautiful parks he had heard of.

I have a tour mapped out in my mind that would take in all the beauty spots.

I could show people spots of beauty in this town that they don't know exist.

I would like to see someone wake up and show it off with a little imagination.

Thanking you, I remain,

Yours for Beautiful Peterborough,

STAN. EXELL.

Old Church Relics From Wales

B.B.C. BULLETIN

DOG TONGS formed part of an ecclesiastical exhibition recently held in the diocese of Bangor, North Wales, the oldest See in Britain, which has been in existence for just over fourteen hundred years. The implements date back to the time when dogs accompanied their owners to church and were forcibly and often painfully ejected when they disturbed the services.

The Marquess of Anglesey, who lives only a few miles from Bangor, spoke about the fine exhibition of priceless church treasures and urged his countrymen to visit the hall in Bangor where they were on view for the first time. "The gold and silver alone would excite the admiration of the most sophisticated connoisseur," he said, "but perhaps the most moving of all is the lifesize figure of Our Lord at Calvary, the famous 'Mostyn' Christ which forms the centre piece of the exhibition." This wooden figure has been in the possession of the Mostyn family for several hundred years.

The most ancient exhibit was a small tenth-century hand-bell found in the wall of Llanrhyddlad Old Church when it was demolished ninety-six years ago, and the most valuable the famous pre-Reformation Dolgelley Chalice found in a cave on Mynydd y Garn, near Dolgelley, in 1890. This and the paten with it were classed as treasure trove and were therefore the property of the Crown, and they were later deposited in the National Museum of Wales by King George V. It is thought probable that the chalice and paten of silver gilt may have belonged to the monks of Cymmer Abbey, near Dolgelley, and that they hid the precious plate in the cave at the time of the dissolution of the Monasteries.

The exhibition contained every kind of church property, including an eighteenth century sentry box from Beaumaris Parish Church which was used to guard against the ravages of body-snatchers. There was also a collection of more than two dozen chalices of the first Queen Elizabeth's reign, the gem of the section being the splendid Tazza from Penmynydd in Anglesey, famous as the home of the Tudors, mediaeval ancestors of Britain's Royal Family.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And, behold, there came a leper and worshipped him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

And Jesus put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately his leprosy was cleansed . . .

When the even was come, they brought unto him many that were possessed with devils: and he cast out the spirits with his word, and healed all that were sick . . .

Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about him, he gave commandment to depart unto the other side . . . And when he was entered into a ship, his disciples followed him. And, behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, insomuch that the ship was covered with the waves: but he was asleep. And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord, save us: we perish. And he saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm. (Matt. 8:2,3,16,18,23-26.)

The City Of Trees

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

Not long ago a poll among the working people of Scotland voted Aberdeen the most attractive city in which to spend a holiday. It is a city of magnificent beauty, being built of grey granite, there not being a single brick or, of course, frame building, to be seen. Then it has a sea front of several miles of sand without even a little stone on it to hurt the feet, while the environment leads to some of the most lovely scenery in Scotland, including the "Royal Deeside" trip to Braemar and Balmoral.

The claim is now put forward that Aberdeen is a city of trees. Within the city limits there are approximately 74 miles of streets and roads planted with trees. Of the total number of 16,830, 2,815 are flowering trees, 14,015 are of the forest type. Pride of place probably goes to the double flowering cherries which make the city more than usually attractive, and concerning which the Parks Department receives many enquiries from all over the world. Other trees include lime, elm, sycamore, ash, beech, and acer, thorns, cotoneasters and prunus.

Mr. Drew's Financial Policy

(Vancouver Province)

Mr. Drew now says savings would be accomplished in two main ways: He would not budget for surpluses, and thus would save $300,000,000. And he would cut $200,000,000 out of the defence budget. He has not yet provided any clear picture of where defence savings would be made.

The first thing to be realized is that a promise to cut surpluses out of the budget is another, and not very candid way of saying Canada will stop paying off debt . . . To postpone debt payment at a time of unprecedented prosperity in Canada would be an admission of financial incapacity . . .

We believe that administrative savings can be made by Ottawa. We certainly do not endorse the way defence money has been spent. But Mr. Drew has yet to convince us that an amount of $200,000,000 can be lopped off the defence budget by administrative savings.

W. F. Trude, 90, Recalls Early Life As Butcher

Delivering meat to the lumber shanties in the old days was a tough job, but had its good points, recalls W. F. Trude.

Mr. Trude, a Lakefield butcher in the late 1800s, celebrated his 90th birthday Tuesday at the home of his daughter overlooking the north end of Chemong lake. A little hard of hearing, but mentally alert, he recalled some of his ventures into the shanty country north of Peterborough.

Once he and another man, Jack Scrymgeour, drove 65 head of cattle to Minden, where they butchered them for John Moodie's camp of lumberjacks.

There was a French-Canadian foreman at the camp, Mr. Trude said, who took a couple of strangers into the camp to give them a night's rest. He couldn't offer them the work they sought, but said they could stay the night.

"I don't know what got into him," said Mr. Trude, "but suddenly he cursed those fellows up and down and told them to get out. Well, there was more than three feet of snow in that bush and it was hard travelling in the daytime. This was at night.

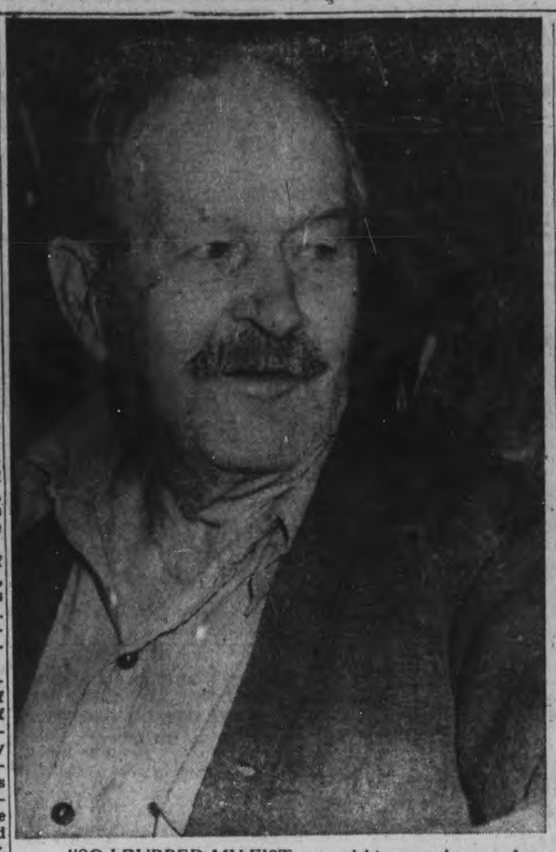
PERSUASION

"I asked him to let the men stay and then he cursed me. So I rubbed my fist around his nose three or four times and told him to keep them in the camp overnight, and I'd pay for what they ate. They stayed."

Mr. Trude recalled the busy-three-and-a-half days he and the other had, killing and butchering 65 head of cattle for the shanties. "I was working as fast as I could," he said. "And as quick as I had a quarter ready, somebody would be there to haul it off, cut a hole in it and hang it in the cookhouse. Finally, we had all 65 carcasses hanging there."

It was in 1866, when he was little more than three, that Mr. Trude came to Canada. He spent some time in Lindsay, then in Toronto, and then moved to Lakefield, where he ran a butcher shop for 30 years.

"Most of those old stores are gone. They were either torn down or burned. I know my own place burned not too long after I left," he said.



In 1908 Mr. Trude moved to his son-in-law's farm in northern Smith township, where he has lived since.

"I don't know how long I'm going to be around," he said. "When the Master calls me, I'll have to go."

Mr. Trude's wife died shortly before they would have celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary.

They have six children: Frank in south Smith township, Sam, a butcher in Peterborough; Walter in Nephton; William of Smith township, Mrs. Algenia Rummell, Mineral Ridge, Ohio; and Mrs. William Pavy (Greta), with whom he lives.

There are 13 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

"SO I RUBBED MY FIST around his nose three or four times," recounts W. F. Trude on his 90th birthday Tuesday. Mr. Trude, who lives with his daughter and son-in-law on a farm overlooking the north end of Chemong Lake, was a butcher in the late 1800s in Lakefield and had the odd run-in with shanty foremen in the lumber camps.—(Examiner Staff Photo.)

McGill Family Meets In Orono

The third annual re-union of the McGill family of Manvers township was held in the Orono community park Saturday.

Members and relatives extending into the fourth generation of the original settlers of Manvers, the late Joseph McGill and his wife, Elizabeth Pritchard, made up the gathering.

The last surviving member of this family, Mrs. H. H. Ryley, who had attended two previous re-unions, died during the year.

After a pleasant hour of greetings and social intercourse, supper was served.

A brief business session followed at which Mr. Roy McGill of Enniskillen presided. Minutes of the previous meeting and a financial statement were read by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Harold Tate and the register was signed showing forty-one present. Newcomers welcomed to the picnic this year included Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McGill, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rowan and daughters of Bethany, and Mrs. James Ward of Chelsey, Ontario. Suggestions as to place of meeting for the next re-union were brought forward. Peterborough was chosen and in Jackson Park if it be available July 24.

Officers were elected as follows:

President—Lloyd Ashton, Haydon; secretary-treasurer — Mrs. Harold Tate, Millbrook; sports' committee — Fred Billett and Frank McGill, both of Toronto; table committee—Mr. and Mrs. James Turnbull and Mrs. James Might, all of Peterborough. Nominating committee—Mrs. Harvey McGill, Enniskillen and Mrs. Frank McGill of Toronto.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. James Turnbull who reported the progress made in an attempt to establish a "Family Tree" which it is hoped will be completed for the 1954 re-union — also to the table committee, and to the 1953 sports' committee composed of Joyce McGill and Ronald Ashton, who arranged the following program and distributed prizes accordingly:

Oldest member present — Mrs. John McGill, Enniskillen; youngest member—Glen Ashton, Haydon; most remote member—Mrs. James Ward, Chesley.

Contests—Bean guessing—Mr. James Might, Peterborough; most coppers on person—Mrs. Lloyd Ashton, Haydon; shoe race—Joe McGill, Enniskillen; balloon race—Don McGill, Toronto; minute race—Mr. Fred Bellett, Toronto; bean relay — Marie Ashton's group; orange relay—Jimmy Bellett's group; 5 years and under—Nancy Might, Millbrook; 10-14 years—Garth McGill, Enniskillen; 14 years and over—Gordon Might, Millbrook; ladies' race—Marie Ashton, Toronto; wheelbarrow—Garth and Joe McGill; long step-race—Gordon Might.

Plan Trade Conference If PC's Elected

HALIFAX (CP)—John Diefenbaker said Tuesday that if a Progressive Conservative government is elected Aug. 10 it will immediately call a British Commonwealth trade conference to seek re-opening of sterling markets for Canadian goods.

The veteran opposition front bencher from Prince Albert, Sask., said at New Glasgow and Truro, that such a conference, at which the United States also would be welcome, would bring results.

"Without a re-opening of this market," he said, "dark days lie ahead for the Canadian farmer, fishermen, and other primary producers, and with them the whole of the Canadian population."

Armed Forces Cost Can Be Cut—Pearkes

EDMONTON (CP) — Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, said Tuesday night the Progressive Conservatives can cut the cost of Canada's armed forces by at least 10 per cent.

Gen. Pearkes, his party's chief military critic, told a public meeting that despite the cuts the forces' efficiency would be increased rather than impaired.

Gen. Pearkes, who is seeking re-election in the Aug. 10 federal general election, said a Progressive Conservative government would eliminate duplication and waste.

Unidentified Sailors Board British Warship

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Sailors from an unidentified warship boarded the British steamer Admiral Hardy after firing on her off the Chinese mainland port of Foochow today, British naval officials said.

The 1,929-ton steamer flashed a signal for help. But she did not say whether the shells had hit her.

Foochow is about 330 miles northeast of here.

The Admiral Hardy has been running the Chinese Nationalist blockade of Communist China for several years. Last year she was intercepted and detained for four days at Matso Island, 20 miles off Fukien.

P.G. & C.C. CHIP SHOTS

Here we go again. With Jean Castle's hole-in-one only a few days in the record book, Slammin Slim Pearson, playing with Stew Williamson and Ed Dixon canned his tee shot on the 195 yd. 12th hole to become the second golfer inside of a week to score an ace. At the time, Slim didn't know it had gone in the hole and after looking in the rough for about ten minutes someone spotted it in the hole. Ed Dixon had to throw a half-nelson on Slim to get him to the next tee.

Mike O'Leary, Peterborough Jimmy Demaret, scored the best round record this year by an amateur at the Peterborough Club, shooting a sizzling 72 on Saturday. Mike now has the dubious honour of cutting his own handicap.

If any of you older golfers are thinking of retiring take note of what happened out on the course Monday afternoon. Bob Abbott who is over 70 years old and Orley DeGraw who is nearly as young played 18 holes with Jimmy Clarkson. Bob shot a 79 and Orley had an 83. On the third hole Bob's drive was on top of the hill straight for the flag so you can see he still has some of the power and golf savvy that carried him to 13 Club Championships.

Alfie Hill just returned from the Quebec Open where he placed sixth among the top pro's in Ontario and Quebec. Alf had rounds of 79 and 74 over the par 72 Lachute Golf and Country Club course and was only 9 strokes back of the winner, Stan Horne of Islemere. He also pocketed a considerable amount of money for his fine effort. Alf is now in Toronto competing for the Millar Trophy.

CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

Well the stage is set for the big match August 9th. Les Reid and Jim Clarkson clash that day in what should prove to be the most interesting final in years. Les reached the finals by defeating Herb Bradburn 1 up on Saturday. Herb made a battle of it all the way but failed to overtake Les when the opportunity arose at the 18th hole. Herb had the first shot to the green but fluffed it and Les just played safe as he was 1 up at the time. Both players took fives on the hole. Better luck next year Herb! If you want to see two long-hitters in action come on out to the course Aug. 9th. With a large gallery on hand both boys will be going all out to best the other.

MEN'S TWO-BALL

We have now reached the semi-finals of this competition. The survivors are Reg. Stewart and Ray Tanner, Les Reid and Ed Dixon, Wilf and Jack Hardill, Gord Whatsman and Dude Brody. The finals will be played early in August. Stan McBride informs us that a lovely big trophy is on the way for this competition. If it's as big as Stan it will really be something.

Ted Flummerfelt has been voted the most sociable member of the Peterborough Golf Club. Sunday morning Ted had breakfast at 8 o'clock with Stan McBride and Ossie Anderson. At 9 he had breakfast with Glen Gibson and at 10 he had breakfast with Mike O'Leary. Thats a lot of breakfast. When nobody showed up after Mike left he decided he might as well play a litle golf to work up an appetite for lunch.

Two weeks ago this writer predicted that more would be heard from Jack Hardill. Well Jack just popped in with a sparkling 35-38-73. Jack is a fine golfer and with a little more practice could become one of the best in the district. How about it, Jack!

It might be a good idea to get into the Ladies section before someone comes charging in with a 69.

Ladies Field Day for the 18-hole players was a tombstone competition and was won by Mrs. C. R. Stacey, who also took the points for low net. Second low was tied by Mrs. L. Lawrence and Mrs. S. McBride. Mrs. V. Selkirk had low gross.

Qualifying rounds for Club championships and Morrow Tray are being played this week and next.

Nine-hole players competition was won by Mrs. H. Inman. Mrs. G. N. Howson won low gross and low net and the spoon went to Mrs. C. Westbrook.

Gifford Family Holds Reunion

BONARLAW (ENS)— The annual Gifford sisters' birthday reunion was held on Sunday at the home of Mrs. F. Hinds, Madoc Road. Fifty-two were present.

A three-tier birthday cake formed a centre piece for the table. A chicken dinner was served by the nieces. Mrs. Hinds received many lovely gifts, including a three-piece Chesterfield suite from her son Arnold Willman. Pte. Alfred Willman and Mrs. Willman, Kelly and Shirley, of Ottawa attended as well as those from Oshawa, Tweed, Bancroft, Madoc, Marmora, Bonarlaw and Peterborough.

Father, Son Hurt In Car Accident

LINDSAY (ENS)—Charles Benedict of Preston and his son Ray Benedict of Lorneville, with whom he was visiting, are in Ross Memorial Hospital here suffering from multiple bruises, broken bones and slight concussion.

They were injured in a two-car collision on the intersection of two county roads, about five miles east of Lorneville. PC Mountsteven reported today that the view is obscured and the road is quite narrow.

Apparently a car driven by James Maw of Orillia collided with the Model A car driven by Ray Benedict. The Benedict car was pushed several feet, but both cars remained on their wheels. The damage to both cars totals over $800.

Clergymen Tried

HONG KONG (AP)—A pro-Nationalist newspaper today said 30 Christian clergymen in the Communist China city of Szewui were arrested Monday on charges of guiding a plane which dropped anti-Red leaflets over the city. The newspaper Wah Kiu Yat Po said the clergymen were tried and beaten, then released.

Press Chief Jailed

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — A former chief of the Danish army's press information service was jailed for a year Tuesday for charging up imaginary parties for newspapermen. Lieut.-Col. Juel Wibolt pocketed large sums from the state treasury, the prosecution said. He was also ordered to repay the equivalent of $700.

WILLIAMS REJOINING SOX

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Marine Corps Tuesday ordered Ted Williams back to Fenway Park, and baseball's most celebrated citizen set out for Boston to resume his twice-interrupted career.

"I'm anxious to get back in the line," Williams told a press conference. "I can already hear those guys with the bazoos in left field—and that's all right with me."

Williams flew 38 combat missions in Korea before returning to the U.S.

The 34-year-old Boston Red Sox outfielder looked in the peak of condition as he received his release.

The former Capt. Williams said he will confer with Joe Cronin, general manager of the Red Sox. "After all," he said, "I don't even know if they want me or not."

The Marines released Williams more than two months before the date he was due to go off active duty. That was because doctors in Korea decided an ear and nose ailment rendered him useless as a combat pilot.

Chances are Williams won't get into the Boston lineup as a regular player for two weeks, but he should be ready for heavy duty during the last six weeks of the season, when the Red Sox will be driving hard in the American League flag fight.

MARY GAY WINS TOURNEY

KITCHENER (CP)—Mary Gay of the host Westmount Golf Club shot a one-over women's par 80 Tuesday to win the anual invitation tournament. More than 100 competed. IOOF Win Again; Bells Defeat Post Office 15-4

IOOF defeated Police 9-6 in the twin-bill in the men's civic softball at the East City Bowl Tuesday evening while Chum Gillespie's Bell Telephone laddies downed Eldon Harrison's Post Office nine 15-4 in the night cap.

Victory in the curtain-raiser was IOOF's eighth of the season against a single loss and tie and enabled the Parnell-Reynolds nine to remain atop the league, closely followed by Bill's Lunch, Seabrooke's and Bell's.

Bill Miller and Ken Hall toiled for the winners with Phillips the loser in a keen contest.

The after-piece of the well-attended double header saw a rather one-sided battle, with Keith Harrison twirling five-hit ball. Loose fielding by Posties also hampered their cause and that of the battery of Smith and Smith.

Monday (Civic Holiday) the Civic Softball League will stage its annual booster night featuring in addition to its regular games, a special all-star contest between the city and civic league stars.

Trailermen Share Top Place By Downing Mimico 23-16 Powless, Slater Star

Surprise! Surprise! Surprise! Bob Thorpe's Trailermen didn't wallop the stuffings out of Mimico Mounties Tuesday night. In fact the Mounties came very, very close to upsetting the flying Trailermen, that is, until the final five minutes of their game in Mimico. Then the Mounties suffered the blues, the five-minute variety, and all was over for the youthful Mimico lads. The Trailermen rolled in those few remaining minutes to ground out a 23-16 victory which sent them back into a first-place tie in the senior OLA race with St. Catharines' Athletics for the third time within a week.

Tonight the Trailermen will play Hamilton in the Ambitious City and expect to have most of their regulars back to battle the Tabbies who are fighting for a fourth, possibly third-place, position.

But back to Tuesday's game.

A little defensive support for Mimico goalie, Joe Tomchischen, could easily have given the Mounties a decision over the Trailermen. The little junior-age lad, ranked by some as second to Lloyd (Cuddles) Wootton, saved the Mounties from disaster.

Throughout the game the Trailermen poured through the weak Mounties defensive system and only on one in every four shots did the Peterborough lacrossers beat him. He was playing the same high-calibre lacrosse which led the junior Mimico lads to the Minto Cup several years ago.

But you can't win on goaltending alone; that Pete Bradkin, the only Brampton player to join Mimico after the June break-up, realized. Bradkin, especially in the first three-quarters, kept the Mounties running with the result they twice took leads over the Trailermen and stayed within one goal until the final five minutes.

With his clever stickhandling and driving shot, Bradkin whipped in six goals and assisted on three others. Even then his teammates often failed to see Bradkin in the clear.

Besides their troubles with Tomchischen, the Trailermen had an off night in shooting, passing and backchecking. Of course in the final minutes they began to make the Mounties heads swirl with passing networks and excellent shooting.

The line of Curly Mason, Ross Powless, Russ Slater, Roger Smith and Nip O'Hearn kept the Trailermen in the running. Between them they picked up no less than 18 of the total 23 goals and finally goals and assists amounting to 37.

With Powless the king-pin the Trailermen just managed to hold a 5-4 edge in the first and 10-9 margin at the half. In fact the Mounties led briefly in the second until the Powless-Slater-Mason-Smith combination clicked for three goals in 29 seconds.

Jim McNeil and Pete Bradkin put the skids under the Trailermen's lead in the third as the Mounties again took the lead. But Slater and Jerry Fitzgerald came back in the final minute to put the Trailermen up 14-13 at three-quarters.

The Mounties stayed within a goal, 16-15 until only five minutes was left to play. Then Slater and his teammates went on their scoring spree, putting the finishing touches to the one-goal difference.

Powless, with his eyes on the individual scoring record for one game, racked up four goals and eight assists for 12 points. But he was followed closely by Slater with eight goals and two assists for 10 points.

The game saw only two minor penalties, both to Peterborough, to Smith for holding and Slater for tripping. On the Smith penalty (Roger dragged down Jim McNeil in front of Hickson) the lanky Mimico lad was given a major penalty shot, a rarity in lacrosse. But Hickson beat him.

Lineups:

CNE Stadium May Be Used To Lure Olympic Games

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian National Exhibition Stadium, a sports white elephant since it was built a few years ago, may be used as bait to lure the summer Olympic Games and major league baseball to this city. Plans are under way to make it the biggest sports arena in the country.

The scheme calling for a permanent 60,000-seat $2,000,000 stadium—still in the blueprint stage—was disclosed Tuesday by Allan Lamport, the city's sports-minded mayor. He, and a few business men and sports officials, have hopes that in the near future Toronto will be host to the world's Olympic athletes and will also get a major-league ball franchise.

READY FOR 1954

The stadium, on the shores of Lake Ontario, woud be completed in time for the 1954 football season in late August and the cost would be shared by the city, CNE and the Toronto harbor commission. New seating, beyond the present 24,000-capacity, would be constructed with steep-pitched, uncovered cement stands.

In his announcement, the mayor said the scheme calls for the razing of Maple Leaf Stadium, home of the city's International League entry, and the Leafs moving over to the new layout. He figured also the new bowl should "cinch" the Grey Cup as an annual fixture for this city.

But a tremendous face-lifting would have to be accomplished to make the stadium suitable for any sport. The field—now east-west—would have to be made north-south to accommodate baseball and the present 24,000-capacity grandstand would have to be moved.

USED FOR RACING

The stadium now is used for stock-car racing and track and field events.

The anouncement caught sports officials by surprise.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Leaf ball club, declined to comment on the proposal to tear down the site of his team's home games and move to the new bowl. He has been working for a major-league franchise for months but declined to say whether he had made a bid.

Harry MacBrien, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union, also had no comment to make on the idea that the new bowl would make Toronto a sure thing for the annual Grey Cup game. "That is up to the CRU," he said.

Pro Football Pricing Itself Out Of Business

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Payne executive vice-president of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, thinks U.S. and Canadian pro football may be pricing itself out of business.

Payne, here on a visit, said that a "price war" for players between the two leagues must be halted by a working agreement before the leagues spend themselves out of existence.

He said the Bombers, of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, have no financial worries. So far, the team has sold 13,200 season tickets for its new 15,000-seat stadium.

"To operate a team in pro football the management should figure on a $300,000 budget," Payne said.

Payne nominated Annis Stukus of Vancouver Lions, who'll play in the WIFU in 1954, and Frank Clair of Toronto Argos as the best football coaches in Canada.

"Stukus can get more out of Canadian players than any man in the game. Clair, on the other hand, would be tops in the technical end of the game."

Parkdale Takes Juvenile Win

Outplayed for three quarters, Peterborough's entry in the Ontario juvenile lacrosse league were defeated by Parkdale Lions 16-9 in Toronto Tuesday night despite a fourth-quarter rally.

The Lions' Lotton whipped home two goals in the first period while the best the Petes could do was a single by J. Sutheriand. Ludlow matched Lotton's goals in the second quarter and Devine added a single as the Lions went ahead 5-2 at the half, Drury scoring the second Petes' goal.

Then in the third the Lions pressed the Petes throughout the 15 minutes and with Pulford leading the period scoring with four surged ahead 13-3. Ward and Hunt, with two goals each, and singles by Drury and Brooks, during a fourth quarter rally for Peterborough, failed to bring the Petes within range of the Lions.

The loss left the Peterborough lads with a three-and-three record in the four-team league. Their next game will be in Orillia next week.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Long ago somebody wrote a song and one of the lines went like this: "Ain't it funny what a difference just a few short hours make?"

There never were truer words spoken. Before last night's games were played and the results recorded, A Black, W. Jeffries and F. Martin were tied for league leadership, but when somebody pulled the belt off the pulley, as far as Jeffries and Martin were concerned, it left A. Black all alone leading the parade. It is now a new race altogether. We believe there are four rinks tied for second place, all one point behind the leader. From here in every game will be watched with great interest. We don't believe that there has been closer competition in the men's schedule for many years.

It's Wednesday again and with it comes the half holiday. Some of our bowlers are taking in the Cannington tournament, some are playing down in Port Hope, some are away down at Trenton and then some more are taking the day off and gone golfing. It all adds up to a day's sport.

Predicts Record For Vanduzen

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Mehlenbacher, the National Hockey League referee who currently is leading the drivers at Thorncliffe Raceway, predicts a track record for his trotter, Vanduzen, in today's $1,500 preview of the $4,000 Maple Leaf Trot, top event for trotters in the 34-day meeting.

Vanduzen, a black gelding who has been waging a tight run with a bay mare, Dolly Todd, for trotting honors through the first 20 days, came with 2-5 of a second of equalling the 2.06 3-5 mile trotting record held by M. C. Rose, in nosing out Dolly Todd last Saturday.

Vanduzen and Dolly Todd have divided eight features this season, each winning four.

Highlighted by a $34.80 payoff on Pat O'Donna, owned and driven by Jack McLennan of New Liskeard, long shots had a big day in Tuesday's events. In the first race Miss Silver Van, owned by Elmer Hussey of Alliston, paid $24.30 to win.

Buffalo Clips Toronto In 6-4 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The rampaging Buffalo Bisons retained their lead in the International League Tuesday night, downing Toronto Maple Leafs 6-4 at Toronto.

In other games, the second-place Rochester Red Wings beat Syracuse Chiefs 6-3 to snap the Tribe's four-game winning streak, Baltimore Orioles defeated Springfield Cubs 4-2 and Montreal Royals blanked Ottawa Athletics 7-0.

At Toronto, smart base running by the Bisons, combined with the Leafs' sloppy fielding, gave the Buffalo team the edge. Earl Harrist chalked up his fourth victory.

Jack Wallaesa gave the Bisons a 2-0, first-inning lead as he belted his 22nd homer of the year after Harvey Zernia was safe on an error.

RED WINGS WIN

At Rochester, outfielder Allie Clark belted a fifth-inning, three-run homer to spark the Red Wings' victory. George Condrick got credit for his seventh win, but needed nearly four innings of scoreless relief aid from Jack Crimian.

At Springfield, the Orioles saved the game with a four-run rally in the eighth. Two hits, an error and a base on balls in the eighth won the game for the Birds.

In the Canadian capital lefty Ed Roebuck pitched a masterful six-hitter as the Royals exploded for a 7-0 win.

The Athletics could bunch no more than two hits in any one inning, with Roebuck in complete command. It was his ninth win against as many losses.

Yankees Trample Indians 4-2; Chicago Clip Sox

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Could it be that New York and Chicago are going to settle down and make it a simple two-team race for the American League pennant? Today and Thursday should tell the story. The Yankees have a chance to wipe out the flag hopes for fourth-place Cleveland. The White Sox are in a position to do the same for Boston. Neither series is the kind on which you'd want to risk the family jewels although both the Yankees and the White Sox looked good in winning Tuesday night. New York whipped Cleveland Indians 4-2. Chicago took the measure of Boston by the same count with Sam Mele banging home three of the four tallies.

The Yankees hadn't looked like champions since they captured a doubleheader in Chicago a week ago Sunday and the White Sox previously had dropped six of their last nine games.

GAP WIDENING

But the gap is widening now. New York leads Chicago by 5½ games and has an 8½-game bulge over Boston and nine over Cleveland.

Brooklyn maintained its seven-game edge over Milwaukee in the National League by swamping Chicago 13-2. The Braves edged New York 2-0. Third-place Philadelphia slipped nine games behind by losing 5-4 to Cincinnati and St. Louis pulled into a fourth-place tie with the Giants with a 6-4 triumph over Pittsburgh.

In the other American League games Detroit outlasted Washington 8-5 and Philadelphia downed St. Louis 9-7 on Ray Murray's two-run homer in the eighth.

LARGEST CROWD

The largest New York crowd in two years—57,461—showed up to watch the Yankees break their Cleveland jinx. Joe Collins and Gil McDougald hit home runs and the other two Yankee tallies scored on a double by Irv Noren and a single by Phil Rizzuto in the sixth. Cleveland got its two in the seventh on a walk, a double by Al Rosen and a single by Luke Easter.

Boston Red Sox also drew their largest crowd — 35,385 — to watch them lose for the third time in 13 games. The loss went against Hector (Skinny) Brown who had won 10 this year and seven in a row. Mele and Minie Minoso accounted for all of the Chicago runs. Both had homers.

GAVE GAME AWAY

The Cubs gave the game away to Brooklyn in Chicago as a pair of errors contributed to seven unearned runs in the second inning. Johnny Podres checked the Cubs on four hits. Duke Snider, Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo hit home runs for the Dodgers. It was Hodges' 24th homer of the season and he also got a double and two singles, driving in three runs.

Al Worthington and Hoyt Wilhelm held Milwaukee to three hits but the Braves didn't need any of them to score their two runs against the Giants. Three walks, two sacrifices and a long fly got the runs home. Bob Buhl, who scored one of the runs, won his seventh game, and his third shutout.

Ray Jablonski drove in half of the Cardinals' runs against Pittsburgh with a pair of singles.

Cincinnati scored its five runs in the first four innings against the Phillies and Harry Perkowski weathered a four-run uprising in the eighth to post his ninth victory. Ted Kluszewski drove in three runs on a double and a single.

Youngest Corps Raises Its New Flag

By ED SIMON

CAMP BORDEN (CP) — The youngest corps in the Canadian Army raised its new flag this week.

The Canadian Intelligence Corps, barely 10 years old but proud of an ancestry that carries back through the two world wars, gathered its clans and celebrated a kind of coming of age.

The occasion is the official opening Friday of the Canadian School of Military Intelligence, which offers the first specialized intelligence training ever undertaken in Canada in peacetime. The opening is being preceded by Exercise Coverall, a week-long realistic, large-scale reserve army training scheme that demonstrates the role of army intelligence in modern warfare.

The ancestry of the corps is acknowledged in its green and silver insignia, a star mounted on a staff, a spear and the motto. "Action from Knowledge."

The motto originally belonged to the Canadian Corps of Guides, a unit attached to the engineers in the First World War, which was the first intelligence group in the Canadian Army.

Intelligence personel deprecate the glamorous cloak-and-dagger atmosphere that has been attributed to their job. Major R. H. (Tex) Noble, who heads the intelligence school, describes his work as teaching men how to obtain the maximum of information about the enemy and learning how to evaluate it.

The information may come from military patrols, reconnoitring aircraft, helpful or unwilling civilian informants or captured enemy prisoners.

A HEARTY LAUGH — President Eisenhower laughs heartily with Harvey V. Higley, of Marinette, Wis., who was sworn in as the new head of the Veterans Administration in a ceremony held at the White House. The President is holding Higley's commission of office.

Fight With Bay Of Fundy Tides Costing Millions Of Dollars

By DAL WARRINGTON

AMHERST, N.S. (CP)—The fight against the Bay of Fundy's giant tides is an expensive business. It has cost more than $4,000,000 in the last four years and the end isn't in sight.

The Maritime Marshland Rehabilitation Administration is trying to save some of Canada's most fertile farm lands from the sea and recapture thousands of acres already lost.

Most Maritimers think it's worth the expense. Estimates of the potential value of farm production off the marshes run as high as $5,000,000 yearly.

Many farm authorities predict a large beef cattle industry resulting from marsh reclamation. That would lessen dependence on western imports and give a new source of income to Maritime farmers.

AMBITIOUS PROJECT

This week the marshland administration announced its most ambitious project—a $1,500,000 job to protect more than 5,000 acres on the Shepody river in Albert county, New Brunswick. It will take at least two years to complete.

The Shepody project involves a 1,400-foot dam and dike across the river near the village of Harvey Bank.

There'll be a sluiceway in the dam to allow freshet waters to reach the bay and keep tides from ascending the river.

John S. Parker, director of MMRA, a federal agriculture department satellite, says he thinks a complete reclamation of all Maritime marshlands would involve 80,00 to 90,000 acres.

130 PROJECTS

The 130-odd projects completed, started or planned so far cover about 53,000 acres. Majority of them are in Nova Scotia with a smaller proportion in New Brunswick. There's one in Prince Edward Island, outside the Bay of Fundy area.

The French Acadian settlers were a century or more building the original dikes. They stood for 300 years. The MMRA hopes its work will last as long.

The warden's house is 20 miles from the nearest town in one of the loneliest spots in New Zealand and the salary is only $1,500 a year—but there were 115 applicants for the job.

Air Armada Lands In Ottawa For Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—An air armada of 53 privately-owned aircraft carrying 150 flying enthusiasts from Montana, Oregon and California landed here Tuesday on a two-week holiday tour of Canada and the United States.

There wasn't a professional pilot in the lot. The planes ranged from single-engine craft to 18-passenger size and their occupants ranged from children travelling with their parents to 70-year-old Will Peters of Portland, Ore., who learned to fly after he was 60.

Safety Drive Started In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower set in motion Tuesday a campaign to increase safety on U.S. highways and save thousands of lives and $1,250,000,000 a year.

The campaign got under way at a White House meeting to which the President had invited 30 business and civic leaders, including men from the industrial, insurance, transportation, and newspaper fields.

The President told the group he was tired of the killing on the highways of three or four times as many persons as were killed in Korea. He said that in addition to cost in human life and miseries, the financial loss runs to $3,500,000,000 to $3,700,000,000.

The Greatest Gasoline Development in 31 Years

TCP, a Shell-discovered additive, now blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, raises power up to 15% by putting an end to sparkplug misfiring due to combustion deposits. Increases spark-plug life up to 150%*

A new day in fuel for the Canadian motorist is here—a day which, for the first time, allows him to get the full power built into his engine.

Prior to Shell's discovery of TCP, the natural by-products of fuel combustion accumulating on spark plugs and in combustion chambers caused spark plugs to misfire and the fuel mixture to pre-ignite—especially when accelerating, hill climbing or touring on the open highway.

To overcome this power-wasting, fuel-wasting condition—prevalent in the majority of cars—Shell Research discovered and developed a gasoline additive, TCP. Blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, TCP prevents these deposits from causing misfiring of the spark plugs and, at the same time, controls pre-ignition. For the average motorist, this means a power boost of up to 15%, an increase in spark plug life of up to 150%, plus an increase in miles per gallon! These facts have been established by over a million miles of standard model road testing.

Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP is the most significant motor fuel advance since the introduction of tetraethyl lead in 1922.

New and old engines benefit

If you have a new car, particularly one with a high-compression engine, Shell Premium with TCP is essential if you want it to keep on delivering its original power for the normal life of the spark plugs. But high-compression or not, Shell Premium with TCP keeps your engine working like new.

Owners of older cars also benefit. Even if your car has gone 30,000 miles or more, your engine can get back much of its original power by the use of Shell Premium with TCP.

Shell Premium with TCP acts fast

So rapidly does Shell Premium with TCP counteract the deposits on spark plugs and in combustion chambers, you'll feel your engine's had a tune up before you've finished the second tankful. You'll enjoy that new car pep again!

NOW IN CANADA
But only at your Shell Dealer's

TCP was originally developed by Shell Research for aviation fuels and until now has been largely restricted to military aircraft.

Today, Shell Premium with TCP is available in this area, but only from your Shell Dealer.

SECOND INSTALMENT

August is the month for city taxes another instalment bite of property owner's capital. The due date is Thursday Aug. 6 for the south and centre wards; Aug. 16 west and north wards; Aug. 20 Ashburnham and Claraday wards.

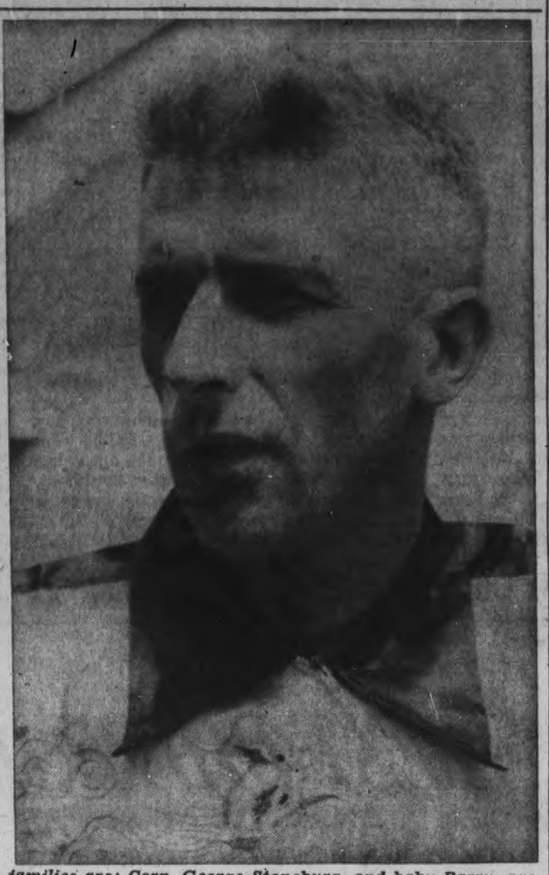
STILL MARKING TIME

In the assumption, still being stretched indefinitely, that Morrow Park is not for community centres, even when they are vital to some agricultural interests, there may be some stray question about blasting ground at McDonnel and Monaghan Road. The fact is that the city doesn't yet own the property. They haven't received the deed from Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd.

Induct Minister At Lakefield United Church

LAKEFIELD—The Rev. H. C. Wolfraim will be inducted into the United Church charge here Friday at 8:00 p.m.

Mr. Wolfraim, recently called to his new pastoral charge, has arrived in Lakefield with his wife and family.



REV. H. C. WOLFRAIM

Taking part in Friday night's induction service at the United Church will be the Rev. N. Cole, of Hastings, the Rev. H. K. Wright, of Norwood, the Rev. R. G. Newman, of Havelock, and the Rev. J. A. Steed of Lakefield, who was recently elected treasurer of Peterborough Presbytery.

Mr. Wolfraim has served in the Bay of Quinte Conference throughout his ordained ministry in various presbyteries. He is now to become a member of the Peterborough Presbytery for the first time.

For the past seven years, he has been secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church. He is also the Conference representative on the executive of the General Council.

Another Hole-In-One

When S. C. (Slim) Pearson started looking for his ball after he had teed off at the 12th hole, the last place he thought of finding it was in the cup. But after he had searched about 10 minutes in the rough, someone else found it there. He had scored a hole-in-one—within a week after Jean Castle had shot one on the same course. He was playing with Stew Williamson and Ed Dixon.

2 Wounded Men Arrive In Toronto

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The Public Relations Department of the Canadian Army announced on Tuesday that out of three Korean casualties that arrived by air at Malton Airport, Toronto, from Japan on Tuesday morning, two were from Campbellford.

Pte. B. A. Hennan, whose next of kin is his mother, Mrs. Rozella Heenan of Doxsee Ave., is one of the wounded. He is expected to be transferred to Chorley Park Hospital. The other Campbellford lad is Pte. K. S. Schweir of Maple St., whose next of kin is his mother, Mrs. Alta Schweir.

Little Chance Truce To Last

Two Peterborough veterans, just returned from Korea, echo the feeling of Toronto soldiers that the truce in Korea will be short. "Syngman Rhee is like a god to the South Koreans. What he says is what they believe," says Corporal William Badour, 59 Lee St. "He wants a united Korea, and they want the same thing." Another veteran, Corporal George Stoneburg, reported he had noticed the same feeling. He recalled that when the first news reached Seoul that an armistice would definitely be signed: "They paraded around with big posters that said: 'Canadians won't fight; we will fight ourselves,' and similar sentiments."

But, both corporals say, that the South Koreans alone wouldn't have a ghost of a chance against the Chinese and North Koreans. Both say the RoK troops are good fighters, but there just aren't enough of them, nor do they have the munitions they would need to carry on such a war.

"I'd give the truce a few weeks," said Corp. Badour. "The South Koreans figure that if the UN troops pull out, then the North Koreans and Chinese will just come back into South Korea.

"That's why they say they're going to fight. They'd rather die fighting for what they think is right than let the Communists overrun their country.

"They're brave enough, but they couldn't handle a war against the Communists."

Corp. Stoneburg, a veteran of 13 months in the line with the Royal Canadian Regiment, said the same thing.

"They're tough and they aren't afraid of anything, but they wouldn't have a chance alone against the North Koreans and the Chinese."

Stoneburg, who won his corporal's "hooks" in the field, was glad to be home. He saw a baby boy, just short of a year old, that he'd never seen. Besides that, he arrived home on the seventh anniversary of his wedding. On Saturday, his youngest child will be a year old.

"There were a few times I didn't think I'd get here even to see my family," he said. "Like the time I thought I was in a pretty safe spot until I saw a Chinese patrol flare go up about 25 yards away from me.

"Then there was the time I got cut off when I was patrolling. I was sure they were Communists, because I hadn't been told of one of our patrols being out in the area I was in. I got back anyhow, after ordering artillery fire if any shooting started. Then I found out it was some of our own men out there."

Badour, with the Army's medical corps for 13 months, spent most of his time in a hospital not far from the front.

His unit started providing hospital facilities in tents, then they themselves built a hospital of a more permanent nature. Hospital costs in their unit were about $2.50 a day, compared to $13 a day per patient for U.S. field hospitals.

"We didn't give worse service than they did, it was just that we built our own hospital. Most of the boys had trades back home; I knew the cement trade and laid all the floors in the hospital.

"We'd work a regular day in the hospital, then keep on the construction job until two or three in the morning. Just as soon as we'd get the floor laid in an empty ward, and the cement was dry, we'd move another ward in it, and start on the one that was just emptied."

Both men are glad to be back home, but both plan to stay in the army.

Says Stoneburg: "The army's a good life."

Says Badour: "I'd like to get a posting to Japan.. It's a wonderful country."

Learning New Artificial Respiration May Save a Life

By reading this you may save a life this summer.

Despite the urgings of the St. John Ambulance Association, Red Cross, and other safety groups, many people still do not know a method of artificial respiration to be used on a near-drowned person. Frequently the lack of knowledge and waste of time—at a stage when every second is vital—is fatal for the victim.

Most of the safety groups have now abandoned the old Schafer prone-pressure method of artificial respiration and have adopted the back-pressure arm-lift method. This technique was perfected by a Dane, Holger Nielsen in 1931. After 20 years its advantages became recognized on this side of the Atlantic and is now the generally accepted way of trying to revive victims of electrical shock, asphyxia and drowning.

USED TWO YEARS

To learn more about this "new" method the Examiner interviewed Captain William Sorrie of the Peterborough Fire Department, an expert on resuscitation. Capt. Sorrie said that members of the Peterborough Fire Department have been using the Holger Nielsen method for a couple of years now—even before it was officially approved.

"We find it's better all round," he said. "The person you're working on gets more oxygen into his lungs than in the Schafer method. It's easier to teach; and the operator has less difficulty using this method."

Basically the Holger Nielsen technique is in two phases: The push and the pull, repeated 12 times a minute to simulate the normal breathing cycle of an adult lying in a prone position.

(Before starting artificial respiration, however, Capt. Sorrie recommends bending the victim over from the waist. This permits some water to run out of the victim without the necessity of "pumping" it out. After this action, place the victim in a warm, dry place if possible, or on a blanket so body heat can be maintained. Lay him on his stomach with his elbows spread and one hand resting on another. His forehead should be placed on his hands and his head turned slightly to one side. Clear any sand or other obstruction from his mouth and pull his tongue out.)

CYCLE USED

The operator takes up his position on either his right or left knee—or both — in front of the victim's head. Here is the cycle as described by Capt. Sorrie and the safety agencies:

Position 1—Place your hands—thumbs almost together and fingers spread out—on his back, the heels of your hands just below his shoulder blades.

Position 2—Rock forward and keep elbows straight. Press downward evenly until firm pressure is met. This empties the lungs and completes the "push" phase.

Position 3—Rock back, easing up on the pressure slowly. Then take hold of the victim's arms just above the elbows.

Position 4—Draw his arms up and toward you until you meet some resistance from his chest and shoulders. This causes the lungs to expand and draw in air. Then let the victim's arms fall back into place and drop your own arms. This ends the "pull" phase of the Holger Nielsen method.

Repeat this about 12 times a minute for an adult and slightly faster—15 to 18 times a minute—for an infant. The artificial respiration cycle as described above, in the four positions, should take the operator about five seconds.

A doctor should be called as soon as possible.

"There was a tendency in the old Schafer method to go too fast," summed up Capt. Sorrie. "The operator doesn't have to time himself by counting when he uses the Holger Nielsen method; he just goes through the push and pull motions at a steady natural speed, and that works out to about 12 cycles a minute."

"Everybody should learn artificial respiration," he said. "You may save a life by your knowledge and there's a lot of satisfaction in that."

LIFE SAVING METHOD—Hot weather like this always induces crowds of people to desert the city and try to cool off by swimming in the Trent Canal, Otonabee River or one of the Kawartha lakes. With this pleasure goes the constant risk of drownings. So you may save a life by instantly applying artificial respiration to a near-drowning victim, here is the latest technique in artificial respiration—approved by the Peterborough Fire Department and various safety groups. Two girls are here demonstrating the Holger Nielsen method of artificial respiration. The operator exerts pressure vertically downward (one); releases the pressure and slides hands under arms above the elbows (two); and lifts arms upwards as she rocks backwards, drawing arms toward her until she feels a pull from the chest and shoulders. Cycle takes five seconds, i.e. 12 times a minute.

Motorcyclists Injured In Collision

Glanced Off Truck Five Miles North of City

Two motorcyclists, Wayne Hamilton and Stanley Saas, were injured at noon today when the machine they were riding glanced off a truck on the Lakefield highway. Both were taken to Civic Hospital.

Hamilton, 15, who lives at 297 Wolsley St., suffered head and shoulder injuries.

Saas, 45, of Queen St., Lakefield, has a broken let arm. Hospital authorities report both are in satisfactory condition.

According to another motorist, George Pomeroy, 28, of 956 Monaghan Rd., the truck, driven by Robert Fulton, 55, of Buckhorn, northbound on the highway, "started creeping towards our side of the road."

Pomeroy was driving ahead of the cyclists.

The Peterborough man said he was forced off the highway by the oncoming truck. He continued along the shoulder; stopped, then got out to see the cyclists lying on the side of the road with the machine.

Point of impact has been determined at about three and a half feet west of the east lane.

Fulton, driver of the truck, said the motorcycle was "pretty near over to the middle of the road." The truck sustained only a dented left front fender while the motorcycle's handlebars and windshield were broken.

The two men were rushed to Civic Hospital by Nisbett's ambulance.

OPP Constable Thomas Armitage who investigated the crash said charges would be laid against Fulton.

After the impact, the motorcycle slid 20 feet on its crash and handlebars before coming to rest in a pool of its own oil. The two riders were not thrown off.

Another motorist described one of the two men as "cut up pretty bad." Both were conscious, however.

Start Grading Of Roads In Subdivision

Bulldozers have started rough-grading roads in the city's largest subdivision of recent years.

It is the farmland of Hugh Stewart, well-known horseman and supporter of the exhibition which is being divided into 230 lots for a strictly residential area.

The property encompasses the Stewart farmhouse, spreading from the Wallis Heights subdivision on the west to the Manorhill Road district on the east. It runs north from Weller St. about halfway to the westerly extension of Park Hill Road.

Price range of the houses will be from medium prices—about $10,000—to $18,000 and there-reabouts. Houses on the western portion of the subdivision will be in the more expensive class, with less costly homes being built on the sloping and lower land to to east.

A large, and as yet unidentified, construction company has purchased a block of 90 lots in the eastern section of this development.

There are several points in which the Stewart subdivision differs from earlier developments in the district. Grading of roads is done by the development company, and sewers are installed.

Moreover, the design of every home is subject to the approval of the company, whose agent is the Ridout Real Estate Co.

"In this way, we will be able to prevent long rows of similar houses being built," said John Bowes, manager for Ridout's.

"There will be some variation in the subdivision; houses will be set back different distances and only the main roads of the development will be straight," he added.

The subdivision, restricted by the district zoning bylaw to single dwellings, has the approval of the city planning commission and the Ontario planning board. The development company was offered a chance to zone part of it as a shopping centre, but turned the offer down.

Feeling was that the area should be "definitely residential."

Price of lots will range from $20 to $25 a foot; cheapest therefore will be $1,200, with the most costly about $1,900. Grading and installation of sewers by the company will mean lower taxes for the subsequent years.

Much Ado

Traffic into Ashburnham Tuesday midnight was snarled up as dozens of motorists followed the fire trucks to a fire reported at Caddy St. To the spectators both the trip and the fire were disappointments. The blaze turned out to be a smouldering bonfire behind an apartment house under construction at 328 Caddy St., and they had a difficult time turning around and getting home in the dense traffic. Shortly before the Ashburnham alarm the firemen went to the Peterborough Canoe Co. factory where low pressure caused the sprinkler system to register an alarm at the fire hall.

Four Injured In 2 Accidents In District

Four people were injured in two district car accidents Tuesday night. Three of them are in hospital.

Two Peterborough fishermen were driving home when their car was in headon collision with a northbound car driven by William Edwards, 56, of RR 2, Lakefield. The accident occurred on Highway 28, just north of Lakefield.

Edwards was taken to Civic Hospital with a cut on his head and another cut on his left arm. Both cuts had to be stitched. His condition today is satisfactory.

The two Peterborough men were Alan G. Tingley, 28, of 554 Hamilton St., driver of the car, who received a cut lip; and Everett Stuart, 37, of 210 Stewart St., the owner, who received a bruising and complained of a sore leg. Stuart is remaining in Civic Hospital for observation. The condition of both men is satisfactory.

Heavy damage was caused to both vehicles. OPP Constables Harold Armstrong and Ken Barber are investigating the accident.

Mrs. Lucy Bullock, 64, of Queen St., Lakefield, was thrown from her car and injured at 7 p.m. when her car was in collision with another car near Bethel Church in Dummer township. Mrs. Bullock received a cut on her left leg and a bruised shoulder but she did not require medical attention.

Her northbound 1929-model car was knocked sideways by the impact with the eastbound car driven by Gerald Robson, 53, of 14 Stewart St. Fortunately for Mrs. Bullock, her car had almost stopped when the door swung open and she was tossed out onto the road.

She had visited her daughter and was going from Warsaw to her home in Lakefield when she was in the collision at the intersection near Bethel Church.

Robson's 1948-model car received $300 damage and Mrs. Bullock's car $75. OPP Constable George Louth investigated.

300 Back At Quaker Next Week

Production Slowly Gets Underway After Long Strike

Production is gradually getting underway at the Quaker Oats Co. plant here after the three-month strike that ended nine days ago. By next Wednesday about 300 of the 460 production workers should be back on their jobs.

"We're pretty well cleaned up now," Lewis H. Ingram, vice president in charge of personnel, said today. "It's the business end of things that's deciding how fast we can get going. We can get into production as fast as the orders come in."

James G. Wharry, company general manager, is now in the United Kingdom drumming up business. He is establishing connections for a flour market; he left a week ago, as soon as Mr. Ingram got back from Saskatoon when the strike at that plant was also settled.

The trip to England was planned before the strike broke out April 22. It is a follow-up to his previous plane trip through North and Central Africa and the Near East.

All departments at the Peterborough plant are now operating with the exception of the bag factory and employees are being called back in on a department-wide seniority basis.

Employees who have not yet been called back to work have been out 14 weeks today and many of them are feeling the financial pinch.

Times Change Buggy, Cutter Sell For 25 Cents

The drastic change that took place in the means of travel that was shunted along by Henry Ford's revolution was sharply accented at the sale Tuesday afternoon of the farm stock and implements at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Magee in the Ida district of Cavan Township.

From the driveshed were brought a buggy and cutter, neither of which has seen the highway since government began to pave it. Even before that refinement set in, the discarding of the long established equipment of country journeying had begun.

The fact is hard to believe. They sold at 25 cents each.

A young relative of the family, who is not given to sentimentality, remarked today: "I could have cried when I saw the buggy pulled out into the yard where Ted Jackson of Port Perry was auctioneer. Honestly, there was hardly a mark on it. The whip was still in its holder, just as some one had left it once upon a time, probably Mr. Magee, when he drove home in it for the last time.

"The cutter was just as good. They were first class pieces of farm equipment. But nobody today has the slightest practical interest in them."

Customs and values that once flourished, and personal properties that once did material service to the sense of well being, appeared to the sensitive young man to be represented by the buggy and cutter that had been reduced to antiques.

A buggy of its quality once sold for $75 or $80, and the cutter probably $65, when rural dollars were fewer than they are today. Mr. and Mrs. Magee are both 76 years old. They have seen a broad revolution not only in their means of country travel but also in the practice of agriculture.

Drew Promises Branded Death-Bed Appeal By CCF

PONTYPOOL (ENS) — George Drew's "death-bed appeal" to workers and farmers through his promise to raise exemptions won't fool labor, predicted C. H. Millard, CCF candidate in York West and head of the United Steelworkers Union.

As for the Liberals, said Mr. Millard, their farm policy was a blunder, and the Hon. James Gardiner stood a good chance of staying at home or finding another seat after the election.

Mr. Millard was speaking here Tuesday night in support of Roy Armstrong, CCF candidate in Durham riding.

"Mr. Drew is making his bid for votes among farmers and workers with promises to lift income tax exemptions. But Mr. Drew has not even hinted that he will make any change in the almost complete exemption already given people who get their income from investments. I don't believe that labor will be fooled by this death-bed appeal . . ."

BLUNDERED

He said that it was now clear the Liberal government had "blundered badly" in neglecting British and Commonwealth markets.

"Actually 'neglect' is a mild term. The government has deliberately put obstacles in the way by accepting the United States policy of insisting on dollars in place of sterling payments.

"Today we have largely lost our traditional British market for cheese, bacon and apples and our market for wheat is in jeopardy."

Mr. Drew, on the other hand, was "long on promises but terribly short on performance. He accuses the Liberals of over-taxing, but the government which he headed in Ontario has been over-taxing in the same way since 1943 and to the tune of something over $200,000,000."

Dealing with his own party, Mr. Millard said the CCF had a socially and economically sound plan to meet the needs and aspirations of Canadians in a world of great social change.

COST NO MORE

"National health insurance would cost no more, but it would provide everyone who needs care with the necessary high quality services regardless of the thickness of the wallet.

"We believe the Canadian government is not making an adequate contribution in non-military aid in causes such as the heroic action taken by the workers in East Germany . . . the famine conditions in Pakistan."

Mr. Armstrong also spoke, dealing with socialist governments in other countries, mostly European. Spencer Cheshire, president of the Durham CCF Association, introduced the speaker and Lucas Nicholls also spoke briefly.

Howe May Fight His Last Election

VICTORIA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Tuesday night "I think this will be my last election" and that "I want to make sure the Liberal party is strong when I leave it."

He said he is fighting harder than ever in the campaign for the Aug. 10 federal election because "there is something more than having the Liberal party returned to power. . . We are trying to keep the party strong."

Mr. Howe urged a return to the two-party system in Canada and said the opposition in Ottawa isn't numerically weak. "It is weak because it is divided into three oppositions."

Cripple Rescued From Detroit River

AMHERSTBURG (CP) — Terry Lucas, 30, a cripple, was rescued from the Detroit river Tuesday after he crawled from a car, made his way across the highway on his hands and knees and entered the water.

Doctors and fire department officials revived Lucas 30 minutes after he was pulled from the water by an unidentified man.

Apparently he got the urge to go for a swim while sitting in his father's car.

Study Addition

COBOURG (ENS)—The Separate School Board has been going over architect's drawings with the view of ascertaining the cost of an addition to the present school. Growth of the town in the past few years has brought a large number to the parish, and new pupils have put a greater burden on the already overtaxed school facilities. There has been no announcement as to when the school addition will be built but it may come before the close of the summer.

OUT FROM UNDER

EDMONTON (CP)—H. M. Miller drilling a test hole for oil 13 miles west of here, hit a water and sand formation about 50 feet down. Up came an ugly-looking creature about five inches long, identified as a salamander, a smal frog-like animal rarely found at such depths.

Entertainment Cost Canada $2,980 Not $35,000

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday night that entertainment in Rome cost Canada $2,980, and not $35,000 as claimed by the Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. St Laurent, in an outdoor address here, was replying to criticism made at a previous meeting by John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of the last House for Lake Centre, who was reported to have charged that External Affairs Minister Pearson once "threw" a $35,000 party for diplomats in Rome and did not show this amount on public accounts.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Pearson had replied in Ottawa that Mr. Diefenbaker was "as wrong as any person could be." There had been some entertainment in Rome while Mr. Pearson was chairman of the North Atlantic council. But the total bill for all the entertainment was only $2,980, not $35,000, and all of the amount had been shown on public accounts.

NO INTERFERENCE

Mr. Diefenbaker was also reported to have said that the elevation of J. W. Pickersgill, former clerk of the Privy Council, to cabinet rank would mean that the government intended to continue "interference" with operations of CNR hotels. Mr. Pickersgill was reported to have been involved in the transfer of the manager of Winnipeg's Fort Garry hotel following a visit of the prime minister.

Mr. St. Laurent maintained that the Liberal government has not interfered with CNR operations in the 18 years it has been in office.

Large-Scale Inquiry Hinted By Graydon

TORONTO (CP)—Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative candidate for Peel, Tuesday night hinted that his party, if elected Aug. 10, will launch a large-scale investigation of the Liberal government's activities in the hopes of producing another report along the lines of one made by George Currie, Montreal accountant.

Mr. Graydon, Brampton lawyer, said that after the Currie report on a breakdown in administration of the army works services "the governmen. never let him through any other doors."

"We want to be given the keys by the electors of Canada to open other doors and see what's been going on," he told a garden party in suburban Weston.

School Near Completion

COBOURG (ENS)—Work on the east end public school is nearing completion, some interior trim work and landscaping being all that remains to be done. The school will be ready for use by the start of the fall term and will greatly relieve overcrowding at the central school. It was built at a cost of $288,000.

Mt. Etna Grumbles

CATANIA, Sicily (Reuters)—Mount Etna, Europe's biggest active volcano, today belched black smoke and scattered a light shower of ashes over nearby Catania. The activity, the first for nine months, sent geologists hurrying to the 10,000-foot volcano. But they reassured frightened locals that there was no danger of a full-scale eruption.

REPRESENTS CANADA — Lt.-Col. Don Dailley of Ottawa and Kingston, Ont., of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, is the Canadian member of the armistice supervisory subcommission in Korea. He has been in Tokyo with commission members drawn from other United Nations powers represented in the fighting, awaiting the call to Korea.

Dulles Almost Wipes Out Deal On Korean Security

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States State Secretary Dulles has virtually eliminated the possibility of making a deal with the Reds for unification of Korea.

Instead, he appears to be shaping a policy similar to that of the West towards Germany—sticking to principles, counting on the attraction exerted by the free world on Communist satellites, and constantly keeping open the possibility of unification.

As applied to the Korean situation, such a policy contemplates failure of the forthcoming political conference to achieve Korean unification. Thus it sharpens the problem of what to do about South Korean President Syngman Rhee's threat to resume fighting for unity if it is not accomplished by agreement 90 days after the conference opens.

Dulles will fly to Korea, leaving here Sunday. One of his principal tasks well may be to try to persuade Rhee against resuming the war, whatever happens in the political meeting.

WON'T BUY UNITY

Meeting reporters for the first time since the armistice, Dulles said Tuesday:

"As far as I personally am concerned, I think I have made it clear I would not be prepared on behalf of the United States to try to buy the unity of Korea at the price of a concession which would involve bringing Communist China into the United Nations and, above all, into the security council."

If the issue arose, he said, the United States would use its influence with other countries to swing a vote against UN admission of the Peiping regime.

Under questioning, he declined to say that the United States would, if necessary, veto Red Chinese membership, but he did say that the United States has the right to veto if it wants to use it.

Despite Dulles' assertion, most UN legal experts doubt that a U.S. veto alone could keep Red China out of the UN. The question is not one of admitting a new member—which is subject to veto in the security council—but of which Chinese regime is entitled to China's membership.

There is no veto in any UN body but the security council. A two-thirds vote of the 60 UN members would seat the Communist Chinese in the general assembly. And most UN legal sources have contended in the past that "representation" on the security council is a procedural matter, which is not subject to the veto.

Windsor Man Last Casualty Of Korean War

OTTAWA (CP)—What may be the last Canadian casualty list of the Korean war—battle casualties at least—was issued by the army here Tuesday.

It contained the names of three men wounded in action, one of whom may be the last Canadian casualty of three years of bloody fighting on the Asian peninsula.

Possibly the last casualty is Tr. James Murrill Nickerson of Windsor, Ont.

Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent with Canadian forces in Korea, said in a dispatch from Seoul that Nickerson was wounded outside his Sherman tank by a shell fragment at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, 17½ hours before the armistice was signed and 29½ hours before the cease-fire.

Nickerson is a member of "A" squadron, Lord Strathcona's Horse.

The other two names on the army's 204th casualty list of the Korean war—the first list was issued March 2, 1951—were those of Pte. Gordon Arthur Messenger of Egmondville, Ont., and Pte. Ivan Ellemerg Lunn of Windsor, N.S. Both are members of the Royal Canadian Regiment.

TOTAL CASUALTIES

These three brought the total army casualties to 1,502, including 291 dead, 1,072 wounded, 26 missing, 95 injured and 18 captured. This does not include two prisoners-of-war released by the Communists.

In addition, the navy has reported three killed in action, three wounded and two lost overboard. The RCAF has reported one officer missing in action.

The latest list:

Wounded in Action

Lunn, Ivan Ellemerg, Pte., RCR; Mrs. Robert Brown (grandmother) RR 1, Windsor, N.S.

Messenger, Gordon Arthur, Pte., RCR; Mrs. Margaret Messenger (mother) PO. Egmondville, Ont.

Nickerson, James Murrill, Tr.; Lord Strathcona's Horse, Windsor, Ont.; Mrs. Frances Newell (mother), Kentville, N.S.

Cruise Ship Cayuga Saved From Scrapyard

TORONTO (CP) — The cruise ship Cayuga, last of Canada Steamship Lines' Great Lakes passenger vessels, was saved from the scrapyard Tuesday with the announcement she had been bought from the CSL by the Cayuga Steamships Company Ltd.

Another $25,000 will have to be raised to complete the $100,000 purchase price and still another $40,000 for working capital, the company estimated. However, plans call for the vessel to be back on its old Toronto-Queenston run by 1954.

Pass Federation Bill

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Lords Tuesday granted final approval without a vote of a government bill to set up the federation of Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland. The House of Commons passed the bill Monday night by a 288-242 vote. It now awaits royal assent.

CAMPAIGN'S FINAL DRIVE—In the final drive of the federal election campaign Prime Minister St. Laurent is speaking and travelling mainly in Ontario. His daughter, Mrs. S. Samson, accompanies him on his visit to London, Ont.

Hotel Workers Given Shorter Week

OTTAWA (CP)—Some 2,000 employees of six major Canadian Pacific Railway hotels across Canada will get a shorter work week with same take-home pay under a new working agreement announced here Tuesday night by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers (CCL).

The CBRE said the contract, signed Tuesday at Montreal, is for two years with a clause which would allow for wage adjustments after one year. The contract also provides for the irrevocable check-off of union dues.

Working hours are reduced from 44 to 40 hours for employees of the Empress Hotel, Victoria; the Banff Springs Hotel, Banff, Alta.; the Palliser, Calgary; the Saskatchewan, Regina; and the Royal Alexandra, Winnipeg.

SIXTH HOTEL

The sixth CPR hotel covered by the contract is the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, where the work week is reduced from 48 to 44 hours.

The CBRE said negotiations will follow for six Canadian National Railways hotels:

The Bessborough, Saskatoon; the Prince Edward, Brandon, Man.; the Fort Garry, Winnipeg; the Prince Arthur, Port Arthur; the Charlottetown, Charlottetown; and Jasper Park Lodge, Jasper, Alta.

No Immediate Plans To Reduce Brigade

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department announced Tuesday it has no immediate plans to reduce the strength of Canada's 7,000-man 25th infantry brigade in Korea.

The department in a statement said the 2nd Highland battalion will proceed to Korea as scheduled to replace the 3rd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

The Highland battalion now is stationed at the Wainwright, Alta., army camp undergoing intensive training. It is slated to move to Korea early in October. The Patricias return from Korea the same month.

Teamsters Union Prepared To Hold Out Long Time

TORONTO (CP)—James Hoffa of Detroit vice-president of the International Teamsters Union (AFL), said Tuesday the union is prepared to hold out as long as necessary to win its demands.

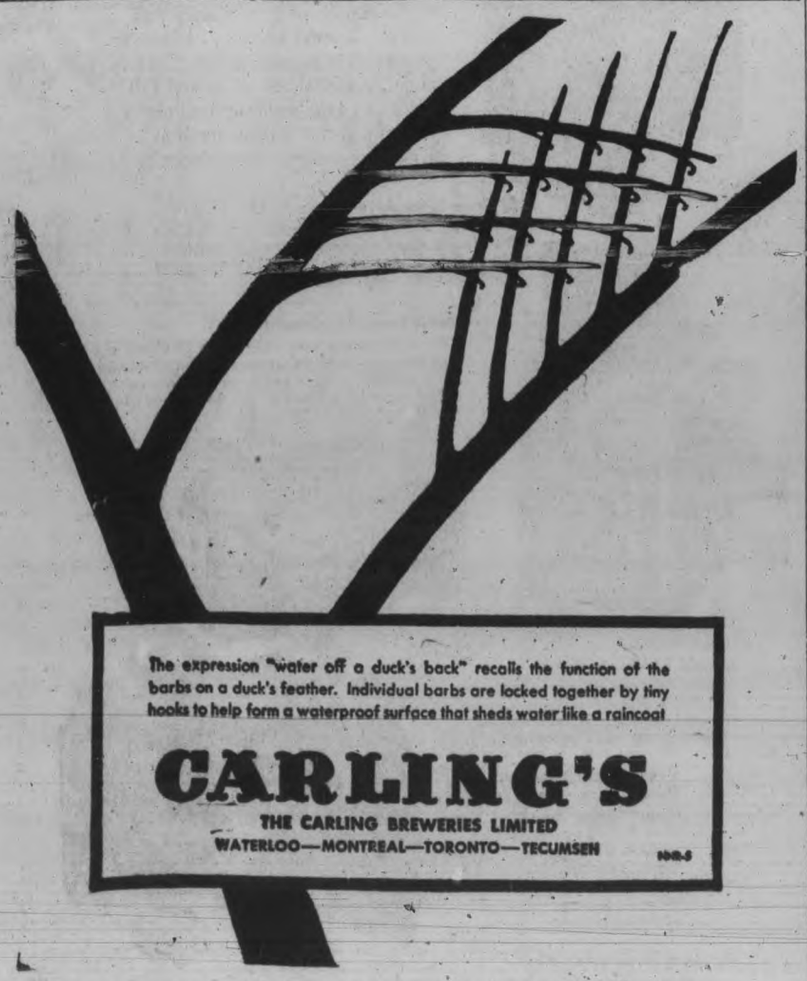
Mr. Hoffa outlined in a telephone interview from Detroit the terms on which the striking locals in Windsor and Hamilton would end their walkout against trucking operators in southwestern Ontario. The terms differ widely from the "final" offer of the operators.

Where the operators had offered seven cents retroactive to Jan. 1, 1953, the union proposals for city drivers are for 22 cents, of which 15 cents is retroactive to Jan. 1. The operators had offered an additional three cents on Oct. 1 and another three cents on Jan. 1, 1954 for a two-year agreement.

For highway drivers the union wants an increase equivalent to 20 cents an hour.

MOVE CRITICIZED

Meanwhile, a move by Neil MacDonald, ousted business agent of the Montreal local of the teamsters union, to form a new union among Quebec and Ontario transport drivers, was criticized by two Toronto union leaders.



The union officials are Thomas Lees, secretary-treasurer of the Toronto joint council of the teamsters, and A. F. MacArthur, who himself was summarily dismissed by the international organization as Eastern Canadian representative of the teamsters.

Mr. MacArthur said Mr. MacDonald's action appeared to be an effort to advance personal interests.

UEW Strike At Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The United Electrical Workers called a strike at the North American Cyanamid Company Tuesday night just as the night shift was scheduled to report for work.

The strike was called just one day after the seven-day cooling off period which followed conciliation proceedings that failed to bring company and union together. The union was certified as bargaining agent for the firm Jan. 27. A contract has not yet been signed.

Company officials said a majority report of the conciliation board recommended pay increases that would cost the company four cents an hour. The firm agreed to all terms of the recommendation except union security. The union refused to accept a contract without this clause.

Pickets were thrown around the main gates, as some 750 members of the bargaining unit launched the strike.

Approve $1,500,000 For River Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Senate appropriations committee Tuesday approved $1,500,000 for remedial work on the Niagara river. The bill must be approved by the senate.

The money is to finance a part of the U.S. share of the cost of work on the Niagara as provided in a United States-Canada agreement to preserve the beauty of Niagara Falls.

A TANK TO FREEDOM—Three Czech refugees raise a tank toast to their freedom in Regensberg, Germany, in the Western Zone. They are part of a group of eight Czechs who crashed through the Iron Curtain in a home-made tank which was two years in building and easily crashed through the barbed wire fence between East and West. No shots were fired, however, by the Reds. Left to right are: Josef Pisarik; Libuse Clous, wife of a U.S. Army vet; and Vaclac Uhlik, the tank builder.

Reaume Urges Gov't Use Trucking Control

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Arthur J. Reaume Tuesday urged the provincial government to use its "control over the trucking industry" in an attempt to settle the strike of some 1,500 employees of Western Ontario trucking firms who "are not receiving an adequate wage."

The mayor said in a letter to Premier Frost that the province has control over truck owners through its granting of public commercial vehicle licences.

Because the government grants the licences it "has some control" over the industry and, although "I know that it is sometimes difficult for the government to dictate policy," it could indicate what it thinks might be a fair wage.

Power Hearings Delayed Till '54

WASHINGTON (AP) — Further Senate hearings on a bill to authorize private U.S. development of new power plants at Niagara Falls will be delayed until next year.

Senator Edward Martin, (Rep.-Pa.) chairman of the Senate public works committee, said Tuesday the nearness of Congress' adjournment made it "inadvisable" to hold hearings until a later date.

The committee last week heard Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York testify in opposition to a House-approved bill to give five New York private utilities the right to apply to the power commission for a licence to construct the estimated $400,000,000 development.

Dewey argued for state development of the resource which, engineers estimate, will virtually triple the present annual production at the falls.

Buried By Earth, Pair Rescued

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — "Take care of my wife, Cornelius."

These words were uttered Tuesday by a man buried beneath more than four feet of earth on the Base Line road

Joe Spitters, 29-year-old Dutch immigrant, had apparently given up all hope of rescue when he pleaded with his friend Cornelius Huysmans to look after his young wife and four-week-old baby.

After an hour's frantic digging with shovels and their hands, fellow workers brought Spitters and a colleague, 65-year-old Paul Dimintirck to the surface. They were rushed to Victoria Hospital where their condition was described as satisfactory.

The men were digging a trench when the earth gave way and trapped them.

Charge Mother Killed Son, 3

CHICAGO (AP)—Police said a 28-year-old mother related early today she tied her three-year-old son to a water pipe, then beat him to death with a chair, breaking his arms, legs and nose.

The child's body was found Tuesday night by police who went to the family's apartment to investigate a neighbor's complaint that the mother, Mrs. Veronica Burowsky, was trying to conceal an injured child.

Police said the woman related she beat the boy, Peter Jr., because he was disobedient.

Mrs. Burowsky and her 35-year-old husband, Peter Sr., have three other small children. Police said they found this note from Mrs. Burowsky to her husband in the kitchen of the apartment:

"Pete: Well, the bum got up again this a.m. same thing. I got him in a closet. You can feed him supper if you want to, and then tie him up again. . . ."

The woman was held without charge.

50,000 Troops Sent By UN Countries

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—UN ground forces sent to Korea, other than those of the United States and South Korea, were somewhere between 40,000 and 50,000 men, according to the best available information here.

These came from 15 of 60 member countries, approximately half of them from the British Commonwealth. No exact figures were available on the size of the United States and South Korean forces except in terms of divisions.

The United States contributed six infantry and one marine division—plus an undisclosed number of supporting troops — and South Korea had 16 ready combat divisions at the time of the armistice.

This information came partially from UN official reports and partially from figures obtained directly from the participating countries.

In addition to the ground forces, many of the same 15 countries also contributed either air or naval assistance or both. A 16th country—South Africa—provided a fighter squadron, but no ground or naval forces.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate, recently told the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee that 10 of every 100 men in the forward zone in Korea came from UN countries other than the United States. He did not give any figures, however.

The largest fighting unit, in addition to U.S. and South Korean forces, was the oversized British Commonwealth division which numbered approximately 20,000 men. Britain supplied about 10,000 of these, with the others coming from Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Next to Britain, Canada had the largest force in Korea with approximately 8,000 there at all times. Australia had a total of 5,500 men in Korea, about half of them ground forces. New Zealand supplied a ground force of about 2,000.

Other countries with ground forces: Belgium, one battalion; Colombia, one battalion; Ethiopia, 1,069 men; France, one battalion; Luxembourg, one infantry company; Greece, one battalion; Netherlands, one battalion; Philippines, 5,000 men; Thailand, 4,000 men and Turkey, 6,086 men.

Campbellford Not Decided What To Do About Hydro

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — Members of the town council and the Public Utilities Commission met here on Monday night to discuss a report on the local power situation, made by C. U. Peeling last week.

Mr. Peeling is a former Campbellford resident who had a great deal to do with the design and construction of the local Crowe Bay power plant. He has had wide experience both in the United States and Canada and is distinguished in the field of engineering. He was introduced to the joint meeting by A. J. Meyers, chairman of the Commission board.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Ralph Locke, Reeve Wm. Nicholas, Deputy Reeve Douglas Maybee, Councillors P. H. Macmillan, Geo. Free, F. M. Rutherford and W. Burgess. Commissioners A. J. Meyers, C. Newman and R. McGregor represented the Commission board.

SITUATION GRAVE

In addressing the group, Mr. Peeling said that the power situation in Campbellford is grave. He told of investigating the problem from all angles and explained his report point by point. He said it all boiled down to the fact that Campbellford needs more power and the only place from which she can get that power was from the HEPC. He said he had come to the conclusion that Campbellford should enter into a contract with the Hydro, so that in case of emergency, or during a period of increased demand, the power would be available.

He asked if any councillor or commission board members present had any other ideas to offer, and invited questions and discussion on the subject. He urged co-operation between council and the commission as being necessary to solve the problem.

It was pointed out that Campbellford's contract with the HEPC ran out in October, 1952, and that since that time, Hydro has been carrying Campbellford over their peak periods, when power would have been short otherwise. Hydro did not have to do this, and with no contract the extra power could be cut off at any time. Mr. Peeling said that the PUC had received good co-operation from the Hydro.

SELL TO HYDRO?

Councillor Maybee suggested that the local plant should have been sold in 1947 when there was no actual shortage. This came after a suggestion was made that the plant be sold to the Hydro—if Hydro wanted it.

Mr. Peeling told the meeting that the town had nothing to trade in bargaining with Hydro, and that the local plant had no power to sell, as it has had in former years. Commissioner Newman said that the town still had the water rights at the Crowe Bay plant.

Mr. Peeling suggested one solution would have been for the town to have purchased the Healey Falls plant a number of years ago when it was offered for sale. There would have been no power problem now.

Commissioner Newman pointed out that the town could sell the plant to Hydro and put the money received into Hydro bonds. The interest on the bonds could be used to reduce taxes in place of the grant the town now receives from the PUC. Mr. Peeling said that the question would have to have more study.

$10,000 REBATE

Some discussion arose as to value of the local plant at the present time, and commissioner Meyers said he believed the plant value was increasing year by year and that in another few years it would be worth more money. The PUC last year took in $90,000 from the sale of power and rebated $10,000 of this to the council to help reduce taxes.

Mr. Peeling explained that the power plant certainly was a valuable asset. He said he did not think the HEPC would want to buy the plant, and that there was no need to talk about selling the plant until someone offered to buy it.

Mr. McGregor explained that if a block of power were purchased from Hydro, we would have to pay for 75 per cent of the power held in reserve for us whether we used it or not. There might only be a few days in a year when we would need extra power, he explained, but the town would have to pay for three-quarters of that power all year, whether it was used or not. He said he did not think that it was fair.

He also pointed out that under Hydro, Campbellford would not be able to give free power to the skating rink, baseball park and other grounds and buildings lighted free. He did not see why Hydro could dictate the terms of an agreement, when the town needed so little extra power, and needed it for only short periods of time.

"If you get power from Hydro you come under Hydro law. They give service at cost and you take it or leave it," said Mr. Peeling.

FIVE OBJECTIONS

Commissioner Newman outlined five points he objected to in signing a contract with Hydro and said that he did not consider it a fair arrangement when we needed such a small amount of power.

Councillor Macmillan said that he thought it would be a good idea to investigate the management of the local Utilities. To this Mr. Peeling replied, "Economy won't keep your lights burning." He said the power supply was the big problem and that the management of the plant was not investigated in his study and therefore he did not care to discuss it.

No conclusion was reached in the discussion regarding the sale of the plant. Mr. Peeling stated that he had not been asked to investigate the possibility, so he could give no opinion on it, but suggested that a contract be made first with Hydro and the sale of the plant could be negotiated later.

Commissioner Meyers said he had been assured by Toronto that there would be no great increase in rates. Commissioner Newman asked that a copy of the contract be secured and studied.

SEEK MEETINGS

After a great deal of discussion it was moved that Mr. Peeling's report be accepted. Another motion was made that a committee comprising two men from the council and two from the comcission be named by the mayor to ask the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow to arrange a meeting with Robert Saunders, chairman of the HEPC at the earliest convenience. Mr. Meyers objected to the mayor naming members of the commission board to the committee and said he would name them himself. This was left for him to do.

Following the joint meeting, council went into special session and passed the above resolutions. Councillor George Free and Deputy Reeve Doug. Maybee were named to comprise the council's half of the committee to interview Mr. Robert Saunders when the meeting is arranged.

Keating-Cook Wed

HAVELOCK (ENS)—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of Havelock United Church, Saturday, when Helen Iris, daughter of Mr. Ralph Cook of Belmont Township and the late Mrs. Cook, was united in marriage to Garnet Edward Keating, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Keating, also of Belmont Township. The Rev. R. G. Newman officiated.

The bride wore a ballerina gown of white nylon net over taffeta, trimmed with applique in daisy pattern, studded with brilliants. The bodice was fashioned with a cape effect and her shoulder-length veil was caught to a headdress of orange blossoms.

Miss Betty Cook was bridesmaid for her sister, wearing a gown of green nylon with white accessories. Both wore a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Mr. Burrell J. Keating was groomsman for his brother.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's parents where Mrs. Keating received in a dress of white floral silk with white accessories and a corsage of tea roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Earl Cook, aunt of the bride, who wore turquoise crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Parry Sound and points west. For travelling the bride wore a gown of yellow nylon with white trimming and white accessories. They will live in Belmont Township.

Barry-Lewis Rites

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — The wedding of Mary Margaret Lewis, daughter of Mrs. Allan Lewis of Hastings, to Patrick A. Barry, son of Mr. William Barry and the late Mrs. Barry of Oshawa took place in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Roman Catholic Church in Hastings, Saturday morning.

The Rev. J. J. Garvey of Hastings performed the ceremony and said the mass. Wedding music was played by Miss Joan Walsh. Misses Joan and Marie Quinliven and Patsy Penny sang.

The bride's gown was white net over satin with a Chantilly lace bodice. She wore a fingertip veil and carried red roses. She was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Donald Lewis. Her bridesmaid was Miss Patricia Duff of Peterborough, who wore pale blue lace and net and carried pink carnations.

The church was decorated with profusions of hydrangea blossoms.

Groomsman was Mr. Joseph Smith of Oshawa, and his brother, Jack Smith of Hastings, and Gerrard Barry, brother of the groom, were ushers.

A small reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The couple later left on a wedding trip to the southern United States. For travelling the bride chose a pale blue wool suit.

They will live in Oshawa.

STUFFED FRENCH LOAF SANDWICHES

Here's an idea to save you time and packing trouble too. Instead of ordinary two-slice sandwiches for your next picnic, try this:

Cut a French loaf in half from top to bottom; stuff both halves with cream cheese or minced meat filling. Wrap halves together for travelling. At lunch time, slice thick "sandwiches" off the loaf, and watch them disappear.

A "DID YOU KNOW" FOR THE PICNIC BASKET

Did you know that the addition of several tablespoons of vinegar or lemon juice to mixtures of protein foods (meat fish, poultry or eggs) in sandwich fillings or salads, helps to keep them from spoiling?

AFTER 40 YEARS OF ABSENCE from the Peterborough district, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gooley returned here recently where Mrs. Gooley saw her sister, Mrs. John O'Brien of 299 Townsend St. for the first time since she and her husband left Chandos township for Alberta. Mrs. Gooley and Mrs. O'Brien are seen above tracing the the route Mrs. Gooley took in 1911 when she left this district to settle out west.—(Examiner Staff Photo.)

Left 40 Years Ago To Settle In West

After 40 years of farming at Glenevis, near Edmonton, Alberta, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gooley returned last Thursday for a visit with friends and relatives.

At present they are staying with Mrs. John O'Brien, 299 Townsend St. Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Gooley are sisters.

Mr. Gooley and his wife Bessie were born in Chandos township on neighboring farms and were married in 1909. They departed for Glenevis in 1913, following Mr. Gooley's mother and four brothers, who had previously settled in that area.

"The train took us as far as Wabamum and the remaining 60 miles had to be covered by horse and wagon. There was absolutely no road at that time and often the horses would practically disappear from view in the soft muskeg which covered the area.

"When we first arrived in Glenevis, about the only building there was one my brothers had built," said Mr. Gooley. "To get our mail we had to travel 12 miles by horseback to a place called Lac St. Anne."

Two young daughters, Elizabeth and Grace Irene, made the trip to Glenevis with their parents and a son, Stanley, was born there. Elizabeth, now Mrs. M. Mills and her husband are travelling with the Gooleys.

ONE HAIL STORM

"I only remember one bad hail storm in my 40 years in the district, but it was a dandy. We never had any serious trouble—there were enough hardships just living day by day.

"At the time of our arrival there wasn't a store within 12 miles—but today Glenevis is a thriving farm village of some 200 people—and we've got good roads, too."

When asked what changes he had noted upon his return to Peterborough, Mr. Gooley was stuck for words. "The place has grown in every way—just wonderful," was his comment.

Mr. Gooley has eight cousins in this vicinity who he has contacted, Edward, Daniel, Joseph, William and Leo Gooley, Mrs. Irene O'Brien, Mrs. Mary Hobbins and Mrs. Tillie O'Brien. His wife has a brother, Frank Kelly and a sister, Mrs. John O'Brien.

The couple were amazed at the reception they have received, "no matter where we go it's the same—just wonderful."

When they get home they intend to place an article in their local paper telling everyone of the friendliness and hospitality of the Peterborough people.

They expect to leave for home next Sunday.

Shorter Skirtlines For Day-Time Wear

By LUCIE NOEL
Special To The Examiner

PARIS—First indications for the fall fashion parade, starting with Jean Paton, point to shorter skirtlines for day-time at several top houses.

Jean Desses this season prefers the short chiffon dinner dress. From luncheon on his coats will be fitted. His silhouette is straighter, with a new technique pervading the entire collection.

Christian Dior laconically whets our appetites with his winter messags: "My collection will reflect life in Paris with its monuments, its historical past, its present, its characteristic simplicity and grace". Though hard to interpret we imagine this means restrained simplicity for daytime with glamor and lavish handling of styles reserved for evening.

Jacques Fath tell us: "My line is stripped of trimming but feminine always. Hemlines are shorter. Waists studied with a new bustline I call colombe (French for dove). There will be lots of brown and also many exclusive weaves I have had made for my houses." We feel after this that Fath intends continuing his mid-season silhouette where the studied midriff came to a modified empire line, beautifully handled and successful with French-women.

Generally speaking, though waists will remain in their proper place, focus will be on the artificially raised beltline achieved through effect of cut and encrustation. This draws attention to the bustline, which Dior started with the tulip silhouette. Several houses will have indications of a raised directoire waistline, in effect only.

Brown is definitely about to reassert itself as a winter basic. It will often be shown with black, not displacing it, and also with gray. Shades range from light wood through nut to darkest off-black. Many colors are muted.

For evening there are new light blues, olives, dark grays. Cathedral window and Raoul Dufy colors inspired by two current magnificent art shows may have considerable influence. Some Spanish art, both modern and classic, will lend ideas to certain houses carried out in plain fabrics.

New tweeds with two-tone effects, many companion woollens with light weight shown in dress-weight, also tweeds for dressy wear, some trimmed in fur, will be outstanding everywhere.

Winter ensembles will often feature dress repeating coat style but not necessarily matching in color or fabric.

Feet Will Give Painless Service With Little Care

Whether you are one of those lucky people summering at mountain lake or seaside, or pounding hot city pavements, these suggestions will add to your general comfort. Because, if your feet hurt, you hurt all over.

While excessive perspiration can be a year-round affliction, it is apt to be accentuated in the "dog days". With a little care your feet will give you painless service and contribute in one small measure to perfect holiday memories.

Dry your feet carefully after bathing, especially between the toes and the folds of skin around the nails; rub well with a rough towel—helps circulation and removes dead skin—and dust freely with talc every morning and after bathing and after every swim and shower too. Dust talc into socks and shoes. Insertion of lamb's wool pads between toes encourages circulation of air and helps absorb moisture.

Don't go stockingless even around home. Wear sockees. Germs such as those which cause foot infections breed in heat and darkness. The inside of a shoe cannot be made completely clean and germ free. Besides, this stockingless practice is very hard on leather.

Don't run barefooted around swimming pools, shower baths and beach walks, all likely spots in which to pick up infection. Slip your feet into the inexpensive scuffs sold for the purpose. Get the habit.

For those who suffer from foot perspiration, wearing of sandals and perforated shoes is most helpful. But be very sure your shoes are not tight. Buy shoes for summer wear on a hot day since feet often increase in size in humid weather. At any time of the year, a too tight shoe (too short or too narrow) may lead to perspiration trouble. Toes cramped or crushed together where shoe materials do not allow for evaporation means that perspiration is retained, the skin remains wet and soggy over long periods, leading frequently to breakdown of skin tissues, and finally such infections as Athlete's Foot.

A seemingly mild foot infection which does not yield to home treatment—such as wet compresses or foot baths using a soothing, mildly astringent agent diluted with 15 or 20 parts tap water, and followed by applications of calamine lotion—should be examined by your doctor. Such infections can be foot crippling and very painful.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Dinner For Weekend Guests On Special-Purpose Menu

This is the situation . . . Friends or relatives that you love age arriving from out of town—a carful of them. They are welcome. So are their children, but you do hope they won't be allowed to race through the house in their bare feet.

You have to be a magician to do it, but let's take a crack at it.

DINNER FOR WEEKEND GUESTS

Baked Picnic Roll with Apricot Glaze
Pilaf (rice)
Platter Salad Iced Coffee
GARLIC BREAD
Glazed Raspberry Pie

BAKED PICNIC ROLL
(with Apricot Glaze)

DIRECTIONS

If Picnic roll weighs 5 lbs. bake it 30 minutes to the pound at 325 deg. Fahr. in uncovered roater, then spread on glaze and bake 30 minutes longer at 300 deg. Fahrenheit. If Picnic Roll weighs 8 lbs., bake at 25 minutes to the pound at 325 deg. Fahr. but spread glaze on at end of 3 hours. If roll has string on it, remove the string that winds around meat but not the string that runs through meat before spreading on glaze.

APRICOT GLAZE (1¼ cups)

Soak ¼ lb. dried apricots overnight, then cook gently for 15 minutes or until soft, and press through sieve. The water on the apricots should just cover them and be the water they were soaked in. Add ¼ cup sugar (4 tablespoons)|. Mix well. Spread on roll (or ham or boiled or baked bacon roll) and return to oven to finish as directed above.

NOTE: This glaze will keep for 2 weeks in covered jar in refrigerator and is excellent as a glaze for baked fruit tarts of any kind. The picnic roll could be baked up to the glaze stage, and if you want to serve the ham hot but baked it the day before the company arrives, spread glaze on ham before dinner time and reheat oven and bake again for ½ hour.

PILAF

Melt 2 tablespoons butter until just a little darker than golden then add ½ cup washed and dried long grain rice and panfry until golden, stirring constantly, for about 5 minutes. Add 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon each paprika and curry powder and 1 cup of clear meat stock or boiling water or thin tomato juice. Cover and cook as slowly as possible for 30 minutes or until rice soaks up all liquid and grains are separate and tender.

NOTE: Curry may be omitted. A few chopped onions or green peppers or mushrooms may be added to the pan when you are sauteing the rice if desired.

PLATTER SALAD

You need lettuce or endive, tomatoes, cucumbers or green peppers and some radishes or gherkins for this. Arrange lettuce or endive in a border around outside edge of medium-sized platter. Just inside this make a generous ring of thick sliced ripe tomatoes. In the centre arrange slices of unpeeled cucumber which has been scored with a fork, or rings of green pepper. Have nestling in the very centre radish roses or tiny gherkins. Pass French Dressing.

GARLIC BREAD

Slice a French stick 1 inch thick, but do not cut through bottom crust. Pound 1 clove of garlic until it is mushy then work it into ¼ lb. butter. This should be quite soft. Spread it between slices of bread. Fifteen minutes before serving time, heat in oven of 375 deg. Fahr. This makes a lot of crumbs, but the guests enjoy breaking off the tasty chunks of butter-soaked garlic-flavored bread.

GLAZED RASPBERRY PIE

Fill a deep baked pie shell with choice dry raspberries, sprinkle them with 2 tablespoons berry sugar. Drizzle over them so that it goes between all crevices this glaze: Into 1 cup sugar stir 4 tablespoons cornstarch and ⅛ teaspoon salt. To 1 cup raspberries add 1 cup hot water and bring to boil. Stir the sugar mixture into this until thick, then cook over boiling water 20 minutes, covered, stirring occasionally. Strain. While hot drizzle over berries in pie. This pie must be cold. If it is not the glaze will run when pie is cut.

DOROTHY DIX:

Is There a Test For Lovers?

Young people who are warily seeking their way in the world of romance frequently think it necessary to test the love of a sweetheart. Why should this be so? Does love require the treatment accorded merchandise bought in a department store? The implication that it must be tested to be proven assumes that emotion is nothing more or less than a laboratory. Through it must pass all gradations of affection that their worth may be estimated.

If there is one test of love, it is the very fact that no experiments are needed to prove it. It can stand on its own merits. Love cannot exist without faith, and a lack of faith is certainly denoted by the necessity of putting a person's heart on trial.

THE DOUBTING LASS

The lass who feels that her sweetheart must "prove" his love is either unsure of her own ability to attract and retain, or lacks, herself, the love that springs from perfect faith. When suspicion comes creeping in, you may be sure love is flying out.

A girl who, using jealousy, decides to test her boy friend's love richly deserves to lose him. Nine times out of ten the boy decides she's a flirt and drops her for a more trusting young lady. Or, if he really cares for the little doubter, his feelings are so deeply hurt, that he breaks with her out of sheer chagrin. The third and most serious result of her coquetry is not always immediate. If the boy's attentions are not diverted, and he marries the girl, there will always lurk in his mind the memory of her double-dealing, and he'll never entirely trust her. Milton calls jealousy "the injured lover's hell," and many a wife who deliberately created jealousy in her man complains bitterly because it is evidenced after marriage.

CONTEMPTIBLE MALE

Most contemptible of the love testers is the boy who demands a girl's virtue as the price of his love. Over and over the tale is repeated of a girl desperately eager to prove her devotion at any sacrifice, only to find that her lover turns to a less complaining sweetheart. If girls would only learn to interpret "If you loved me, you'd give in to me," in its true meaning of "I don't care a fig or a thistle for you, I just want my own way," so much adolescent tragedy would be avoided.

CAUSE FOR HASTY EXIT

Playing "hard to get" is another angle of romantic strategy that is better in theory than in practice. It's supposed to be a sure way to try a boy's devotion, but it is much more likely to serve as a cause of hasty exit. Boys like good companionship, and girls who show they appreciate good company are much more likely to wind up with a busy telephone than the pseudo-sophisticate who pretends to be blase. Sincerity in friendship or in love, is the quality that attracts and holds affection. Sincerity in yourself and faith in others are the pillars of true love!

CANNED CHERRY SALAD

Here's a molded salad that can be served as the main course or a luncheon or in smaller molds for evening refreshments. Tea biscuits or corn meal muffins and coffee are good companions. Serve it on crisp lettuce and the dressing should be whipped cream mayonnaise. Yield: 6 servings.

1 No. 2 tin cherries(pitted)
1 package cherry gelatin
Water
10 ripe olives sliced
1 cup shredded almonds

Blanch the almonds and brown in 350 degrees oven. Cool. Drain cherries. Measure liquid and add water to bring liquid to two cups. Heat to boiling point. Add Cherry gelatin and dissolve. Chill until the mixture begins to thicken. Fold in cherries, sliced olives and almonds. Turn into large oiled ring mold or six individual molds. Chill until firm.

SANDWICH CAKES FOR PICNICS

Want to take an iced cake with you on a picnic? Instead of icing the top of your cake—split the cake like a sandwich and put the icing between the halves. May not look quite so attractive, but it will taste the same, and save all the bother of a sticky picnic box.

Vacation Magic

Make this vacation the most magical time of the year for you. Take your most glamorous clothes and remember to pack your most exciting fragrances.

Whatever activities you plan, your fragrance is as much a part of your vacation magic as your tennis racquet and swim suit. A stick cologne rubbed on temples, throat and arms will refresh you as you participate in one activity after another. If you will be sightseeing, take along a type of scent which will be fresh and spirit-lifting when you begin to weary. And be sure to pack a fragrant bath softener with bath powder and soap in the same scent so your end-of-the day bath will bring double pleasure to you.

If taking part in sports, you will want a refreshing, crisp scent to complement your outdoor mood —and be sure to include a romantic, exciting fragrance in your going-away wardrobe for those evenings of dancing under the stars. Some women like to wear a sophisticated, sultry perfume with femme fatale costumes, and an airy, delicate one to complement their bouffant organdies, taffetas and chiffons. Always use toilet water and perfume together to give depth to the fragrance with which you surround yourself.

TO WED—Miss Audrey Claire Loffin, of New Orleans, La., will marry Maj. William D. Clark on August 3. He is the son of Gen. Mark Clark, Supreme UN Commander in Korea.

EASY MEAL

When it's much more pleasant to sit and dream than to worry about preparing another meal, why not serve a bowl of chilled jellied consomme, followed by a platter of varied cold cuts and a potato or tossed green salad. Then for dessert prepare a raspberry shortcake, using a cake mix, and spread whipped cream and raspberries between layers and on top of cake. It takes only a matter of minutes.

Straight Wrappy Jackets, Slim Skirts On Fall Suits

EUGENIA SHEPPARD

ROME— Eleanora Garnett, latest member of Italy's high-style fashion syndicate, showed her collection this week in a beautiful villa on the outskirts of Rome. Mme. Garnett plans to bring most of the same collection to her New York salon in September.

Made entirely of Italian fabrics, the Garnett collection goes back to the renaissance for its rich feeling, its color and many of its lines. Mme. Garnett, with blonde braids wound around her head, looks like a renaissance portrait herself.

From the renaissance Mme. Garnett borrows deep reds and greens, big pleated sleeves, gold braid collars, medallion necklaces and wide embroidered belts, she likes high-waisted empire dresses for day time and dateless and international magnificence for evening clothes.

Her favorite suits have straight wrappy jackets and slim skirts. One that Americans are sure to like is gray-blue zibeline, the jacket outlined in Norwegian blue fox. Fur trimmings turn up often in the collection, part of the renaissance look.

She uses soft, fuzzy, Italian tweeds for fitted suits. Many of them have top coats to match.

Coats are slim in the body but have big sleeves. Some of the most interesting are dark wool velveteen bound in black velvet.

Empire dresses are black wool without a sign of a belt. They look poured on to the figure from tucked bosom to hem.

One of the collection's spectacular evening costumes starts with a green corded taffeta coat that buttons to a high collar. Under it Mme Garnett puts a strapless black velvet sheath cuffed around the top with mink.

Another lavish gesture is pale gray-blue chiffon, the skirt all in ten pin-tucked tiers.

The story of Jay Gould's daughter

She had more money than she could count, yet she taught her adopted children to get by on 10¢ a month. When she was arrested for speeding in her 20-year-old car, she refurnished the Police Chief's office with Oriental rugs. Search Buses For Uniforms

NEW YORK (AP)—Police made a search of all First and Second avenue buses Tuesday night after a woman reported forgetting a parcel containing two laboratory uniforms contaminated with disease germs.

A team of 60 officers with 30 radio cars made the search without finding the package. Radio and television stations carried warnings that any passenger finding such a package should be careful.

The woman was reported as saying the package contained typhus germs. Exposure to these could cause serious and prolonged fever. Typhus is highly contagious.

However, a deputy commissioner of the city health department said the matter was "exaggerated."

The official, Dr. Ralph S. Muckenfuss, said it is highly unlikely that research on typhus is being conducted in the city. He said the uniforms probably belonged to his agency's typhoid laboratory.

Muckenfuss said typhoid probably could not be spread by the uniforms. He said typhoid is a food-borne disease, which can be contracted only when a person swallows a germ.

First PoWs Leave For North Korea

KOJE ISLAND, Korea (AP)—The first group of North Korean Communist war prisoners today left this prison camp island on the first leg of their trip home.

A shipload of 1,200 left at 4:45 p. m. for Inchon. There they will board trains for holding areas in the Yongdonpo area.

They will be available for the first day of the exchange on Aug. 5.

Some in one trailer van refused to get out and go aboard one of the LSTs (landing ship tanks) carrying the PoWs to the Seminole, a U. S. Navy cargo ship.

Quick use of non-toxic irritants pulled them out of the van, the PoW command said.

Explains Change In Gov't Job

TILLSONBURG (CP)—State Secretary Pickersgill, appointed to the cabinet six weeks ago, said Tuesday he made the move from civil service to government "because the prime minister convinced me I'd be more useful to him in the first place and more useful to the country."

Mr. Pickersgill, a native of the Norfolk county village of Wyecombe, 14 miles southeast of here, who spent his early years in Tillsonburg, said: "I feel that I belong here."

He said his great-great-great-grandfather "grew the first field of wheat in Ontario, on the shores of Lake Erie, near Fort Rowan."

Sharp Increase In Value Of Exports

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp 9.3 per cent increase in the value of domestic exports in June, as compared with the same month in 1952, was reported today by the bureau of statistics. The total rose to a new monthly high of $411,659,00, a gain of $35,000,000 as compared with $376,700,000 in June of 1952. Total export trade for the month stood at $16,016,000, as compared with $380,738,000 in June of 1952.

For the first half of the year, the value of exports—domestic and foreign — totalled $2,019,968,000, a drop of less than five per cent as compared with $2,121,759,000 in the first six months of 1952.

In the half-year period exports increased to the United States and a number of forign countries. They were down to the United Kingdom, Latin America and European countries.

Among commodities exported in June, the largest gain was in wheat exports, up about $25,000,000 over June of 1952. Moderate increases were recorded for other grains, alcoholic beverages, newsprint, iron ore, copper, nickel, fertilizers, and ships and vessels. Major drops were made in export values of farm and other machinery, zinc, pulpwood, and aircraft and aircraft parts.

Domestic exports to the United States in June rose to $214,588,000 from $191,483,000 a year ago, but were below this year's May value of $220,255,000. They represented 52 per cent of Canada's total exports in June.

U.S. Has Denied Suez Proposal

CAIRO (AP)—The United States has proposed that Britain get out of the disputed Suez canal zone within 18 months, leaving behind a maximum 4,000 technicians to maintain the base for no more than five years, the Egyptian Army weekly newspaper Al Tahrir said today.

These suggestions were part of a five-point proposal sent to Egypt by President Eisenhower last week as a basis for solving the British-Egyptian dispute over the vital canal area, the newspaper said.

Other points, Al Tahrir reported, included a promise of U. S. military and economic aid to Egypt and an Egyptian pledge that the zone would be maintained for use by the United States and its allies in case of war or a threat of war.

Under the proposal, the newspaper added, the seven-country Arab League would be empowered to decide when a state of war or a threat of war existed. Britain had been reported demanding this right previously.

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — A British spokesman here today denied a report published in Cairo that the United States had proposed to Britain that she should withdraw from the Suez canal within 18 months, leaving 4,000 technicians to protect the base for a maximum of five years.

The report, published by the Egyptian Army newspaper Al Tahrir, said this was one of a set of proposals made last week.

The spokesman said the report was wrong, and added: "The United States has made no proposals whatever."

The truck driver, William Thompson of Kingston, has a severe knee injury.

Red China Must Be Good To Win Support For UN

By TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP)—A top government leader said today Communist China must show a willingness to become a law abiding member of the society of nations if she wants Britain to support her application for United Nations membership.

The informant, who asked not to be quoted by name, said Indo-CHINA is one of the places for Red China to prove her good will.

He said if Peiping wants to clear the way for East-West trade and to get a seat in the UN she will have to stop her intervention in behalf of Ho Chi Minh's rebels in Indo-China.

British officials do not believe the Chinese Reds have troop formations in the field in Indo-China but they are sending war materials and possibly instructors to aid the rebels.

The government leader expressed the view British and U.S. policies on the Orient can be brought into line if these three problems are handled successfully:

1. The U.S. public must be informed that the British government is enforcing the ban on the shipment of strategic materials to Communist China. A false impression has been left that Britain is trying to dodge the ban.

2. South Korean President Syngman Rhee must not be allowed to inflame the Korean situation.

3. Ultimately some decision will have to be taken on Communist China's position in the community of nations.

Regina Observes Its 50th Anniversary

REGINA (CP)—Regina, capital of Saskatchewan and home of the RCMP, this week celebrates its 50th anniversary as a city.

Celebrations held in conjunction with the annual exhibtion mark the half-century of progress in which it has grown from a raw frontier town to a green oasis, famous for its tree-lined streets and many parks.

Each night at the current exhibition, a special show portrays some of the main events in the city's history, the granting of a charter, the ruinous 1912 cyclone, the influx of immigrants after the First World War and the depression of the 1930s.

Hewn from thick gumbo of the Prairie, Regina has grown from a town of 3,000 population in 1903 to more than 71,000. In the same period, estimated value of buildings has climbed from less than $1,000,000 to $200,000,000.

CHANGED NAME

Regina first came into prominence when it was named Pile o' Bones and had been chosen for the new headquarters of the Mounted Police and capital of the Northwest Territories. A daughter of Queen Victoria, Princess Louise, changed its undignified name.

There were no trees or sheltering hills then; only the dusty bald Prairie. The first tree in the city was planted in 1900 and thousands were added in later years.

Many were uprooted June 30, 1912, when two black clouds met over the city and erupted into the cyclone. Thirty-two persons died and property damage was estimated at $10,000,000.

The trees surround the RCMP barracks and the modern crime detection laboratory. Scarlet tunics and riding boots have added a flash of color to the city and the presence of the training college has made Regina the pivotal point for law enforcement on the plains.

INTERESTING MUSEUM

In the RCMP museum rest relics of past cases, including a piece of rope which hanged Louis Riel, the man who tried to carve an empire for the half-breeds in the West in the 1880s.

Regina has always been a centre of Canadian aviation. It had the first licensed airfield in Canada. The first commercial flying licence was issued here along with the first aero engineer licence.

OLD GERMAN CUSTOM—A Canadian soldier follows an old German custom following his marriage to a pretty German girl at the Lower Saxon town of Alfeld. L. Cpl. John Muise of Yarmouth, N.S., a member of Canada's 27th Brigade, has one end of the saw cutting through the log. His bride, Marlis Hagemann, has the other, while youngsters attending reception crowd in close. The German custom has the bride and groom saw a log in half before entering their new home.

Fires Cause Damage

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Fire damage mounted into thousands of dollars Tuesday as blazes flared up at three Western Ontario points.

Near St. Mary's, fire damaged a combined general store, service station and home. In West Zorra a large barn and some of its contents were destroyed. Near Drumbo, fire gutted a large barn, destroying livestock, a tractor, grain and hay.

Fumes Overcome Two

DETROIT (CP)—A woman and a baby were overcome by sulphur fumes Tuesday from a steam boiler which broke down at a suburban River Rouge chemical plant. Mrs. Joseph Choka said her baby became unconscious but she was able to revive the infant. Mrs. Viola Evert, 48, was revived by firemen. The faulty unit was shut down.

ARCTIC EXPLORER—George Jacobson, of Montreal, will head a five-man scientific expedition from Ottawa to Axel Heiberg Island, a few hundred miles from the North Pole. The party will do botanical, geological and archeological research on the previously unexplored island.

Manitoba Polio Total Climbs To 323 Cases

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba's poliomyelitis total Tuesday climbed to 33 cases when health officials reported 23 new cases and took one off the list as "wrongly diagnosed." There have been six deaths.

Officials are hoping the peak of the epidemic is imminent. Basis of their hopes is the unusually-early onset of the outbreak this year—when polio starts early it can be expected to end early. Most years the drop starts early in August.

Dr. M. R. Elliott, deputy minister of health, said many of the cases are mild enough to be treated adequately at home. This would help to ease the "very acute" shortage of nurses.

Supt. Williams To Be Retired

OTTAWA (CP)—RCMP Supt. W. H. Williams, who played a prominent part in the 1946 Russian spy investigation, will go on leave Aug. 1 pending his retirement from the post of chief of criminal investigation for F division, Saskatchewan, it was anounced today.

A native of England, Supt. Williams, 54, joined the RCMP in 1919 after serving in France with the Canadian expeditionary force in the First World War.

He was in charge of criminal investigation at Ottawa when the Russian code clerk, Igor Gouzenko, went to the justice department with the Russian embassy papers which showed the existence of a Communist spy ring in Canada. Gouzenko was under Supt. Williams' care for six months after he went to the justice department.

Another of Supt. Williams' assignments was that of security officer at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic research centre. He was moved there in 1942 to set up screening arrangements for personnel and remained there until the end of the Second World War.

Boulders And Junk Cause Water Blockage

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Frogmen carrying out an underwater inspection of the canal supplying water to the No. 1 Sir Adam Beck generating station at nearby Queenston have found rocks boulders, and various bits of junk in the canal bed.

Hydro engineers estimate the water blockage caused by the debris has cut off 46,000 horsepower from the plant, bringing about a substantial power loss there.

Comedy Shorts Coming Back Actor Believes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The last of the short subjects comedians today predicted a return to the brief comedies that used to be on every movie program.

The sole remaining practioners of a noble craft—the one-reel and two-reel comedies—are the Three Stooges. They still are playing the field that gave stardom to Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, Buster Keaton, W. C. Fields, Fatty Arbuckle, Laurel and Hardy and other greats.

Since the deaths of Edgar Kennedy and Leon Errol, the Stooges are the only comics left in shorts series. They now are celebrating their 20th year in shorts by making some 3D subjects.

COMING BACK

"Comedy shorts are coming back," observes Moe Howard, the guy in the middle who deals out the knocks to the other two. "They've got to. The studios are going in for big productions. That means they'll have to round out the theatre program with a news, cartoon and comedy.

"And since so many of the big pictures are dramas, that means they'll need some comedy relief to balance the bill."

The Stooges' comedy is a relief to everyone but themselves. They take a terrific beating. Although Moe generally bops his partners, he is the one who usually gets hurt in the filming. Since he plays the bully he generally gets his just deserts in some violent manner.

"I cracked up three of my ribs in one scene," says Moe.

"Another time I nearly broke my foot. I was nearly blinded three times—once with lampblack, once with granite dust and another time with mud."

Moe says one of the reasons their comedies have succeeded over the years: "It's the downfall of dignity. The things we do to dignified people is something awful. I think everybody likes to laugh at that."

Marriage Breaks Up

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Ida Lupino said Tuesday she and her husband, actor Howard Duff, have separated.

"He told me he wasn't cut out for marriage and didn't want to be married," Miss Lupino said. "It certainly isn't my wish at all, but I don't quite know what I can do in such a situation."

BOWL FOR OLYMPICS?—Toronto's mayor Allan Lamport says plans are under way for a 60,000-seat, $2,000,000 civic stadium at the Canadian National Exhibition to back the city's bid for the 1960 summer Olympic games. The new bowl would incorporate the existing 24,000-seat CNE grandstand by completing the oval with uncovered cement stands. The proposed new stadium also would support the city's bid for a major league baseball franchise, the mayor said. He also said the new bowl should "cinch" the Grey Cup classic as a fixture for Toronto.

Man Dies At 127

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP)—Isaac A. Alkas died Tuesday in a convalescent home at the age of 127 years. His 90-year-old widow and records in the office of state aid to the blind gave his age at 127. Alkas himself, however, used to contend he was three years younger, insisting he was born in Iran in March, 1829.

Smith Asks Approval Lakefield Against It

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Lakefield village council has written to attempt to block a Smith township bylaw that would deprive the village of its dump for garbage and night soil.

Recently Smith drew up a bylaw that would prohibit the dumping of garbage and night soil in the township. They applied to the provincial Department of Health for approval of the bylaw. The department through Dr. A. E. Berry, director of the Sanitary Engineering Division, wrote to Lakefield asking any comments.

Lakefield's answer was a letter asking the Department of Helath not to approve the bylaw. The village's dump is in the township just west of the village and it would be at a loss for a dumping ground if the bylaw were passed.

The council also authorized the payment of a bill for $250 submitted by the Peterborough fire department for its part in fighting the fire at the Lakefield Boat company.

KATCOMS ARE PATIENT—Canadian soldiers in Korea admire the patience of Korean soldiers attached to the Canadian brigade, called the Katcoms. On patrol they'll lie motionless for hours when commanded. Here, Pte. Nam Che Woo, 23, Pte. Leo Freindorf, Kitchener, and Pte. Pak Jam Hi, man a Bren gun in front-line position.

Katcoms As Fighting Men Win Praise Of Canadians

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP) — Thanks to their Katcoms, Canadians here now appreciate better that old saying about the "patience of an Oriental." They also have learned that it has its limits.

There are 300 RoK Army soldiers attached to the Canadian brigade, distributed among its infantry sections. They are called "Katcoms," short for Korean Army troops attached to the Commonwealth division.

As fighting men the Koreans have won full marks from their Canadian comrades, whose uniforms they wear and whose rations they share.

TOPNOTCH SOLDIERS

One Patricia platoon leader, Lieut. Chris Snider of Toronto, told The Canadian Press:

"As soldiers they're on a par with anything we have here at the same level. Our men know that and respect them. They're as hard as nails."

Snider said when the RoKs were introduced to their Canadian rifles, Sten guns and Bren guns, they caught on quickly.

"They excel in practical weapon handling. After watching an NCO strip and reassemble a Bren twice they were able to do it themselves."

Invariably a Katcom's weapon is better maintained than a Canadian's.

Pte. Ronald Hicks of Ottawa says: "I've never seen a Canadian—I don't care who he is—take care of his rifle the way they do."

As for parade-square drill, long considered a criterion of soldiering and discipline, the Katcoms love it.

RSM "Silver" Lee of the Patricias, whose stick has whipped into shape every ceremonial guard in the brigade since he arrived here, says:

"They go for drill in a big way. They learn it just like that. Explain the command, show the movement, and they've got it."

PATIENCE ON DUTY

If the Koreans exhibited patience under instruction before being committed to the line, they've used it aplenty since.

Capt. Art Kemsley of Calgary, second-in-command of a Patricia company, said: "On operational duties, once they know what they're supposed to do they're marvellous.

"They'll stand or lie down absolutely motionless for hours. Then they'll see or hear movement, and grunt. Always they produce something our fellows haven't detected. And they've an uncanny ability for distinguishing between friendly and enemy movement out in no man's land."

But Oriental patience has its limits, too, as one regiment discovered.

The Katcoms, as well as the Canadians, know that they're supposed to get equal treatment.

This regiment was in reserve and using the chance to hold smokers for its companies in turn. One occurred at the time President Syngman Rhee released the non-Communist Korean prsoners of war.

MISTAKEN FOR MUTINY

Irate Canadians of the partying company allowed politics to intrude and cut down the festive free beer issued from two to one for the Katcoms.

To a man the offended Katcoms withdrew from the smoker.

The now-discomfitted Canadians tried to cajole them back. No dice.

Then they ordered them back. Still no dice.

Mistaking the men's collective pride for mutiny the regiment even sought a "ringleader," had trucks brought up and transported the Koreans back to its rear headquarters for questioning.

Brigade headquarters, however, unofficially intervened and the word was passed down that equal treatment meant just that. When two free beers are issued Katcoms qualify too.

Usually the beer department is exactly where the Canadians show their good fellowship. The Koreans earn the equivalent of 50 cents a month—enough for two beers. Invariably a Katcom's beer is bought for him by some Canadian in his section out of his own pocket.

How Intelligent Are Ravens?

EDMONTON (CP)—Proof that ravens are among the more intelligent members of the bird kingdom is expected to result from experiments being carried out by Dr. William Rowan, professor of zoology at the University of Alberta.

Six of the big, black birds—larger cousins of the common crow—were obtained by Dr. Rowan and Al Oeming, a zoology student. Among other things, they hope to duplicate an experiment carried out by a German animal psychologist named Kohler who proved the raven could be taught to count up to seven.

HOMING INSTINCT

Other intelligence tests also may be carried out as the birds mature, says Dr. Rowan. He hopes to find out if the birds can develop the same homing instinct as the pigeon.

The ravens now are fully grown. Five were sent to Edmonton from Yellowknife. The other came from Watson Lake, Yukon. Once common throughout Canada, ravens have retreated to isolated northern sections with the encroachment of civilization, although some are still found in wilder sections of the south.

RUN AT LARGE

The birds are permitted to run at large and although they fly off every day, they always return for feeding and roost nearby at night.

Dr. Rowan says the birds like meat and they always take more than they can eat. They bury it under sticks and stones throughout the yard and retrieve it later when hungry.

REMEMBER HIDING PLACES

Dr. Rowan says one proof of the birds' intelligenee is that they can remember where they've hidden their food caches. They also have a passion for bright, shiny objects and hide them if they can.

Mr. Oeming says ravens probably are the world's expert stunt fliers. His four birds while away the hours with loops, sideslips, flying upside down and power dives. They also play tag and leapfrog in the yard while on the ground.

RAVENS CAN COUNT

Dr. Rowan—who once proved the process of migration could be reversed and had crows flying north in the fall—says the Kohler experiments were done with a number of small boxes from which ravens had to take their food.

On the top of each box, which had to be opened by the bird, there was a number of dots. The bird was shown a box with a certain number of dots, then confronted with other boxes with different combinations.

In Kohler's experiments, the bird went unerringly to the box which bore the same number of dots on top as the original box it had seen. The pattern of dots was not the same, proving the bird judged by numbers only.

CAN A RAVEN COUNT?—Dr. William Rowan, professor of zoology at the University of Alberta, at Edmonton, is carrying out experiments with ravens in an effort to discover if they can count. Other intelligence tests also may be carried out among six ravens, larger cousins of the common crow. The birds like meat and Dr. Rowan feeds one which is perched on his shoulder.

Gets Around In Private Plane

CRANWELL, Eng. (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh, saving time by travelling in his own plane, was able to attend a cadet graduation, play a game of polo and attend a race meeting in three different places within a few hours Tuesday.

Hatless and coatless and with headphones on, he landed his twin-engined plane at the RAF college here. He taxied over to the official reception committee of officers and then, while they waited, scrambled into his uniform of a marshal of the RAF.

He took the salute and addressed the cadets, then stepped back into his plane, flew across country to Tangmere in the south of England to play polo after which he was to head for Goodwood to join the Queen at the opening of the race meeting there.

Attlee Says U.S. Neglects Allies In Set Korea Policy

FBI Raids Scoop Up Six Top Reds; Charge Conspiracy

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Six tight-lipped men were scooped up in a federal bureau of investigation dragnet early today on charges they conspired "to advocate the overthrow of the United States government by force and violence." FBI agents swooped down on the homes of four and the summer cottage of another. The sixth was nabbed, agents said, as he emerged from a Communist cell meeting. Hours later, the six were held on a total of $175,000 bail and led away to jail cells, manacled two-by-two.

Bail was set in the office of U.S. Commissioner Henry P. Carr at dawn.

ON $50,000 BAIL

Joseph Kuzma, 41, identified by the FBI as a Communist party trade union secretary in eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware was seized, the FBI agents said, as he walked away from a Communist party meeting in northern Philadelphia. He was held on $50,000 bail for a further hearing Aug. 6.

Kuzma, identified by the FBI as a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., told Carr he couldn't remember his home address in Philadelphia and would require "a telephone book to recall it."

Held for a further hearing on the same date on $25,000 bail each were:

David Dubensky, also known as David Davis, 46; Sherman Labovitz, 29; Walter Lowenfels, 56; Thomas Nabried 51, and Benjamin Weiss, 39, all of Philadelphia.

WITH REDS SINCE '30s

Kuzma was described by the FBI as "associated with the Communist party since the middle 1930s;" Labovitz as "a one-time Communist party organizer;" Lowenfels as "Communist party candidate for Pennsylvania Representative in 1940 and former managing editor of the Pennsylvania edition of The Worker;" Nebried as "organizer of the Communist party in eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware;" Weiss as "treasurer of the Communist party in eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware for a number of years," and Dubensky - Davis as "one - time member of the national committee of the Communisty party."

The six were charged specifically under the Smith Act with conspiring to advocate the overthrow of the government. Their arrests brought to 87 the number of Communist officials seized under the act since 1948, the U.S. justice department said.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said the six either hold or have held ranking positions in the Communist party in eastern Pennsylvania or in the national operations of the party.

PC Tax Promise Overbalanced By Other Vows

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Canadians should ask George Drew to repudiate all his other promises before they believe he will reduce taxes by $500,000,000 a year, Prime Minister St Laurent said Wednesday night

While the Progressive Conservative leader has made the tax-cut promise, said Mr. St. Laurent, he and his lieutenants have made other promises which would require increased spending of at least $1,000,000,000 a year — "and the promises go up with every day the campaign lasts."

"It is an insult to the intelligence of the Canadian people to promise them great tax reductions which are completely negated by other promises, which if kept would equal an amount two or three times greater than the amount of the proposed tax relief."

Mr. St. Laurent's speech before some 800 persons at a local Liberal rally in the collegiate auditorium climaxed a day-long drive through seven southwestern Ontario communities.

MUST KEEP STRONG

The others were Dunnville, Wainfleet, Port Colborne, Crowland, Welland and Thorold. Today he plans another motorcade drive through Caledonia, Hagersville, Jarvis, Simcoe, Port Dover, Waterford and Brantford.

Throughout the day he emphasized that Canada must maintain her military strength until she is certain to ward off any potential aggressor She was not able to afford a $250,000,000-a-year defence cut, such as that suggested by the Progressive Conservative defence critic, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC.

Mr. St. Laurent maintained that Gen. Pearkes had reversed his position in Parliament, where he had argued that this was no time for Canada to reduce her defences.

WON'T CUT DEFENCE

He, for one, would not undertake to reduce defence spending while Canada and her allies were in danger.

"We are all vastly relieved by the truce in Korea, but surely we need only look to Indo-China, to East Germany, to Poland, to Czechoslovakia and the Soviet

Quits Liberals To Support Tory

TORONTO (CP)—Eric R. Marsden, Liberal candidate in York South constituency in the 1949 Dominion election, said today he is switching to the Progressive Conservative party and will support its candidate, Alan Cockeram, in the Aug. 10 election.

Mr. Marsden said he is making his switch "because I feel there is a dictator in Canada running the Liberal party—C. D. Howe."

In 1949, York South was won by J. W. Noseworthy, CCF, with 15,297 votes. Mr. Cockeram polled 14,273 and Mr. Marsden 11,928. In this election, candidates are Mr. Noseworthy, Mr. Cockeram, Alfred Green, Liberal, and Norman Penner, Labor-Progressive.

Dulles Statement Contrary To Spirit Of UN

LONDON (CP)—Labor leader Clement Attlee today accused U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles of laying down a policy line on the forthcoming Korean peace conference without taking into account the views of U.S. allies. Attlee made the statement in the House of Commons shortly after the Marquess of Salisbury, acting foreign secretary, told the House of Lords the government believes Communist China should receive United Nations membership "when the time is right."

Salisbury added that it would be "improper and impossible" for him to say now, three days after the armistice in Korea, that the "right" time had arrived.

Richard A. Butler, acting prime minister, said Britain believes Russia as well as Communist China should be represented at peace talks on Korea. But he told the Commons the problem of Chinese representation in the UN could only be decided by the UN itself.

NOT ANTI-RED ALLIANCE

"Our conception of the UN is that of a family of nations and not an anti-Communist alliance," he said.

Attlee, referring to Dulles statement that the U.S. reserves the right to walk out of the Korean peace conference if it felt the Reds were stalling after 90 days, said:

"The statement seemed to be laying down conditions by the U.S. government, the taking of a line by the U.S. government, in regard to the political conference on the affairs of Korea without taking into account the views of their colleagues.

"The whole of this affair in Korea has been undertaken by the UN. We gladly recognize that the greater part of the heat and burden of the day have been borne by America.

U.K. TOOK SHARE

"We have also taken our share of it, and it does seem a peculiar thing that just when the assembly is to meet and when we are looking forward to these discussions there should be this unilateral declaration of policy."

Attlee said the statement on the possible U.S. walkout "really does seem to me quite contrary to the whole spirit of the UN."

"There is a general underlying suggestion that if everything does not go exactly as Mr. Dulles wants it, then the U.S. may go on its own. I think that is a very dangerous suggestion.

Commonwealth Trade Boost PC Aim: Drew

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — Hon. George Drew says the Progressive Conservatives will boost Canada's trade with Commonwealth countries and shoot for more United States business by threatening retaliation if the U.S. does not ease trade barriers.

The Progressive Conservative leader made the double-barrelled pledge as he campaigned through southwestern Ontario Wednesday on the second day of an election tour in this area.

In Brantford, where farm implements are manufactured, he said his first move as prime minister after the Aug. 10 voting would be to fly to Britain to increase Canada's markets in the sterling area countries, particularly for farm products.

MUST KEEP WORD

Later he said here he would tell the United States it must stand by international agreements on trade or Canada will not. This evidently meant a hunting of Canadian tariffs on American products in view of recent restrictions in the U.S. against imports from this country.

Today, the paths of Mr. Drew and Prime Minister St. Laurent cross here as they both gun for southwestern Ontario shares of the 85 seats that could prove the vital factor in the Aug. 10 election.

The prime minister, heading in the opposite direction from his chief opponent, was due to reach here less than a half-hour after Mr. Drew left for a run through Ingersoll, Woodstock and Sarnia.

At Brantford, Mr. Drew told about 400 persons in an indoor speech that if elected he would take three ministers to the United Kingdom right after the election to shore up Canadian markets in the Commonwealth area.

"I am confident that successful measures can be adopted to deal with this vital problem," he said.

Strike Violence Either Way Illegal: Frost

TORONTO (CP) — Violence by picketers or violence to picketers in strikes are both contrary to law, Premier Frost said today in a statement.

"The outbreaks of violence which have occurred at widely-separated points arising out of strikes in southwestern and Northern Ontario," the premier's statement said, "make this a very opportune time to draw the attention of everybody to the very strict provisions of the Canadian Criminal code which cover these things. . . ."

"Violence by picketers or violence to picketers are both contrary to law. Not only intimidation by picketers or others, but the arming of guards and such instructions as 'shoot to maim' can both lead to the gravest consequences.

LAW SPECIFIC

"The use of force to repel force can only at law be used to a sufficient degree to protect oneself from injury and no further. The law is specific that the use of any force beyond this is an offence. . . ."

He said he was "impressed by the fact that there appears to be a widespread misunderstanding" as to the law and duties of citizens and police.

Picketing is not subject to provincial law but "exclusively comes under the powers of the Dominion Parliament," with the provinces obligated to enforce provisions relating to picketing under the Criminal Code. It was the duty of citizens to uphold these laws.

Teamsters Meet To Review Strike

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Union leaders of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL) will meet in Hamilton Friday to review the strike of southwestern Ontario transport drivers.

Pat Delaney, business agent for local 879, which includes membership of some 1,200 drivers in London and Hamilton, said representatives from London, Windsor, Chatham and Hamilton will attend to discuss the union's position.

James Hoffa of Detroit, international vice president, who recently announced the union would hold out as long as necessary to obtain its demands, will also be at the meeting.

As the strike neared the end of its second week still deadlocked, railway freight offices and express agents throughout western Ontario report a rocketing business.

In London CNR district freight officials estimate a 60 per cent increase in business.

Quebec Solves Slaying Of Gaspe Storekeeper

QUEBEC (CP) — Solicitor-General Rivard announced today police believe they have solved the slaying of a co-operative-store manager at New Richmond in Gaspe peninsula and "developments are imminent."

Edgar Audet, 45, was bludgeoned to death and his 11-year-old son, Jean-Francois, was forced to hand over $30 in cash to two men last Thursday.

Mr. Rivard's announcement coincided with unofficial reports that police, working on the basis of information gathered during a week-long investigation, he traced two men.

New Lottery Charge Laid Against Leafs

TORONTO (CP) — A fourth charge of conducting a lottery was laid today against the Maple Leaf Baseball Club. Police said a summons will be served on a club official later in the day.

The club pleaded guilty to the first charge laid in connection with an automobile draw. Since then the club has been distributing $2,000 on prize nights to persons guessing attendance at the games. Club officials said they are continuing the prize nights on legal advice that they are within the law.

Radar Tracks Red Planes Flying To North Korea After Armaments Deadline

MUNSAN (AP)—Allied radar tracked large numbers of Communist warplanes southward from Manchuria to North Korean bases after the cease-fire deadline Monday night, it was reported today as the Reds complained of two more minor United Nations truce violations. U.S. Air Force officers said the Red planes, presumably MiG jets, were spotted by a big Allied radar station on Chodo Island, deep behind Communist lines off North Korea. The story was delayed for 24 hours by censors.

An officer said the Communist planes began taking off at dark, apparently from Manchurian bases safe from Allied attack, and were still landing at North Korean fields after the 10 p.m. deadline when all arms and armaments shipments into Korea were to have stopped.

Allied planes have bombed North Korean air bases continually, but an air force officer said "apparently we didn't leave the fields non-operational."

Meanwhile, the joint military armistice commission picked Saturday as the tentative date for the first face-to-face meeting of Swedish, Swiss, Polish and Czech officers who will police the flow of men and arms into and out of Korea.

Red Cross workers from six nations convened at Panmunjom to chart the role they will play in helping repatriate almost 90,000 prisoners of war starting next Wednesday.

COMPLETE PLANS

Staff officers handling the prisoner exchange met in Panmunjom to put finishing touches on plans for the huge operation as the first group of Communist prisoners landed at Inchon enroute to camps where they will await exchange.

Maj.-Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, head of the five-man United Nations team on the joint military armistice commission, said Thursday's meeting "went very well—quite smoothly."

Asks Talks Start Before UN Meets

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru urged today that the major United Nations powers in the Korean war meet with the Chinese Communists and the North Koreans in advance of the Aug. 17 meeting of the UN assembly.

The assembly will plot the framework of the post-conflict political conference, to be held within 90 days of the armistice signing, but Nehru said the views of the Chinese and Korean Reds should be considered. Neither are members of the UN

Nehru emphatically reiterated India's stand that Red China should be seated in the UN, declaring that the world organization "is incomplete without China there."

"It is a fourth of the world's population," he continued. "Until this question of China being in the United Nations is settled, the United Nations won't function properly and effectively."

Surplus For '52 Tops $23 Million

OTTAWA (CP)—The finance department announced today that the government's 1952-53 budgetary surplus totalled $23,547,000.

The surplus is slightly below the $24,000,000 estimate contained in a preliminary statement issued by Finance Minister Douglas Abbott June 24 and less than one-half the $48,000,000 forecast by Mr. Abbott in his budget speech Feb. 19. However, it is nearly three times greater than the $9,000,000 the finance minister predicted at the beginning of the fiscal year.

This was the seventh consecutive surplus reported by the government.

Revenues for the 1952-53 fiscal year totalled $4,361,000,000, a decrease of $14,000,000 compared with the budget forecast of $4,375,000,000. Expenditures totalled $4,337,000,000, an increase of $10,000,000 over the $4,327,000,00 forecast.

The gross liability of the government on March 31, 1953, amounted to $17,918,000,000, including $14,811,000,000 of unmatured funded debt. Active assets totalled $6,757,00,000, resulting in a net deb tof $11,161,000,000, compared with $11,185,000,000 at the end of the previous fiscal year.

The decrease of $24,000,000 is the equivalent of the budgetary surplus for the 1952-53 fiscal year.

GM's Net Sales Top $5 Billion

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corp. had net sales of almost $5,500,000,000 in the first six months of this year, says the quarterly report to 491,000 stockholders.

First half net income was $312,845,787, equivalent to $3.51 a share of common stock after $6,464,156 in preferred dividends. For the same period last year net income was $269,048,085 or $3.01 a share after a like amount in preferred dividends.

Net income was 5.8 per cent of the sales of $5,440,545,856. U.S. and foreign income taxes and excess profits taxes totalled $764,000,000 against $558,000,000 in the corresponding half of 1952.

GM reported that it sold 1,120,276 cars and trucks in the second quarter of this year to set a record for the company.

Of GM's net sales, $486,000,000 came from U.S. defence production in the second quarter of this year compared with $353,000,000 in the corresponding 1952 quarter. For the first half, defence production had reached $942,000,000 against $679,000,000 in the like period last year.

Preston Man Dies In Lindsay After Accident

LINDSAY (CP)—Charles Benedict of Preston died in Ross Memorial hospital Wednesday night from injuries received in a two-car collision Monday afternoon on a county road five miles east of the village of Lorneville.

His son, Ray Benedict of Lorneville, who was driving the car in which his father was a passenger, is in hospital here, suffering serious injuries and multiple bruises. Benedict Sr. was badly crushed and suffered concussion.

The second car involved was driven by James Maw of Orillia.

The Benedict car plunged into the ditch after the collision.

The two Benedicts were trapped in the front seat and had to be helped out.

Elusive Vietminh Escape French

SAIGON, Indo-China (Reuters)—Two elusive Vietminh battalions operating in the east coast area of Hue have escaped their French pursuers again, military observers said today.

The French high command had launched "Operation Camargue" in their attempt to wipe out the 2,000 Communist rebels northwest of Hue. Ten thousand French troops encircled the area and converged on the centre.

But as the squeeze was put on, the Communists just melted away, infiltrating through the French lines or literally going underground in a network of secret hideouts.

The French high command announced that the operation had ended with only some 600 Vietminh casualties, 200 killed and 400 prisoners.

No French casalties have been announced, but usually reliable sources estimate them at about 100 killed and wounded.

CF-100 Jet Crashes, Pilot 'Chutes Safely

NORTH BAY (CP)—An RCAF CF-100 jet plane crashed today at Restoule Lake, about 25 miles southwest of North Bay. The unidentified pilot parachuted to safety.

A ground party of provincial police and RCAF personnel was proceeding to the scene of the crash. Officials said the pilot apparently had engine trouble and was trying to make it back to the RCAF station here when the crash came.

Appoint New Premier

MOSCOW (AP)—Alexei Kleshchev has been replaced as premier of White Russia by K. T. Mazurov. Kleshchev became premier of White Russia, third largest of the republics making up the Soviet Union, in 1948 after P. K. Ponomarenko left for a position in the central government in Moscow.

Bomber Sought Off Russ Coast

TOKYO (AP)—The U.S. Far East Air Force today continued an air and sea search for survivors of a B50 bomber which crashed off the coast of Russian Siberia. Early today one crew member, the co-pilot of the huge plane, was plucked from the sea.

A B50 normally carries a crew of 10 but the air force said no other survivors have been sighted.

The co-pilot was picked up by a U.S. Navy ship, 40 miles off the Siberian coast, southeast of Vladivostok.

Rescuers said he was taken from a boat dropped Wednesday night by an air force rescue plane

Details of the crash were not released.

Come Day and Night

West Boosts Food Program To Feed Flood Of E. Germans

BERLIN (AP)—The West hurriedly boosted its gigantic food relief program to a round-the-clock operation today as the stampede of hungry East Germans to collect mercy parcels hit record proportions.

Defying Communist police terror and threats of reprisal, the stream of needy coming through the Iron Curtain became a day and night flood.

Wednesday night for the first time, some relief stations worked all through the night and still could not handle the crowds.

Some 200,000 parcels were distributed Wednesday to top the previous day's mark by 50 per cent.

Authorities estimated the distribution today will hit 250,000. That would mean more than 700,000 Easterners receiving food since the handouts began Monday morning.

To cope with the throngs, West Berlin authorities opened 10 more relief stations. This raised the total to 60, double the number with which the program started.

The food is taken from West Berlin's anti-blockade reserves. It is being replaced by a $15,000,000 U.S. gift shipped on President Eisenhower's orders to give relief to the needy despite Moscow's rejection.

A baby airlift is helping deliver the U.S. shipments from the port of Hamburg.

The distribution procedure was changed to give priority to residents of the Russian occupation zone outside Berlin. Many of them travelled hundreds of miles. East Berliners, who need only come across town, had to wait.

In some lines which stood all night were farmers who said they couldn't feed themselves in the Russian zone because of high quota demands of the Communist crop collectors.

The farmers and many workers jeered at the Communist scare stories and defied the police to try to take away their gifts. Wednesday the Red police arrested scores of East Germans and took away the identity cards of many more. At least some of those picked up were later released.

Refusal "Inconceivable"

Rhee Implies U.S. Support Of Intention To Unify Divided Korea Or Continue War

NEW YORK (AP)—The Times quotes South Korean President Syngman Rhee today as saying it is "inconceivable" that the U.S. will fail to reopen the Korean war if the Communists refuse to agree to the unification of his country.

Rhee, the story says, "warned the United States not to attempt to persuade him to make concessions to Communists as he said the U.S. had 'forced' Chiang Kai-shek to do in China after the Second World War."

In a dispatch from Seoul, James Reston of The Times reports on an interview with Rhee at his camouflaged villa on a hillside above the South Korean capital.

Reston quotes Rhee as saying he was pleased that U.S. State Secretary Dulles is coming to Seoul next week because Rhee "had some things to say to him"—not about technicalities but about the principle of "fighting the Communists or dying."

Rhee is described as fierce in his condemnation of those "foolish enough to believe" there is any way to settle the Korean question by "peaceful means."

Reston's dispatch also says:

Rhee discounted in advance any possibility of reaching an agreement with the Communists on unification of Korea. He referred to the armistice agreement as "that infamous document," and said he tolerates it only because he has faith that President Eisenhower will in turn support a renewal of the fight if the political conference following the truce fails.

The Korean president added his hope that the Soviet Union will be present at the conference because "it is the overlord of all aggression," so why not have it there?

Rhee said the time had arrived to "talk out" about Korea's position. He accused assistant secretary of state Walter S. Robertson of having broken an agreement not to discuss their pre-truce conversations. Rhee also insisted he was not going to remain silent in the face of attempts to becloud the true meaning of the truce.

The Korean president "made it clear that in his mind the truce was a 'temporary' expedient designed to achieve one end only, one objective, agreement by the Communists that all Korea should be governed by his regime."

He scoffed at suggestions that the United States is not commited to renew the fighting if the political conference does not attain the agreement within 90 days.

Liberals Come To PC View On Gas-Drew

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Liberal party "has finally come around to our point of view," on Canada-first in the use of Alberta's natural gas, Conservative leader George Drew said today.

Referring to a statement Wednesday night that surplus Alberta natural gas must be marketed in Canada, Mr. Drew said in an interview that "the present government has only recently seen the light."

"The policy stated by Mr. Howe has not been the policy of this government until they finally did adopt our point of view which we have been stating in the House of Commons for several years.

"The present government denied the Lakehead ports and all of Northern Ontario the advantage of the use of a Canadian pipe line for oil by deciding that the pipe line carrying oil to Sarnia would go south of the Great Lakes through the United States.

"We objected to that policy and insisted that the gas pipe line should follow an all-Canadian route.

"We were encouraged by the fact that in the closing days of the last session the government finally adopted our policy which Mr. Howe explained in Calgary Wednesday night," Mr. Drew said.

Court Martial Waits Violators Of Truce

IN KOREA (CP)—Brig. Jean Allard, commander of Canada's 25th infantry brigade, warned today that it is an offence to cross no man's land into the Chinese lines and any Canadians caught doing so will be court-martialed.

Many instances were reported Tuesday of members of Commonwealth units crossing the lines but none involving Canadians have been proved.

The Chinese, who invited Allied soldiers to cross on Tuesday, changed their tactics today and sent leaflets warning that soldiers venturing into their territory will be shot.

RCAF Range Set Up On Lake Near Trenton

TRENTON (CP)—A new air-to-air firing range has been established by the RCAF on Lake Ontario near here.

The range is 50 miles long and 18 miles wide, extending from Gold Point, five miles east of Oshawa, to Collier's shoal, about two miles east of Colborne. It will take the place of the old Consecon range directly off Trenton.

Operations are expected to begin in early August and take place between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. The inner boundary is marked by orange buoys and commercial fishermen have been warned of the exercises.

But the Reds accused the Allies of two more truce violations. Both involved UN aircraft which allegedly circled over the demilitarized zone.

ALLEGATIONS NOTED

A UN spokesman said Bryan "noted the allegations and will deal with them the same way as he did the allegations made yesterday. We will announce the results of our investigations later."

Wednesday the Reds accused the UN of eight minor violations of the three-day-old armistice. Bryan called the Communist charges unsubstantiated and asked for further information.

The UN made no formal complaint of Communist truce violations, but air force officers said the big U. S. radar station on Chodo Island off North Korea tracked large numbers of Red warplanes flying to North Korean bases Monday night.

Under terms of the armistice, no additional weapons or armament could enter Korea after the cease-fire went into effect Monday night, aside from replacements. But air force officers said the flights continued after the deadline.

The officers said the planes presumably were MiG jets flying to bases in North Korea from Manchuria, where they have been safe from Allied aerial attacking during the war.

UN officials said all will be in readiness when the exchange of prisoners begins. The Red Cross workers will visit prisoner stockades in both North and South Korea to help captives in their trip to Panmunjom.

The first 2,400 of some 74,000 prisoners held by the UN landed at Inchon from three ships Thursday and boarded a train for the Munsan area where they will be held.

There were no incidents, but some of the Chinese had cut and torn their new uniforms, apparently in an attempt to make it appear they had been mistreated. North Korean prisoners appeared neat and clean.

It was a job that Canada had to do.

In Simcoe, Mr. Drew said at a night meeting of 500 persons that a Progressive Conservative government would tell the United States it must abide by international agreements or Canada won't.

He was hitting out at U.S. trade restrictions—particularly on farm products—which the Canadian government in protest notes to Washington has suggested are violating the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade signed by 33 countries.

A Progressive Conservative administration, he said, will state to the U.S.:

"Either you stand by the international agreements or you don't, and, if you don't, we don't."

Mr. Drew also accused the Liberal government of "betraying" Canadian servicemen by the way it handled defence funds.

"It is a betrayal of our men in uniform," he said, "to take your money and throw it away on waste and inefficiency of the type that has been disclosed in the last few days and earlier."

Discussing revelations of thefts at the RCAF station in Lachine, Que., where five persons have been arrested in a payroll swindle—Mr. Drew said it shows a "continuing breakdown" in the defence department's administration.

HORSES TO COMMODORES

"When they can get fictitious wing commanders and air commodores on these payrolls, things really are loose," he said. "They have gone up from horses to air commodores."

At the 884-population village of Burford, he talked to about 150 persons sitting around on a tree-lined lawn and sipping soft drinks. Mr. Drew sat for a while on the grass with some youngsters before making his speech.

To his Burford audience of people interested in tobacco, Mr. Drew said purchases of tobacco by the United Kingdom have been dropping off, but the Liberals have refused to do anything about it. Increasing tobacco sales would be one of the points of his mission to Britain.

Dulles Statement

"We certainly did not enter the Korean war on behalf of Mr. Syngman Rhee (president of South Korea) or to make Mr. Syngman Rhee ruler of a united Korea. That may or may not come out of it."

SEEK ONLY PEACE

"We are concerned in this matter not merely from the point of view of Korean unity but from the point of securing peace in the Far East.

"We are out to get a peaceful settlement throughout the Far East, of which this should be a beginning, but unless it is taken in a statesmanlike way it would not be the beginning of a new era of peace.

"I hope it will be made plain that we cannot subscribe to these narrow policies, but that we shall put forward our point of view and claim that it should have full consideration and that we should insist that this is a UN matter and not a matter of purely American concern."

Russia, and maybe India, are expected to urge the seating of Red China when the general assembly convenes in New York Aug. 17.

The seating of Red China would mean the tossing out of the Chinese Nationalist government recognized by the United States. Britain recognizes Communist China.

Lord Salisbury made his statement in answer to questions.

WON'T BUY UNIT

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles said Tuesday that the United States will not buy Korean unity at the price of Red China's membership in the UN. He added that the U.S. has the right to veto a move to seat the Chinese Communists.

Lord Salisbury said:

"I think the U.S. government is quite entitled to take any position they like but the purpose of foreign policy, diplomacy and negotiations between countries is to ease off these differences and try and obtain the policy that one wants."

He explained that Britain would try to persuade its allies to follow the same policy but added it would be improper for him to predict actions by the U. S. government.

Labor peer Lord Silkin asked about Dulles' statement that the United States reserved the right to terminate negotiations if the Korean peace conference failed to rach a settlement within 90 days.

The acting foreign secretary replied:

WANTS CONSULTATION

"I have already indicated to the U. S. government that in a situation of that kind where the U. S. were proposing to walk out I hope they would take us into consultation first."

Today's government statement on Red China appeared to be more definite than the position outlined in debate Wednesday. Labor members had indicated they would press for the government to say categorically whether or not it would support admission of China to the UN.

Wednesday Acting Prime Minister R. A. Butler said the government view was that the future status of Communist China in world affairs should be decided during or after the political conference to follow the Korean armistice.

Despite Labor heckling he refused to go further. He said Britain is going to next month's meeting of the United Nations general assembly "well-prepared to take a line on this particular subject," but declined to say what "the line" would be.

SCORE DULLES

Sharp things were said in the House about U. S. State Secretary Dulles, who has announced his opposition to admitting Red China to the UN. Similar dissatisfaction appeared today in British newspaper editorials.

The Yorkshire Post (Conservative) said the "stubborn finality" of Dulles' statement "will sharply disappoint those who have hoped the (Korean) truce would lead to an early agreement on the Chinese entry into the United Nations."

"Some people feel that it is unrealistic to refuse recognition to the Peiping government, and that American intransigence on this point is a grave obstacle to progress toward a general settlement in Asia," the Post added.

It said Britain was anxious to see whether there has been a genuine change in Communist policy of agreement spoiled by the untimely pursuit of a tough-provocative line.

WARNS BRITAIN

At the same time it warned Britain to be on guard against a Communist attempt to drive a wedge between this country and the United States.

The mass circulation London Daily Mirror urged President Eisenhower to make a statement on the China question, and demanded: "Can American policy really be as bad as this, or is it simply another deadly indiscretion of the flat-footed Mr. Dulles?"

The Laborite Daily Herald plumped strongly for China's admission to the UN. Dulles' statement also was given a chill reception in the Manchester Guardian (Liberal) and The Times of London (independent Conservative).

Can't Delay Health Plan Longer, Says M. J. Coldwell

OTTAWA (CP)—M. J. Coldwell said Wednesday night there is "no legitimate excuse for further delay" in launching a plan for federally-financed health care for every Canadian.

The CCF leader said government members have estimated $600,000,000 as the cost of a national health insurance program—the same figure as the annual cost of training, equipping, moving and maintaining an RCAF jet-fighter division in Europe.

"We maintain that it may, in the long run, be just as essential to Canada's defence to have a nation of strong and healthy people as it is to have an air division in Europe," he said in a speech prepared for delivery over the CBC Trans-Canada network in the CBC's free-time political series. The speech was recorded at a public meeting at Calgary Tuesday.

He also criticized "the long line of Liberal excuses" for the Liberals' failure to introduce health insurance.

Prime Minister St. Laurent had said in Vancouver "that he would favor the introduction of health insurance providing the agreement of all the provinces or nearly all the provinces was obtained first."

The CCF party believed it should be left to individual provinces to join once federal health insurance legislation is passed.

Health Minister Martin had estimated the cost of a national health plan at $600,000,000 a year. That was less than the $675,000,000 spent for health by individuals and federal and provincial governments.

"The cost of a national health insurance program would not be a new cost to the nation at all. It would very largely be a replacement of present expenditures for health care so that we would share co-operatively, together instead of individually, the expense of health treatment."

The CCF party proposed full health care for every Canadian "regardless of their income," financed by the federal government and administered by provincial governments and local health regions.

New Red Jet Could Fly A-Bomb To US Targets

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — A trade publication, American Aviation, said Wednesday the Soviet Union is beginning to mass-produce a new, long-range jet bomber the TUG-75, which is capable of delivering the atom bomb on all important targets in the United States.

It said the Soviet strategic air command's initial plan is to build 400 of these six-engined bombers, and added they have a speed of more than 500 mph and can fly for 6,500 miles without refuelling.

MONCTON (CP) — Twenty-five persons escaped injury Wednesday night when a section of bleachers in a circus tent collapsed at the climax of the show.

Undefeated Armies Retire

By The Associated Press

SEOUL (AP)—Two undefeated armies—Allied and Red—walked away from the Korean front today, leaving in silence a narrow strip across Korea that only days ago roared in war. Under armistice terms all troops had to be out of the 2½-mile-wide belt by 10 p.m. tonight (9 a.m. EDT). United Nations command said most of the Allied front was uninhabited seven hours before the deadline. Allied soldiers started leaving the battle line shortly after the truce was signed Monday morning. The guns fell silent Monday night. Columns of soldiers walked down from hills they had bought in blood—from battlegrounds halfway between the present and history:

Heartbreak ridge . . . White Horse mountain . . . Old Baldy . . . Pork Chop hill . . . Bunker hill . . . The Hook . . . and the outposts—Vegas, Harry, Berlin and East Berlin. . . .

Going to the hills they crept along under blazing Red guns in the infantry's wary, crouching walk. When they came down they walked upright, with no shells to fear.

RoKs PULL BACK

South Korean troops pulled back in an orderly fashion from the two-thirds of the front they held.

Almost all fortifications were destroyed. Bunkers were caved in and trenches filled. Timbers were salvaged where possible.

Troops of the Canadian 25th infantry brigade, pulled back from scarred Little Gibraltar hill, the scene last October of one of their fiercest battles of the war.

Across no-man's-land, front line officers reported the Chinese and North Koreans were sometimes using pack mules to get their equipment out.

At the southern edge of the demilitarized zone, Allied soldiers strung barbed wire and set up roadblocks to prevent anyone from entering. The zone will be policed by members of the military armistice commission at Panmunjom. The Allied command strung signs all along the border saying, "South limits demilitarized zone. Do not enter." The signs are in English and Korean.

The Chinese brought little packages containing wine and handkerchiefs and left them on the battlefield just forward of their positions.

Meanwhile, far to the north, UN forces were leaving islands off coasts of Korea. The islands were used for radar and air rescue bases. Their deadline for leaving is 10 p. m. Aug. 6.

Off the battered east coast Red port of Wonsan, seven ships were removing men and equipment from tiny Yo Island.

It was earlier reported that Canadian troops would be assigned to guard duty along the barricades.

As the Allied soldiers left the front lines some looked back—for possibly their last look—at the famous battle hills of Korea they were giving up.

Frost Unveils Statue To Governor Simcoe

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE (CP) Premier Frost Wednesday unveiled a monument to Upper Canada's first governor and his wife.

More than 500 persons watched as the premier pulled the tape to reveal a bas relief monument in Queenston limestone to Col. John Graves Simcoe and his wife, Elizabeth Posthuma Gwillim.

The 12-foot statue stands in the courtyard of Navy Hall where almost 161 years ago the first governor called the first Parliament together.

Union itself to see that we are still living in a dangerous world.

"Any promise for the reduction of defence expenditures until we are sure the truce in Korea is going to last would be a promise to back down on our undertakings with our partners in the United Nations and our allies in the North Atlantic alliance.

"And I don't believe Canadians want Canada to do that," he added as his audience applauded.

His speech at Welland was cut short by a sudden downpour. For a few minutes he talked on, while the crowd of some 400 stood nearby, some drenched, others under embrellas, standing under trees and in store entrances. Then the prime minister suggested they leave before their health was undermined.

Speeches at all points were in the same vein—Canada and her allies must continue to build up their military strength against Communist aggression despite the Korean truce.

U.S. Senate Votes $6 Billion In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Senate early today voted $6,745,318,202 in foreign aid funds to climax a 15½-hour, oratory-packed session in which all efforts to slash the total were rejected. But the bill faced a new fight with the House of Representatives.

The Senate representatives must work out a compromise settlement with those of the House, which pruned more than $1,000,000,000 from President Eisenhower's request for funds to help the free world combat communism.

A Senate-House conference committee will be named today to seek a compromise.

DEFEAT BID TO CUT

By a thumping 69-10 margin, after beating off six attempts to cut it down, the Senate stamped approval on a big money bill containing some $548,000,000 more than voted by the House.

On final Senate passage, 37 Democrats outnumbered 31 Republicans who shouted approval along with the lone Independent, Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Opposing was a lone Democrat, Olin Johnston (S.C.) and nine Republicans.

While $500,000,000 more than voted by the House the $6,745,318,202 total was a $500,000,000 less than requested by Eisenhower and some $3,000,000,000 below what former President Truman asked last January.

Surplus Alta. Gas Must Be Sold In Canada: Howe

CALGARY (CP) — Surplus Alberta natural gas must be marketed in Canada so long as there is a market that can be reasonably served, Trade Minister Howe said here Wednesday night.

Mr. Howe said his government will not grant export permits until fuel-short areas in Ontario and Quebec have been serviced.

Once the gas leaves the borders of Alberta it comes under the Electricity and Fluids Exploration Act, and "its disposition must be made in the national interest of Canada as a whole."

He said the policy of Progressive Conservative candidate in Calgary South, Carl O. Nickle, was to sell the gas "in the nearest market."

In the recent Calgary West by-election, Mr. Howe declared, it was said of Mr. Nickle that he would go to Ottawa to advise the Conservatives on gas and oil matters.

"He overlooked one thing," Mr. Howe said. "That is, his party might not take that advice, and his advice has been unanimously rejected as shown by Mr. Drew." (In a recent speech in Calgary Mr. Drew favored the all-Canadian route.)

NAMESAKES—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent meets a young namesake, Louis St. Laurent Ducharme, 4, of London, Ont., on the occasion of the Prime Minister's visit to London during the federal election campaign. The younger Louis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryon Ducharme who named their son after Canada's prime minister.

Farm Depression View For Canada: Douglas

SELKIRK, Man. (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said Wednesday night that Canada is headed for an agricultural depression.

Addressing a CCF campaign meeting of about 200 persons, Mr. Douglas said the Liberal party is "precipitating depression through surpluses of agricultural products built up after the British market was lost." He said ties were cut with tariffs on British goods.

"The Liberals are a party that preaches free trade but has been more protectionist than any Tory government this country ever had."

He accused the Liberals of being completely controlled in their actions toward Britain by Eastern Canadian protectionist interests. He said men have been laid off in Eastern farm implement factories because farmers cannot buy products.

Coldwell Charges So-Creds Don't Believe In Democracy

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell charged Wednesday night that the Social Credit party does not believe in "our democratic institutions."

Speaking to a meeting of 145 persons, mainly miners and their families, he said: "I can respect a good Liberal and I can respect a good Conservative, because they believe in our democratic institutions even though they use them for their own purposes. Social Credit does not believe in those institutions."

He said, too, that if the CCF takes power in the Aug. 10 federal election, it will introduce a national labor code establishing maximum hours of work and minimum wages as well as setting a minimum age for employment and providing for equal pay for equal work.

Compulsory arbitration, "a major threat to collective bargaining" would be made illegal.

He said Social Crediters had asserted there is no need for political parties and the secret ballot. "Those assertions were at the base of Mussolini's fascism and Hitler's nazism."

In a world threatened with dictatorships, it was essential that Canada be associated with organizations across the world prepared to defend democratic life. The CCF was so associated with the world social democratic movement.

Mr. Coldwell also returned to his attack on Liberal claims to have innovated social security measures.

Family allowances, he said, were introduced just before the 1945 election. The Liberals then had been so unsure of the result that they had approached the CCF with the suggestion of possible coalition.

Twenty years earlier, he said, J. S. Woodsworth, the Labor leader, holding the balance of power, had forced the Liberals to introduce old age pensions by extracting a promise in writing from Mackenzie King.

"It was the only promise I ever remember Mackenzie King putting into writing," Mr. Coldwell said, "and the only one, I think, he ever kept."

Mr. Coldwell described the federal Industrial Relations and Disputes Act as inadequate, saying its limited jurisdiction did not embrace country-wide concerns such as the packing-house industry and basic steel.

In an emergency the federal government was helpless and the provincial governments, unable to act uniformly, were powerless.

He attacked the present federal act for providing for enforcement through the police court where a union had to prove its case before a magistrate or judge who might have little or no knowledge of industrial relations. A labor relations board would be a more appropriate body.

A CCF labor code would bring within the purview of Parliament basic and nationally important industries. Labor would be guaranteed the right to organize and obtain union security. Conciliation procedure would be streamlined and company unions outlawed.

Mr. Coldwell said that in the bus strike just ended in the CCF province of Saskatchewan there was no interference with the picketing rights of strikers when conciliation failed. In recent mining strikes around Timmins, by contrast, the Progressive Conservative government of Ontario had sent in the police.

World Entering NewEra: Pearson

SHEDIAC, N.B. (CP)—The world is entering a new chapter in internationa. relations as a result of the Korean truce, External Affairs Minister Pearson said at a Liberal rally Wednesday night.

He warned that Canadians should not expect problems facing the United Nations to be settled within a few weeks. One problem was who would take part in the political conference on Korea's future. Another concerned admission of Red China to the UN.

"Only yesterday," said Mr. Pearson, UN general assembly president, "I read in the papers that Mr. Dulles (state secretary) said the United States would use the veto if necessary to bar the Peiping regime.

"Well, there are other members of the UN who would feel different about this drastic action, especially if we can bring about at this political conference an honorable peace."

Electors Get Talk On Taxes, Trade, Health From Leaders

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Electors got another earful Wednesday from Canada's political leaders on taxes, trade and health, plus a new earful on labor. Both Prime Minister St. Laurent and George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, are charging about Ontario campaigning for its basketful of 85 seats. CCF leader M. J. Coldwell moved into British Columbia and also made a recorded free-time political broadcast over a CBC network. At St. Catharines, Mr. St. Laurent said the Progressive Conservative promise of reduced taxes and increased social benefits is an "insult to the intelligence of the Canadian people."

"I can only say that the Conservative party is living in the 19th century. Political promises of that sort might have been believed then. The Conservatives are indeed a most promising political party."

EMPTY PROMISE

The prime minister said the Progressive Conservatives had promised to reduce taxes by $500,000,000 a year and at the same time undertake programs which would cost about $1,000,000,000. But if these programs were to be carried out, a Progressive Conservative government, instead of cutting taxes, might have to increase income tax collections 40 per cent, excise taxes 15 per cent and the sales tax five per cent.

"It is an insult to the intelligence of the Canadian people to promise them great tax reductions which are completely negated by other promises which, if kept, would equal an amount two or three times the amount of the proposed tax relief."

The St. Catharines speech concluded 60 miles of campaigning by the prime minister Wednesday through seven southwestern Ontario communities. Today, he visits seven more centres, including Brantford.

TALKS ON TRADE

At Simcoe, Mr. Drew told an audience of about 500 that a government led by him would tell the United States it must abide by international trade agreements or Canada wouldn't. As at Hamilton the previous night, he referred to U.S. trade barriers against Canadian goods, mainly farm products.

Earlier, at Brantford, Mr. Drew said that if his party is elected, his first move as prime minister would be to go to Britain to try to increase Canadian exports to sterling markets—an "urgent necessity." The Liberal government had not only neglected to take steps to repair Canada's Commonwealth markets, but also had firmly refused to do so.

Dealing with the Liberal argument that he couldn't cut taxes, Mr. Drew said: "A child of 10 who couldn't work out the arithmetic on that would not be allowed to pass an examination. We can do it by stopping waste, extravagance and inefficiency."

SHOWS BREAKDOWN

At another point, he said the arrest of five RCAF personnel at Lachine, Que., in a payroll swindle showed a "continuing breakdown" in administration of the defence department.

"When they can get fictitious wing commanders and air commodores on these payrolls, things really are loose. They have gone up from horses to air commodores."

Mr. Drew at Simcoe branded as "unadulterated nonsense" Liberal contentions that the Progressive Conservatives would cut down on defence. "We have been urging the improvement of defence through cutting down waste, extravagance and inefficiency," he said.

Mr. Drew moves on to Courtland, Woodstock and Sarnia today.

FOR LABOR CODE

At Kimberley, Mr. Coldwell said a CCF government would introduce a national labor code establishing maximum hours of work and minimum wages. This code would also lay down a minimum age for employment and provide for paid holidays and for equal pay for men and women for equal work.

The CCF leader said the Liberal government had failed to provide an effective national labor code. The Federal Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act was inadequate because its limited jurisdiction did not embrace country-wide concerns such as the packinghouse industry and steel. In an emergency, the federal government was helpless and the provincial governments, being unable to act together uniformly, were powerless.

STREAMLINE PROCEDURE

CCF labor legislation would bring basic and nationally important industries under Parliament's jurisdiction. Conciliation procedure would be streamlined and company unions outlawed.

In his radio broadcast, Mr. Coldwell said there is "no legitimate excuse for further delay" in launching a national health insurance plan.

Health Minister Martin had estimated cost of such a plan at $600,000,000 a year. That was less than the $675,000,000 spent for health by individuals and both federal and provincial governments.

"The cost of a national health insurance program would not be a new cost to the nation at all. It would very largely be a replacement of present expenditures for health care so that we would share co-operatively, together instead of individually, the expense of health treatment."

Mr. Coldwell speaks today at Nelson, B.C.

At High River, Alta., Trade Minister Howe contended that since 1935, the Liberal government "has surmounted every phase of trouble—depression, war, reconversion and rehabilitation — and now further defence problems."

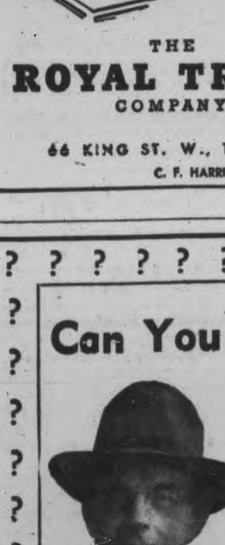
Question:

Mr. Swanston, what have you to say to the charges of gross extravagance and mismanagement of public money made by the Conservatives against the Liberal Government?

Answer:



Under this supposedly incompetent government Canada has the highest employment in history, the highest standard of living in history, a reduced national debt, the best social services in our history, and the most valuable dollar in the world. If that is what the Conservatives call mismanagement I'll bet they would like to know the secret of it.

Should We Have Toll Roads?

In the United States private enterprises have built, with legislative permission, broad direct highways between principal points. These famous "Turnpikes"—magnificent roads—have been financed by private, not public money, and are operated for profit. Substantial toll charges are assessed against any driver wishing to use them. Millions do, for with the increasing congestion of public thoroughfares, these roads provide a speedy way and save time. Trucking companies like them, for they save money. The trucks are not tied up in traffic jams and they and their drivers are thus able to cover more miles and make more trips. There are no such toll roads in Canada yet, although a large association of Laurentian resort owners has urged that the Quebec Government allow and encourage a private company to build a trunk road north from Montreal. In Canadian provinces, all through roads are, by law, public roads.

* * *

There is a good argument for permitting private companies to build "turnpikes" in Canada; for instance, between Toronto and Windsor. They ease traffic and take the weight off the Provincial highways. If private enterprise will undertake the costly work which is now a charge on the public purse, why not encourage it? On a toll road, only the users pay. On a public highway everybody pays, through taxes. Although the money is raised chiefly through the gasoline tax and motor vehicle licensing tax, and thus to a great extent our highways are financed by the people who use them, the private toll road is directly and exactly financed. The motorist pays for it the moment he enters the turnpike, and he pays according to the distance he will travel. Further, the private highway companies, operating for profit, will have a pretty shrewd eye to an exact proportioning of costs according to wear and tear. Heavy trucks do not get by at the same price as passenger cars, and the turnpike companies have no need to consult local prejudices and politics. It is a straight business deal, and the driver buys the use of the road for a specific distance.

* * *

To permit a return to tolls in this Province seems, on the face of it, to be retrogressive. Only after many decades did Ontario rid itself of the nuisance of toll bridges and toll roads. Roads have become a public right, with no toll gate to bar the way. To countenance private ownership and operation of through roads would be a radical break with our tradition; our history is intimately bound up with the development of public transportation and communication. Can this vital aspect of Canadian life be adequately entrusted, even in part, to private, profit-seeking enterprise?

* * *

These questions may be academic. The same influences which made roads political, economic and public concerns still operate: the great distances to be covered, the few people living between them. These influences may prevent any private company from seeking to build Ontario turnpikes; there may not be enough possible traffic to make them profitable. Our highways, like our railways, are in the main, public services too costly to build for profits to be made from them. In one or two reaches of this country turnpikes might make money, but in general, the provincial revenues would have to continue to provide the services; private companies would not do it, without substantial subsidies, particularly when maintenance is so costly at the very time traffic is least—in winter.

* * *

Setting aside questions of history, tradition and the economics of a public utility in a big and thinly populated country, one asks this: What happens to private road tolls when prosperity has fled around a corner, out of sight? People will not pay extra money in hard times to use a turnpike; they will come on the free provincial highways—and the private road companies will come on the government—that is, on the public purse. They will seek subsidies or, becoming bankrupt (as railways did more than half a century ago) will be a public charge. Thus the people of the Province will have on their hands worn and costly trunk roads from which all profit has been bled. Why not, with these future considerations in mind, keep them public roads from the beginning? The Department of Highways has shown itself, through roads like the Queen Elizabeth Way and various improvements it is making in our roads system, capable of attending to our highway needs without private intervention. What is required are not private trunk roads, but a more equitable method of taxing highway users—trucks, for instance—according to the wear and tear they cause.

Fine For Litter

Every spring, and perhaps more often for all we know, employees of the Department of Highways clear highway verges of accumulated litter—papers, cigarette cartons, bottles, and a dozen other kinds of waste thrown from car windows or left around after a picnic. They also, of course, clear out fallen branches, corpses of animals and other natural rubbish. But by summer some of the roadsides are again untidy with trash, which is a pity, considering the great pains taken officially to make the highways attractive. In the state of New Hampshire there is a $25 fine for littering the highways. In the state of Vermont the fine is $50. Whether or not this encourages drivers and their passengers to restrain their dirty impulses, the roadsides in both these states are remarkably clean and tidy.

Motorists should not need to be threatened by a fine in order to inspire them with the propriety of behaving decently. To strew rubbish along a highway is indecent, a blemish on nature and good works and indeed on the character of the litterer. That there is not really a great quantity of litter on our highway verges makes even more conspicuous the bad manners and lack of cleanliness of those who do throw the stuff from their cars, or leave a mess after a picnic. Creating litter is an offence against public pleasure and public land; the American states we have mentioned consider the offence sufficiently grave to warrant a fine. Since this Kawartha region is not dissimilar in aspect and use to Vermont and New Hampshire, and equally worth keeping clean, signs politely asking persons not to litter the roadways—even if not accompanied by the threat of a fine—might be an improving reminder to careless people and also improve the appearance of our fine highways.

Peterborough Gets A New Post Office

Up and down the country somebody on nearly every husting is promising a new bridge, a new dock or a new post office. It is the traditional pork-barrel whiff. If all the pledges are fulfilled this country will have so many bridges, docks and post offices that, unless they fall, we'll never see the voters at all.

Peterborough sits smugly by. It has not been promised a new post office. It is not even asking for a new post office. Peterborough is so highly moral that its people would never dream of demanding a political plum like a new post office in exchange for electing one or the other candidate. The fact is that Peterborough is so good and upright, without fear or favour, that a new post office and customs house combined was bestowed on it last year, not as an election present or promise, and not even in return for past favours to the Government. In fact, Peterborough people did not even elect the Government candidate last time, or the time before, or the time before that. Peterborough is not asking for a new post office, because it is getting it, now, and through need, not favour.

Corset Bugaboo

Dr. R. C. Lucas of London wrote in the April issue of Laneet, the medical journal, that under certain circumtsances, the corset may be responsible for cancer. Here is the newspaper report:

> Three cases have come under the doctor's notice in which cancer in women started at the point where the edge of the corset crosses the edge of the big muscle of the chest.
>
> In describing two of them he says: "It occurred on the right side in each case, and in women whose occupations led them to undue use of the right arm and in consequence to the excessive friction of the upper edge of the corset. The friction of the corset at this spot is, therefore, the cause of a cancerous process developing in this situation, and to express this fact I have given it the name of corset cancer."

We should mention that the report appeared in April, 1904, and that we saw the reference in a copy of that date of a Toronto newspaper—which had been affixed to the back of a picture frame.

In the same issue appeared an advertisement offering "$500 Reward for Women Who Cannot Be Cured" by "Dr. Pierce's Pellets for Female Weakness, Prolapsus," and several other named diseases.

We are pretty sure that today's doctors would find Dr. Lucas as wide of the mark about Corset Cancer as Dr. Pierce was of curing by his pellets.

NOTE AND COMMENT

No Orangeman has ridden a white horse on the 12th of July in the county of Kent in the past seven years, notes the London Free Press. No white horses left, or no Orange men?

Canada is in the midst of a "drowsy election," the New York Times reports. The Conservative Winnipeg Tribune thinks the description might have been changed to "Drowsy". The same thing?

Driver's Dilemma

By BON VIVANT

I AM GOING through a period of great indecision. The time is rapidly approaching when I shall have to do something about my faithful Gray-Dort automobile which has served me so well all these years. I've been looking about for a Saxon in good condition, or even a Chalmers, both of which had that long, low, racy look highly favored by such sporty types as myself. However, these seem to be off the market, and it looks as though I may have to abandon my favorites and follow the modern motor trend.

✧ ✧ ✧

ARRIVING at a decision in this matter has me all of a dither. Shall I purchase a domestic product, or shall I acquire one of those sleek, road-hugging English sport cars? An English friend of mine describes our cars as greenhouses, but seeing as how he lives on an Island seven miles wide, by twenty-one miles long, his view may be a trifle circumscribed. I do like the look and performance of the English sport car, but find the passenger and impedimenta accommodation offered a little on the snug side.

✧ ✧

THERE IS a trend among the manufacturers who supply our market towards the high performance two seater. Nearly every motor company of any importance has an experimental car, designed as a real sport car, not a family car with a sporty look, which wets the appetites of those addicted to this type of vehicle. When they will come into producton is still undecided, although one of the big three is producing such a car to sell around $3,000.

✧ ✧ ✧

EUROPEAN styling is going to affect all our cars before too long. There is one American car which came out this year with a definitely continental body style. This is the same manufacturer who brought out the first bustle-back model just after the war, and now all cars are humped fore and aft. It may well be the new model is a forerunner of another change in body design.

✧ ✧ ✧

LAST WINTER I had some experience with both British sport cars, and one of our own home grown products in the sporty class. The h.g.p. sells in Canada for between $5,000 and $6,000. The British job was a small, four passenger model, selling for about $1,700. Actually there wasn't too much to choose between the two in performance. The smaller car was full of pep and ginger, and very easy to drive, but it lacked greatly in comfort. The larger car was not nearly so nimble, but did offer enough room for four people to travel long distances comfortably, and was designed for trips covering considerable mileage.

✧ ✧ ✧

J. EASON GIBSON, whose column in the English publication Country Life, keeps me abreast of European motor progress, has been testing some pretty exceptional cars recently. Among them is the Healey, a four cylinder two seater, with multiple carburetion and over-drive, which will scat at 114 m.p.h. in the stock model. The racing model can be tuned to give higher speeds.

He has also been putting the Sunbeam Alpine through its paces. This is a two seater convertible, and if I read the specifications aright has an automatic top, one of the few English produced cars with such a feature. This car also sells here in the $3,000 range and will scamper along at 120 m.p.h.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Frazer-Nash, described by J. Eason G. es a high speed touring car, selling for somewhere in the neighbourhood of $5,000, boasts of a large luggage boot. By our standards it isn't, but it is larger than most luggage space in such cars. This car also will hustle around at over the 100 m.p.h. mark.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT POSES a pretty problem is where can you use such speeds. Every now and then we read of a cops and robbers chase where they hurtled along the highways and byways at 90 m.p.h., but that is rather exceptional. A number of our cars, if properly tuned, I have no doubt can make almost as good speed, but so far as its practical application is concerned I am unable to see where it would be of much use.

I had an opportunity of discussing American cars and British cars with a prominent English racing driver not so long ago. He does not think highly of our motor vehicles. To him the ability to shift gears and do all sorts of fancy tricks with a car are important. He does not think our system of automatic driving makes for good drivers. I agree with him up to a point.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE QUESTION does arise, however, as to who wants to be able to shift gears at from 50 to 70 m.p.h. So far as the average driver is concerned I don't think Canadians are much better or much worse than drivers in other countries. I regret to say that much of what is designated here as bad driving is largely a matter of lack of courtesy. British drivers are very courteous, and go to great pains to assist other drivers on the road. In Canada we haven't quite progressed to this point.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT I should like is a car designed to perform like the British and European sport models, with the amenities our own cars now possess. Such a car would be ideal to drive, and from my own restricted experience, rather safer than our softer sprung models. If the forecasts in the American motor magazines are any indication it won't be too long before such cars are available.

✧ ✧ ✧

YOU CAN SEE now the problem which confronts me. Having finally made up my mind to change my Gray-Dort for something more modern I'm torn between the desire to drive a high performance sport car, or sticking to our own brands which give me the amount of room and comfortable ride I think I need. It is no easy problem to resolve, and could very easily end up in me keeping what I now have, persuading it to continue running with a weird assortment of replacement parts twisted and bent to fit where they usually won't.

ANYTHING BUT

ONE PUTS UP WITH A LOT UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS

Religious Group In Deep Freeze

(CARTER HENDERSON IN WALL STREET JOURNAL)

AT THE end of a remarkably dusty road in Amana, a country town in Iowa, workmen are riveting together the last section of a $3.5 million addition to Amana Refrigeration Corp.'s home food freezer factory. The new structure, of stone and glass brick, provides a starkly modern contrast to Amana's century-old brownstone houses.

As soon as this addition is finished, Amana officials will begin stepping up production from 400 to 1,000 freezers a day.

Until 1950, when a group of nearby Cedar Rapids businessmen bought out fast-growing Amana Refrigeration for $1,750,000, the company was a division of the Amana ("Believe faithfully") Society, a religious colony that owns and operates a dozen profitable businesses.

For over 75 years, the Amana Society wanted no part of business or profits—they believed in pure communism. Then, in 1932, the sect decided to see what capitalism had to offer. They incorporated their business holdings and issued stock worth $50 a share.

Today, thanks to the switch from communism to capitalism, it takes $3,300 to buy a like share of stock in Amana Society. This Society's 1952 sales totalling more than $5,000,000 included handmade furniture of native cherry and walnut; hickory smoked Westphalian-style hams, bacons and sausages; bright woollens; and loaves of crisp bread baked to a turn in ancient stone hearths.

The Amana Society as born in 1854, when some 800 followers of a religion that believed its leaders could actually hear the voice of God, migrated from Germany and settled seven dreary hamlets on 26,000 acres of fertile black soil bordering the Iowa river.

They practised pure communism. Everyone worked for the Society without wages, and in return, the Society supplied everyone with whatever food, clothing and shelter they needed to stay alive.

Amana families lived in a few rooms assigned to them in community dormitories; wore clothes made from cloth woven in community mills; and were fed in community kitchens, where everyone ate in pious silence. It was like one big, unhappy family—with everybody on the dole.

The "Great Change", as Amana oldsters still call it, came in 1932, when the Society decided to toss communism out the window and give capitalism a whirl. They added up the value of their farms and factories and incorporated them into a profit-seeking stock company that paid wages. Each adult got one share of common, plus medical, dental and burial benefits at Society expense.

The switch to private enterprise brought immediate results. Productivity increased so much that the 200 outside workers previously needed to help run the Society's businesses were fired after only three weeks.

The lure of profits caused the Amana Society to take a flyer in the refrigeration business in 1936. Society member George Foerstner started up production with a handful of employees working in an unused corner of a furniture shop. They started out making beer coolers, but soon switched to home freezers.

Amana engineers had carefully studied existing models of food freezers and decided that home freezers—like refrigerators — should stand upright, rather than squat lengthwise on the floor. The new upright Amana freezer caught on and was soon copied by other freezer makers.

Business was bubbling, and prospects were bright, yet Amana elders felt the Society did not have enough money to give Amana Refrigeration the backing it needed to hold its own in the fiercely competitive home freezer industry. Two years ago they sold out to a syndicate that has retained the Amana trademark and Amana members George Foerstner as company president.

Gotham Beats Pollution

(HAMILTON SPECTATOR)

OUT from the seashores that skirt the biggest city in the world they are redeeming once badly polluted waters. New York has made war—and effective war—on this scourge, and where not so long ago there were miles of "taboo" there are bathers enjoying their recreation free from worry.

A survey by the World-Telegram and Sun shows that the greater part of an area formerly banned to swimmers is now clean and safe. Raw and inadequately treated sewage still flows into New York harbor and Long Island Sound, but much of the pollution is expected to be reduced next year and entirely eliminated in three years. Most of the city beaches and many in the metropolitan area are already improved and will continue to improve.

When the Gotham newspaper first began its campaign to clean up the city's bathing waters, less than two per cent of the pollution load was being removed by municipal sewage plants. Today 10 modern sewage treatment and disposal plants and four improved old plants are treating 680,000,000 gallons of sewage daily and removing impurities efficiently. When neighboring communities complete their sewage plant programs metropolitan bathing waters should be safe.

As a further indication of the general improvement of the city's waters, reports have been made that fish again are being caught in the East River. Improved fishing conditions have also been reported in Jamaica Bay and other waters in the area.

So great is the improvement that the World-Telegram and Sun will discontinue its annual beach water survey with this year's report. In an admirable crusade of 22 years' duration, the newspaper staff writers have driven more than 12,000 miles, taking more than 2,000 samples of water from 65 different beaches.

If New York, with its millions of people, can achieve such remarkable results, there should be no stalling in this city. Isn't it time for Hamilton to get abreast of the times, instead of retreating and surrendering our magnificent waters to pollution?

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

How amiable are thy tabernacles, O Lord of hosts! . . . Blessed are they that dwell in thy house: they will be still praising thee. Selah. (Ps. 84: 1, 4.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Wherefore laying aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings, as newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word: that ye may grow thereby: if so be ye have tasted that the Lord is gracious. To whom coming, as unto a living stone, disallowed indeed of men, but chosen of God, and precious,

Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ.

Wherefore also it is contained in the scripture, Behold, I lay in Sion a chief corner stone, elect, precious: and he that believeth on him shall not be confounded.

Unto you therefore which believe he is precious: but unto them which be disobedient, the stone which the builders disallowed, the same is made the head of the corner, and a stone of stumbling, and a rock of offence, even to them which stumble at the word, being disobedient: whereunto also they were appointed. But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should show forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light. (I Pet. 2: 1-9.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"What kind of weather did you have on your holiday?"

"Well, I almost got engaged to the caretaker of the local museum!"

A thrifty man went to a lawyer for advice. After the interview he ran into an acquaintance and told him about it.

"But why spend money on a lawyer?" asked the other. "When you sat in his office, did you see all the law books there? Well, what he told you you could read in those books."

"You're right," admitted the advice-seeker, "but that lawyer—he knows what page it's on."

Tobacco-Chewers' Vote

(A. R. F. in London Free Press)

Hon. T. W. Crothers, who was for a number of years member for Elgin County and minister of labor in the Cabinet of Sir Robert Borden, told us that a plug of tobacco won him a close election in Elgin on one occasion.

Mr. Crothers was a tobacco chewer—a habit, which seems to be disappearing. One day when we were in the Press Gallery at Ottawa and called on him in his office for news we were admiring his ability to expectorate and hit a cuspidor half way across the room.

"A chew of tobacco won me an election", he remarked. "I was canvassing in St. Thomas and came across a gang of men working in a sewer. I found I had no plug of tobacco with me and with no thought of politics asked if one of them could give me a chew. About 25 men hauled out plugs to accommodate me. They thought I was a real guy. I am sure I got all their votes and I only won by an extremely narrow margin."

Top Three Trade Position In Intercounty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Senior Intercounty Baseball League continues to be a statistician's nightmare. The three top teams again exchanged places Wednesday night, a feat they have accomplished with monotonous regularity for the last few weeks.

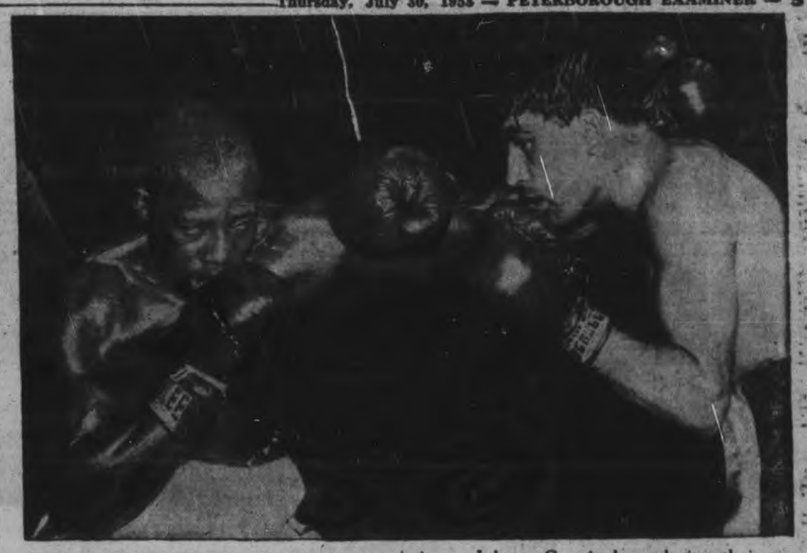
Brantford Red Sox and Kitchener Panthers tumbled out of their first-place tie to remain at Loggerheads for the runner-up position as Waterloo Tigers moved into the league leadership.

Oshawa Merchants sent the Panthers reeling 10-1 while Waterloo moved to the top with a 6-4 decision over the Red Sox. At the same time, Guelph Maple Leafs clicked for their fifth victory in six appearances to drop Galt Terriers 13-3.

Oshawa scored twice in the first inning at Kitchener and were never headed. Kitchener scored its lone run in the fourth.

Bud Rippelmeyer limited the Panthers to three hits over the nine innings, walking five and fanning three. Dick Welker, the Kitchener starter, was charged with the loss. He gave way to Cy Bricker in the fourth.

Butch Lawing was Oshawa's big man at the plate, driving in five runs with three hits, one of them a third-inning homer with one aboard.



Waterloo came up with four runs in the eighth inning to sink Brantford after the Red Sox had taken a 4-2 lead in the fifth. Lee Griffith walked two Tigers who came home when Harry Muselman slammed a double with the other pair crossing the plate as a throw from the outfield got away from catcher Jim Clifford.

Tommy McGrattan of the Sox was the top man at the plate, hitting five for five.

Guelph sewed up its game early and was leading 8-1 by the end of the third. Jim Gray and Gene Bilo were big men at bat, hitting three for five.

Leafs continued to play smart fielding ball, going errorless while Terriers committed four miscues with six of Guelph's runs being unearned.

A scheduled game at St. Thomas between the Elgins and London Majors was rained out. It will be played tonight.

Police said the capture came after two men were surprised on the roof of the Rowe packing plant. Williams was hit in the heel by a bullet fired by Constable Earl Snider after he failed to heed an order to halt.

Police added that Dunn, in his efforts to dodge bullets, fell through a skylight into the building.

Here And There In Sports

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

CHICAGO (AP)—Tam o'Shanter par was slaughtered Wednesday in a hot qualifying round of little-known pros and in practice tune-ups by exempted big shots as they polished up for the $30,000 All-American golf meet.

The field for today's start of the 72-hole medal grind will number about 150 in men's pro division, half of them being qualifiers in trial tests Wednesday and Tuesday.

Those exempted, based mainly on last year's tournament records, included nearly every name player in the game, as well as 20 foreign champions whose expenses are being paid by promoter George S. May. Ben Hogan did not enter.

Practice rounds reported included 66 by Pete Cooper, perennial contender from White Plains, N.Y.; 68 by Australians Norman von Nida and Peter Thomson and 69 by Lew Worsham, former U.S. Open champion.

But while the more prominent pros were having a frolic over the 6,900-yard, par 36-36—72 course, so were the lesser lights in qualifying sessions.

Errie Ball of Chicago, 40-year-old English-born pro, carved a 34-32—66. John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Otto R. Kohl of Chicago posted 67. Earl Wilde, Rock Island, Ill., hung up 68.

Nature Develops Hardier Rust To Attack Stronger Wheat

EDMONTON (CP) — Canada's plant breeders say they are winning the fight against rust but even as they work their old enemy is right on their backs.

The never-ending fight—test tubes and patience lined up against nature—has entered a new phase with nature scoring the opening blow.

Rust, a fungus much like yeast or common athlete's foot, has been threatening grain fields of Western Canada and the United States for as long as farmers can remember.

As federal government cereal laboratories, such as that in Edmonton, developed stronger wheats to withstand rust, nature in its hit-and-miss fashion developed a stronger rust.

NEWEST THREAT

The latest is Race 15B3, a hardier cousin of Race 15B. It was first found in the Regina district, just a few years after the Winnipeg laboratory bred an answer to Race 15B.

Now the fight goes on, in the laboratories and in small plots on private farms where growers donate their time in a common cause.

The grower knows what damage rust can do. About 37 years ago it destroyed an estimated 100,000,000 bushels of grain on the Canadian Prairie.

Rust showed up at the earliest recorded date in Manitoba this year and the danger was increased because of late crops. Eating quickly into wheat stalks and leaves, the 230 known races take a yearly toll in poor yields and damaged kernels.

TACKLE OVER TASKS

To the laboratories has fallen the task of finding new wheat strains capable of resisting the blight. But their work doesn't end there.

The Winnipeg laboratory developed a new potato. The Edmonton lab has come up with a more convenient method of combatting loose barley smut.

The smut, another fungus, turns kernels into fine brown powder. The old method of fighting it called for the soaking of seed in hot water which had to be kept at a constant temperature, a difficult procedure on the farm.

The new method uses water and a fungicide called pergon and the water doesn't have to be hot.

Liberals Hold Picnic In Lakefeld Park

A crowd of about 350 people attended a picnic in Lakefield Park late Wednesday afternoon and evening, sponsored by the Lakefield Liberal Association.

Curve Lake defeated Lakefield 7-5 in a ball game, which started proceedings and was followed by a picnic supper for which a good number of families had packed baskets.

Harry Hill of Lakefield was chairman for the program that followed. Speakers included the Liberal candidate for Peterborough, Max Swanston, and John A. Dewart and T. J. Carley, QC.

The day came to a close with a dance. Prizes were awarded for old-time fiddling and step-dancing.

Stevenson May Have Run In Wrong Country

LONDON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson told Britons he might have had better luck running for office here than he did in the United States.

Thanking the "countless Britons" who sent him messages of regret after his defeat in the 1952 presidential elections, Stevenson said: "I sometimes think I ran for office in the wrong country."

Stevenson was appearing on a BBC press conference telecast.

Trestle Collapses

MONESSEN, Pa. (AP)—A trestle carrying four limestone-laden hopper cars collapsed at the Pittsburg Steel Co. plant and plunged into workers eating lunch under the span, killing one person and injuring 13 others. A company spokesman said 10 hours after the mishap that two other workmen were unaccounted for and might be buried under the debris.

Feigner Holds Court At Bowl Also Holds Petes' Allstars Court Wins Before 3,000

Eddie Feigner lived up to his advance publicity as king of softball Wednesday night when he led his four-man team, the King and His Court, in an exhibition game against Peterborough Allstars. His three-man court were expert softball players and between the two the King and his Court came up with a 3-1 seven-inning win over the nine-man allstar group before 3,000 fans.

DON ASHBEE

For the seven-inning game Feigner stayed with the conventional softball pitch, mixing in a few trick throws, such as between his legs, around his back, blindfolded, from his knees, from second base and even a fake throw.

The Petes did manage to muster a home run, a triple and two singles. But when they had a runner on, Feigner didn't worry; he just retired the side in order, often by the strikeout route.

Meanwhile the allstars' pitching staff was going well. Haddy Eakins hurled for three innings giving up a run and three hits. Jim Driscoll took over in the fourth, allowed three hits for two runs, and then in the fifth retired the Court in order.

Dick West pitched for the final two innings and both times sent the Court down in order, forcing them to ground or fly out.

Tony Kotowski cracked a liner down the third-base line in the first inning. It rolled past Mike Mellicke who was playing third, short and right field. Kotowski raced around the bases and ran smack into catcher Meade Kinzer at the plate. In the tumble Kotowski missed the plate, recovered and touched the plate in time.

The only other hit for more than a single went to George (Red) Sullivan when Feigner was pitching from second. The ball was misjudged by Feigner as it bounced past him into empty centre field. But Sullivan died on third.

In the second inning Kinzer led off with a single through short, followed up by a bunt by Jerry Jones which left both safely aboard. They each stole a base and then Hermie Castle hit Feigner who was dashing for first on a small hit. The ball rolled away, allowing Kinzer to score.

The Court pounced on Driscoll when he began the fourth. Mellicke drove the ball into deep centre for a home run to start the inning. Then Feigner followed up with a double to left, scoring on another double to left by first-baseman Jones. That made the score 3-1.

Beginning the game shortly after 8 p.m. the teams had the seven-inning affair all over before 9 p.m. During that hour they did not see too much of Feigner's pitching but they did see enough to convince them he was one of the best.

In the fifth he pitched blindfolded. He struck out Castle, walked Bob Crowe, forced Harold (Buck) Legrow to pop up and then struck out Neil Thompson to retire the side.

In the sixth Feigner pitched from second. He immediately struck out Bob Wyatt and Sullivan hit his triple to centre. Then Feigner switched to the pitcher's box and there hurled from his knees. Jack Mackness promptly grounded out Feigner-to-Jones and Jack White struck out as Feigner mixed a little trick pitching from his knees.

Feigner also attempted a little trick batting in the seventh when he used a very small bat. He bunted but hit the ball while running down to first.

After the regular game the King and His Court played a little shadow ball with Feigner acting as umpire. Much to the crowd's delight he joked about Umpires Cliff Smith and Scotty Maudsley's calls during the game.

Their slow ball routine, where they had to coax the imaginary ball over the plate, and the hit, the runner reaching home only to play Xs and Os with the catcher proved highlights of the shadow ball.

Feigner then gave a demonstration in pitching. He performed forms of the windmill pitch, then the twirling eight, jerk pitch, sling shot, spin, twist and whirly-gate windups and the whip pitch. He also pitched through his legs and around his back.

To finish off Feigner pitched his five various speeds, ending up with his fast ball which has been recorded at 92 miles an hour in games and 104 at peak.

Ashbee Joins Ike As Cleveland, Buffalo Trade

Teammates throughout the summer months on the Peterborough Trailermen lacrosse club, Don Ashbee and Ike Hildebrand will be teammates throughout the winter months as hockey players with the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League.

The Barons, winners of the Calder trophy, symblematic of the championship in the AHL last winter, announced today that two Canadians made switches Wednesday within the American league.

Cleveland announced that they had traded Steve Wochy of Weston to Buffalo Bisons for Don Ashbee.

Wochy played for Detroit, Indianapolis, Omaha and Philadelphia before going to Cleveland. There he led the AHL two years ago with 37 goals and was second last year, again with 37.

Ashbee played last season with Eddie Shore's Syracuse Warriors and recently was picked up by Buffalo when waivered. He switched again Wednesday on his second trade within months.

Two-Horse Race Tops At Raceway

TORONTO (CP)—The struggle between Jack Mehlenbacher's Vanduzen from Hagersville and Bob Landers' Dolly Todd from Orangeville took the spotlight at Thorncliffe Raceway again Wednesday in the $1,500 preview of the $4,000 Molson Leaf trot.

This time the people's betting choice, Vanduzen, lost both heats to the fast-breaking Dolly Todd, who paid $5.60 in each heat.

In the first heat Landers took Dolly Todd to the front, as usual, but in order to stave off Vanduzen's typical driving finish he set a pace so slow that his mare had as much left as Mehlenbacher's gelding for the stretch run.

In the second heat Dolly went to the front again and once more, held her margin. Vanduzen was second in both heats.

Sandy May Play Golfer He Beat

MONTREAL (CP)—There's a chance that C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ont., and the man he defeated in the final of the United States amateur golf championship back in 1932 will meet again.

As part of the added attractions in connection with the $25,000 Labatt Open at the Montreal Summerlea course Aug. 20-23, tournament officials have announced an exhibition match and report Somerville has accepted.

Johnny Goodman is the man Somerville defeated. Sandy thereby becoming the only Canadian to win the U.S. amateur. Goodman advised officials from Los Angeles that he would like to play and will fly to Montreal if business matters permit.

Canadians Lose Out In U.S. Junior Golf

TULSA, Okla. (CP)—All three Canadian competitors were eliminated Wednesday in first round play in the sixth anual junior amateur championships of the United States Golf Association.

Hugh Paterson of Toronto was defeated 6 and 5 by Bobby Nichols of Louisville, Ky.; Jack Lowery of St. Catharines went down 6 and 4 to James Lucius of Northfield, Min., and George Shorer of Aldershot, Ont., fell 4 and 3 before David Adams of Laguna Beach, Calif.

A field of 128 junior golfers, all under 18 years, played over the 6,675-yard, par-71 course at the Southern Hills Country Club.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Have you noticed the extra special smile Lionel Browne has for everyone this week?

Civic Holiday weekend is one which the genial manager of the Canada Packers looks forward to every year. In fact, most golfers, including Ontario's best, look forward to Civic Holiday weekend in Peterborough and three good days of golf at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club's amateur tourney.

Since early last fall Lionel along with his committee have been planning the eighth annual tournament. These plans make it the largest (in entrants and prizes) in Ontario.

Never in the eight years of the tournament has there ever been a scarcity of golfers. Long before the final date for entering, the committe has far more golfers than they know what to do with.

This year is no exception. Although they planned for only 250, Lionel said today they will have 308 golfers (108 first flighters, handicap zero to 10; 150 second flighters, handicap 11 to 20, and 46 third flighters, handicap 21 to 36).

Hoping to cut down the entry, the committee this year raised the fee from $8 to $10, demanding it in advance. But just as many golfers entered and as Lionel said "We din't know how to refuse them."

The third flight golfers will be playing in the semi-darkness. With their eyes half open, the first golfers will tee off Saturday just before 6 a.m. on the back nine, starting on the tenth. Later in the day the same boys will play the front nine, finishing at sundown.

At the same time the other golfers will be starting at approximately the same time in the morning and continuing in threesomes until late in the afternoon.

By having the third flighters split their 18 holes, the committee actually gets five extra hours' use of the course. This allows the overflow to play.

The increased value of prizes probably attracted more this year. Last year there were $2,000 in prizes but this year they're offering outboards for the top prizes as well as floor polishers, watches, radios, chests of silver, spinning rods and reels, lawn boys and vacuum cleaners. These cost $2,500.

"We like to give every dollar back to the players," said Lionel. Figuring on 250 golfers at $10 a head, that's $2,500.. But there's 308 golfers; that's $3,080. That'll mean the extra $580 will likely go for next year's prizes, making a cash output for 1954 of $3,000.

There are more prizes this year than you can shake a stick at. There are 15 for the first flight, 15 for the second, and nine for the third. Besides these there are 15 extra for the third flight from the Dawn Patrol and Sunset Serenaders.

In addition to these 54 prizes there are travelling bags, valued at $166, for the winning team, and golf bags for the second place team.

Gramp, get out your clubs. There are prizes for all.

Gerry-Kesselring, last year's Lord Calvert trophy winner and Ontario Open champion, is once more a heavy favorite to take the honors again. The Kitchener Westmount golfer played superb golf last year to coast through easily..

His greatest competition is expected to come from a equally good golfer, Nick Weslock of Essex. Nick (his gaudy shirts and all) has many admirers in this Liftlock city who would like to see him repeat his performance of two years ago.

Probably the best-liked golfer to appear at Kawartha is Kitchener Rockaway's Moe Norman. This little fellow who swings a mean club took the honors three years ago. Less fun and a little bearing down by the fairways comedian should place him as a contender.

Weston's Ernie Bentley is always to be reckoned with. He burnt the course up several years ago to breeze to the trophy and could easily come through once more.

Then we must not forget Keith Kirkpatrick of London Highlands, Don Heller of Westmount, Bruce Castator of Islington, Doug McKellar of Scarboro, Ken Jacobs of Scarboro, Emerson Creed of London Hunt, J. L. Thompson of Sarnia, and W. Parks, a newcomer from Oxford.. They'll all be in there.

Just in case you'd like to see these top golfers at work, check the draw for times. These golfers just named are all zero, one and two handicaps and are grouped in three, beginning at 1:07 p.m. It's free. Take a look..

Just a note for the kids. There'll be a little extra pocket money for lads who wish to caddy for the three days.. Drop out to the Kawartha and register with the caddy master sometime Friday.

See you at the tee-off.

England Requests Test Extension

LONDON (Reuters)—The English cricket board of control has asked the Australian board to agree to an extension of the fifth and final Test match between the two countries to six days, it was announced Wednesday.

It starts here Aug. 15 after the first four matches ended in draws. The English request would give one extra day of play and would make a decisive victory for one team more likely.

In county cricket Wednesday, Surrey made a good start in a return match against the Australian visitors, scoring 202 for the loss of five first innings wickets.

The reigning country champions, beaten by an innings in their first encounter with the visitors, were greatly helped by a second wicket stand of 128 by David Fletcher and Peter May. Fletcher scored 78 runs.

Final scores in Wednesday's first class matches:

Surrey 202 for five vs Australian Tourists.

Middlesex 161 for three vs Hampshire (rain restricted play).

Lancashire 265, Worcestershire 108 for no wicket.

Essex 392 for six declared, Somerset 11 for one.

Northamptonshire 330 for one declared, Sussex three for no wicket.

Gloucestershire 301, Nottinghamshire eight for no wicket.

Leicestershire 267, Warwickshire 12 for one.

Yorkshire 350 for four declared, Kent 32 for one.

Hamilton Edges Petes 12-11 To Take Over Fourth Place Petes Still Share First

Bob Thorpe's Trailermen missed an opportunity to climb into sole possession of first place in the senior OLA race Wednesday night when Hamilton Tigers, the hottest team at the present time, registered a surprise 12-11 overtime victory Wednesday in Hamilton. At the same time Hamilton moved into fourth place, the last playoff position, two points ahead of Fergus. It left the Trailermen still tied for first with St. Catharines Athletics.

Victory for the Tigers was a must and they played as if everything depended on it in the final frame when they outscored the Timbermen 6-1 to force extra play.

The visitors looked like real champions in the first half and outscored the underdog Tigers 9-4, but the heavy schedule of playing two games in as many nights plus long road trips took its toll. In the third and fourth quarters some great work on the part of "Moon" Wootton prevented a win by Tigers in regulation time.

As a matter of fact it was Wootton who forced the extra play when he grabbed a hot shot from the stick of Doug Davidson with only six seconds of playing time left in the fourth quarter, raced deep into Hamilton territory and gave Ashbee a perfect pass for the goal that tied up the game at 10-all.

Curly Mason helped the Tiger cause in the initial period when he was thumbed to the sin-bin on three ocacsions for rough play and while he was looking on the Tigers ran in two counters.

The big ace for losers was Russ Slater who continued his dizzy scoring pace with three goals and one assist. Tigers just could not keep him out in the first half but in the second he also showed signs of tiring and was not tough to watch.

The real outburst of temper came in the third session when Jack Bionda and Gerry Fitzgerald discarded gloves and stick to

Dodgers' Trip Through West Like Reigning King's Tour

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

More and more Brooklyn Dodgers' current western trip is beginning to look like the triumphant tour of a reigning monarch. It is still theoretically a pennant race in the National League, but a glance at the standings today shows it's more theory than race. The Dodgers lead by eight games over second-place Milwaukee with 57 left to play for each club.

The Dodgers could still blow it, but it wouldn't be easy.

Brooklyn shaded Chicago 6-5 Wednesday and gained a full game over the Braves who bowed 3-2 to the Giants in Milwaukee. The Phillies fell apart in Cincinnati, losing 13-4. St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 8-2.

WIDEN AL LEAD

New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox widened their lead over their first division cohorts in the American League. The Yankees turned back Cleveland for the second straight time 7-3 and the White Sox exploded for eight runs in the ninth inning to whip the Red Sox 8-3. Chicago trails New York by 5½ games but Boston has dropped 9½ behind and Cleveland 10.

In second division battles in the American League Washington trounced Detroit 13-5 with Mickey Vernon blasting a three-run home run and two singles and Philadelphia made it two in a row over St. Louis 9-3.

The Dodgers used their extra base artillery in Chicago to score five runs in the fourth inning and added what proved to be the winning run in the fifth when Gil Hodges walked with two out and scored on a double by Roy Campanella. The 11-hit attack included five extra base blows with Duke Snider's 20th home run topping the list. The Cubs chased Russ Meyer with four runs in the seventh.

BREAK STRING

The Giants broke a string of 22 scoreless innings against Milwaukee before their game was one out old. Whitey Lockman led off with a triple and Al Dark brought him home with a single. Dark later scored on Monte Irvin's single. A double by Bobby Thomson and a single by Wes Westrum in the second produced the run the Giants needed to win.

Cincinnati drove Robin Roberts of the Phils to the showers for the second time this season and the assortment of throwers who followed the ace to the mound could do little to silence the Redlegs' bats. Ted Kluszewski and Hobie Landrith homered for Cincinnati.

The St. Louis attack against Johnny Lindell and two Pirate relief men included four doubles, a triple by Enos Slaughter and Solly Hemus' 11th home run with a man aboard. Harvey Haddix scattered seven hits in winning his 12th game against four losses.

Maury McDermott tamed the White Sox at Boston for eight innings on two hits but they pounded him out of the box in the ninth with an all-out attack.

The Yankees spotted Cleveland three early runs, caught up by the end of five and then won the game with four in the sixth. Billy Martin drove in a pair with his 10th home run. Bob Lemon failed in his effort to be the first pitcher to beat the Yankees three times this season.

Bisons Move Up With 4-2 Win Over Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons aren't an easy street yet, but they are getting there gradually.

Wednesday night, the International Baseball League leaders defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 while Rochester Red Wings fell 5-3 to Syracuse Chiefs and Montreal Royals dropped a 5-4 decision to Ottawa Athletics.

This combination put the Herd 2½ games ahead of the Wings and the Royals—the biggest lead the club has held since taking over the top spot from Montreal. Rochester is in second place, two percentage points over the Royals.

HURLS 3-HITER

The Bisons' Paul Foytack turned in a masterful three-hit performance to stop the Leafs at Toronto for his eighth win of the campaign and fourth over the Leafs. Eddie Kazak and Emil Restaino whacked homers for Buffalo.

Righthander Lynn Lovenguth tossed a five-hitter to tame the Wings at Rochester, although one of the hits off the Syracuse hurler was Lou Ortiz' ninth round-tripper of the year.

Third baseman Wally Rogers batted in four runs at the Canadian capital to spark the A's victory. He singled home two in the first and tripled across two more in the fifth.

At Springfield, the Cubs came up with a 4-3 decision over Baltimore Orioles to snap a seven-game losing streak. Big Jim Brosnan went all the way on the mound for the tail-enders.

Admits Carelessness Driver Fined $15

Pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving Wednesday, Raymond Saltern, 22, of Havelock, was fined $15 and $2.50 costs in Magistrate's Court. The charge arose out of an accident July 19 involving Saltern and Norman Nixon, of 198 Lollard Ave., Toronto.

The accident occurred early the morning of July 19 about 5½ miles northeast of Lakefield. From the position of the two cars, PC James Heeley determined the Saltern vehicle had struck Nixon's from behind, causing extensive damage.

UNITED EFFORT THWARTED—Police lead away some of the women arrested in a dawn raid on Short Creek, Ariz., for practising polygamy. The entire population of the town was arrested for practising plural marriage under the laws of its religion, the United Effort. Police raided the town at dawn, expecting to catch the people unaware, only to find the entire population waiting in the town square for them. They said they had known about the raid for 10 days.

No Talks Yet With Russia Foreign Office Opinion

By WILLIAM CLARK
(Special To The Examiner)

LONDON—The outcome of the Washington talks, which has been received with a good deal less than enthusiasm in the country, is regarded with considerable relief in Whitehall. The Prime Minister's initiative last May, when he suggested high-level talks with Russia, was not at all welcomed in the Foreign Office, and it is unlikely that this policy would have been enunciated but for the accident that the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, was absent through ill-health, and the views of his department were therefore not well represented in the Cabinet.

This "Whitehall" view on Foreign Affairs, and particularly on relations with Russia, has no spokesman in the Cabinet nor in the country at present. But the viewpoint is worth discussion because in fact it represents a very considerable though unseen factor in British foreign policy. Lord Salisbury, acting Foreign Secretary, has greater sympathy with it than Sir Winston, but it was apparent from the speech of Mr. R. A. Butler, acting Prime Minister, in the Foreign Affairs debate that the Cabinet has decided not to adopt the Whitehall view as its own, even though this might make justification of the Washington communique far easier.

Basically, this Whitehall view (which is widely but not universally held among officials is that it is still too early to make a settlement in Europe with the Russian forces. A good deal of military opinion holds that the power of the NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organisation) forces is just reaching its point of maximum acceleration, and that, in spite of cuts in American aid and the hesitations over E.D.C. (European Defence Community), the West will be in a far better bargaining position early next year.

A further argument given by those who favour delaying decisive talks with Russia is that any talks at the moment would only help to consolidate the new regime in Russia. It appears to be the belief of most Western diplomats in Moscow that the troubles of the Malenkov regime would be eased if it appeared that the West was very anxious to seek talks: the talks, if they took place, would either show that Malenkov and Molotov could win concessions where Stalin failed, or, if there was a breakdown, it could be trumped throughout the Soviet Union that the Imperialist Aggressors were an immediate threat and that all patriotic citizens must close their ranks.

Thus the advice of the Russian experts appears to be that it would be best to extend every courtesy to Russia and to offer no excuse for charges of being aggressive, bu to avoid decisive talks at present. Delay, in their opinion, will reveal wider and deeper fissures in the Soviet regime.

For those who hold these views, the gradualist approach, by way of a Foregin Ministers' conference, based on positions the West wishes to hold, is almost ideal. It will help to disclose the Russian hand without giving away any Western trumps.

BLUE SUNOCO

Here's how High-Test Blue Sunoco gives you top anti-knock performance

This shows how knocking is caused by premature firing of part of the fuel mixture...sometimes called detonation. This is usually caused by gasoline of low anti-knock quality . . . in time, often aggravated by excessive deposits.

This shows how the high anti-knock qualities of premium High-Test Blue Sunoco control detonation (knocking), and create smooth, even combustion of the fuel mixture. This results in smoother, more powerful performance.

Weird Transportation Used By Witnesses

COBOURG (ENS). — Heading back to Manitoba, two contrasting modes of transportation stopped here for gas Wednesday.

Jehovah Witness convention stickers on their bumpers, they were on their way back from Yankee Stadium in New York.

One was a car in the luxury class, pulling a large trailer, also of the luxury variety. The other was a one-ton open-body truck which had been closed up, for protection from the weather, with wood and fibre board. Two flaps extended along each side and they could be opened or closed.

When the truck stopped for gas, the passengers got out to stretch their legs. There were three adults in front and a flock of youngsters in the back.

A baby hammock was suspended from the inside of the roof of the shelter built at the rear. Bedding, suitcases and a box of groceries were packed in the back of the truck.

Tests on proposed sites have been conducted at Manheim, near Kitchener, Woodstock and London. Other relay stations will be located near Glencoe, Chatham and Ruscom.

Urge Fluoridation

OSLO (Reuters) — The International Dentists' Congress urged national health authorities to add fluorine to public drinking water where needed as a means of reducing tooth decay.

Found In Car Man Charged Fined $50

Convicted on a charge of attempted joyriding, reduced from a charge of attempted car theft, Maurice O'Heron, 26, of 190 River Rd., was fined $50 and $9.50 costs in magistrate's court Wednesday.

The charge was laid after O'Heron was found in the car of Oswald Covert by the owner on a parking lot behind a downtown hotel.

Covert had heard the noise of a starter grinding early in the morning of July 5 from the hotel. Going outside, he found O'Heron in the driver's seat. He had backed the vehicle up about 10 feet by using the starter.

Covert quoted O'Heron as saying he was "going for a ride." The car owner then pulled the accused from the vehicle and took him inside the hotel where he called police.

BADLY BEATEN

Upon cross-examination by defence counsel W. J. A. Fair, QC, Covert agreed the accused was in a "hazy condition" and that he had been drinking and involved in a fight. O'Heron, he said, bore the marks on his nose and face of having been "badly beaten."

PC Arthur Beardsmore testified to seeing the accused in the hotel lobby. There was a cut over his nose and it appeared to have been bleeding. Although the constable could tell the accused had been drinking, the man's speech seemed coherent.

At this point Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, suggested the charge be reduced to attempted joyriding. O'Heron then took the stand to defend himself.

He testified to being in an argument earlier during a drinking bout and that someone had hit him in the face. After that the accused said he could remember very little.

O'Heron's defence was that he was suffering the effects of the blow and the drinking bout earlier in the evening. Further, Mr. Fair maintained, with an eye to the accused's record as a truck driver, if he had been at all aware of what he was doing, he would have realized the type of car he was in had a locked steering wheel which would have prevented him from taking it without a key.

The Crown maintained by the fact the accused had conversation with Covert, that O'Heron was awake enough to know what he was doing.

Magistrate W. R. Philp found the accused guilty on the reduced charge and levied the fine.

New U.K. Jet Engine Said Most "Powerful"

LONDON (Reuters)—De Havilland, makers of the Comet jetliner, disclosed Wednesday it has produced the world's most powerful jet engine—the Gyron.

Designed originally for supersonic fighters, its details are still hidden by security. But it may prove to be at least 50 per cent ahead of all rivals in performance.

In an official announcement, the de Havilland engine company said that during tests the Gyron had been giving "a greater thrust than announced for any other jet engine."

The company described the new engine as an axial pressure type of turbine which featured exceptional simplicity and light weight.

To Move RCAF Unit

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF's No. 4 transport training unit, which trains aircrews for long-distance and trans-oceanic flights, will be moved Sept. 1 to Trenton, from its present base at Dorval airport, near Montreal, the air force announced Wednesday.

Strikers Delay Trucks 4 Hours

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Three transport trucks, owned by Graydon Hess Haulage of Selkirk, Ont., left here late Tuesday night after being delayed more than four hours by striking truck drivers.

The trucks had arrived here from Welland to deliver loads of steel piping to Union Gas Company. As the unloading job was nearly completed, picketers swarmed into the company yards to prevent the trucks from leaving.

Later city police arrived to escort the trucks to the city limits where several provincial police cruisers took over the escort job until the trucks were well on their way to Selkirk.

The strikers, members of local 880, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, (AFL-TLC), are among some 1,500 men who have been on strike against Western Ontario trucking firms since July 19.

3 Years for Robbery

BRANTFORD (CP)—Fred Carey 33, Brantford, pleaded guilty Wednesday to robbery with violence and was sentenced to three years in penitentiary. Evidence was that James Noyce, Burford, was struck in the eye and robbed of $100 on May 26. Carey had $6 in his possession when arrested two days later.

Jailed For Embezzling

BROCKVILLE (CP) — James Howard Clarke, 29, was sentenced Wednesday to 18 months in jail for embezzlement of $1,600 from the Grand Central Hotel here last December. He was sentenced to a concurrent three months when he pleaded guilty to theft of $150 from the Red Line Inn at Callander. Clarke was arrested in Cobourg July 15.

Questions Right To Try Indians

DUNCA, B.C. (CP) — Defence counsel for two Indians charged with the murder three years ago of Chew Deb, 81, Wednesday used a 159-year-old treaty to question the right of a police court magistrate to try the pair.

Thomas Hurley, counsel for Cecil Christopher Sampson, 30, and his wife, Edna, 26, said a preliminary hearing "may lead to an international incident."

Later magistrate G. E. Tisdall ruled the hearing should continue.

Mr. Hurley said a treaty signed in 1794 between Britain and the United States made the descendants of aborigines international citizens and they still reserve their right to go north or south of the 49th parallel.

The Sampsons were picked up in California and brought back to Canada two weeks ago.

The preliminary hearing could lead to an "international incident" because the defendants were brought to Canada for trial. The U.S. secretary of state may intervene, said Mr. Hurley.

Dr. J. J. Tassie testified he was called to attend Chew whom he found lying in a pool of blood in his shack. The elderly Chinese was taken to hospital where he died July 1, 1950.

Habit Kills Man Flagging Auto

DIANO MARINA, Italy (Reuters)—Pietro Terrizzano, 59-year-old painter, used to flag down trains and automobiles because his motto was: "Since man created machines, he's got a right to stop them."

For years, Pietro used to stand on the tracks or in the middle of the road in the pose of a people's tribune, raise his arm in the Roman salute and shout "Ave" (hail) to oncoming trains and cars.

Then he would explain his philosophy as they braked to a halt.

Tuesday night he tried to do the same thing. But an approaching car on the highway did not stop in time. Pietro died in hospital here soon after.

Act To Recover Stolen RCAF Wire

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF said Wednesday that $10,000 worth of copper wire was stolen July 8 from a warehouse being built at Downsview air field near Toronto and that police are taking action to recover the wire.

The air force statemnt said that a watchman employed by the Hardy Construction Company reported a loaded half-ton truck owned by another company (Comstock Construction Co.) had left the building on the night of July 8.

An investigation by a private detective agency, hired by the second company, "pointed to the responsibility of two civilians and no RCAF personel were implicated" the RCAF said.

The copper wire was stored in the building under construction "due to a pressing need for storage space" and both the Hardy company and RCAF had civilian night watchmen on guard.

"Action is being followed up to recover the copper wire," the RCAF statement said.

To Command Micmac

OTTAWA (CP) — Cmdr. Montague Wadds, 45, of Ottawa, Toronto and Victoria, will assume command of HMCS Micmac, a tribal class Destroyer, Aug. 15, naval headquarters announced Wednesday.

He is now officer in charge of the naval gunnery school and staff ofifcer (gunnery) to the flag officer, Atlantic coast.

Shinwell Asks Cut In Defence

LONDON (Reuters) — Emanuel Shinwell, former Labor defence minister, Wednesday called for cuts in Britain's defence spending.

He said it is "quite obvious" that international tension has been relaxed, even apart from the Korean truce, and claimed that the situation does not warrant the current high defence expenditure.

Opening a House of Commons debate on defence, Shinwell said Britain's £1,600,000,000-a-year defence program is straining her resources of money and manpower and weakening her capacity to produce civilian goods.

In reply, conservative Harry Crookshank, leader of the House, said the government does not intend to "fall into the error of relaxing too soon."

Begin Producing Synthetic Yarn In Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — The first silken strands of synthetic yarn were produced this week from the miles of pipe and tubing at the $55,000,000 plant of the Canadian Chemical Co., east of Edmonton.

It was the birth of a new and potentially great industry for the oil boom capital. But it was carried out without fanfare as two of the 10 giant yarn-spinning machines began producing spools of fibre.

The plant in three months is expected to be producing 300,000 pounds of filament and staple fibre a week. Production will increase as operators are trained to handle the complicated machines and as engineers iron out wrinkles.

Partial operation of the plant's petro-chemical department, which makes the first use of Alberta natural gas to manufacture chemicals, is expected to start any moment.

EXPECT 800 EMPLOYEES

The employees now number about 400. They will be increased to between 700 and 800. They work in buildings sprawling over 430 acres.

One of the largest buildings houses machinery to process cellulose from Prince Rupert, B.C. Cellulose and acetone are the two main ingredients of the synthetic yarn.

A liquid solution forced through tiny jets becomes filaments which are wound on spools. After twisting and packing on cones, the yarn is ready for shipment.

USE ATURAL GAS

In petro-chemical units, the province's natural gas is piped through a maze of processing equipment to emerge as chemicals. Some have never before been produced in Canada.

Some of these are: synthetic methanol, used as an anti-freeze; propano, used for automobile brake fluids; propylene glycol, a permanent type anti-freeze; formaldehyde, an ingredient of plywood glue, and diprophlene, used in the manufacture of pharmaceuticals.

The self-contained plant has its own power house and pumping station to take water from the North Saskatchewan river. There is a fire station and a 25-man safety crew to prevent accidents.

JUSTICE MINISTER — Justice Minister Garson, 50, is a candidate in the Manitoba riding of Marquette in the Aug. 10 federal election. He resigned as premier of the Liberal-Progressive coalition in Manitoba in 1948 to become a cabinet minister in the federal government. Born in St. Catharines, Ont., and a graduate of the University of Manitoba, Mr. Garson entered the Manitoba legislature as a young lawyer of 28. He was returned in four successive provincial elections. He lives in Winnipeg.

Service Motive Of PM, Says Defence Minister

MONTREAL (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton Wednesday night termed Prime Minister St. Laurent "a man, human and humble, Canadian to the depth of his being . . . whose impelling motive is service to his country."

In a speech prepared for a political gathering at Notre Dame de Grace Community Hall, Montreal, Mr. Claxton said Mr. St. Laurent displays these qualities in every appearance he makes during the Aug. 10 election campaign.

Mr. Claxton said that Progressive Conservative leader Drew's campaign "performance" stands in contrast to this.

"He began his campaign by making promises, a whole lot of them, and he has kept on adding to his promises day by day. They get bigger and bigger as he moves around the country."

Speaking at the same meeting, Finance Minister Abbott said he hoped the budget would be balanced this year, but warned it "might go a little under."

Mr. Abbott said he had budgeted for a normal surplus of $11,000,000 and present indications are that this will be achieved.

"We may have a slight deficit, but it is hard to see yet," he added.

"Today our personal income tax rates are back to what they were before Korea and about half what they were at the peak of the Second World War."

The constituency was altered in 1947 and Mr. Winters was re-elected in the Lunenburg riding in 1949. He was first appointed to the cabinet when he was 38 as Minister of Reconstruction and Supply. Deny Permission To Sue CIO Union

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario labor relations board Wednesday declined to give permission to the Savage Shoe Company at Preston to prosecute the United Packinghouse Workers (CIO-CCL) for engaging in an illegal strike although it found the union had violated labor legislation in calling the strike.

Employees of two of the company's four plants now are in their ninth week of strike for a wage increase and union security.

In the unanimous judgment, signed by chairman J. Finkelman, the board found that the company had carried on negotiations with the union on behalf of employees of one plant, with the understanding that an agreement, if reached, would also apply to the other plant.

Offer ½-Cent A Mile To Striking Truckers

TORONTO (CP) — Motor transport companies in southwestern Ontario have offered their highway truck drivers a wage increase of one-fifth of a cent a mile retroactive to last Jan. 1. Present rate is five cents a mile. The drivers rejected the wage increase as inadequate and went on strike July 19.

The Canadian Press reported erroneously Tuesday that the companies had offered an increase of two cents a mile.

Manslaughter Charge Faces Windsor Man

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Donald Simmons, 32, Wednesday was charged with manslaughter in connection with a highway accident Tuesday night which claimed the life of Thelma Green, 32.

Mrs. Lloyd Wallace suffered lacerations but Simmons and two other passengers, Larry Eaton, 8, and Garry Eaton, 6, escaped injury.

Police said the car apparently travelled 168 feet on the shoulder of the wrong side of the road before it left the highway at a sharp curve.

Police said that although the charge was laid against Simmons it had not been "definitely established" that he was driving the car at the time of the accident.

Industry's Pace Unequalled In Three Decades

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's industrial barometer has been climbing during the last five years at a pace unequalled in 30 years, the economics and research branch of the provincial department of labor said Wednesday.

The five-year record of plant expansion has dwarfed all other provinces and has created 50 per cent of all new jobs opened in Canada since 1948. And the department estimates at least 9,000 more jobs will be available this year as the result of carryovers in industrial construction from 1952.

Toronto and surrounding area have reaped the greatest benefits from this tremendous growth in plant expansion.

A survey by the Labor Gazette discloses that 66 per cent of the total employment increase of 44,500 in the last five years was accounted for by three industries: Transportation equipment, iron and steel, and electrical apparatus. There was also a rapid expansion in the chemical and non-metallic mineral products industries.

The chemical industry expanded with 86 new plants since 1948, most of them being built in and about Sarnia. However, the largest one, a nylon salts production unit, is near completion at Brockville. It will employ more than 500 workers.

Squelch Ragweed

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Spraying of ragweed was carried out again this year by the Yarmouth county tourist committee, which years ago made Yarmouth the first town in Nova Scotia to attack ragweed as a community effort. While the pollen count is low, efforts are being made to eliminate the hay-fever menace entirely.

HUNGRY QUEUE—Hungry East Berliners form a long queue as they await their turn at a food distribution centre on Reichenbery Strasse in West Berlin's Kreuzberg section. An estimated 100,000 East Germans crossed the Soviet zone frontier Tuesday in search of free food packages drawn from West Berlin's plentiful supply.

Vote For Government 'Pig In Poke': Fleming

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto-Eglinton in the alst Parliament, said Wednesday that a vote for the government would be a vote for a "pig in a poke."

He said the Liberals are seeking a mandate without a platform or policies and with a leader whose age would prevent him from remaining at the helm for another five years.

Prime Minister St. Laurent is 71.

First Major U.S. Production Of Materials For H-Bombs

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced today it is approaching "first major production" of materials for hydrogen bombs, and said that in the first half of 1953 development of atomic weapons has "substantially advanced."

It said more fissionable material, the stuff which produces the explosive power of A-bombs, was produced than in any previous half-year.

The government anounced also that it is working toward development of a super-speed atomic-powered submarine even before tests have been run on two A-subs now nearing completion and rated potentially faster than ordinary underseas craft.

The atomic energy commission, which runs the U.S. atomic program, said in its semi-annual report to Congress that last spring's weapons tests in Nevada disclosed such valuable information that it will not be necessary to hold full-scale tests there this fall, as originaly planned.

PROFITABLE AVENUES

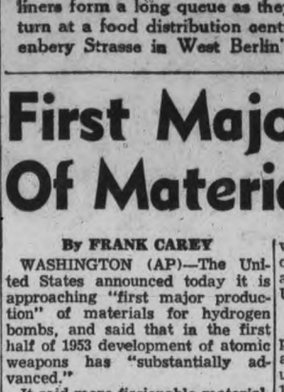
Those tests, the commission said, indicated "several very profitable avenues to new and improved weapons" which would afford "the opportunity of substantially greater atomic weapons capability for the United States."

The AEC also told Congress that:

1. Both foreign and domestic production and exploration for uranium ore for the U.S. was stepped up during the first six months of 1953.

2. Production of fissionable materials for bombs and other uses "considerably exceeded" that of any previous period—and at the lowest costs in AEC's history "despite increases in wages and material prices."

3. New facilities entered the production stream. These included a new plant at Fernald, Ohio, for processing uranium ore; portions of new plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky., for separating bomb-useful uranium from natural uranium; and supporting facilities for the plant at Savannah River, S.C., where materials for either A-bombs or H-bombs will be made.



4. The AEC is investigating new methods of uranium exploration, among them the examination of growing plants which might provide a tipoff on the presence of the metal. It is also investigating the potentialities of low - grade sources of uranium, including phosphates and shales.

PLANT TO BE FINISHED

The report said construction of a plant in the field of military application of atomic energy will be completed this summer at Rocky Flats, near Denver, Colo. Portions of this plant already are in operation.

The commission said one of the two atomic power plants being developed for submarine use had already generated "substantial amounts of power" in tests.

"Design work . . . is under way for developing an advanced nuclear power plant for a submarine of significantly higher speed than the first two nuclear-powered submarines." Unofficial estimates have been that the two now under construction might attain a speed of 30 knots.

LABOR DAY PLANS

Two bodies of organized labor in Peterborough are meeting tonight at the Labor Centre, Hunter and Water Sts., to put the finishing touches to plans for a Labor Day celebration. Also planned is a street dance on Aylmer St. to close off the Labor Day celebrations.

Juggle Showing Of Cattle At Exhibition

Peterborough Exhibition directors are staggering their cattle show this year with a display and judging of dairy breeds from Monday night to Thursday noon, followed by the beef breeds from Thursday noon to Saturday afternoon.

The purpose of this experiment is to provide suitable accommodation for all the animals in the cattle classes

"Many of the entries last year had to be placed under covering canvas outside the barns," Mrs. J. T. Tully, secretary, said today. "Breeders complained about that lack of housing, and to satisfy everybody the directors have decided on the radical change in their show and judging program."

Directors were delighted with their cattle show last year. It appeared to be about the best in the Exhibition's history with every breed in the two categories largely represented.

Barn room was crowded, and shelters had to be set in lean-to arrangement alongside some of the cattle buildings.

Breeders over a wide area are being informed by letter of the plan the directors have adopted for this year.

"They believe that the cattle entries will be more numerous than ever as a result of this new arrangement," Mrs. Tully said.

The Exhibition dates are September 15-19. Children's day will be Tuesday the 15th.

Combined Operation

City firemen joined forces with a beekeeper Wednesday night to remove a colony of bees that were in a maple tree in front of 677 Ross St. The bees had swarmed there two weeks ago and were a nuisance to Max Laidley who lives at 677 Ross St., and to his neighbors. They had started to form a colony and were building their honeycomb outside and attached to a branch—an unusual thing in this country, according to James Roberts of Alexandra Ave., a beekeeper. A piece of the honeycomb with bees crawling all over it fell to the pavement on Sunday; so the Laidleys thought the colony should be removed before somebody got badly stung. Wednesday night firemen under Capt. Vic. Barry erected a 35-foot ladder and Mr. Roberts went up the ladder in a straw hat and veil and sawed off the branch. He was stung only once.

Accused Riled Not Able To Be Heard

When a disgruntled motorist complained in court today that he would "have to" plead guilty to a charge of speeding because he didn't have the time to defend it, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, intervened.

"I don't like the idea of people saying they 'have to' plead guilty." He turned to Magistrate W. R. Philp and asked that a plea of not guilty be entered and that the case be adjourned a week. The magistrate complied.

The motorist was one of three or four who answered to lesser traffic offences; speeding and failing to stop at a through street.

It is the custom of courts to send out summonses by mail on such charges. The defendants are not obliged to appear and if they don't, they are personally served.

SELDOM READY

If they do appear, however, the crown is seldom ready to proceed with the charge because the police officer involved usually doesn't happen to be around at the time.

Having the officer involved appear the first time would probably tie up the entire police force for a morning or afternoon.

As both the crown and Magistrate Philp have pointed out, "it just isn't practical."

When a defendant does appear as a result of the mail summons to plead not guilty, his plea is taken and a date for trial set.

Those who don't appear after receiving a summons by mail, are served personally. If, after personal service, they still don't appear a warrant is issued for their arrest.

The three or four defendants who appeared today were all to some degree disappointed or angry they could not go on trial immediately. Their trials were set for a later date.

Ex-Chief Ranger Dies At Stratford

STRATFORD (CP) — William Howard Hunter, 87, former supreme chief ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, died in hospital today following a heart attack.

Mr. Hunter was born in Brantford but went to Toronto as a child. A graduate of the University of Toronto he was a retired barrister. He came to Stratford 20 years ago.

Mr. Hunter had a long career with the Order of Foresters. He was appointed its solicitor in 1895, joining the order in 1896. He continued as solicitor until 1907 when he became supreme counsellor and member of the executive. He continued in that office until 1917 when he was unanimously elected supreme chief ranger serving as head of the Order until his retirement in 1929.

Surviving are [illegible] brother Judge H. T. Hunter, Toronto and four sons.

Black Brothers Win 2nd In Doubles Play

LINDSAY (ENS) — Twenty-four rinks from Peterborough, Bowmanville, Port Perry, Oshawa, Toronto, and Cannington took a part in doubles bowling tournament at Cannington Wednesday with Chas. Peacock and Sam McMillan of Oshawa winning top honors.

Two Peterborough brothers Aaron and Isadore Black, finished second with three wins and Ron Knox of Peterborough was third.

IN THE HEART OF PETERBOROUGH at George St. Wharf, lacrosse-hockey player Don Ashbee went fishing on his Wednesday noon hour. Within five minutes after four casts Don snagged two muskies, an 18 and 8-pounder. His feat attracted a large crowd of aspirants who had no luck but a cruiser-load of Sarnia tourists at the dockside looked on goggle-eyed. They are Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kennedy, their children Jill, Sharie, Doug and "J.T." and friend Deannie Powers. "Never would have believed it," said the Kennedy clan, "right downtown, too!" —(Examnier Staff Photo)

Not Responsible If Tanks Collapse —PUC Manager

The Peterborough Utilities Commission aren't responsible if your water tank collapses when the water pressure falls.

During the past couple of years they have had half a dozen complaints from consumers that their copper water tanks crumpled when a vacuum formed inside caused by falling water pressure. The latest consumer to bring this to the attention of the PUC was Earl McNabb, of 308 Burnham St.

The PUC changed the water service at 368-370 Burnham St. last September. To do so they had to shut the water off and they notified the tenants to this effect. But unknown to them there was a copper water tank — more fragile than the galvanized type —in the upstairs.

A vacuum was created when the water drained from the pipes and tank, and the walls of the tank crumpled.

THIN WALLS

In his report to the PUC, General Manager Powell said:

"This copper tank, to be low priced, is made with extremely thin walls. As a result, each tank to receive the guarantee of the maker must be equipped with a relief valve for excess pressure, and must not be subject to vacuums . . . The tank is quite satisfactory while operating under normal conditions. If it is placed on an upper floor of a building, it will collapse if the water is drained from the building through a basement tap.

"Similarly, if the tank is located in a basement and the building . . . is on the top of a hill, the tank will collapse if the water is drained from the building through a basement tap.

"A broken water main, or low pressure area in the system may create these conditions at any time.

"Because the Water Department gave notice that the water was to be shut off and because they could not know the type of fixtures in a consumer's house, the PUC wouldn't pay the bill for a new tank.

"If these tanks continue to be installed the problem will increase," said Mr. Powell.

Cottage Ransacked 2nd Time in 2 Weeks

LINDSAY (ENS) — Cottage robbers have been picking on Mr. and Mrs. Dick Clark, on Loon Lake in Haliburton county. The cottage was entered for the second time in two weeks and the contents of drawers and every nook and corner was ransacked. Drawers were emptied on the floor.

What the thieves missed the first time they apparently failed to get the second time. Provincial Police report the loss of a new fishing reel and a number of personal items belonging to the owners. Police have been instructed to bear down on all clues.

49 Houses Completed 1 Year After Start In Subdivision

Just a year ago this month the Ontario Department of Planning and Development approved the development of the Queen Elizabeth subdivision in the north end of the city.

The stated aim of city council at that time was to speed the building of houses for city dwellers who faced a shortage of proper accommodation for their families.

The intention was to get as many houses built as possible last year on the stretch of city-owned property lying west of Hilliard St. between McClennan St. and Dumble Ave.

OPEN STREETS

With this in mind, and the expectation that the provincial legislature would approve annexation of the land from Smith township this spring, City Engineer A. E. Chalmers was given authority to go ahead with the opening up of streets and preliminary work on storm drains and sewers some months before.

As a result, when approval of the development was announced a year ago, all seven streets in the subdivision had been excavated and the engineering department had put in the storm drains.

Now, a year later, what is the situation?

Although heavy rains this spring slowed up surfacing of the roads, oil crushed gravel has been laid on part of Nicholls St., and City Engineer A. E. Chalmer's program calls for completion of the streets before the end of the year. Storm drains and sewers are all installed.

General Manager W. Howard Powell of the Peterborough Utilities Commission reports that water mains have been laid along all the streets but one, which as yet contains no houses. Extension of Hydro service to the subdivision is going ahead and all the houses now occupied have both water and hydro services.

49 COMPLETED

As for the houses themselves, of the 122 lots on the subdivision, 49 have houses completed on them, 40 have houses being constructed and plans call for construction of 22 more.

Of this total of 111 houses, 51 have already been sold. Construction of most of them is expected to be completed by Christmas although one or two builders will probably still be working on some of them next year.

While a number of builders are engaged in building the houses, the program is being administered by three real estate agencies: Sands & Bateman Ltd., the Davis-Thompson Co. and Irwin & Sargent.

While most of the houses are of brick construction, a few have exterior walls of clapboard siding. Built according to NHA standards, they range in size and style from five-room bungalows to six-room 1½-storey houses. Corner lot houses have cottage roofs, while the rest are gable-styled.

Some have six rooms and others five. Some of the 1½-storey houses have two bedrooms upstairs and two down, with no dining room. Dining space is provided in an alcove off the living room. Others have three bedrooms, a living room and kitchen. Others have a dining room in addition.

HEATING SYSTEMS

All the houses have full basements, equipped with laundry tubs. At the present rate, about half of them will have forced air heating. The rest have gravity-fed hot air. Forced air systems cost about $600 more than gravity-fed. Both coal and oil furnaces are being installed.

Because the project is being developed by a number of builders, the houses are at present scattered throughout the subdivision. But completion of the houses and streets is expected to provide an attractive appearance with a field day for landscape architects — amateur and professional.

All the houses are set back 30 feet from the street line and corner houses are set back 35 feet. As a result, the streets are expected to appear unusually wide as subdivisions go these days.

Hotel Robbed Of $188 By Sneak Thief

Waiting until nobody was around, a thief nipped behind the desk at the Rockland House in Bobcaygeon Wednesday afternoon, opened the till and stole cash and cheques valued in all at $188.40.

Chief Constable Ralph Wood, of Bobcaygeon, is investigating, assisted by the Lindsay detachment of the OPP.

Half a dozen members of the staff at the Rockland House take turns in looking after the till during the busy tourist season. Wednesday there was a period of 15 minutes or so, between 3.30 and 4 p.m., when nobody was around.

The thief entered the deserted foyer, went behind the desk and opened the till. He took $100 in cash, $40 in travellers' cheques, and a Bell Telephone cheque for $48.40.

Bee Flies Into Throat, Italian Suffocates

SPOLETO, Italy (AP) — Mario Marchetti, 34, opened his mouth to take a bite of bread, fell to the ground and died in a few minutes.

Doctors who examined him said a bee had flown into his mouth and bitten him in the throat. He died of suffocation.

Cast Iron Pipe Will Be Used For Water Main

Cast iron pipe not transite pipe will be used for the continuation of the water main south on Armour Road to Lansdowne St. The decision to "play safe" with cast iron and not experiment with transite was reached Wednesday afternoon at a meeting of the Peterborough Utilities Commission.

Chairman Fred Hills and Dick Raine were in favor of the cast iron, leaving Dr. Gordon Langley —a minority of one on the three-man PUC—upholding the merits of transite.

General Manager Howard Powell said he personally favored cast iron:

"I have assessed the facts, talked the matter over with the most competent engineers, and that is my judgment . . . Transite is not as hefty; it won't stand up as well as cast iron . . . In actual practice the defects show up and experienced men say these defects can't be tolerated."

Dr. Langley championed transite on the grounds that it would save the public money. As much as $16,000 on this Armour Rd. project.

"If there was no money in it I'd shut up immediately," he said, "but there's a substantial saving in transite."

On top of that Dr. Langley felt that General Manager Powell was adopting a "non-engineering approach." He added that the controversy was interesting. "It brings up the whole question of government versus private ownership."

WANTS TO PLAY SAFE

Chairman Fred Hills wasn't greatly impressed by this argument.

"I guess I'm like the civil servant," he said. "I want to play safe."

Mr. Raine conceded that there might be "an initial saving" in transite but in the past cast iron had proved itself and he didn't want to change on the basis of the facts as he had them.

The bringing in of a second, outside and expert opinion didn't help much either. At the Wednesday meeting a report from Prof. J. D. Lee of the Lee and Brooks firm of consulting engineers was read.

Prof. Lee, in brief, said that either transite or cast iron was suitable, but it was up to the PUC to decide on some other basis. He estimated that 5,960 feet of 12-inch transite would cost $4,000 less, or seven per cent less, than a similar length of cast iron.

During the meeting Dr. Langley kept referring to an estimated saving of $16,000 on the project, comparing a 12-inch transite pipe with a 14-inch cast iron one.

(Presumbably Dr. Langley compared the unequal sizes of pipe on the grounds that over a period of years there is reduced flow capacity in cast iron. Corrosion takes place in the cast iron pipe

NHA Loans Double Year Ago Money At Low Interest Scarce For Home Builders

Increased Amounts Made Available For Peterborough Still Not Enough For Record Year

With building of moderately-priced homes under the National Housing Act at a record level in Peterborough it has become increasingly difficult in the past two or three weeks to obtain NHA loans. Just about double the number of NHA loans have been made in Peterborough to date as were made during the same period last year. As a result, lending institutions, which are investing more money in building in Peterborough this year than ever before, have reached the limit of the money available for building under NHA.

This situation is not unique, but this is the earliest date on record that most companies have reached the saturation point for NHA lending. Last year, it was September before the pool of money available for NHA loans began to dry up.

Each spring, the lending institutions establish a "portfolio" of the money available by them for building loans. Normally, the portfolio is in three sections, one for commercial building, one for NHA building and one for home-building at higher rates of interest than the 5½ per cent maximum set under NHA.

READY AT HIGHER RATES

Although the amount of money available for building under NHA has recently become scarce, some companies are said to have more money on hand yet for building at higher interest rates in the city this year.

One company was reliably reported to have a million dollars available for further building investment in the city this year.

Two reasons are given for the present scarcity of money available for building loans at low interest rates. The good weather early in the spring made it possible for builders to make an earlier start than usual on excavation. Consequently, house-building projects got away to an earlier start.

Secondly, there have been more lots available this year than ever before. The Queen Elizabeth, Cordach and Bellaire subdivisions, Alderman T. D. Miller's apartments in the west end of the city and various smaller projects have all contributed to the record total.

These two factors, taken together, account for the fact that, although there has been more money available in Peterborough for NHA loans than ever before, it has become scarce sooner than in any other year.

Trucks Pile Into City With Wheat Crop

The new crop of fall wheat poured into Peterborough Wednesday afternoon from the farmlands of the district, funnelled down Queen St. towards the river and then branched out in two directions, one to Dewart Milling Co and the other up to Quaker Oats.

The last of the line of trucks headed back to the country around 11 p.m. At both mills it was reported that the quality of this crop is notably good, with little evidence of smut, and that the season's probabilities of increased volume have been realized.

ONE GAMBLER

Only one farmer delivering to Quaker Oats apparently decided to gamble on the market prospects, and in a sense took the long shot of storage for increased price in the face of the overnight drop from $1.50 to $1.48. That change was reported several days ago, and probably spurred some of the deliveries that accounted for one of the longest file of trucks that has been seen around here in many a day.

Threshing in the fields, at barns and finally combining was almost the only concern and activity of Peterborough farmers Wednesday afternoon, in fact all day.

If this weather continues, the stream of truck traffic in a shuttle service from fields to mills will continue through Saturday and probably to the end of next week.

Robinson Has Valuable Art Collection

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "These are my children, but they rule me. I've had to make over the whole house just to please them." Edward G. Robinson gestured around his spacious Beverly Hills home. The walls were covered with paintings by the great names of modern art. These were his children.

Folks sometimes find it hard to picture Robinson as an art fancier, since he has specialized in playing mugs in the movies for 20 years. His latest adventure into film crime is to play a murderer in The Glass Web.

Despite his career tendencies, he is one of the foremost private collectors of art in the world. The walls of every room in his house are adorned with rare and beautiful paintings.

"Do you even have them in the bathroom?" Iasked.

"Come and see." Sure enough, there were three sketches and an oil.

The actor conducted a tour of his home, pausing to marvel at a Renoir nude ("isn't it alive?") or to pat the head of a Degas ballerina cast in metal ("she's quite a girl!")

Robinson exhibited a famous portrait by Van Gogh, a gorgeous scene of Tahitian horse riders on a pink beach by Gauguin and some posters by Toulouse-Lautrec.

He then led the way to the gallery, which adjoins his house. Inside was a feast of art.

During the tour, the actor explained how he had started with his art collection: "I had always loved art as a kid. I would haunt the museums and galleries and read everything I could find on art. Of course, I never dreamed that I would be able to buy some great paintings some day.

"But along came the movies and made it all possible. I started with three paintings, a Monet, Degas and Pissaro. They were magnificent things, and it was well I started out with good art. Then the dealers realize that you don't want anything second-rate."

FRENCH SPECIALTY

As time went on, Robinson kept plunking out his film salary for rare paintings, picking them up from dealers in New York and Europe. His specialty is French impressionism. Aside from pleasing his aesthetic sense, the venture has proven a good investment.

"It is true," he admitted, "the paintings have greatly appreciated in value since I bought them. It is now very difficult to pick up really great paintings. The museums have bought them up. There are few big private collections any more; they've run out of suckers like me."

With $1,000,000 or more of art work around the house, doesn't he worry?

"My only worry is fire. I don't worry about stealing. It's virtually impossible to steal paintings and sell them. Believe me, I've thought about it and given up the idea."

Re-Settle Small Eskimo Groups

OTTAWA (CP) — The resources department is undertaking a project of Eskimo resettlement which may be the forerunner of larger population movements.

Eleven Eskimo families numbering some 50 individuals will be moved from northern Quebec and Baffin Island 800 miles northwest to points on Ellesmere and Cornwallis Islands where game is plentiful, a resources department official said Wednesday.

The families will be established with goods and equipment at Craig Harbor on Cornwallis Island and at Resolute Bay and Cape Herschel on Ellesmere and if they are successful in fending for themselves other families may be moved north from the game-depleted southern Arctic.

Most of Canada's 8,600 Eskimos live on the southern islands of Canada's Arctic archipelago and on the mainland far north of the tree-line. They move from place to place hunting seal, walrus and polar bear and of late years the game populations of the southern areas has been depleted.

The eleven families will be picked up this week by a transport department supply ship which will transfer them to the icebreaker d'Iberville for the journey north.

Barley Only Grain To Show Increase From '52 Acreage

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian farmers this spring planted reduced acreages of all but one of the principal grain crops, the bureau of statistics reports.

Wheat, oats, flaxseed and mixed grains were all given smaller areas than in 1952, the bureau said in its preliminary estimate of crop and summerfallow acreages. Only barley among the principal crops showed an increase.

Last fall's plantings of winter wheat and fall rye showed "substantial increases" over 1951, however, and increases in fall rye offset the decline in spring seeding of that crop.

Spring wheat acreage is estimated at 24,780,600 acres—two per cent less than the 25,345,000 acres planted in 1952. Winter wheat plantings, mostly in Ontario, increased by 13 per cent to 732,00 acres from 650,000 in 1952.

Oats plantings are estimated at 9,830,000 acres, 11 per cent less than the 11,062,400 in 1952.

Barley acreage has increased five per cent to 8,911,100 from 8,477,400.

Total rye plantings are up 16 per cent to 1,463,400 acres from 1,257,300, with fall rye increased to 1,001,200 acres from 757,700 and spring rye decreased to 462,200 acres from 499,600.

Mixed grain acreage is estimated at 1,445,400, eight per cent less than 1,570,100 in 1952.

Flaxseed, at 1,036,000 acres, is 14 per cent less than the 1,206,500 acres in 1952. Ontario's flaxseed decrease is 45 per cent.

Sugar beet plantings are down eight per cent to 85,376 from 92,677 acres, with a 27-per-cent decrease in Ontario to 23,000 from 31,633 acres.

Jap Pinball Parlors Have Magnet Problem

TOKYO (Reuters) — Tokyo pinball parlor operators moaned Wednesday that customers were using special magnets to guide the steel marbles and roll up prize winning scores.

Complaining of heavy losses, they asked for police action to stop sale of the magnets, which are designed to slip neatly into the palm of the hand.

They also charged the manufacturer of the devices with playing both sides by offering them a magnet neutralizer for their machines.

Police spokesmen said they had no grounds for action against the manufacturer but could act against anyone caught using the devices.

Violence Flares In UE Strike At Cyanamid Co.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Violence flared here Wednesday in the strike of 750 employees of the North American Cyanamid Company when a small car tried to crash the picket line from the inside.

The 200 pickets, marching in pouring rain, stopped the vehicle and rocked it, almost turning it over. Picket captains kept the strikers from upsetting the auto while six city police officers, on duty since the plant closed at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday night, stood by.

The driver, unidentified by police or employees, escaped uninjured.

The strike came Tuesday night following a seven-day cooling off period following conciliation proceedings between the company and officials of the United Electrical Workers Union (Ind.). It affected some 750 of 1,100 persons employed at the local plant.

Company officials said a majority report of the conciliation board recommended pay boosts that would cost the company four cents an hour. The firm agreed to all terms of the recommendation except union security, but the union refused to accept the contract without this clause.

U.S. Casualty Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. defence department Wednesday reported 1,274 new casualties in the Korean fighting that ended Monday, bringing the total to 140,546. All the new casualties were declared killed, wounded or missing before last Friday midnight. The new total included 22,359 killed in action, 104,698 wounded and 13,489 missing for the army, navy, air force and marine corps.

Drowned While Fishing

SIMCOE (CP)—Ross Mohr, 22, of New Hamburg was drowned in Long Point Bay late Wednesday when he tumbled from a fishing launch while making a cast. Members of the nine-man fishing party said Mohr was standing on the seat of the launch when he attempted the cast. His companions dived for more than an hour before recovering the body. Attempts at resuscitation failed.

Russia To Pay Cost Of Austria Occupation

Lakefield Sea Cadets Hit The Crowsnest

The July issue of the Crowsnest, official Royal Canadian Navy magazine, payed tribute to the annual inspection of the Lakefield Preparatory School, whose students are orgainzed into a Sea Cadet corps, RCSCC-St. George.

The annual inspection of the cadets was conducted on Saturday, May 23 by Commodore K. F. Adams, Commanding Officer Naval Division.

The article includes three pictures showing the students parading past the reviewing stand and the students in their dinghys executing sailing manoeuvres by following international code signals flown from a mast ashore. The third picture showed the cadets demonstrating their seamanship to Commodore Adams by tying knots and splicing ropes.

Real Melodrama: Ten Nights In a Bar-Room

On Monday the Peterborough Summer Theatre presents one of the most famous of nineteenth century meldodrama, "Ten Nights In A Bar-Room." This fantastically successful melodrama is a dramatized version of the famous temperance novel of the same name by T. S. Arthur.

The play was first produced in 1858, and has been acted thousands of times since that year. A silent movie version appeared in the twenties, followed by a talking picture production in the early thirties.

MORAL UPLIFT

The play has a strong moral purpose, and illustrates in no minor key the evils and ravages of intemperance. It its heyday the melodrama was immensely popular with people who did not otherwise patronize the theatre. Henry Ward Beecher, the great preacher, once declared the play "to ennoble the stage, and preach a sermon more powerful than any heard from the pulpit in our time."

It was said that the melodrama turned many a drunkard from his course, and was a shining example to youth.

PLAYED STRAIGHT

The Summer Theatre company, under the direction of Robertson Davies, will reproduce a typical performance of the drama, in perfect seriousness, as it might have been performed around 1860. It will be played with incidental music, in the style of acting of the day, and the stage will be dressed in the colorful and plush scenery of that era. Everyone who enjoyed "East Lynne" last year should make a point not to miss it.

HURRAH FOR PUMP!

In the cast David Powell is featured as Morgan, the pitiable slave of liquor; Brenda Davies as his unhappy wife, Harry Geldard as the brutal tavernkeeper, and Gerry Saracini as the villainous gambler.

A special feature of the production will be appearance of Summer Theatre's favorite comedian, whimical Bob Gill as Sample Switchel, the Yankee philosopher, and Margaret Braidwood, "The Little Magnet," as his Yankee sweetheart. Two gifted children also adorn the cast, Little Barbara Cumming as Little Mary (singing "Father, Dear Father, Come Home") and Wee Jamie Cunningham as the tiny mite ruined by cigarette smoking. An outstanding addition to the cast is Mr. Ronald Bailey, the Kawartha Lakes Temperance Tenor, who will lead the audience in singing the famous Blue Ribbon song, "Hurrah For The Pump!"

Korea Brought Experience To 3,500 In Canadian Navy

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 3,500 officers and men of the Royal Canadian Navy gained battle experience in Korea aboard the eight destroyers Canada placed on duty at various times in the Far Eastern battle zone, the navy said Wednesday.

Two of the three destroyers now in the Far East are on standby duty following the signing of the Korean armistice. The other vessel, the Huron, is being repaired in a Japanese shipyard after running aground on July 12.

A navy statement said the vessels are still under United Nations orders "and will continue on duty until the need for them no longer remains." The future activities of the ships "rests on the outcome of the political conference called for in the armistice terms."

The navy said Canadian destroyers today rounded out a full three years of duty in the Korean theatre as members of the United Nations naval forces. The eight rotated so that there were usually three on duty.

More than 800 officers and men remain on duty as members of the ships' companies of the destroyers Iroquois, Athabaskan and Huron. The Athabaskan was among the three original destroyers which sailed from Canada July 5, 1950, 1 days after the outbreak of the Korean war.

The destroyers which served in Korean waters "achieved some notable records," the navy said, the most spectacular being their success as "train-busters." They destroyed 9½ Communist trains.

The destroyers covered landings and withdrawals, bombarded Communist shore positions and troops, screened aircraft carriers, destroyed enemy mines and aided and protected UN-held North Korean islands. Their duties often took them into hazardous, poorly-charted water within range of enemy shore batteries.

French Seek Settlement Of Seven-Year-Old Indo-China War

By BARRETT McGURN
(Special to The Examiner)

PARIS—French diplomacy will do its utmost in coming weeks to bind the Korean political talks to a settlement of the seven-year-old Indo-China war, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault implied in one of the most significant French reactions to the armistice.

France's Western allies, including the United States, already have recognized that the Korean and Indo-China wars were parallel conflicts, Mr. Bidault pointed out. France hopes ardently now, he said, that the same "solidarity" will be recognized in the negotiations between East and West which are about to begin on Korea.

The negotiations would put "an end, in justice, to the war (in Korea) and to all war," the French diplomatic leader urged.

The comment was one of many in France indicating that this country is relieved to see at least one centre of the East-West hot war eliminated, but is distressed on the other hand to find itself still embroiled in a war four years older than the one in Korea. The only hot war now raging in the world.

The distress was deepened by a news item from Washington which appeared side by side with the news of the Korean war end on French newspaper front pages. The item reported a Senate committee cut of $100,000,000 from a $400,000,000 planned grant to the French defence forces in Indo-China.

The news came at a time when French cabinet ministers have decided tentatively that the bad state of French finances here will make it necessary to ask the United States for an increase of approximately $200,000,000 toward the Indo-China war budget over the $400,000,000 originally planned and an additional $100,000,000 which is expected to be given indirectly.

Lost Bird Back, "Heart On Fire"

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Where Toni, the talking Mynah bird, went, and why, is nobody's business perhaps, but Toni's. But he's home now, his feathers slightly ruffled and all he will say of his 36-hour absence is:

"My heart's on fire."

Toni wandered away from his home at Mrs. Ada H. Latham's Monday morning. Mrs. Latham, sad and worried, advertised in a newspaper for his return.

Mrs. Mildred Martin who used to watch Mynahs flying wild in Mexico spotted his shiny black feathers and yellow neckpiece.

And Toni, his heart "on fire" by his own admission, ended his interlude of freedom.

Pays Last Respects

ATHENS (AP)—King Paul led Greece in paying final respects to Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, former soldier and premier who exiled the king's father, King Constantine, in 1922. A state funeral was held for Plastiras, 69, who died Sunday.

Signs Urge Troops In Korea Vote In Federal Election

IN KOREA (CP) — Signs appeared throughout the Commonwealth division area today urging Canadian soldiers to vote next week in Canada's general election.

The Korean armistice has greatly simplified the problems of collecting the soldier vote Aug. 3 by permitting the consolidation of units in tidy areas. Originally it was planned to take the vote at night in forward areas to avoid movements by daylight in sight of the Chinese, less than 1,000 yards away.

Coincidentally with the appearance of the road signs, the first party scrutineers reached the 25th Canadian infantry brigade area.

In the party were William Archer of Toronto and E.A.T. Paquet of Ville St. Laurent, Que., representing the Progressive Conservative party; John McIntosh of Dimsdale, Alta., Social Credit representative, and Dr. Stuart Jamieson of Vancouver, named by the CCF.

The scrutineers arrived from Kure, Japan, where they spent the last two days mailing election propaganda to every soldier in the Far East, working from nominal rolls supplied by No. 2 Canadian Administration Unit there.

Liberal scrutineers, still busy mailing their material, will arrive here shortly.

Box Tortoise 129 Years Old

NEW YORK — A box tortoise from Rhode Island, which is about 129 years old if a date carved on its lower shell can be verified, has been turned over to the Bronx Zoo.

This old reptile bears out carving that reads "E B K 1844" and another that says "G.V.B. July 22, 1860." Dr. James A. Oliver, curator of reptiles, believes that the tortoise had reached maturity of around 20 years before any of the carvings were done.

If there is any way of proving all this, beyond a reasonable doubt, then this box tortoise will take his place among America's longest-living backboned creatures.

As a group, box tortoises already have the longevity title and specifically, previous carving incidents have more or less established three individuals that respectively lived at least 130, 131 and 138 years.

There is no question that this tortoise is very old. A male, it has an exceptionally large head and the reddish iris of the eye has faded. Its upper shell has worn down almost to the underlying bone. Its body is too big for its shell which, as a result, cannot close completely when head and legs are pulled in.

The question is, are the carvings authentic by date?

TO CUT THE BUDGET — Two rival candidates, George Drew (left) and John McDonald, relax for a moment during the federal election campaigning. Both are contesting the Carleton riding in Ottawa. McDonald, the Liberal candidate, offers Mr. Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, a knife with which to cut government expenses as promised in the Progressive Conservative election platform. Mr. Drew smilingly accepts.

Order Woman Pay £1,500 Alimony

LONDON (Reuters)—A woman today was ordered to pay £1,500-a-year alimony to her disabled ex-husband, a former football player who divorced her three years ago for her misconduct with a golf coach.

The woman is Mrs. Gabrielle Style Keiller, 44, whose personal fortune, including an investment in Texas cattle, amounts to £450,000 and provides her with an income of about £11,000 a year.

The ex-husband is Charles R. Style, 51, former brewery manager and football player who now is an invalid.

The golf coach is Alexander Keiller, 64, who once lived in the same apartment house as the Styles and who married Mrs. Style after her divorce.

Hospital Deficit Bigger This Year

KITCHENER — Deficit of the Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital for the first six months of 1953 exceeded that for the same period last year by over $3,000.

To the end of June, the deficit this year was $71,728.38 and for the same period last year $67,246.83.

June deficit was $21,210.99, while that for May was $15,459.68.

Credits issued to municipalities on indigent accounts totalled $47,773.90 for the first six months of this year and $11,428.10 in June. This represents the difference between the statutory rate paid by the municipalities and the actual amount of the account.

Occupancy, though down in June to 82 per cent, was far above last June's 73 per cent. Expenses and operating revenue were both down slightly.

Fire Starts On Bridge Water Plentiful

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Campbellford firemen found plenty of water on hand on Wednesday afternoon when they arrived at the scene of a blaze to answer to an alarm.

The fire was on the bridge spanning the Trent Canal in the main section of town. The fire was smouldering between a couple of planks on the bridge, and firemen took no chances with it getting out of hand. They poured water on the spot for quite some time before leaving the scene.

The cause of the blaze has not been determined, but it is believed a carelessly dropped cigarette was to blame.

Damage was slight. The bridge is the only artery linking the two sections of the town in the business area.

Sees Conference 'Waste'

SYDNEY (Reuters)—The Herald stated today that the political conference planned under the Korean armistice will be "a waste of time" on the terms of John Foster Dulles, U.S secretary of state. The newspaper said it was "disconcerting" to find accurate President Syngman Rhee's assertions that the United States had pledged to follow South Korea from the conference table if after three months it was judge to be "sham and unproductive."

4,346 Subway Patrons Drop Counterfeit Fares

NEW YORK (AP) — There's something about a subway turnstile that often brings out a spark of dishonesty in the human race. Such a streak was brought out 4,346 times Monday.

That was the first business day under the new 15-cent subway fare. The transit authority made a final count today and said 4,346 fake tokens were dropped into the turnstiles.

Bare Rose Salad For Easy Party

By MARY MOORE.

You don't have to own a ranch and a cattle brand to have a Bar Rose Salad.

But you do have to have generous and loving friends.

A profound decision was made by your family. We are addicted to large parties and every head (female that is) of each household unfailingly offers to "bring something" when these parties are in the planning stage. Like a silly ninny I usually turn down these generous offers—often because I have new dishes I want to serve to my beloved guinea pigs. But they've stopped me. I only agreed to stop if the pact was reciprocal, and they promised to let us bring something to their parties. So much for the profound decision.

After this idea took hold it blossomed to full flower when other invited guests offered to "bring something" and since they were fetching along a carload they appropriated the salad and dessert.

And what a handsome salad it turned out to be—worthy of its imposing title—Bar Rose Salad.

Worthy of its creators, too. The comedienne of the crowd is also the salad tosser, court jester, general pet and life of the party. Just to watch her assemble this salad is entertainment worthy of a television show. Even the cabbage is added with a fillip, and when it comes to the ginger Madame Pompadour could not have done it with more of a flourish. Her dietitian buddy and mentor who generously feeds her these food ideas, stands beaming in the background while the Rose part of the team gets the applause. A precious set-up.

On the home territory a choice rolled beef roast was a-roasting with new potatoes nestling around it; the peas from two baskets were a-boiling—as a matter of fact we were all either roasting or boiling for the temperature was pushing 90 degrees.

So this lovely salad was a godsend to the hostess.

BAR ROSE SALAD

To serve the eleven who were on hand for this party one and one-half cabbage were used, but for an average-sized party one cabbage ought to be enough. Chop it finely on a board with a sharp knife (or use a chopping bowl if you have one and the curved knife to go with it). But don't grind or shred the cabbage. Now come the intriguing ingredients: Chopped banana "one or two"; ginger "a certain amount" (don't you love it when you meet up with "certain amount" cooks? I'd say to add 1 tablespoon very finely chopped candied or preserved ginger); about ½ cup salted skinless peanuts, ½ or ¼ cup sultana raisins, and one 15-oz. can well-drained crushed pineapple. Salt and commercial mayonnaise were added at the last minute for they both make salad made of cabbage watery. Be sparing with them, even if you do add them at the last minute, for a pool of watery dressing in the bottom of the bowl is an abomination.

Of course, the Bar Rose Salad was perfect for the tosser tipped off any excess liquid before she proudly and personally bore the bowl to the table.

Try the share-the-work party plan. Your guests glow with good cheer, for who doesn't want to be wanted and need to be needed?

QUESTION: Kindly send me the recipe for the fancy angel food cake dessert with jellied fruit filling.—Jessie M. A.

ANSWER:

ANGEL FOOD DELIGHT
ANGEL FOOD CAKE
(10-Inch Tube Pan)

Measure 1 cup sifted cake flour and sift it three times with ⅞ cup granulated sugar. Measure on to large platter or into large bowl 1½ cups egg whites (about 12 eggs) and 1½ teaspoons cream of tartar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons vanilla and ½ teaspoon almond flavoring. Beat with flat wire whip until quite foamy, then begin adding, 2 tablespoons at a time, ¾ cup granulated sugar (this is in addition to the first ⅞ cup). Continue beating until mixture holds in peaks, then sift over this meringue gradually the flour-sugar mixture, folding it in gently, not whipping. Pour batter into ungreased tube pan and bake at 350 degrees Fahr. for about 35 to 45 minutes.

Please see next column for the "delight" part of this dessert.

VELVETEEN FOR FALL—Very young and very pretty are these velveteen dresses for the Junior Miss. Left: unpressed pleats fall from a self-belted waistline, and the little round neck has a turn-back collar. Right: a scooped neckline has jewelled detail, and the wide skirt has interesting box pleating.

COAT MATERIALS USED IN SUITS

LONDON, Eng.,—Digby Morton has brought couture tailoring to suits in a ready-to-wear collection, which will be on sale in London and country stores by the end of August.

The suits are in warm materials originally woven for coats; they are snug, some of them designed to be worn without a topcoat. "Greensome" by Digby Morton is in a rough hard-wearing tweed in several shades of green woven with black and white.

Rough tweeds are established favorites for both town and country wear. "Prospero" is a fine Donegal tweed suit worn under a vivid cherry velour loose jacket.

Elsa Schiaparelli Continues Long Skirt Style

PARIS (AP)—Elsa Schiaparelli one of the top Paris fashion designers, Wednesday defied the Dior edict for short skirts and lengthened her dresses to about 13 inches from the floor, even longer than last year.

Christian Dior, who startled the fashion world in 1947 with the "New Look" and long dresses, pulled another surprise Tuesday by shortening skirts to just below the knee, or about 46 inches from the floor.

Paris took Dior's innovation calmly, but one French fashion writer observed that "the war of length is being fought on 38 centimeters as the Korean war was fought on the 38th parallel."

Jacques Fath has shortened his hemlines by nearly two inches to a level of 14 inches.

Jean Desses has followed the same trend. But Jacques Heim and Schiaparelli have put out new dresses that show no more leg than those of last year.

Pick A Perfume To Go With Your Jewellery

Most of us have a favorite perfume that we use most of the time. But it's fun also to have an assortment of perfumes in miniature sizes for an occasional change-about according to mood, clothes or jewelry.

One perfume house bore this in mind when it recently made available a quartet of miniatures of its perfumes. It's also this perfumer's way of introducing a new perfume to the public since one of the group is a new scent.

This perfume house suggests that you pick a perfume to go with your jewelry the next time you're dressing to go out. If you're wearing pearls, for example, a crisp, dry, floral fragrance might be just right.

For rhinestones, a more exotic scent is in order. One of the quartet is quite heady, combining essential oils of herbs and flowers of the far East with more delicate Mediterranean blossoms.

If you're wearing fake emeralds, rubies, topazes or amethysts, there's a woodsy, spicy scent to go with the warmth and fire of these jewels.

For the fantastic, imitation-flower jewelry of summer, the pastel "rocks" and crystal or white jewelry you wear with summer dresses, the scent that's commantly rose and jasmine would seem appropriate.

Teething Biscuits Now For Toddlers

"Oh, my aching gums!"

Junior never comes right out and says that in so many words, but he gets the idea across. You know how one mean tooth can get you down, and here is a small sad party who is getting them on the double—and not sure what it's all about.

He used to show his feelings by gnawing away desperately on a beat-up rubber gadget or on anything handy like a corner of the crib or Mummy's knuckle, but modern food science has come to the aid of this aggrieved party.

Teething biscuits were developed and made especially for troubled teethers. Smooth, well baked little biscuits that do not readily crumble or break. Easy to hold, too, because they are tailored to fit small hands.

Mothers are extra happy about the individual wrapping of the welcome biscuits. They keep sanitary and whole even when baby shakes out the package, and so handy to tuck into pocket or purse for baby's daily airing.

NEAT, FITTED JACKETS SHOWN IN SUITS

NEW YORK—Suits this season have neatly shaped, fitted jackets, though there are still evidences of the boy or boxy jacket so much promoted in the spring. Skirts always fit close around the hips, with any fullness falling below. But even pencil-slim skirts have now lost much of their cling-tight look and seem to hang with more free-moving grace. Skirt lengths remain about the same, or "where the woman wants them" as one designer stated.

RED, WHITE AND GREEN is this refreshing meal-in-one. Cottage Cheese-Tomato Ring Salad plate. Cottage cheese in the top layers adds the protein essential to summer eating. Jellied tomato base gives added zip and appeal.

Two-Layer Salad Success Illustrates Imagination

"Insipid as life is without love is the salad without imagination." A treasured statement indeed—from a chef who knew what he was talking about. There couldn't be an easier time to "pull up our socks" as they say, with the profusion of fresh fruits and vegetables making their brilliant debut in markets and stores and on the table.

It's easy enough to discover, courtesy of Webster, that imagination is the ability to create new things or ideas—or to combine old ones in new forms. With salads, it's mostly the latter—and that ability spells out success for all salad-makers. If you've never served beets and celery together in a salad, do it now—and likewise with that fabulous orange and onion duo. Maybe you've used cottage cheese in fruit salads, but have never tried it in combination with vegetables—and jellied into the bargain. We're suggesting this versatile dairy food in a two-layer version that comes out red and white in a ring—and is gay and colorful and crunchy with bits of raw vegetables. The bottom layer is a zippy tomato aspic and the top is white—because it combines cottage cheese decked up with chopped celery, green pepper and minced onion, seasoned with salt and lemon juice. Cream and mayonnaise give it its velvety texture. Unmold your triumph onto leafy green lettuce and ring round it with other greens of your choice. And you know what the experts say about those greens—and other salad ingredients too—make sure they're as crisp as muslin—and as cold as a politician's heart.

COTTAGE CHEESE TOMATO RING

(Serves 8 to 10)

Top Layer

1 tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 cups cottage cheese
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespon lemon juice
¼ cup cream
¼ cup mayonnaise
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 teaspoon sugar

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water in top of double boiler. Let stand for a few minutes or until softened. Place over boiling water until dissolved. Combine remaining ingredients and blend thoroughly. Add dissolved gelatine to cheese mixture. Pour into large ring mold, which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm.

Bottom Layer

1 tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2½ cups tomatoes
Bay leaf
1 slice onion
4 cloves
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Soften gelatine in cold water. Cook tomatoes, seasonings and sugar for 20 minutes. Add salt and lemon juice. Press through a strainer and pour over softened gelatine. Dissolve gelatine. Pour over firm cottage cheese mould in salad ring. Chill again until firm.

Unmould on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with carrot curls and halved cucumber slices. Fill the centre with celery leaves.

COTTAGE CHEESE RINGS

(Serves 4 to 6)

1 tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 cups cottage cheese
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup cream
¼ cup mayonnaise
Fruit or vegetable salad

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water in top of double boiler. Let stand for a few minutes or until softened. Place over boiling water until dissolved. Combine remaining ingredients except the salad and blend thoroughly. Add dissolved gelatine to the cheese mixture. Pour into individual ring molds which have been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce or salad greens. Fill centre of mold with fruit or vegetable salad.

Are You Being Most Dainty This Summer?

Personal odours have an unpleasant way of destroying your daintiness in summer if you aren't most careful.

Your daily bath or showers is something you always take for comfort. But do you use enough soap and do you scrub off the dead cuticle with a brush?

You use your antiperspirant every morning, but are you sure it's working for you? In summer, you may need a stronger one than you've been using. Better check up to make sure it's doing its job.

Your daintiness calls for frequent defuzzings by your preferred method. Don't wait until stubble is visible through your nylons before doing this job.

Your undies get laundered nightly so that you'll have a change every day and, if you're going out, again in the evening.

Your bath powder can help keep you fresh, as it will absorb some of the perspiration in the worst spots. It will help slide you into your clothes, too.

Hair odour, when you need a shampoo, can be very unpleasant. Never let it develop. In summer, you may need to double the number of shampoos you regularly have.

Foot odour in summer may trouble you more than it does during the rest of the year. A good foot powder, deodorizing and soothing, will keep your feet comfortable and odour-free.

Mistakes With Eyebrow Pencil Easily Mastered

Eyebrow pencil is a much abused though useful cosmetic. The most frequent mistake is that of using a black pencil when one is a blonde or brownette. Unless the eyebrows themselves are really black, a black pencil line will stand out on the face.

Another mistake is carrying the line down at the end rather than up. Downward lines are aging. Carry the brow out a fraction of an inch and lift it up, very slightly.

You can't work well with a blunt or too-soft pencil. Have yours very sharp and just soft enough to make a mark on your skin without discomfort. You can sharpen it on a piece of sandpaper or, with some pencils, on a piece of plain paper.

Master the art of feather-stroking in fine, light lines, in imitation of nature, rather than drawing one continuous line that hardens the expression.

Before you begin, brush away all powder flecks and brush the hairs into a smooth line. If you wish to emphasize an arch, let it be a rounded one. A sharp point will make you look as if you were raising your eyebrows continually.

FOR THE FIRST TIME, a completely seamless circle skirt has been cut from black lace. This fashion is shown here teamed with a white cotton lace blouse. Such separates make a costume that's nice for getting from summer evenings into early autumn evenings.

Cooling Cosmetics Refreshen At Home Or Office

Wait! Don't take the next boat to Alaska! And you might as well put all the food back in the deep freeze—chances are you won't fit in there anyhow! Even if you do have air conditioning, you can't air condition the city streets! The only thing to do about hot weather is to face it!

When you awake the next hot summer morning, try a shower bath—not too warm, and not too cold . . . and instead of rubbing your skin vigorously, pat it dry. Then splash on your favourite cologne lavishly. Use your favourite deodorant, of course, in perspiration areas.

At mid-day, whether you're at home or at the office, take a few moments off to let cool water run over your wrists and fore-arms. It's a good idea to keep a wash coth at the office, then you can wash your face, neck and arms. This gives you a luxuriously cool feeling, and peps up your appearance as well. Again, use talc or spray cologne on your arms and around your neck and shoulders. If you're at home, keep your cologne in the ice box—so it will be chilled when you use it! A stick cologne is good for office use. It won't spill or leak and is cooling to the skin. Rub it over arms and neck when you get that prickly heat sensation!

Whether you're off for a gay evening, or merely intend to stay home at the end of the day, try a leisurely tub bath with all the trimmings! It's a good idea to take your bath before dinner, for you'll have time to relax, and you'll enjoy your food more too!

There's a certain psychology about taking several baths a day—you'll feel cool because you know that you look cool. There's something about looking well groomed that relaxes you more, and everyone knows that when you are relaxed, you feel the heat less!

Remember—in hot weather cooling cosmetics are a girl's best friends.

Dior's New Skirts Horrify N.Y. Designers

NEW YORK (CP) — Parisian designer Christian Dior's new knee-length skirts brought sounds of horror from most New York designers.

U.S. dress manufacturers, caught with their skirts down and fall collections already in the works, intend to keep them that way, a survey of representative spokesmen for the fashion industry showed.

Typical comment came from Emily Wilkens, designer of junior clothes: "If American women accept knee-length skirts again they're crazy.

"The flapper silhouette can't be flattering to any woman, no matter if she has legs like Marlene Dietrich."

PINEAPPLE CUCUMBER SALAD

This pineapple cucumber mold is as cool and refreshing as it sounds. With a platter of cold meats, a basket of rolls, iced tea, you can laugh at the hot, humid summer days. Serves 6.

1 tablespoon gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water
1 large cucumber
1 tin crushed pineapple
2 tablespoons sugar
Juice of one lemon

Drain pineapple. Dissolve gelatin in the cold water. Heat pineapple juice to simmering. Add sugar and lemon juice. Pour over dissolved gelatin. Cool, then chill in refrigerator. When it begins to thicken, fold in cucumber and crushed pineapple. Oil mold and turn in salad. Chill until thoroughly cold and firm. Serve on lettuce. Garnish with radish roses and sprigs of parsley.

Two Exercises For Slimming Fat Upper Arms

A beauty problem facing many women is that of fat and flabby upper arms, even when the lower arms are trim. Some exercises to reduce them are:

1. Stand erect with feet together or sit in a straight-backed chair in a good posture. Raise arms above the head in a straight-up position, palms together. Now for the exercise: Vigorously throw the arms out to the sides so that they're parallel with the shoulders.

Bend the elbows and touch your shoulders with your finger-tips. Now bring arms down to sides and relax. Begin all over again. Work rhythmically and precisely. Start with only two or three times and gradually work up to 10.

2. This exercise can also be done standing or sitting. Start with a good posture and extend arms before you at shoulder height, with palms upward. With both hands working at once, group your finger tips around the tip of the thumb and then very slowly open the fingers to a count of 25. Stretch the fingers far apart and then fold them up again slowly. Feel the tension in fingers and elbows, but the strength will come from your upper arm.

Don't overdo these or any exercises. Work up gradually to as many as you can do without becoming tired. On the other hand, don't be a quitter if you really want results!

LACK OF CALMNESS MAY CAUSE ILLNESS

Osler, the greatest physician of modern times, had three ideals: One, to do today's work well and not worry about tomorrow. Two, to act the Golden Rule. Three, to cultivate a measure of calmness. The lack of calmness, thus allowing ourselves to get excited, anxious, depressed, interferes not only with our judgment, but actually effects the proper action of the body processes — digestion, heart action, breathing, nerve control, etc. Get examined by your physician to make sure whether or not all your symptoms are due to your lack of calmness.

FILL UP SHOES WHEN PACKING

If yours is just a small week-end case, with no elaborate equipment for your cosmetics, get the most out of the space in your extra shoes. The toe of a shoe can hold a salt shaker filled with face powder. (Stick a piece of cardboard under the holes.) A bottle of nail polish might fit in there too.

The instep of a shoe can hold a stick cologne and/or a tube of toothpaste or depilatory. One or two tiny bottles and jars will fit into the heel. Screw everything tightly and seal with transparent tape. Fill in the spaces with tissue paper.

Empire Silhouette Seen Most Often

NEW YORK—The profile which emerges more often for fall is the Empire silhouette, which is slim, high-bosomed, moulded sleekly over the ribs, with back interest in the form of soft fullness in either bodice or skirt, or both.

Emphasis, for the most part, however, is above the waist, with further development of Dior's "tulip" theme with folds and tucks to widen the shoulder line. There is more fabric around the armholes. Dropped shoulder seams and yokes accent width.

The princess line is seen repeatedly, too—long, slender, and ever so graceful—contributing to the beltless trend which is notable in these collections.

FRUIT 'N' ICE CREAM PUFFS

Cut the tops from large cream puffs and fill the shells with vanilla ice cream. Arrange them around a large flat plate and garnish with chilled and drained canned fruit cocktail—jewel-like cuts of peaches, pears, Hawaiian pineapple, marschino-style cherries and seedless grapes. Place a small dish of fruit cocktail in the centre of the plate to ladle over the puffs . . Juscious syrup and all, as they are served.

2 can diet easier than 1

"We lost over 50 pounds apiece," write Mary and Arrel Roberts, "but neither of us could have done it alone." The secret they discovered is that the way you cook can change the way you look. DOROTHY DIX:

Woman With Two Suitors Has Difficult Decision

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young lady of 27 with two suitors. One, whom I shall call Al, is a smooth attractive and charming fellow, soon to be discharged from the Navy. He wants to marry me before his discharge, but I hesitate to take the step as he has no trade or profession. I also think he is too much addicted to gambling and drinking. He promises that after we are married he will change all these habits and settle down.

My parents are imploring me to forget this romance, and cultivate Bert, who is a chum of my school days. He's an intelligent chap, with a good position, and many admirable qualities. Which would be the better choice?

PEGGY G.

✧ ✧ ✧

L'DY, BEWARE!

ANSWER: When a girl is confronted with two matrimonial possibilities, she must be very careful how she chooses. It's not even so much a matter of which man wins out, but if the loser can be completely forgotten. If you continue to hold even a shred of affection for the jilted one, it can lead to dangerous complications after marriage. There will be a tendency to build him up in memory, multiply his assets, cancel his liabilities in short, build an aura of romance around him. The reality of matrimony with its daily, down-to-earth problems suffers sorely from this kind of competition. You are bound to have a deeper feeling now for one of the two men and if you marry the other, you must make sure you have completely buried everything that might lead to contention.

Certainly the substantial qualities of hard work and good habits are better matrimonial material than empty promises—and there is nothing more futile than premarital resolutions. They don't mean a thing! All attempts to please a girl take place before, not after, marriage. If Al has nothing to offer but a promise to reform, he's not a good risk. However, if he's the one you like better, see that he redeems the promises before he buys the wedding band. And withhold your own pledges until you're sure which is THE one.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My best friend is married to a man who seems to consider it his duty to take care of all the wives at a dance or party. In our crowd we don't do this sort of mixing—he's alone in this. His wife loves him, I know, and treats the episodes as a joke. The situation has given rise to some catty remarks on the part of other members of our group. Should I repeat these remarks to my friend or her husband?

A. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: To carry those tales to either party, especially the wife would be a most despicable act. You can be sure your friend is fully aware of what goes on and what's being said. She is acting the smart way in laughing off a situation that apparently has no other cure. If the other folks in your crowd would do the same thing instead of making a gossipers' holiday out of the mess, some good might be accomplished. If the other wives ignored the pest, instead of playing up to his flirtations, he might catch on to the fact that his antics aren't making the hit he imagines. Any friend who deems it her duty to carry unpleasant tales is no "friend" at all. Better be an open enemy than a trouble maker who hides behind the guise of "friend."

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For seven wonderful months I went with Davie, then he thought we were too young to go steady. We broke off and naturally I felt terrible, but followed your advice to date other boys. That was two months ago and it hasn't worked. I'm still carzy about Dave.

GLORIA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Give the plan a fair chance, Gloria. Two months is scarcely enough. Since Dave very plainly told you he doesn't want to go steady, you have little choice about a decision yourself. Either you stay home and moon yourself sick or you use a little intelligence and keep in circulation.

By day a silent thought
By night a silent sorrow.

BATTLE—In memory of a dear father, William Battle, who passed away July 30, 1952.
Loving and kind in all his ways,

BATTLE—In loving memory of my father, William Battle, who passed away one year ago, July 30th, 1952.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought his death so near,
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hours he passed away.
—Ever remembered by his daughter, Irene son-in-law John and grandchildren Charlie and Billy Johnson.

BATTLE—In loving memory of my dear husband, William Battle, who passed away July 30, 1952.

Your dear, kind face to see.
Your loving smile, your welcome voice
That meant so much to me.

Russians To Pay Occupation Costs In Austria

VIENNA (CP)—The Soviets today made their greatest concession yet to occupied Austria. They agreed to pay their own occupation costs, a step the United States took six years ago.

Announcement of the change—beginning Aug. 1—was delivered to Austrian officials by A. M Timoshenko, counsellor of the Soviet embassy in Vienna.

Previously the Austrian government has paid the costs of Russia's 44,000 troops in Austria. Unless similar concessions are forthcoming from France and Britain, their occupying forces still will be paid for by the Austrians.

ASKS SUPPORT

The latest Russian concession coincided with a Soviet note to Austria asking the government of the occupied country to drop its support of the Western-proposed "short draft" independence treaty. An Austrian switch, said the Soviets, would permit the resumption of negotiation on the detained "long draft," over which Russia and the Big Three Western powers have been unable to agree for several years.

From the end of the Second World War in 1945 through the end of 1952, the Austrian finance ministry has paid out 2,735,000,000 schillings ($106,000,000) for the Russian troops.

Besides making Austria pay the costs of Russian occupation, the Soviets have been plundering their zone of Austria for eight years. American authorities say the Reds have robbed the Austrians of at least $1,000,000,000, including millions of dollars worth of industrial equipment and the output of 300 factories and all the country's big oil wells.

Manning Sees SC Deciding Party

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Premier E C. Manning of Alberta said Wednesday night the Aug. 10 general election could see the Social Credit party in a position for the first time to exercise an effective voice in the program and policies of a federal government.

Mr. Manning told a public meeting attended by nearly 400 persons that there is a possibility that neither the Liberals nor Progressive Conservatives will have a majority in the next Parliament. Social Crediters then would have an effective voice although in opposition.

The premier spoke in support of John H. Blackmore, seeking re-election in Lethbridge for his fifth consecutive term.

Mr. Manning said none of the "old-line" parties can provide a clear-cut, definite answer to three important questions:

1. The problem of peace without the fear of depression;

2. The problem of reducing the "crushing" burden of taxation and the high cost of living; and

3. The problem of finding foreign markets for surplus produce.

Social Credit monetary policies would avert economic depression in peace by supplementing buying power to the level previously provided by defence production.

Credit should be extended to less-fortunate countries to allow them to buy Canada's surplus. Nobody would suffer if the credit were never repaid.

Ten Forest Fires Burn In Northern Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Ten forest fires are being fought throughout Ontario today, a lands department spokesman said.

They are located in the Cochrane, Sudbury, Sioux Lookout, Parry Sound, Swastika, Pembroke and North Bay districts. The lands and forests department said eight other fires were put out in the past 24 hours.

The fire hazard is medium to high in the White River and Cochrane districts and normal elsewhere.

E. German Minister Fired For Defeatism

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Communist armament minister was fired from the cabinet today for "defeatism" in the face of the June 17 workers' revolt.

The minister, Bernd Weinberger, was demoted to leader of the Soviet zone reparations office—A third-class government post.

Max Fritsch, Communist state secretary for coal and power, was thrown out of the government entirely.

The purge—enforced by Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht—was approved unanimously this afternoon by the Volskammer (Parliament).

St. Kitts Sea Cadet Wins Navy Scholarship

TORONTO (CP) — Fifteen-year-old petty officer Sea Cadet Alexander George Sinclair of St. Catharines has won the first Conway scholarship ever awarded in Canada it was announced here today.

Captain T. D. Kelly, RCN (R), chairman of the scholarship committee of the Navy League of Canada, said the scholarship, valued at $1,500, provides for a two-year course at the famed British Nautical College, HMS Conway in North Wales.

Petty Officer Sinclair, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sinclair of St. Catharines, will sail for Britain next month.

Laborite Asks New Inquiry Into 1950 U.K. Hanging

LONDON (AP)—The ghosts of two men hanged for murder set off a tension-packed drama in the House of Commons today.

Geoffrey Bing, Labor, demanded a new inquiry into the 1950 hanging of Timothy Evans, convicted for the strangling of his child.

The real murderer, Bing and his supporters claimed, was John Christie, confessed strangler of at least six women. Christie, hanged two weeks ago, lived in the apartment below Evans in London's grisly Notting Hill horror house.

Bing, himself a lawyer, flung charge after charge at Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe.

He asserted that police who prosecuted Evans deliberately suppressed evidence in his favor; that a government inquiry into the Evans hanging showed "extraordinary bias;" that Scott Henderson, the lawyer who conducted the inquiry did not even read the evidence given at Evans' trial, and that Henderson's report glossed over or ignored vital facts.

Fyfe turned down Bing's demand. "I do not believe there is a scintilla of evidence to support the attack on the motives and methods of Scott Henderson," he said.

Some Labor members previously had demanded a stay of Christie's execution so the Henderson inquiry could be extended.

"It would have been an inhuman thing to do," Fyfe said.

"The alternatives for me were to keep him alive, knowing in my heart that he would ultimately die and not telling him, or to tell him and keep him hanging on."

Reginald Paget, Labor, served notice he would bring the case up again.

"Evans' mother is a devout Roman Catholic and desires that the body of her son be taken to consecrated ground," he said.

"It is the body of an innocent man and is entitled to be taken to consecrated ground.

"We shall not leave this thing. We shall raise it, raise it and raise it until the body is at rest in holy ground."

Evans' body now lies beside Christie's in an unmarked grave beneath the walls of London's Pentonville prison.

Local Horse Wins

Harriman Hanover, owned by Dr. A. Johnston of Peterborough, with Jimmy McIntyre handling the reins, won the third race at Thorncliffe Raceway, Toronto, Wednesday.

The Johnston-owned horse lost a couple of close decisions in his last two starts, but made no mistakes Wednesday. McIntyre took him to the front and he won handily. The payoff price was $6.20 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

Noranda Reports Net Profit Up

TORONTO (CP) — Noranda Mines Limited today reported a higher net profit for the first six months of 1953.

Net profits were estimated at $6,930,000 or $3.09 a share, compared with $6,602,000 or $2.95 a share in the same period last year. The increase reflected receipts from copper sold earlier at higher-than-present prices.

Metal production and miscellaneous income amounted to $14,966,000 in the six months, compared with $14,220,000 in the first six months of 1952.

A new townsite for workers at Gaspe Copper Mines Limited, at Murdochville, Que., was well advanced with 122 housing units and other buildings erected. Construction had been started on a sulphur-iron plant adjacent to the North American Cyanamid Company plant near Niagara Falls, Ont., and should be in operation in 12 months.

Cast Iron Pipe

and reduced the flow; this doesn't happen to transite, the transite people claim. To compensate for this reduced flow Dr. Langley would use a larger cast iron pipe, which is more expensive.)

PARTS OF REPORT

Here are some of the relevant extracts from Prof. Lee's report. First of all, some of his conclusions:

"It is believed that transite or cost iron are suitable materials for the feeder main installation. The Commission must decide which material they wish to use on the basis of maintenance and other consideration."

Part of the summary:

"If the program outlined is undertaken then the flow capacity of cast iron pipe will remain substantially unchanged over the years. Thus it is possible to claim that 12-inch Class 150 cast iron or transite are equal in this case. It has been estimated that the former will cost $57,000 for the 5,960 feet extension; whereas the latter will cost $53,000 or seven per cent less. These estimates can be checked by calling alternate tenders."

More:

"It is felt that the policy of continuing the use of cast iron pipe is a good one, particularly for smaller sizes of mains. It is believed that the use of transite for feeder main is worthy of consideration, but the Commission must make their decision as to what extent they are prepared to do this."

Prof. Lee estimated the cost of the 12-inch transite at $53,000; 12-inch cast iron at $57,000; and 14-inch cast iron at $69,000.

Mr. Raine said he had full confidence in General Manager Powell's judgment and would abide by his recommendation. He also recalled that there was a minute recorded last February that left it up to Mr. Powell to use his own judgment on how much cast iron and how much transite should be used.

This covered the Armour Road to Downer's Corners situation, Mr. Raine felt.

MAKES MOTION

Dr. Langley protested, saying that the minute wasn't applicable in this case. He also asked for his own motion to be recorded: "That in view of Prof. Lee's report we avail ourselves of the estimated saving if transite instead of cast iron is used on Armour Rd."

Nobody seconded the motion.

When the meeting adjourned the situation was this: The battle of transite versus cast iron was over, temporarily at least, and cast iron had won. Mr. Powell will order the pipe for the Armour Rd. to Downers Corners water main immediately and he will arrange for a contractor to do the excavation, laying of the pipe, and back-filling on the Armour Rd. to Lansdowne St. leg. PUC workmen will do the water main along Lansdowne St.

On Board Ferry 10 Months, Ashore At Last

HONG KONG (AP) — Michael Patrick O'Brien finally made it ashore.

After 10 months and 12 days, the 57-year-old man without a country today left the six-foot brig of the Portuguese Macau-Hong Kong ferry Lee Hong. He travelled at least 12,500 miles, the equivalent of a trip half-way round the world, sailing between the two ports.

But the ex-bartender and marine engineer wasn't going anywhere, yet. Police took him in custody and refused to reveal their plans for O'Brien.

His friends said they were trying to get him cleared for an unnamed South American country where his Russian wife and child are reported to have gone from Shanghai.

As yet there has been no explanation as to how O'Brien finally left the ferry.

O'Brien boarded the Lee Hong in Macau Sept. 18, 1952, after leaving Red China. At Hong Kong, 40 miles away, authorities refused to accept his Red Cross travel papers and would not let him debark. Macau also said he was unwanted.

So he rode and rode.

O'Brien says he's an American. He claims he just did not bother to get a passport when he went to China 25 years ago.

The U.S state department denies he's a citizen. And the U.S. justice department has said he was deported by the United States as a result of assault, robbery and burglary convictions. The justice department said his true name is Steve Ragan.

Several Ragans in the U.S. claimed him for a brother, but nothing came of their actions.

Seek Strike's End At Broulan Reef

TORONTO (CP)—Company and union representatives held a second meeting with provincial labor officials here today in an attempt to iron out differences at the Broulan Reef gold mine in Timmins.

No announcement was made after Wednesday's talks with representatives of the company and officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) held a two-hour session with Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer of the Ontario labor department.

At Timmins, 21 strikers are facing various charges after a raid on non striking workers in the mine last week. Among those summonsed was Arnold Peters, CCF candidate for Timmins in the federal election and a local union official. He was charged with common assault.

About 750 miners at the Broulan Reef, Hallnor and Preston East Dome properties in the rich Porcupine area started their walkout July 11 to back demands for higher wages and shorter working hours.

Separate school No. 11 of Normanby, Grey South placed second and Separate school No. 7 of Minto, Wellington South, was third.

Veteran Miner Killed

No-Man's Land In Cold War In Scandinavia

E. MICHAEL SALZER
(Special To The Examiner)

HELSINKI. — How does it feel to live within gunshot range of Soviet batteries, with periscopes from Russian submarines scanning your coastline defences, and swift torpedo boats, flying the Red Star, ploughing the waves within sight of your bathing beaches? Those Russian fighters that shot down your aircraft last summer, aren't they worrying you?

These are some of the standard questions that holiday makers from the Western world shoot at Russia's Scandinavian neighbors, when they visit the only free European countries bordering on Soviet territory. Many tourists come here tingling with nervous excitement at stepping into the frontline outposts of the cold war. They expect furtive looks, low whispers and strained nerves; they imagine Stockholm as a hornet's nest of spies and plotters, Helsinki as a suburb of Leningrad. When they find nothing to bolster their romantic notions they fall back on all sorts of deep, psychological contemplations. Indeed, many refuse to believe that life in these precarious parts can be normal. Political observers even come here to write books about the "front-line atmosphere" —which just does not exist. Scandinavia is a sort of no-man's land in the cold war, with most of its people blissfully unaware of the hysteria that Soviet sabre-rattling can produce in other parts of the world.

PAID LAST INSTALMENT

Take the Finns, for instance. If you understood their weird language, you would be unlikely to hear one single remark, in everyday conversation, concerning Russia—except on special occasions, such as the forthcoming anniversary of what is likely to become a national holiday: the payment of the final instalment of the heavy war indemnities to Russia in September last year.

Yet there are many constant reminders of Russia's proximity. If Helsinki is short of fresh vegetables or fruit, it is because the Russians have turned the capital's one-time garden and orchard in the south into a Soviet bastion. As, however, the only railway line to the west runs across this area, Porkkala, carriages are sealed—and, indeed iron curtains virtually descend over the windows—when the regular trains cross this Russian territory. Finland's Communist Party, of course, spares no effort to remind the people of Soviet wrath and power.

But one must not mistake the relative strength of the Finnish Communists for proof of Finnish jitters. The majority of the rank and file, dissatisfied with the Socialists, have joined the Party merely in the hope of bettering their wages. At the first sign of a new aggressive move by Russia, most of them would think of Finland first and of Communism after. Hence Moscow's velvet glove tactics towards these stalwart people, which are reciprocated by the restraint of Finnish official policy, aimed at avoiding friction and performing an admirable diplomatic tight-rope walking act. The man in the street, however, would, if he gave the question a thought, never bother to mince words about his massive neighbor.

The Swedes are much the same. Ask a Stockholmer if he would curtail his sailing holiday in the Baltic for fear of meeting some Russian gunboat. True, Swedish fishing boats do not venture any longer too near the Russian-held Baltic coast, since so many of them have been picked up by Soviet patrols in recent years; but otherwise, Soviet proximity makes little impact on the daily lives of the Swedish people. The occasional spy-scare, which may make headlines all over the world, leaves the average Swede unmoved. The country does, however, maintain sound military defences.

In Oslo, the only foreign Embassy patrolled by a Norwegian policeman, is that of the Soviet Union on Drammensveien—only to avoid possible mischief by some fervent anti-Communist. When a peremptory Moscow note arrives at the Royal Foreign Ministry to remind Norway of her "obligations" to the big, gruff neighbor, with whom she shares some one hundred and twenty-two miles of frontier, it is dealt with in turn with the rest of the diplomatic bags. And the gruffer the tone, the less impressed are the Norwegian people. Only some unmistakeably friendly gesture on the part of the Kremlin could make them suspicious.

Up in the extreme north, where they see the Red Army soldiers patrolling the frontier, and have their occasional conversations with them over a strayed cow, or a precocious tourist who oversteps the border line, they consider the Russians friendly, if somewhat taciturn. Are they afraid of them? One of the most anti-Communist conservative newspapers is published right on the border in Kirkenes. The local Communist Party boss tried for some time to intimidate villagers there shortly after the war. Today the Communists have lost in numbers and influence. Indeed in the Norwegian Parliament they have no deputies.

In Copenhagen, they love to tell you that Danish red caviar is really superior to the black Russian brand, and that to enjoy life the Danish way is the best antidote to any "red jitters." "We have a king who lives like us" they say, "and our ordinary people live like kings." A high living standard, common to all the Scandinavian countries, is in fact the best way of combatting any possible effects from the unpredictable neighbor. Certainly, the "front line" troops never experience the anxiety and fear that might possess the casual visitor.

To the Scandinavians, the Russians have no mysterious quality; they live too near at hand for that. The Nordic people are not blind to the potential menace of the Soviet Union, but they are used to it.

"Worried about the Russians" shrugged a Swedish peasant. "We might as well shift our lands across the Atlantic to escape them. So we don't worry, we just carry on as we have done all along."

Israeli Restores Green Woods Although Fig Trees Threatened

BY FRANCIS OFNER
(Special To The Examiner)

TEL AVIV — Adam and Eve would have a hard time searching for their fig leaves now, for the few fig trees remaining in the Holy Land have recently been attacked by a deadly pest, called Batocerea, which threatens to destroy them.

The fig pest was discovered on Mount Carmel, where the Crusader knights of Richard Coeur de Lion strolled when stationed in the fort of Saint Jean D'Acre.

Although this pest may succeed in exterminating a substantial part of the remaining 150,000 fig trees of this country, the biblical landscape of ancient forests may yet return to the Holy Land.

The Israelis have decided to restore green woods to their country, rendered barren through indiscriminate cutting down of forests by conquering Philistines, Egyptians, Babylonians, Greeks, Romans, Persians, Muslims, Crusaders, Saracens and Turks.

In their effort to redeem the barren hills for forestry, the Israelis do not follow the orthodox prescriptions laid down in the Bible. Oaks and tamarisks were predominant in this country in ancient days, but modern Israelis have come to the conclusion that the pine and eucalyptus suit their present needs.

Three years ago, Mr. David Ben Gurion, Israel's Prime Minister, surprised a conference of the country's forestry experts with the ambitious project to increase afforestation from the present two per cent to one-quarter of Israel's total land. This, Mr. Ben Gurion insisted, should be carried out within the lifetime of one or two generations.

"If an expert wants me to try a new venture, I am all for it. But if he says 'don't try it,' I prefer to look for another expert," the Prime Minister warned.

Since that memorable conference in 1949, about fifteen million trees have been planted in this country — two-and-a-half times more than during the preceding thirty years of Zionist efforts.

Of the natural forests that survived centuries of destruction, only the ancient oaks remain in Upper Galilee, some of them patriarchs five hundred years old. Although the Jewish National Fund takes special care for their preservation, they ceased long ago to be the main tree of the country, as in the days of the Bible. Nor do sycamores now offer their shade anywhere but around Migdal Ascalon, near the Egyptian-held Gaza strip.

The giant cedars of Lebanon and the dark cypress, both once used to adorn the inside walls and floor of the Temple, have also been left out of modern Israel's re-afforestation programme. Cedars are planted in exceptional cases only, and then for the decoration of such symbolic spots as Mount Herzl, the grave of the founder of modern Zionism. More use, however, is found for the cypress, particularly in the northern parts of the Negev.

There are still about one-and-a-half million olive trees in Israel, at present entrusted mainly to the care of newcomers from the Yemen. Each tree bears twenty kilos of dusky green fruit annually, as if to remind one of Hosea's prophecy—"his branches shall spread as the olive tree. . ."

More than half a century ago, the Jerusalem Pine, known also as the Aleppo Pine, was introduced by German settlers on Mount Carmel. Since then, they have been planted on a large scale in mountainous areas by the Jewish National Fund and the former British Mandatory Government.

Though imported from Australia at the turn of the century, the eucalyptus was not a success at the beginning, and its various qualities were not exploited fully until recently. Before World War I, a few eucalypti were planted around Hedera, in the coastal plain, to help dry the swamps.

Now, however, with no more swamps but a lot of sand, the eucalyptus has become the main tree in desert areas and on rocky land. It is also used in the south for "shelter-belts", to protect Israel's expanding agriculture from the searing desert winds. To prevent soil erosion, every fifty acres of land is surrounded by four rows of eucalypti, and avenues of eucalypus trees have been planted along 150 kilometres of the Negev desert roads.

The eucalyptus is becoming so much a part of the efforts to "make the desert bloom," that Bedouin Arabs call it "Sajar el Yahud"—the Tree of the Jews.

Even furniture has been made from eucalyptus wood by its most active protagonist in Israel, Colonel Akiva Atsmon of the Israel Army, who tried his hand at amateur decoration and fitted up his home with eucalyptus tables, chairs and wardrobes.

"I came, I saw, and I was conquered," said Mr. Ben Gurion, when Colonel Atsmon showed him the advantages of his pet tree, and explained that the eucalyptus grows faster than any other tree in this country. It requires less care and is more economical, since it speedily grows again after having been cut.

Every man in Israel does not yet dwell safely "under his fig tree from Dan to Beersheba," as in King Solomon's days. Nor is there an abundance of pomegranates, of which "two hundred in rows round about upon the other chapiter" decorated the Temple. Yet there are enough fig trees left to delight children with their fruit, and just about enough pomegranates to supply local or visiting poets with bitter-sweet metaphors.

Large Crowd Witnesses Annual Regatta

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A large crowd took advantage of the sunny afternoon Wednesday to attend the annual regatta sponsored by the Campbellford Fish and Game Protective Association, held at Mullock's Woodland Estate, Healey Falls. The estate is eight miles north of the village.

Ralph Davis of RR 3, Lakefield, won the first prize in the draw which was 100 silver dollars; second prize of 50 silver dollars went to Keith Bailey of Campbellford.

Herb Cardwell and his son George of Wallace Point gave an exhibition of canoeing—an educational series, stunts, and "dos and don'ts" in a canoe. The act drew loud applause.

John Ralston of Toronto was top man in the outboard motor racing events. He was first in Class B, Class B1, and the Open class.

20 DROWN AS BUS PLUNGES IN CANAL

SPEAKING IN PORT HOPE, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent (right) told a crowd of 200 who met him at the rear of the railway coach that stopped briefly in the town that all races had made their contribution to the well-being of Canada. Next to him on the train platform is Johnny James, Liberal candidate for Durham, and Mr. James' son, Bobby. On the left is John W. Coldwell Makes Strong Attack On SC Party

By DON HAWORTH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — CCF leader M. J. Coldwell Thursday night made the strongest attack of his campaign on Social Credit.

Speaking to an audience of 420 which nearly filled a local theatre, he said Major Douglas' Social Credit theories, "couched in blasphemous terms," had been recognized as "spurious and deceptive" everywhere else in the world.

In 1935 Social Credit, he said, had called the bankers and the "50 big shots" in industry "rogues and pests."

"Yet now a director of the Dominion Bank of Canada—Hon. N. E. Tanner—is campaigning in British Columbia for Social Credit."

He said Mr. Tanner, a former Alberta minister of mines and forests, now is "president of an American corporation that received from the Alberta government valuable natural resources concessions in that province."

Mr. Coldwell said: "I wonder if I am standing on my head or my feet when thousands of people in this province (British Columbia) are accepting what would not be accepted in any other part of the British Commonwealth."

FEARS MOVEMENT

He said emphatically that he was frightened at the rise "of this strange emotional movement" which, like the Fascist movements in pre-war Europe, would destroy democratic institutions.

Mr. Coldwell attacked his other opponents jovially. He enumerated projects which he said George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, had promised to support, and said that Mr. Drew was our "most promising leader." By his "fantastic arithmetic" he could do all these things and cut taxes $500,000,000 a year.

All Races Have Contributed To Canada Says St. Laurent

PORT HOPE (By Staff Reporter)—People of all races have made a contribution to present-day Canada, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent told a Port Hope audience at noon today. The 71-year-old prime minister and leader of the Liberal party, gave a homey, 10-minute talk when his election train pulled into the CNR station at 12:40 p.m. Two hundred Port Hope men, women and children—and a sprinkling of eager party workers—jammed around the rear coach of the train to hear what Mr. St. Laurent had to say. Prime Minister St. Laurent deprecated the suggestion that any one racial group was exclusively Canadian.

"The British, French and those of other races have all contributed their bit to the common patrimony of the Canadian people," he said.

With Mr. St. Laurent on the observation platform were John W. Pickersgill, the recently-appointed secretary of state who has been accused of stirring up racial prejudice by the Conservatives; his daughter, Mrs. S. Samson; Johnny James, Liberal candidate for Durham; and Mr James' five-year-old son, Bobby, of whom the prime minister has predicted great things.

Mr. Pickersgill did not speak.

URGED SUPPORT

Mr. St. Laurent urged Port Hope electors to support the Liberal candidate in the coming federal election.

"I'll get your answer on August 10," he said. "I hope it will give us, on the government side

Irish Visitor Escapes Bus Through Broken Window

MORRISBURG (CP)—A 62-year-old visitor to Canada from Dublin, Ireland, today described the bus-truck accident which killed 20 persons near here as a "grim, nerve-shattering experience which I shall never forget." Ronald J. P. Mortished, prominent representative of Ireland on international organizations, was one of the 17 persons who survived the tragedy. He lost all his belongings in the accident, including his false teeth.

Mr. Mortished was the only survivor who decided to remain in Morrisburg. The others were taken to Montreal by a special Colonial Coach Lines bus.

Mr. Mortished said he felt he should rest before continuing his bus trip to Montreal and Halifax, where he will board ship next Tuesday for Ireland.

Here is Mr. Mortished's account of the accident:

ASLEEP WHEN HIT

"I was asleep when the accident happened. Most of the other people in the bus were sleeping too.

"The first thing I remembered was an explosion followed by what looked like a blue flash. Then the bus seemed to be turning over and over. I don't know whether it did or not, but that was my impression.

"At some stage I realized that water was coming into the bus. I was sitting on the left side of the bus right next to the emergency door and I tried to open the door but couldn't. I'm not suggesting that there was anything wrong with the door.

"A fellow behind me pulled himself up on the luggage rack and shoved his feet through the window. He went through first and I followed him. My head was practically under water before I got out, and right after the bus was full of water.

PULLED OUT BY FARMERS

"I came to the surface and saw other people milling about in the water and shrieking. In the dim light I could see the side of the canal and set out for it. I just made it because I am a poor swimmer and short of breath.

"I was exhausted when I reached the side of the canal. I suppose I swallowed a good deal of water. I was assisted up the side of the canal by two farmers and they took me to the home of Mahlon Beckstead.

"I lost my belongings and false teeth. But I'm not complaining. I

Report Russians Pick Up Survivors Of U.S. Plane

TOKYO (AP)—A U.S. airman rescued from the sea a few miles off Siberia said his B50 bomber was shot down by Russian fighters, Gen. O. P. Weyland, Far East air force commander, said tonight.

Moscow said Thursday two Soviet fighters exchanged shots with a B50 over Vladivostok.

Capt. John E. Roche, Washington, D.C., told Weyland the bomber was shot down shortly after 6:15 a.m. about 40 miles off the Russian coast.

The air force said the plane was on a navigational training mission.

Weyland said he personally interviewed the rescued co-pilot.

Roche was snatched from the water by a navy destroyer, the Picking, after having been in the water 11 hours in a boat dropped by a search plane.

PICK UP SURVIVORS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. has information that Soviet vessels picked up a number of the survivors, it was disclosed today.

The state department announced it has protested to Moscow against the shooting down of the B-50 and asked "an immediate report" from Russian authorities on the condition of the survivors and plans for releasing them.

The department released the text of a note delivered by ambassador Charles Bohlen to Soviet deputy foreign minister Andrei Gromyko, and a statement which together with the note asserted:

1. The U.S. Air Force B-50 was shot down by one or more Soviet MiG fighters over the Sea of Japan about 40 miles south of Cape Povortyny.

2. The American co-pilot was rescued by an American ship but Soviet vessels were sighted in the area of the crash and survivors were "seen on liferafts."

Incomplete List Of Crash Dead

MORRISBURG (CP)—The following is an incomplete list of identified victims who died when a bus plunged into a canal two miles west of here:

Weston Doak, Fredericton, N.B.
Hubert C. Bird, 57 Lottridge, St., Hamilton, Ont.
Hector Joseph McCadden, Glace Bay, N.S.
Gustave Roy, Montreal.
Edvins Timermanis, Duparquet, Que.
George Graham, Ingersoll, Ont.
Max Sabbath, Montreal.
Gilles Gatiss, Montreal.
J. Fanya, an ordinary seaman with identification number 25776-H, address unknown.

Senator Taft Dies In New York

Malignant Tumors Cause of Death Hospital Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft, the Senate Republican leader, died today in New York hospital. "Senator Taft's life came to an end quietly and without pain at 11:30 a.m. EDT July 31, 1953," a hospital bulletin said.

The bulletin said "his death was the result of wide-spread highly malignant, rapidly growing tumors."

This was the first official word on the nature of his ailment.

Taft's death reduces the Republican membership in the Senate to less than that of the Democrats. The line-up now is 47 Democrats, 46 Republicans and one Independent.

Taft's four sons were at his side when he died. His wife, Martha, an invalid, was at the family home in Washington. She was brought here Tuesday in a wheelchair for a visit to her husband, but friends said she was too ill to make another trip.

Taft, 63, was the son of former president William Howard Taft and a candidate against Dwight Eisenhower for the Republican presidential nomination last year. He entered the hospital July 4 for treatment of what was described as a hip ailment.

HOSPITAL BULLETIN

The hospital bulletin on his death said:

"His death was the result of wide-spread, highly malignant, rapidly growing tumors, the first symptoms of which were pains in the legs, later localized in the left hip.

"These symptoms had their onset in the latter part of April, 1953, and in the beginning were very obscure.

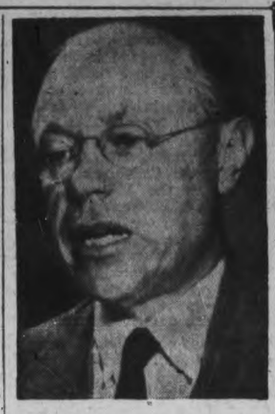
"The disorder was accompanied by a severe anemia requiring many transfusions. Some of the areas of involvement were benefitted by treatment and there were brief periods of general improvement.

However, the disease could not be controlled, and eventually progressed relentlessly despite the application of all the therapeutic weapons available to modern science."

SECOND REPUBLICAN

Taft is the second Republican senator to die within a week. Senator Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire died last Friday.

Taft's stay in the hospital had been marked by generally optimistic reports until Tuesday, when it was announced his condition had deteriorated.



He rallied Wednesday and as late as Thursday was able to eat breakfast, chat and dangle his legs over the side of his bed.

But he took a sudden turn for the worse late Thursday and went into a coma from which he did not emerge.

One son, William Howard Taft III, ambassador to Ireland, made

PM Predicts Pound, Dollar To Be Convertible

BRANTFORD (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has wound up his four-day southwestern Ontario election campaign with a prediction that the British pound one day will be made convertible with the dollar—but he did not name the day.

Though there was no "magic formula" for convertibility, he said, "it is going to be done by hard work, patience and endeavor."

And, with a touch of sarcasm, he observed that it is just as apt to be accomplished by the United Kingdom government as by Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

Speaking before an outdoor crowd of some 3,000, Mr. St. Laurent stated that Mr. Drew had promised to make a trip to London, if the Progressive Conservative party were elected Aug. 10, to recapture Canada's markets in Britain and to solve the sterling-dollar inconvertibility problem.

MADE TWO TRIPS

Mr. St. Laurent said he had made two trips to London to talk about markets, at the commonwealth prime ministers' conference last December and at another meeting of prime ministers in London after the Coronation in June.

The dollar-pound barrier had been set up by the United Kingdom government. That government now was trying to remove it. The United States could help if it showed as much interest as Canada in buying goods from overseas countries.

The Brantford night meeting climaxed a swift run through seven southwestern communities during the day. Mr. St. Laurent visited Caledonia, Hagersville, Jarvis, Port Dover, Simcoe, Waterford and Galt.

At all points he kept hammering away at his main argument against the PC promise of $250,000,000-a-year cut in defence expenditures, Canada must maintain her defences against the possibility of Communist aggression. She could not afford to reduce costs by $250,000,000 a year and if he is returned to power, he will not do it

NOT GOOD ENOUGH

"The truce in Korea still isn't good enough to allow us to stop building up our strength," the 71-year-old prime minister declared at Galt, before a crowd of about 800 in front of the City Hall.

3 Million Food Parcels For East Germans

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin officials announced today they have upped their target to 3,000,000 free food parcels for East Germans. The move came as Western food stations braced for a weekend invasion that is expected to boost the first week's distribution past the million mark.

The mob-like rush of the hungry increased despite an East German Communist police announcement that they are confiscating the previous identity cards of all applicants for the Western food. Without the cards, the Easterners are exposed to jail sentences as criminals.

Communist police also toured factories, offices and homes in the Russian-controlled zone forcing the people to sign pledges they would "not go to Berlin for the American beggar parcels." Many signers were expected to come anyway.

As the relief program went into its fifth day, approximately 650,000 parcels had been handed out and West Berlin officials indicated that even the expanded target of 3,000,000 might not prove enough.

"We just plan to keep giving the parcels away as long as people keep coming," they declared. "We don't know how long that will be. There are some 19 million people in East Germany and East Berlin."

Police Identify Canal Dead

MONTREAL (CP) — A spokesman for Colonial Coach Lines, limited, said today 20 passengers were believed to have been drowned or killed when a bus collided with a parked truck and plunged into the Williamsburg canal near Morrisburg, Ont.

The spokesman said there were 37 passengers on the Toronto-to-Montreal bus. There are 17 known survivors besides the driver, Lorne Cheesborough of Kingston.

The spokesman issued the list of known survivors. He said the list of casualties would not be available for some time. The company, he said, had no list of the passengers on the bus. Identification of the casualties is being made by Ontario provincial police in Morrisburg, scene of the early morning accident.

The spokesman dictated to newspaper men this official statement:

"A small pick-up delivery truck was stalled, without lights, on the road apparently pointed in the same direction as the bus was going. The truck driver was standing beside his truck when the accident happened.

"Two transport trucks managed to avoid the parked vehicle by going into the ditch but the bus collided with it and went into the canal. Both the driver of the truck and the driver of the bus are in hospital in Cornwall."

17 Others Escape After Crash Near Morrisburg

By H. DENT HODGSON

MORRISBURG (CP)—Twenty travellers plunged to death in the Williamsburg canal early today after a Colonial Coach Lines express bus ripped into a panel truck parked on the busy Toronto-Montreal highway. Another 17 escaped in a frantic scramble through broken windows and smashed doors as the bus sank in 20 feet of water in the grey light of dawn. The bus driver, Lorne Cheesbrough of Kingston was seriously injured and taken unconscious to hospital in Cornwall.

Max Roodman of Toronto, driver of the light truck, also was taken to Cornwall hospital.

Five hours after the crash on No. 2 highway, a busy transport artery, a diver recovered 10 of the dead from the canal. Soon after the submerged bus, bearing another 10 dead, was hauled up the 30-foot-high, brush-lined embankment and brought here to the Leonard Keck Funeral home.

A source at the funeral parlor said there were 20 bodies of crash victims.

Ten male victims were identified but it may be some time before the identity of the remainder is established. They were seven women and three men. All were believed to have drowned. There no children aboard the bus.

PORT HOPE SURVIVOR

One of the survivors listed in the crash is 20 year-old Ronald Lax, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lax, 14 Seymour St., Port Hope. A member of the RCN, Lax was returning to Halifax after a 30-day leave.

A companion, Jack Fonya, 17, of Hamilton was not on the survival list.

Two unidentified women got on the bus at Cobourg and it is suspected that they were American tourists. Agent Ross Naylor sold

Three War-Hero Marshals Reported Running Russia

LONDON (AP)—Reports that a trio of Russian war-hero marshals under the famed Georgi K. Zhukov has taken over real power in the Soviet Union were studied here today.

The Evening News said Prime Minister Churchill had been informed. The foreign office declined comment.

Fearful that he could not maintain his grip in the wake of the purge of Interior Minister L. P. Beria, the paper says, Premier Georgi M. Malenkov turned in desperation to the professional soldiers of the Soviet Army who now are the "power behind the throne."

The article in Thursday night's edition of Lord Rothermere's newspaper was signed by its diplomatic correspondent, C. F. Melville, who said he understood Sir Winston was "so impressed by reports of a takeover of power by a military pro-peace group that he is about to redouble his efforts to get an early round-table between the Russian and Western heads of government."

WITH ZHUKOV

Allied with Zhukov in the military triumvirate, the correspondent wrote, are Marshal A. M. Vasilevsky, former armed forces minister, and Vasily D. Sokolovsky, hero of Berlin and Soviet chief of staff. Vasilevsky and Zhukov have held, since the death of Joseph Stalin, the two posts of deputy defence minister under the political general, Marshal Nikolai Bulganin.

Bulganin, this account said, "is expected to disappear from the scene before long, as he was one of Stalin's hand-picked men."

"This dramatic development," Melville wrote, "has taken place—according to reports to Sir Winston Churchill—during the last few days, because Premier Georgi Malenkov, still faced with the opposition of strong pro-Beria elements, has had to turn to professional marshals as the only force in Russia capable of maintaining his regime."

WOULD FAVOR PEACE

The three soldiers, he added, would strongly favor peace with the West because they believe "Russia is not in a position to risk conflict." He continued:

"Marshal Zhukov personally was a friend of President (then general of the army) Eisenhower at the end of the war, and Ike has said of him, 'this is a man with whom I could do business.'"

Drew Demands PM Repudiate Liberal Letter

SARNIA (CP)—A letter which Hon. George Drew says was sent by the National Liberal Federation to Canadian servicemen has provided the Progressive Conservative leader with his latest ammunition.

He told a PC rally that the letter was "one of the most dishonest communications I have ever read."

Mr. Drew said the letter, signed by Duncan K. McTavish of Ottawa, president of the federation, charged that the Progressive Conservatives think the government has been extravagant in providing "lavishness and luxury" for servicemen.

He said he wants Prime Minister St. Laurent to say he knew nothing of the letter and to message all troops telling them the Liberal party repudiates it.

The party leader made the speech at the nearby resort of Kenwick after speaking at Ingersoll and Woodstock. At Ingersoll he said a Progressive Conservative government would talk "frankly and firmly" to the United States about American trade barriers and also would take steps to increase the Commonwealth market for Canadian farm products.

The final swing for Mr. Drew through the populous areas of southern Ontario takes him to Wallaceburg, Chatham and Windsor today.

Mr. Drew said the letter sent to the troops by the Liberal federation had references to Progressive Conservative protests against "extravagances" in defence spending and said the Liberal policy is

Archaeologist Seeks Treasure

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters)—United States archaeologist, Henry Whitehead, of Chicago, is making a one-man expedition to search for Spanish treasure hidden in Northern Guatemala since 1541.

Before leaving Guatemala City, Whitehead stated that his ultimate destination was near the Piedras Negras Mayan ruins in a virtually unexplored section of the state of Peten, near the border of Mexico. The area consists largely of thick jungle hiding the remains of the late Mayan empire.

The archaeologist, after several months study of ancient documents in Gatuemala's San Carlos University, said he had detailed information about the treasure and estimated its value at "several million dollars in gold and silver." This followed several years' study of old Spanish maps and historical documents in Mexico City.

Whitehead said considerable treasure destined for Spain from Mexico was packed by mule from Mexico City to Guatemala where it was regularly placed on Spanish ships at the Gautemalan Pacific port of Iztapa, south of the present port of San Jose.

The Mexico-Guatemala trail led through the area near the Piedras Negras, he said, and that route was abandoned by the Spanish conquerors because of continual attacks by Indians.

Whitehead said he was confident he knew the location of the treasure taken from one of the pack trains by the Indians and placed in hiding in one of their temples.

Woman With Hoe Drives Off Bears

NORTH BAY (CP)—A mother bear flanked by two cubs roared and made for Miss Mabel Johnston near here Thursday but the young woman scared them off with a hoe.

Miss Johnston was walking in the woods with her two small dogs to her potato patch when she happened on the animals. One cub was up a tree and the other and mother were lying on the ground, apparently asleep in the sun.

The woman's dogs started barking. The mother bear roared and made for her, and she yelled and waved her hoe in turn. Finally the bears slunk away.

See Mechanization Aiding N.S. Coal Industry

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Nova Scotia's coal industry is facing the most critical period of its 230-year history. Production is falling, mines are closing and markets dwindling. Its 11,000 miners are without a contract, and many are without work. That's not healthy for an industry that raises nearly a third of Canada's coal and supports a sixth of Nova Scotia's population. The Dominion Coal Company and its three subsidiaries, which mine 87 per cent of the province's coal, think, however, they have a remedy.

They're installing giant metallic miners that can do the work of several men and twice as fast, and big tunnels are being pushed under the sea to cut production costs.

In three years they hope to produce an industry smaller but more prosperous than the one today that is losing $4,000,000 annually.

Harold Gordon, the company's general manager, has termed mechanization the key to the existence of an industry that supports more than 100,000 persons.

Behind this sombre picture, however, there is a puzzle. Why, observers ask, did the miners vote twice this month against signing a contract with the company, knowing that their livelihood depended on its prosperity?

Particularly after their union executive told them that a vote for the contract was in the "best interests" of the industry. The executive's stand was in line with a conciliation board's recommendation that the company and United Mine Workers (CCL) waive their demands because of the industry's production and marketing problems.

Thursday's vote, on the eve of the closure of the No. 24 mine at Glace Bay, was 3,557-to-2,870 for a majority of 687 against signing the one-year contract that provided no wage increases. The miners earlier asked for $3.26 daily increase to bring their basic rate to $13.

District president Freeman Jenkins, who after the July 7 referendum asked the UMW headquarters to investigate his district and make some recommendations, had no comment on the outcome of Thursday's referendum.

He told The Canadian Press Thursday, however, that the matter would probably be taken up at the district convention in the event that the contract was turned down. The convention is expected to be held in October.

The company, meanwhile, has announced that Stellarton's Albion mine, one of the oldest in North America, will close Aug. 15, after the miners' vacation, and that the working force at neighboring Thorburn would be reduced. The Albion employs 100 men.

Nearly 1,200 men have been idle in Glace Bay for a month while mechanical miners are being installed in the big No. 1B colliery, which extends six miles under the Atlantic. The job is expected to last at least another two weeks.

The Albion and No. 24 were ordered closed because their production no longer warranted their existence.

Of the prime minister he said: "Knowing Mr. St. Laurent as a gentleman I am wondering who thought up the idea of having him run around the country patting little children on the head and trying to become the Uncle Louis or the grandfather of Canada."

Mr. Coldwell denied that CCF would wish to take land from the farmers or to take over work from industrialists. But where it was in the interest of the whole community some basic industries would be nationalized.

MUST BE PLANNING

There must be some planning, he said, if Canada were to avoid "the booms and depressions which we have seen and which we shall see again under a free enterprise system."

He said the federal government's "apathy and short-sightedness" has caused the waste of forest resources indispensable to the prosperity of our economy.

The country needed a national conservation policy, under which the federal and provincial governments would work together in ensuring that extraction did not exceed re-growth.

to make sure that servicemen share in Canada's high standard of living. Mr. Drew said the Progressive Conservatives are not advocating a reduction in national defence, but are opposed to "reckless and very dangerous misuse of funds."

At Ingersoll, a dairy and cheese centre, Mr. Drew said the Liberal government has done nothing about restoring the British market for cheese and that he would take immediate steps to improve it, if his party is elected Aug. 10. This traditional market for both cheese and meat had to be stepped up to revive prosperity in Canada. He added:

"I am conscious of our warm and friendly relations with the U.S. That must be one of the cornerstones of any sensible policy on the part of a Canadian government.

"Nevertheless, as practical people seeking to export larger surpluses of farm products, we must remember that the United States largely produces the same things we do. They have never accepted Canadian products at times when these were likely to be competitive with their own."

Barriers had been raised recently by the U.S. against entry of Canadian products, and it was not being unfriendly to say that "what's sauce for the gosse is sauce for the gander."

Wedge Dangerous Pearsons Warns

TORONTO (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Thursday night that if new problems looming in the Korean negotiations drove a wedge between the Commonwealth and the United States it would be a greater victory than any the Communists could obtain on the field of battle.

Speaking in suburban Newtonbrook, where he was born 56 years ago, Mr. Pearson told an open air Liberal political rally that the new problems affecting not only Korea but the whole of Asia, would provide a test of unity of the free partnership and possibly would impose a strain on the member nations.

"The Korean problem holds the seeds of peace or the seeds of war," the United Nations general assembly president told the audience of 300 persons. "The new chapter about to open will be just as difficult and dangerous as those that have gone before."

Little Gibraltar Demilitarized, Pats Pull Out

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—Little Gibraltar became demilitarized territory Thursday night.

The 3rd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, sealed off the peak that cost Canadian troops 66 casualties including four dead last Oct. 23 when the 1st battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment fought off repeated Communist attacks.

Little Gibraltar and Hill 159 to the southwest were abandoned as part of the 2½-mile buffer zone set under the truce. The Patricias had held Little Gibraltar, or Hill 355 as soldiers know it, since July 10, while Hill 159 was held by the 3rd battalion of the RCR.

As they climbed down from their positions, the Canadians took up positions on the United Nations side of the demilitarized zone west of the Imjin river and gradually assumed Commonwealth division responsibility as British units withdrew. The 3rd battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment shared the assignment.

LIKE GHOST TOWN

B company of the Patricias, commanded by Maj. Leslie Basham of Vancouver, had held the peak, which long had been the northern anchor of the Commonwealth division's front.

The company spent the three days before its withdrawal removing ammunition, bunker timbers, wire pickets and anything else useful that was readily salvageable.

As I jeeped toward the summit Thursday night, passing between soldiers loaded with weapons and personal gear and ready to march out, the stripped position suggested a hurriedly-evacuated ghost town.

BOBCAYGEON OFFICER

Basham remained at the peak alone briefly after the last troops left, cast a long look at the enemy lines and strolled downwards, checking bunkers and weapon pits as he went.

As the troops passed the demarcation fence, 2nd Lieut. Geoffrey Pilcher of Bobcaygeon, Ont., a bearded Pioneer officer, and sniper Pte Norris Atthill of Kirkton, Ont., were hanging the last metal signs reading "Demilitarized Zone, do not Enter."

At 9:30 p.m., six Patricias under Cpl. Merle McAllister of Broadlands, Que., swung into place a heavy-timbered, barbed-wired road block, closing the Pilcher's fence.

Gibraltar was sealed off.

None may pass the barricade now without a special pass from the armistice commission.

of the House of Commons, the support of Johnny James."

He had a special word for children in the audience—those in the arms of their parents as well as those scurrying around the fringes of the crowd for a better look at the famous visitor. For five-year-old Bobby James, the flaming red-haired son of the Durham Liberal candidate, he jocularly predicted the future premiership of Canada.

"When you're prime minister, Bobby, I won't be here to see you, but I hope you won't have as hard a time of it as I've had."

With that, Mr. St. Laurent, in his famed avuncular manner, leaned over and patted Bobby on the head. The audience guffawed appreciatively, the Prime Minister beamed indulgently—in fact everybody seemed pleased at the personal touch but Bobby, who stared moodily down the CNR tracks, unconcerned about the Prime Minister's prediction.

As the train was pulling out, Mr. St. Laurent waved a cheery good-bye, shook hands for good-luck with Mr. James as the latter got off the train, and greeted Dr. Fred Robertson, Northumberland Liberal candidate, who was accompanying him to Cobourg.

APPEARED FRESH

Despite his long and strenuous campaign, Mr. St. Laurent appeared fresh and in top physical trim. He wore a light grey summer suit with a green tie and pearl tie-pin. He spoke without notes and swung around in a half circle as he addressed his audience so everybody could see him.

After the hour-long stop scheduled at Cobourg, the Prime Minister and his party will go on to Belleville. He will not visit Peterborough during this election campaign.

James Finn

Solemn requiem mass was celebrated Tuesday morning at the Sacred Heart Church for the late James Finn.

Mass celebrant was the Very Rev. P. P. Butler, assisted by Rev. G. Sullivan and Rev. G. Gaughan.

Mr. Finn was in his 88th year and died in hospital after a short illness. He had been a foreman on the CPR until retirement. Surviving him are his son, Michael and four grandchildren, Maureen, Helen, Shiela and Jack, all of Peterborough. Another son, the late Rev. J. T. Finn predeceased him.

Other attending clergy were Rev. J. F. McGuire, Rev. C. McCarney, Rev. K. Malane, Rev. V. Corkery, Rev. R. Garvey, Rev. L. Dubbery, Rev. J. Greenan and Rev. J. Maskey.

Monsignor P. P. Butler and Father C. McCarney said the graveside prayers.

Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery.

Pall-bearers were: John Lynch, Jack McCarney, Jack Callaghan, Harold Crowley, Stan Bogue and Edward Bolton.

them tickets to Montreal and recalls that they mentioned Boston in their conversation. They bought the tickets with American currency.

REPORTS CONFLICTING

Reports of the cause of the crash were conflicting. The Colonial Coach Lines in Montreal said in a statement that the truck was stalled on the highway without lights pointed in the same direction as the bus was travelling, to Montreal.

Two truck drivers reported here that they passed the stopped truck, one almost hitting it in the bad light. One driver reported the truck, stopped on the edge of the road, to Ontario provincial police.

The second said he returned to put out warning flares. The Ontario provincial police car and this truck were close to the scene when the express bus smashed into the truck.

6 WINDOWS OPEN

When the bus was raised from the water the front end was ripped open and six escape windows were hanging open. The windows fall outwards when struck sharply from within.

The truck was badly smashed from the rear when it was pulled from the canal. It was empty with both doors swinging open.

The canal was closed to shipping and a diver, his gear and a boat sent to the scene.

The diver, C. J. Maguire of Morrisburg, brought up 10 bodies from the canal bottom. He then hitched a cable to the bus and it was pulled ashore. The truck followed.

TAKEN TO FARM HOME

Meanwhile, the survivors were led to the home of Mahlon Beckstead, across the highway from where the crash occurred. They were given tea and 16 were sent on to Montreal in another bus. The 17th, Ronald J. P. Mortished, 62, of Dublin, Ireland, remained here.

When the wrecked bus, bearing the dead, was brought here police threw a cordon around it and screened the bodies with burlap bags as they were lifted into the funeral home.

In Ottawa, William McPhee, manager of the Ottawa office of Colonial, said it was the first crash by a Colonial bus in which any life was lost since the company was established in 1929.

SEE LIGHTS UNDER WATER

The accident occurred where the highway, the canal and the Plat rapids in the St. Lawrence river converge. In the dim light of dawn soon after the crash, hundreds of curious could see the bus lights burning under water.

The accident snarled highway traffic for miles.

traffic for miles and shipping was brought to a standstill.

A spokesman for Colonial Coach Lines in Montreal said the bus was one of two heading from Toronto to Montreal. The driver of the second bus was flagged down by a transport driver leaving Iroquois, Ont., and warned there was a truck without lights parked across the road a short distance up the highway.

WAKENED BY NOISE

Mrs. Grant Beckstead who lives across the highway from the spot where the bus and truck crashed said the noise woke her and her family.

"We didn't think it was so serious at first. There was a west wind and we didn't hear the cries for help. They heard them at the next house, owned by my brother-in-law Mahlon Beckstead.

"The ones who survived lined up on the bank and were taken to my brother-in-law's house where they gave them tea.

"The bus was on its side under water with the lights still on; that was about half an hour after the accident. My husband went down to help out."

CLOSED CANAL

In Ottawa, the transport department said its canal officials were informed about 4 a.m. by police and closed the canal to navigation. The ban on shipping will remain in effect until all bodies are accounted for.

Reds Accuse UN Allies Of Two New Truce Pact Violations

MUNSAN (AP)—The Reds accused the Allies today of two new truce violations, but a UN spokesman said the charges were not serious. The Communists made their 11th and 12th complaints of Allied truce violation in the four-day-old truce at the Panmunjom meeting of the UN-Red armistice commission, charged with policing the 2½-mile wide demilitarized zone across Korea. The communists said military aircraft circled and reconnoitered over the zone Wednesday and Thursday.

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, head of the UN team on the commission, said the complaints would be investigated, but they were not serious.

AVOID ARGUMENTS

There were indications the UN command is trying to steer clear of arguments over what it considers accidental or extremely minor violations.

There was no indication yet whether the Allies would accuse the Reds of a violation following air force reports that large numbers of planes—probably MiG jet fighters—flew south from Manchuria into North Korea Monday night after the cease-fire deadline.

Armistice terms specify that only replacement armament is to be allowed into North or South Korea —and that under supervision.

A joint Allied-Red group discussed final details for exchanging prisoners, which is to begin next Wednesday.

As they met, the UN command said it would move more Red prisoners north toward the exchange point at Panmunjom Sunday.

FAREWELL BANQUET

The Red Peiping radio said Allied prisoners in the Pyoktong camp in North Korea were given a farewell banquet. It said they joined with their Red captors in shouts of "long live peace!"

However, Peiping did not say when the prisoners would begin moving south.

At Panmunjom, Allied soldiers rushed preparations to receive the 12,763 Allied prisoners—including 3,313 Americans and 14 Canadians. About 69,000 North Koreans and 5,000 Chinese will be turned back to the Reds.

Bryan told newspapermen after the joint commission's fourth meeting that "things went along all right today."

He acknowledged that the commission had "hit snags" but indicated none was serious.

CIVIL POLICE

The commission agreed that civil police will enter the buffer zone shortly to maintain order and protect joint UN-Red observer teams. They also will keep unauthorized persons out of the zone.

Their nationality was not announced.

Bryan also told the Reds that the UN command plans to build a runway for light aircraft in the Panmunjom area.

The commission adjourned after scheduling another meeting for Saturday.

Meanwhile, joint Allied-Red observer teams were meeting for the first time in the buffer zone. Ten teams, each with four to six officers of at least field grade rank, will police the demilitarized belt.

Three other truce groups met at Panmunjom: a joint committee to arrange for construction of facilities for the neutral nations supervisory commission, which will oversee the armistice; a joint observer group to decide on marking the demilitarized zone; and Communist and Allied Red Cross representatives, who discussed the aid program for prisoners.

Busy Weekend In Store For Holidayers

Civic holiday weekend is packed with entertainment and interesting events, including Ontario's largest golf tournament. Numerous regattas, an important Senior Lacrosse tilt, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room", and even a political rally should provide something for everyone.

An unprecedented number of entries in this year's annual Kawartha Golf and Country Club's amateur tourney should provide some excellent competition. The first golfers will tee off before 6.00 a.m. Saturday morning, beginning on the last nine and other contestants will begin in groups of three on the first nine throughout the day.

Prizes amounting to $2,500 and consisting of such things as outboard motors, vacuum cleaners, chests of silver, etc: will be given.

The tourney is a three day event.

The list of holiday regattas is headed by the two-day event at Juniper Island, Stony Lake. On Sunday the sailing events will be run off and Monday the other events will take place. First weekend regatta will be at Rosedale bridge on Balsam Lake, Saturday. The Trent River and Curve Lake regattas will be held Monday. Another water contest will be held at Bewdley, Rice Lake next Wednesday.

SOLDIERS TO CAMP

Members of the 50th A.A. Regiment, numbering about 70 will be leaving Sunday at 9.00 a.m. for a week of summer camp at Point Petre, Picton.

A Senior Lacrosse game at Miller Bowl, Saturday night between Fergus and the Trailermen, may set the Peterborough team in first place—or in a tie for first place, depending on St. Catharines' outcome tonight.

Monday evening will also see the opening of "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room" at the Summer Theatre, and this should prove delightful. Under the direction of Robertson Davies, the drama will be performed in the typical idiom of the 1860's stage.

And, of course, for all Liberals, the rally in Ennismore should prove worthwhile.

Mrs. M. D. Bulmer

The funeral service for Mrs. Mildred Daisie Bulmer, of 214 Dalhousie St., who died Monday, following a prolonged illness, was held Thursday at the Comstock funeral home.

Archdeacon C. W. Balfour officiated. The pallbearers were: John Rose, Bill Downer, Dave Crowter, Percy and Orville Johnston and Nelson McFadden. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Bear Escapes

BERGEN, Norway (AP) — A polar bear bound for a German zoo broket out of cage on a Bergen pier and started to swim back home, roughly about 1,500 miles. The bear was taken captive in the Spitsbergen area. Harbor police went out in a tugboat, roped the animal and towed it back to port.

The Communists had been shown in Korea that they can't advance, "but the strength we have is not great enough to give us the security we need," he said.

Canada, for example intended to keep on producing CF-100 jet aircraft, which, said the prime minister, are "so destructive" that it makes him "shudder" to think of them.

"We are going to continue to build them to provide that kind of strength that would make it advisable for others not to start anything."

But, he added, the chances of peace are good and given that peace, Canada's children will witness an increase in the standard of living, now the world's second highest.

THINKING OF FUTURE

At Port Dover, he said Canada's defences is costing her a "lot of money" but his government is not only thinking of Canada's current crop of Canadians but those of the future. It wanted to protect future generations from war.

During the night meeting at Brantford, he noted, however, that the international situation is growing brighter. There was a possibility that Canada and her allies could keep future generations from the terror of a third world war, if they continued to concentrate on a build-up of their defences.

State Secretary Pickersgill, who accompanied Mr. St. Laurent in his southwestern Ontario tour made two speeches during the day, at Galt and at Brantford.

At Galt Mr. Pickersgill noted that Mr. Drew wanted to talk "frank and manly" to the United States about trade relations and suggested this would be "dangerous" for Canada. Mr. Drew as premier of Ontario had talked in a "frank and manly" way when the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King had tried to improve federal-provincial relations in 1943-48.

"You noticed the difference since he left. It will be a great deal more dangerous if he talked in a frank and manly way to the United States because we want to retain good and friendly relations with that country."

ENGLISH WORRY

At Brantford, Mr. Pickersgill said the big worry for Canada is the Aug. 17 meeting of the United Nations assembly which will attempt to work out a Korean armistice.

The "paramount" reason for returning the Liberal government on Aug. 10 was to make sure that such men as Mr. St. Laurent and External Affairs Minister Pearson, president of the UN assembly, were available for that meeting.

No matter "how wise, skilled and patriotic might be the person chosen for the UN job by Mr. Drew, he would not have the experience and ability of Mr. Pearson."

Mr. St. Laurent turns his attention to eastern Ontario today, with brief railway stops planned for a number of points including Oshawa, Port Hope, Belleville, Kingston, Brockville and Cornwall.

Saturday Mr. St. Laurent will visit the village where he was born, Compton, Que., before opening the last week of his election campaign with a Sunday night meeting at Sherbrooke, Que.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Small plus and minus signs were rung up in grains at the opening on the board of trade today. Dealings were slow.

Numerous reports were received about stem rust damage to spring wheat, but the market tended to ignore them.

Wheat started ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ higher, Sept $1.98¼-⅛; corn was unchanged to ⅛ lower, Sept. $1.48½-⅝ and oats were unchanged to ⅜ higher, Sept 75¼-⅜. Soybeans were unchanged to ⅛ higher, Sept $2.56¾.

only think of those poor devils who didn't have the luck that I did. It was a grim, nerve-shattering experience."

EVERYBODY SCREAMING

One of the survivors, George Tinsley of Toronto, said:

"I was dozing off in the second seat from the front of the bus and suddenly everybody was screaming. Then we were in the canal and water was rushing in the windows.

"The driver was just up ahead of me. He kept shouting: 'Keep calm! Keep calm! Everybody will be all right.' But the man beside me didn't get out of the bus.

"He was going home to his wife in Prince Edward Island and he'd just come from seeing his daughter in Toronto. I didn't talk to him very much but he told me that.

"There he was. He was lying across my knees but I couldn't move him very much. He seemed to be jammed in. He was bleeding pretty badly. My own knees were badly bruised but I kicked open the window and tried to get him out. I couldn't."

STARTED SWIMMING

"When I got out of the window I climbed up on the roof, but it sank in the water under me. I looked around and saw the other people who got out of the bus swimming one way. I started after them.

"I don't think anybody in the bus except the driver actually knows what happened. It was too fast. Just the crash and then everybody screaming."

Anthony Bowen of Toronto, who also survived the crash, commented:

"I kicked the glass out of the window beside me. The bus was starting to tilt on its side as I was getting out. It submerged after I got out."

Two passengers seated behind Mr. Bowen didn't make it.

Too Dangerous To Let Drew Talk With U.S.

SIMCOE (CP)—State Secretary Pickersgill suggested today that it would be 'dangerous" to allow George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, to talk in a "frank and manly" way to the United States on Canada's behalf.

At Ormstown, Que., last Saturday, Mr. Drew said the government should "talk in a frank and manly way" to the United States and should not have to "beg" for a better break in the U.S. market.

Mr. Pickersgill said in an outdoor address before some 600 persons that the late prime minister Mackenzie King had sought "reasonably good relations" between the federal and provincial governments in 1943-48 when Mr. Drew was premier of Ontario and "you will remember that Mr. Drew talked in a 'frank and manly' way then."

"You notice the difference since he left. It would be a great deal more dangerous if he talked in a 'frank and manly' way to the U.S. because we want to retain good and friendly relations with that country."

KNOW THEIR JOBS

Mr. Pickersgill said such men as External Affairs Minister Pearson, Trade Minister Howe and Finance Minister Abbott "know more about trade and international relations than Mr. Drew is apt to learn even after he went into office, if we were foolish enough to put him there."

The 47-year-old former clerk of the Privy Council, appointed to the cabinet five weeks ago, repeated a confession, first made in Winnipeg July 10, that he was a Conservative supporter before he switched to the Liberal party in 1926.

An editorial in a Toronto newspaper, the Globe and Mail, said Mr. Pickersgill, termed his Winnipeg speech "shameful" and charged him with stirring up racial hatred.

All he had said was that he began to realize as he grew older that many Conservatives of Anglo-Saxon origin considered themselves in some ways superior to their fellow men and found it hard to accept them as their equals.

He also found it hard to imagine a French-speaking Canadian becoming leader of the Conservative party.

Mr. Pickersgill said he couldn't see how this could be construed as a "shameful" speech. He had looked over the Toronto newspaper and could find no report of what he had said at Winnipeg.

But he wasn't bothered by The Globe and Mail criticism. It reminded him of an elderly, frustrated old maid who had so many unsuccessful love affairs that all the emotion she had left was hatred.

The Globe and Mail, commenting on Mr. Pickersgill's charges, said a report of his Winnipeg speech appeared in its final edition July 11 but was not available in time for earlier editions.

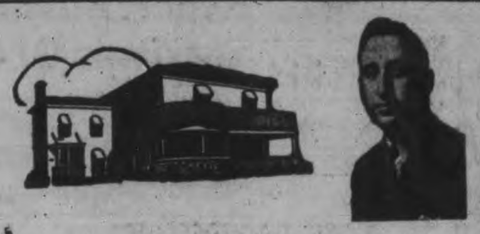
Stock Market Trend Continues Stronger

TORONTO (CP)—The stronger stock market trend continued in light afternoon trading today.

Western oils encountered profit-taking around noon among junior issues but still showed a 2-1 ratio of gains.

Industrials took over leadership of the advances while base metals followed closely. Golds faded in light trading.

Refining oils again featured the rise in industrials led by Interprovincial Pipe Line, McColl and Imperial Oil. Papers, utilities, steels and manufacturing companies joined in the advance. Canadian Celanese $1 Preferred and Ford A added 1¼ and 1 point respectively.



In western oils, Gridoil, Canada Southern, Canada Oil Lands and Pacific Petroleum posted gains. Central Explorers was down 15 cents.

In uraniums and New Brunswick base metals, Gunnar again led the advance, jumping 30 cents to $8.55. Other bright spots were Nesbitt Labine, Chimo and Duvex.

Base metals were paced by gains in higher priced issues, principally Falconbridge, Consolidated Smelters and Inco. The 15 cents dropped by Bralorne was the widest change in golds.

Abbott Stresses Liberal Concern For Freedom

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said Thursday night the Liberal government has always held firmly to the concept of liberalism, a "great political force which . . . emphasizes the value of human personality." In a speech recorded for free-time broadcast over the CBC's Trans-Canada network, Mr. Abbott said this emphasis on personal worth "is revealed in the three general aims which Canadian liberals have made their own . . . Individual freedom, economic advance and adequate social security for our people."

Mr. Abbott said Liberal concern for individual freedom is shown by government foreign policy and in day-to-day administration. An attempt was made there to minimize regimentation.

LINE UP WITH FREEDOM

Canadian foreign policy had lined the country up with Britain and the United States and with the other nations who valued freedom. Canada's defence program was designed to back up its foreign policy.

It had been the Liberal Party which had "laid the foundation and raised the great structure of social security in Canada."

Since the end of the Second World War the Liberal government had "broadened and improved our program of social welfare" by instituting old-age pensions without means tests and a system of family allowances and by setting up grants to provincial health services.

Question:

Mr. Swanston, the Conservatives say that the Liberal Cabinet is composed of arrogant men who have run down our world trade. Any comment?

Answer:

If our Liberal Cabinet Ministers are arrogant and foolish, how is it they carry so much weight in international affairs? How does Canada come to be the most important Middle Power in the world? And how does it happen that we are the third biggest trading nation in the world? Only ability and experience in the Cabinet can carry a nation that far.

Howe Reassures Farmers About Wheat

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)Britain's withdrawal from the International Wheat Agreement "need not reduce the quantity of wheat bought from Canada," Trade Minister Howe said Thursday night.

He spoke to nearly 300 persons at a barbecue in Lethbridge after an eight-hour election campaign tour of southern Alberta centres.

Much of Canada's grain was sold to countries outside the agreement and "Canada has become an expert in selling outside of the agreement."

"The Liberal government can claim credit for having done a real job in selling the grain products of the prairies over the past number of years," he said.

PROTECTED MARKETS

Government action in shutting off imports of Cuban-refined sugar through negotiations with the Cuban government rather than by "passing a law" helped protect Canadian markets in Cuba, Mr. Howe said.

Cuba had bought $24,000,000 worth of agricultural products from Canada last year.

Nothing was farther from the truth than opposition statements that Canada is losing her export markets.

Replying to opposition charges that trade had been built up in the unstable United States market rather than in traditional markets in the Commonwealth countries, Mr. Howe said that "last year one billion dollars worth of goods were sold to Britain and other Commonwealth countries."

SOME DIFFICULTIES

There were difficulties in trading with non-dollar countries. Before the war, it did not matter what currency came in because it could be freely exchanged for Canadian dollars.

"Today we cannot do that," he said. "we must demand payment in United States or Canadian dollars. Britain finds it difficult to find dollars to buy what she wants from Canada but she does buy to the extent of her resources."

For some time Dr. Kemp taught school in Toronto, lectured in the United Church Training School, and was chairman of the Junior Committee on National Education. Ten years ago he conducted a vacation school in Peterborough.

Chevrier Lists Achievements

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier said Thursday night that under 18 years of Liberal government Canada "struggled out of world depression, mobilized every ounce of strength for a global war . . . (and) moved into peacetime prosperity without a faltered step."

Mr. Chevrier was delivering an address recorded for broadcast over the CBC's Dominion network.

He said that if elected members of the Liberal government will continue in the same tradition.

"You have seen their policies put to the test of experience and have seen the accomplishments written into the record."

"Liberal policy in transportation," he continued, "is seen in the puaning of railways to northern mining areas, the steady expansion of air services, the Trans-Canada Highway, the Canso causeway and the improved ferry links with Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island."

Forest Resources, Trade Mixed Election Talk Bag

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Voters got a mixed bag of election talk Thursday from political leaders—a "dishonest" campaign letter, trade and forest resources. Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, demanded that Prime Minister St. Laurent repudiate a "dishonest" election letter which he said was sent to members of the armed forces by Duncan K. McTavish of Ottawa, president of the National Liberal Federation. Speaking at Sarnia, Mr. Drew quoted the letter as saying that Progressive Conservatives think the government has been extravagant in providing "lavishness and luxury" for servicemen.

He said the letter had references to Progressive Conservative protests against "extravagances" in defence spending and said Liberal policy is to make sure servicemen share in Canada's high standard of living.

Mr. Drew termed the letter "one of the most dishonest communications I have ever read" and said he wants the prime minister to say he knew nothing about it and to message all troops telling them the Liberal party repudiates it.

"The prime minister knows we are not advocating a reduction in national defence. What we are opposed to is the reckless and very dangerous misuse of funds."

TALK FIRMLY

Earlier at Ingersoll, Ont., Mr. Drew said Canada under a Progressive Conservative administration would not "hang on to the coattails of Uncle Sam or anyone else."

A Progressive Conservative government would talk "frankly and firmly" to the United States about American trade barriers against Canadian goods and also take action to increase the Commonwealth market for Canadian farm produce.

Mr. St. Laurent, also campaigning in Ontario, told a Brantford audience that though there is no "magic formula" for solving the pound-dollar problem, "it is going to be done by hard work, patience and endeavor."

He referred to Mr. Drew's promise that if he became prime minister he would go immediately to Britain to try to untie the sterling-dollar inconvertibility knot and win back markets for Canadian goods.

ALREADY HAD DISCUSSION

"He said he would go over and talk about the markets," Mr. St. Laurent said. "Well, we were over talking about markets last December. And we talked about markets again in London after the Coronation in June. The dollar-pound barrier was set up by the United Kingdom government. And they are trying to do their best to remove it. I think they know their business just as well as Mr Drew does."

Convertibility was "just as apt to be done by Rab Butler (Britain's chancellor of the exchequer) and through good will on his part and on the part of officials of Canada and the United States as anything Mr. Drew does after Aug. 10," the prime minister said.

The prime minister spoke in eight communities during the fourth and last day of his southwestern Ontario tour. He talked a good deal about the need for Canada to continue to build up her defences against any possible Communist aggression.

TALKS ABOUT FORESTRY

At Nelson, B.C., CCF leader M. J. Coldwell talked about British Columbia's No. 1 industry—forestry. He said the Liberal government's "apathy and shortsightedness" has caused waste of forest resources indispensable to Canada's prosperity.

Selfish exploitation of forest lands by private enterprise had denuded vast tracts of timber. There had been excessive cutting of valuable trees and resulting flood damage had amounted to millions of dolars.

Mr. Coldwell said Canada needs a national conservation policy under which federal and provincial governments would make sure that logging did not exceed regrowth.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario CCF leader, said the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives have no programs at all except the policy of expediency, opportunism and patronage.

At Toronto, John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative candidate in Prince Albert, Sask., said unemployment insurance benefits would be extended to all taken sick at their jobs if a Progressive Conservative government were elected.

Three cabinet ministers, as well as Mr. Diefenbaker, took to the air in free-time political broadcasts over CBC networks.

Finance Minister Abbott said the Liberal party's concern for individual freedom is shown by government foreign policy and in day-to-day administration. An attempt was made to minimize regimentation.

Transport Minister Chevrier said that under 18 years of Liberal rule, Canada "struggled out of world depression, mobilized every ounce of strength for a global war . . . (and) moved into peacetime prosperity without a faltered step."

L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister, said: "In the years before us, we are certain to have to face new and dangerous international problems, on which the greatest issue of all, peace and war, may well be decided. That issue still hangs in the balance."

BIG JOB AHEAD

At Brantford, State Secretary Pickersgill contended that the big job ahead of mapping out a peace plan for the Far East should be the "paramount" reason for returning the Liberals to power

At Winnipeg, Stanley Knowles, CCF candidate for Winnipeg-North Centre in the last Commons said no one can measure the loss in health, morale and production in Canada because the country lacks a national health insurance plan.

At London, Ont., Tim Buck, leader of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party said that in Canada there is a "vicious gang of lunatics that is rapidly transferring to U.S. capitalists the valuable natural resources of this country."

Today, Mr. St. Laurent is scheduled to call at eight towns along Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence river between Oshawa and Cornwall. Mr. Drew speaks at Chatham and Windsor, Ont., and Mr Coldwell at Penticton, B.C.

Michener Gives Pledge Seek More Exemption

TORONTO —Roland Michener, Progressive Conservative candidate in St. Paul's, promised Thursday to work for an increase in tax exemptions allowed for children if the electors sent him to Ottawa.

Speaking at a reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Phillips, the former Ontario cabinet minister noted the present exemption is $150 for each child eligible for family allowance.

"This figure has not been substantially revised for 20 years," he said "Yet the cost of having a child, feeding, clothing, housing and educating it have soared and so have the taxes on your income. If you are one of us in St. Paul's you are probably struggling to raise a family and in that case the government hasn't given you much of a break."

He promised to work for an exemption which would be more in line with the realities of 1953. The present figure reveals basic inequities in the tax schedule which penalize family life.

Mr. Michener also said he would try to get hospital and drug expenses included in exemptable medical expenses, and work on a scheme to have payments on municipal taxes, down payments and mortgages exempt from income tax.

There is no doubt that taxes can be reduced, he continued. A vote for the Progressive Conservatives is a vote for a party which offers to reduce taxes by $175 for the average Canadian family at a special session of parliament in October.

Lt.-Col. A. E. Hopper Was Noted Merchant

COBOURG (ENS)—One of Cobourg's best-known merchants, a veteran of the First World War, Lt.-Col. Arthur Ernest Hopper died at his home here Thursday atfer an illness of two weeks in his 72nd year.

Lt.-Col. Hopper had been in the jewellery business here ever since he was a boy, except during the First World War when he went overseas as commander of one of the Cobourg batteries. He was awarded the Military Cross.

He was the first president of the Cobourg branch of the Canadian Legion, a past master of St. John's Masonic Lodge and a past patron of the local chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

He was an ardent bowler and in his younger days played on the town baseball and hockey teams. He was born in Cobourg and was a member of Trinity United Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Effie Harrison and three daughters, Dorothy and Ruth, at home and Mrs. Lyle Milne of Hamilton.

The funeral will be held on Saturday with burial in Cobourg Union cemetery.

Buck Charges Gov't Selling Out Canada

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor Progressive (Communist) party, levelled political charges at the Liberal government here Thursday night and accused the St. Laurent administration of "selling Canadians down the road" for big United States interests.

The head of the Communist party in Canada claimed that within government circles at Ottawa there is a "vicious gang of lunatics that is rapidly transferring to U.S. capitalists the valuable natural resources of this country."

He said the present administration is allowing American interests to "take over" the iron ore resources of Canada so that the U.S. may protect its own industries.

Says People Fed Up With Old Parties

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Therese Casgrain, provincial leader of the CCF party and candidate in Montreal Jacques-Cartier-LaSalle, said Thursday night in an election speech the reason for general apathy toward the Aug. 10 general election is that the people are "fed up with the old parties."

She said people are "aroused when we tell them there is an alternative." The number of people turning to the CCF party was "surprising."

Mrs. Casgrain emphasized the need for tax reductions and said the people have to pay 13 per cent hidden taxes on everything they buy.

Help For Korea Assures Work

TORONTO.—Steps to rehabilitate Korea would provide continued employment in Canada, and show the Oriental countries that a democratic friend means more than armed aid, William Newcombe, CCF candidate in York Centre, told a public meeting at his headquarters Thursday night.

"To our shame our government made no move to help the East Berlin workers when they revolted against the Communists," he said. "We should not lose this opportunity to fight communism on the only ground on which it can be really defeated, with food and equipment and technical assistance."

He said that now when we are approaching the end of defence spending "and this form of Liberal pump-priming is coming to an end," Canadians should demand to know what plans are being made to take up the slack.

Many workers in York Centre are already worried about their jobs in deHavilland and Malton, he said, and are asking him what can be done to keep up employment.

"With the world crying out for what we can produce in Canada, it would be the height of stupidity for any man in Canada to be out of a job today," he said. "All our plants can be kept busy for years to come meeting the demand.

"A realistic approach to the sterling market, such as is advocated by the CCF, could bring back our trade with the Commonwealth countries, too, for their benefit and ours."

Some Progress Toward Security—Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Thursday night some of the "stress and tension of a few years ago now has disappeared—some progress has been made toward security and peace."

In a speech recorded in Montreal for free-time broadcast over the Trans-Canada network of the CBC, Mr. Pearson said, however, the "basic danger for aggressive Communist imperialism, harnessed to the might of Soviet Russia, remains, in spite of olive branches, which now occasionally flutter from the Kremlin walls.

"In the years before us, we are certain to have to face new and dangerous international problems, on which the greatest issue of all, peace and war, may well be decided. That issue still hangs in the balance."

CONSERVATIVE CHARGES

Speaking of the Aug. 10 federal election, Mr. Pearson said:

"The Tory opposition. . . have been trying to convince you for some weeks that we of the Liberal government are a tired, old group of arrogant despots whose only object in life is to waste the people's money, and trample on the rights and liberties of people and Parliament.

"We have been accused of every form of extravagance and irresponsibility usually on the basis of evidence more extravagant in its distortion and misrepresentation than anything that we are accused of doing."

"Most of this so-called evidence is culled from defence spending. As I hear Conservative speakers grow eloquent and indignant over what they call excessive spending on the armed services, I recall those days in Parliament three or four years ago when, under the shadow of a grim and menacing situation in Europe. . . we decided to join with our NATO friends and allies in a defence buildup, a mobilization plan, for maximum strength in minimum time.

TALK CHEERFULLY

"The Canadian part of that plan . . . provided for the extreme and awful contingency of a general war when the nation would have to be armed and equipped from the outset. . . .

"The opposition in this election forget this and try to make you forget it, as they talk cheerfully of the folly and extravagance of stockpiling and of preparing camps and facilities and reserve supplies against the day of world war III which, please God, will not come."

Diefenbaker Declares Redistribution Unfair

TORONTO (CP)—John Diefenbaker said Thursday night that "more than one" opposition member "has been marked for elimination from Parliament through redistribution of constituencies."

In a free-time political broadcast, recorded for delivery over the CBC's Dominion network, Mr. Diefenbaker said the "only offence" of these members was "to have dared to stand fearlessly for the rights of the people or to be so presumptuous as to criticize the self-styled indispensables".

"A major issue in this election is the restoration of the supremacy of Parliament," said the Progressive Conservative candidate in the new riding of Prince Albert in Saskatchewan. His former seat of Lake Centre disappeared under redistribution.

The attitude of the Liberals is a negative one, said Mr. Diefenbaker. When the Progressive Conservatives said unnecessary taxation must be reduced, that the cost of living must come down, that something effective must be done in order to maintain markets, the government answer was "it can't be done."

Our Tourists

Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes have been in the tourist business long enough now not to feel uneasy about the annual influx. In fact, they positively glow in it. For half a century Peterborough has been an active tourist centre. Although tourists came to the city and district many years before 1900, tourists as a category of people were virtually unknown. There were no cars, people worked six days a week, few had even a week's holiday. Kawartha Lakes cottages, and Rice Lake hostelries catered to Peterborough and Toronto people mainly, not to far-flungs from the other side of the border. Now the majority of our tourists come from the States although there are recent indications (among them the licence plates on visiting cars) that more Ontario people are finding what the Americans were astute enough to discover before them, that the Kawarthas and Rice Lake are good holiday places.

* * *

Nearly all tourist accommodations (cottages, cabins, summer hotels and even motels) are booked fully until mid-August. The operators report the usual number of Americans present. Border statistics indicate that the U.S. tourist influx into Canada will be a record. At the Peace Bridge at Fort Erie 59,000 cars crossed the border the week-end before last. Officials predict that before the year ends five million Americans will have crossed into Canada.

* * *

We mentioned above that Peterborough and district folk are now accustomed to our visitors. They welcome them as genially as cousins (indeed, many are relatives). And we are glad to report that few instances of over-charging, churlishness, neglect or failure to provide what was promised have come to our ears. On the contrary, genuine interest, helpfulness and courtesy are constantly being shown our visitors and that is the way it should be. We witnessed an encounter on a George Street corner yesterday. The American hailed a young man: "Say, fellow, are you a native here? Can you tell me where . . .?" The young man replied: "Yes, I know where it is, Sir. I will show you," and he walked the visitor down the street to his desired destination.

* * *

Most of the Americans bring with them a heartiness and freedom of manner and speech which is refreshing. It is stimulating to hear their points of view, and to know what they find interesting and what they do not. It helps us to see ourselves more clearly.

* * *

Tourist traffic at this time of year is not all one-sided. Tens of thousands of Canadians are now touring in the States. We were surprised to see in a resort town in Maine a couple of weeks ago, signs in shop windows: "Canadian Shopping Day: Bienvenu." And all the rest of the widely-distributed sign was in French. Shops and restaurants exhibited cards saying: "Ici On Parle Francais." As we in this part do what we can to encourage American tourists and make them feel at ease, so Americans in their tourist areas put themselves out to please Canadian tourists. Not all Canadians speak French, of course, a not uncommon misapprehension in some of the smaller and northern New England places.

Mr. St. Laurent Refuses The Chance

The chief Conservative plank is tax cuts, or reduction of government spending, amounting to $500,000,000. Mr. Drew has said about $200,000,000 of this will come out of defence expenditures. Reduction of taxes and government spending is always a popular appeal, but the Liberals have abstained from such promises, popular though they might have been. They have made no attempt to undercut the Conservatives in this. For one reason, it would have appeared to be stealing their plank.

An easy opportunity for stepping on the Conservative plank was provided this week when the Korean armistice was signed. It would have been easy for the Liberals to say: "Naturally we'll cut defence expenditure now. The way is now clear to do it." It was a ripe opportunity for the Liberals to ride on the bandwagon. But they did not take the chance.

Instead Mr. St. Laurent said in St. Thomas Tuesday night: "Don't look to us for any ten per cent. reduction immediately." Mr. Howe and Mr. Claxton have said that immediate savings will be made only in the cost of ammunition. The expense of maintaining the Canadian Korean brigade and subsidiary naval and air forces continues. Ammunition is a very small part of the expense; nothing like ten per cent. can be saved thereby.

The fact is that Canada's expenses for her participation in Korea, both direct and indirect, amount all told to only $200 million of the five billion dollars of defence appropriations during the last four years.

There has been waste and extravagance in the Department of National Defence, but nothing like $200,000,000 of it, which the Conservatives promise to save.

As Opposition leader, Mr. Drew has not had the responsibility for the security and development of national interests. He is thus able to make great promises. The Liberals have had the responsibility. Mr. St. Laurent must therefore not be rash and tempt voters at the risk of betraying Canada's allies. So he has stuck to his guns and not taken the easy opportunity to displace the Conservatives with their own petard.

We wish that the Conservatives had been less grandiose in their big round figures. It is next to impossible for a rational person to believe in their promised reductions, because they are so unreal in their size. Had they said that they would cut expenditures and taxes by, say fifty million dollars we would have shouted "Bravo." But when they promise five hundred millions of savings, we yawn—pies in the sky.

Crosswords

On a hot summer's afternoon when it is too oppressive even to fish it is a relief to curl up in some shady spot and rack one's brains over a crossword puzzle. It is simply amazing how the heat can be forgotten in a frantic search in the lumber-room of the mind for a seven-letter word meaning a South American ruminant. Sufferers from the heat who have not tried this antidote should make the experiment. It is important to choose a simple puzzle to start off with unless one has an impressive array of useless knowledge at one's disposal. Judging from the crosswords published in the London Times it would appear that the mind of the average reader of that august journal must be a veritable junk-shop of miscellaneous information on botany, law, literature, physics, bebop music and a hundred other subjects. In addition to this the solver of the Times crossword puzzles should possess a certain peculiar mentality for perceiving plays on words. For example a clue which says, "Dance that puts the Arab in his natural element" can be none else than Saraband—the Arab is put in the sand—you see the idea?

The puzzles composed by the late Torquemada (an aptly chosen pen-name) carried these methods to such a pitch as to make the Times puzzles puerile by comparison. The knowledge required to solve these was considerably more extensive and detailed, and the mental twist even greater. There have been puzzles composed in classical Greek and Latin. There seems to be no end to ingenious ideas, though we have yet to hear of 3-D crossword puzzles in the shape of a cube, with letters going vertically as well as horizontally.

At the opposite pole are those puzzles which are little more than games of chance, and are usually associated with large prizes. Many of the letters are already filled in, and the clues are purposely made ambiguous in order to increase the number of possible alternatives. For example the clue may read thus, "found in a house" for a word of three letters, the last two being already given as AT. The solver scans through the alphabet and comes to the first possibility, BAT. Bats, baseball, cricket or even winged are sometimes found in houses. So are cats. Fat was scarce during the war, but is now in good supply, and hats, though worn in houses only by women and Hollywood detectives, are often found there. Mats are usually placed at the bottom of staircases and other slippery locations. Rats are generally confined to large and palatial mansions, which should give us ordinary folk occasion to meditate on the drawbacks of riches. The last word, VAT, is rather a dim possibility in these days, though in former years vats were often found for dying cloth and fermenting grape juice.

All in all, here is a pretty large variety of possible choices, and when this system is used for other words too the number of permutations and combinations is formidable. This type of crossword may not appeal to the elite and it may be just as dificult to reach the approved solution for the reasons which we have just given, but they present no difficulty in completing in a reasonably satisfactory manner and are probably all our tired brains can cope with during the dog-days.

The Ottawa Journal dislikes the choice of site the Department of Natoinal Defence has seemingly made for a proposed new headquarters building. It says: "The city should make it clear that it admits no financial or moral responsibility for such a proposition." Between Mayor Whitton and the Journal it is already pretty clear that they admit no financial or moral responsibility for anything that the Department of National Defence does or has done.

Young Scientists In The U.S.

By J. BRONOWSKI

(Ed. Note: Dr. Bronowski of Britain has been spending four months at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as Carnegie Visiting Professor.)

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) was given its name by the early settlers in Cromwell's day, to mark it proudly as the first university town in America. To-day it is more industrial than Oxford (England). It is also more strikingly a university town, for it holds both Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—which has become M.I.T. to the world, but is still "Tech." to Cambridge.

These are large universities, but this is not what distinguishes them, for most States in America have larger ones. The University of Boston across the river, and the University of Massachusetts elsewhere in the State, are both larger.

What distinguishes Harvard and M.I.T. is the standard which they set for their students. Young men come to them, as they come to Oxford and Cambridge, from all over the country. They have the characteristic names of the American communities — Irish and Italian, Huguenot and Spanish and Pennsylvania Dutch. Each of my classes has also had students from South America and from Europe.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE are 5,000 students at M.I.T., spread over four undergraduate and two graduate years. The yearly intake of freshmen is about 1,000, and the competition for these places is ferocious. The Institute can therefore make ferocious demands on the students and intellectually it does so.

Since the students are from schools scattered over a continent, the range of what one or other of them does not know when he comes still makes me blanch. This is a problem common to all American universities, which most of them now meet (on the example of Harvard) by spending the first two undergraduate years on a general education in several faculties. But M.I.T. is not a general university; it trains only scientists—and for the most part applied scientists—most of them, indeed, engineers in one or other of the modern techniques. The drive in the student to think of nothing but aerofoils or chemical engineering or electronics is therefore particularly strong.

M.I.T. meets this in two ways. First, it gives the undergraduate in his first two years an extraordinary grounding in all the sciences. You cannot become so much as a modest sanitary engineer here until you have first done the mathematics and the physics and the biology from which any true understanding of science must spring. You cannot be a specialist until you are a scientist: this is the axiom I found at M.I.T.

Science is therefore treated here as a single body of thought and, in a sense, as a culture. This can be done only by having on the staff first-class men in all the sciences, however remote they may be from engineering. What strikes the visiting professor is the stature of the men working here precisely in, say, physics and biology. I have never spent my time with so many great men, endlessly and excitedly talking each other's shop, as in my evenings at M.I.T. and at Harvard.

This stress on fundamental science has it visible influence on all that the student does later in his lifetime work. I had supposed, before my visit, that American engineering development owes its success to the practical bent of the men who make it. And they are practical men; but their success rests on their strong theoretical grasp of what they are doing. The M.I.T. graduate, and the graduate from the other great institutes, does not approach a new piece of engineering with his hands but with his head. He begins with pencil and paper and with laboratory experiments; the laboratory work here, in all design problems, is most delicate.

I must underline this point because it took me by surprise. The English scientist breaks his heart because what he discovers never seems to travel from Oxford to Lancashire until it has first been developed in Chicago. What special gift has the engineer in Chicago? The answer I have found is that the young American engineer does not treat the scientist as a fool whose dream he has to knock into familiar shape. On the contrary, the engineer here wants to understand the discovery; he wants to develop it along its own logic; and he treats this task as an original science.

✧ ✧ ✧

I SAID that M.I.T. meets the odd ignorances of its freshmen in two ways. One is to show them science as a whole and as a culture. The other is to persuade them that, nevertheless, science is not the whole of culture. Throughout his four years, the undergraduate must spend the equivalent of one day in each five-day week in the Department of Humanities.

This has been built up in the years since the war, in part to offset the scientific bias, and in part because most M.I.T. graduates in time move to directing posts in industry. The Department of Humanities makes the freshmen learn some world history and the seniors some economics; for the rest they can follow their taste in music, literature, and any topic which fires a professor and his pupils together.

I have been lecturing in the Department problems of philosophy which are thrown up by modern science. I have nothing to complain of but the enthusiasm of the students, who like to turn each evening lecture into an all-night discussion.

The stamina of the students, physical and intellectual, is remarkable; and the Institute exploits it without mercy. It believes that the good student can always learn more; and since it can afford to pick only good students, it gives them a heavy timetable and packs their leisure with reading. I found them sitting in the new music library, listening to the daily concert, while they clicked their slide-rules over their sums. They like modern music and some painting.

To three-quarters of them, literature is a bore and writing a pain. The others read voraciously, from Shelley and Tolstoy to William Faulkner (who is not a well-known writer in America). Some of the students are learned in science-fiction ,and most of them read it. The most attractive exercise set in the Department of Mechanical Engineering this year was based on science-fiction. It presented each student with a large folder, dated about the year 2950, which described the birdlike and methane-breathing inhabitants of a mythical planet called Arcturus IV. The exercise was to design machines which the birdmen can use under the strange conditions of this planet.

✧ ✧ ✧

I HAVE no taste for science-fiction myself, which seems to me full of extravagance and empty of imagination. Part of its appeal to the students, however, is that it is a literature of dissent. It does not conform to the acceped standards of social success in America; its heroes are rebels and sometimes even liberals. Harvard and M.I.T. have been targets of Congressional investigation, for Congress does not like New England any better than Old England. But the committees have forgotten to censor the science-fiction.

I say this with wry relish, because I have met an official literary critic. When I landed in New York the policeman who looked through my trunks told me that under the McCarran Act he had to read all books brought into the United States. I encouraged him, and he picked up my own book on Blake. After he had read three or four sentences he looked at me in astonishment. "You write this, bud?" he said. "This ain't never goin' to be no best seller."

UNCERTAIN LANDING

Unexpected Gift Received

By PETER STURSBERG

WHATEVER its purpose, the Soviet contribution to Technical Assistance is opportune; a gift horse should not be too closely examined, and this one has given a lift to the United Nations' program of aid at a time when it was very sadly in the doldrums. As one official put it: "Any new contribution is welcome as it should stimulate others to give more."

The four million roubles (one million dollars at the official rate of exchange) that the Russians have promised, will not have any great effect on this year's programme, and the United Nations will still be able to provide only two-thirds of the aid it has been asked for. The Technical Assistance Board, the over-all authority, estimates that it needed more than thirty-seven million dollars to meet all the requests it had from governments (Sir Herbert Broadley, the chief of the expanded programme, puts the figure even higher, at forty-three million dollars), but it only received a little more than twenty-one million dollars in contributions. By using the money left over from last year, the board is actually spending twenty-five million dollars this year; the unexpected Soviet contribution will put this amount up by a million.

The Technical Assistance Board has had, of course, to slash its programme; a special committee was appointed to wield the axe and it had to cut out many projects which would have raised the standards of living in under-developed countries. For instance, out of one hundred and sixty-eight requests for aid during the first four months of the year, it had to reject or hold over sixty-nine of them, or more than a third, because of lack of funds.

The situation can be put even more simply. Instead of having one thousand one hundred experts in the field, as it has now, the board could have had one thousand six hundred or more if its request for money had been met. In other words, the United Nations is short of some five hundred experts in the control of diseases, in land drainage, in agriculture and fishery and industry, and in other subjects which make for human advancement, and the people of the poorer parts of the world suffer.

"The scope of the United Nations programme," Sir Herbert Broadley told a meeting recently, "is still a very modest one. In relation to the needs of the under-developed countries it is pitiably small, and in comparison with the scale of the technical assistance provided on a bilateral basis by the United States and the Colombo Plan (aid for Southern Asia), it plays a relatively small part in the economic development of the world."

What has made officials here so despondent is that this programme, which is surely the most constructive work of the United Nations, instead of expanding, has become stagnant, if not contracted. For the past two years, the contributions have been about the same, a million or two above twenty million dollars; yet, when the Technical Assistance programme was launched, there were confident predictions of a rapid expansion to one hundred million dollars within a reasonable time.

The unexpected windfall of the Soviet gift of one million dollars does not mean that the Technical Assistance Board will have any more than that amount to spend this year, despite "matching" contributions. By far the largest of these is provided by the United States which offered sixty per cent of the total up to fourteen million dollars, and has pledged a little over twelve million dollars. Canada's contribution is another; the Canadian Government offered seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars if the total reached twenty million dollars, and eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars if it reached twenty-five million dollars, and has actually handed the Secretary-General a cheque for eight hundred thousand dollars. However, the "matching" deadline was April 1, and these countries are under no obligation to give more.

Not all the contributions are in convertible currency: for instance, only ten per cent of Brazil's is in cash, the rest being in services. What part of the Soviet contribution is in gold roubles is not known. Officials of the board are going to discuss this question of convertibility when technical assistance comes up for debate in the economic and Social Council meeting at Geneva.

Undoubtedly, the Soviet move in reversing its policy over the United Nations aid programme—not so long ago, the Russians were damning it as a capitalist plot—will raise some 'delicate problems'—as one official put it. The Board is wondering where it can send the experts the Soviets have offered, and to whom it should offer Soviet fellowships. So far no satellite countries have applied for Technical Assistance, a move which may come now, and which would certainly help solve the problem.—OFNS (Copyright).

The Bottle Tossers

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Those who drink pop and more potent beverages in cars and then carelessly throw the bottle on or near the edge of the road are, to say the least, selfishly thoughtless. They are endangering the lives of others. The jagged glass they leave on the highway can easily cause tire failures and fatal accidents.

Law enforcement agencies should take a dim view of bottle tossers.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me: that they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me. I am the Lord, and there is none else . . .

Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker! Let the potsherd strive with the potsherds of the earth. Shall the clay say to him that fashioneth it, What makest thou? or thy work, He hath no hands?

Woe unto him that saith unto his father, What begettest thou? or to the woman, What hast thou brought forth?

Thus saith the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, and his Maker, Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the work of my hands command ye me. I have made the earth, and created man upon it. (Isa. 45:5,6,9-12.)

Then Jesus six days before the passover came to Bethany, where Lazarus was which had been dead, whom he raised from the dead. There they made him a supper; and Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him....Much people of the Jews therefore knew that he was there: and they came not for Jesus' sake only, but that they might see Lazarus also, whom he had raised from the dead. (John 12: 1, 2, 9.)

Hear the right, O Lord, attend unto my cry, give ear unto my prayer, that goeth not out of feigned lips . . . Hold up my goings in thy paths, that my footsteps slip not. (Ps. 17:1, 5.)

Unconsidered Trifles

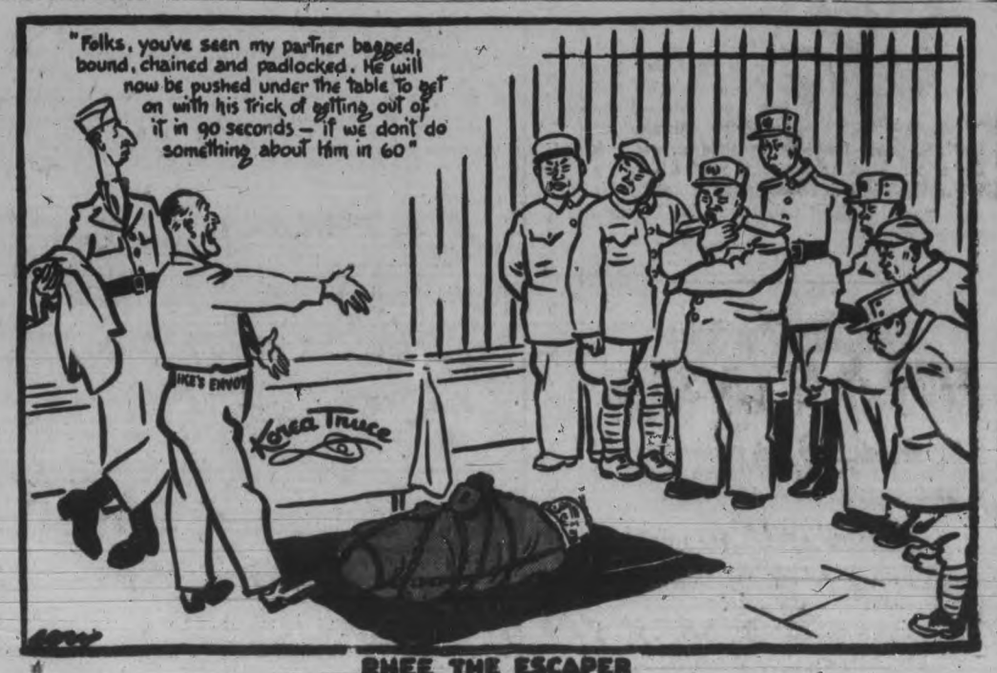
Big Boy: "Why run away? I thought you said you could lick me with one hand tied behind your back.."

Small Boy: "I'm just going home to get some string."

A crowded bus stopped and a stout, middle-aged man descended the stairs carrying a small girl. Depositing her carefully on the pavement, he climbed back and brought down a little boy. Again he made the journey and this time he carried down a still younger child.

"For goodness' sake," snapped a woman waiting to get on the bus. "What's he got up there? A nest?"

By An Eyelash Or Two



(Edmonton Journal)

Life is growing more hazardous all the time, and every day some new peril arises.

The latest example comes from Buffalo, New York, where a model is suing a company which makes eyelash curlers. She claims that they sold her a defective curler, with the result that when she went to curl her eyelashes, instead of curling, they came out.

This is hardly unexpected. It must require extremely delicate calculation to design a machine that will exert just enough force to give milady's eyelashes the desired spiral, and yet not too much. Somebody's higher mathmatics was bound to slip sometime and then there would be eyelashes all over the rug.

Great-grandmother never knew what dangers she escaped through living in an age before beauty aids.

Millard Reveals 5 Proposals To End Strike

TORONTO (CP)—The five main proposals advanced Thursday by the government in an attempt to bring about a settlement of the Broulan Reef gold mine strike at Timmins were made public Thursday night by C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steel Workers of America (CIO-CCL).

The Queen's Park meeting brought together Broulan reef officials and union heads under the supervision of Labor Minister Daley. The minister said only that another meeting was scheduled for next Thursday.

Mr. Millard in a statement said the minister made the following proposals for settlement of the wage dispute which started July 11:

1. All pickets be withdrawn from mine entrances and property.
2. The company refrain from operating the mine, except for essential maintenance.
3. This situation exist for one week, during which the department of labor assist both parties in negotiations.

TO BE SUBMITTED

4. When in the opinion of the labor minister, a worthwhile proposal was advanced, this offer would be submitted to all employees in the bargaining unit in a vote, conducted under supervision of the department.
5. Rejection of this offer would mean continuation of the strike with proposed restrictions on picketing and operations removed.

Mr. Millard said the five proposals were accepted by the union, but that Broulan Reef officials turned them all down after consulting with other company officials, not at the conference.

Although he would not comment on the proposals, Mr. Daley said the talks "are not out of the woods by a long stretch, but as long as we keep together there is hope."

Building New Zealand Road Heroic 18-Year Struggle

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

DUNEDIN, N.Z. (CP)—Tourists will drive comfortably this summer by road and tunnel to New Zealand's wild Fiordland, the almost uninhabited wonderland of mountain, forest and sea in the extreme southwest of the country.

The building of a road to this rugged region is an epic of 18 years' struggle against some of the most terrifying avalanches known anywhere in the world.

The struggle cost the lives of several workers. Important parts of the work were wrecked by avalanches and by the terrific blasts of air forced out by blankets of snow dropping over sheer precipices from the snowfields.

Key to the whole project was the driving of a tunnel through the 6,000-foot high Homer Saddle which cuts off the fiords of the west coast from the settled part of the country. Hitherto, the only access to Milford Sound on the far side of the saddle has been by a three-day trek across the mountains.

Work on the scenic approaches to the tunnel started in 1935. Next year a tunnel worker was caught by an avalanche blast at the entrance and killed.

In the early stages a zigzag trench was built to the tunnel face along which workers crept to gain the workings in comparative safety. Later a reinforced concrete avalanche shelter was built at the tunnel entrance and this was confidently expected to end the danger. But it was no match for the force of the avalanche blasts. It fell twisted and shattered in one season.

Avalanches buried the tunnel portal three times in 1937 and sudden death overtook more of the workers, including the engineer in charge and the chief tunnel engineer.

In 1945 the avalanche portal and fitting shops were demolished by a huge fall which overwhelmed even the heavy structure built after the lessons of earlier setbacks.

PROGRESS SLOW

Restricted working time has slowed progress, but the 4,000-foot tunnel through the saddle and the approach roads on both sides now are virtually completed. In about six months traffic will be flowing to what has until now been one of the most inaccessible parts of New Zealand.

The new road will open up regions that are confidently expected to be top tourist attractions. They include the 1,904-foot Sutherland Falls and the spectacular arm of the sea, Milford Sound, running inland for miles between steep mountain walls. A comfortable modern hotel is being built at the sound, but the road will be open only in the summer.

Even if the road could be kept clear of snow during the winter there would be no protection for travellers against the tremendous air blasts from the avalanches.

Affidavit Says Emerson Paid For Contracts

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Windsor Star Thursday published a contractor's affidavit purporting to link Don Emerson, secretary to Health Minister Martin, with commissions paid for obtaining government contracts.

The affidavit, signed by Reni Reaume, part-owner of Texto-Plastics Limited, a Windsor textile firm, said that when the company was organized "25 per cent of the capital stock was to be held in trust for Mr. Emerson."

J. A. Kennedy, Progressive Conservative candidate in Essex East in the Aug. 10 Dominion election, said he had asked Prime Minister St. Laurent for an investigation of the affidavit's statements before polling day. He added: "I would like to make it plain that I am not sponsoring these charges. . . "I don't know whether they are true or not."

SHOWS INNOCENCE

Mr. Martin, Liberal candidate in Essex East, said an investigation last March into matters mentioned in the affidavit showed that Mr. Emerson was innocent of any impropriety.

Mr. Emerson said "the allegation that I received or was promised any consideration whatsoever is, of course, a bare-faced lie."

Cause of the fire was not immediately established. John Clark, a partner in the store, said the loss would exceed $75,000.

Fifty firemen from Smiths Falls and nearby Perth and Merrickville brought the fire under control.

New Graduates Facing Unemployment In India

By RAWLE KNOX
(Special To The Examiner)

NEW DELHI. — Every year some quarter of a million educated Indians (matriculation standard or higher) leave college or university and look for jobs; and only half that number find them.

For the past few weeks India's newspapers have been filled with lists of figures resembling bond or lottery advertisements. They represent the successful candidates in matriculation, intermediate and graduate examinations; they should represent the happy end of a desperate voyage.

There are forty million Indian children between the ages of six and twelve — the primary education period — and of these at least half certainly never see the inside of a school. Of the twenty million or so who do embark on primary education, only about 250,000 emerge later with matriculation certificates, and less than fifty thousand as university graduates.

Previously, depsair and dishonor has been confined almost entirely to the failures. This is the season of suicides, when the slender 240 ft. tower of the 13th century Qutab Minar, a few miles from Delhi, has to be carefully watched for unsuccessful students bent on leaping to death.

SUCCESS MEANS MUCH

Success has always meant the chance of a government job—esteem, security and a pension, in a country where poverty and uncertainty rule.

Not even in the nineteen-thirties were successful Indian graduates and matriculates faced with such a prospect of unemployment as today. Applicants for technical jobs, according to the Directorate-General of Resettlement and Employment, are at least eight times the number of vacancies available; for clerical jobs, 25 times.

But these figures do not represent the dire struggle to enter business firms of good repute, which include most of the foreign-owned concerns. One such recently received 250 applications, mostly from men both unemployed and with good qualifications, for a single vacancy for a clerk at £7. 10c per month.

LACK TECHNICIANS

Despite unemployment among technical graduates, the Indian Prime Minister, Mr. Nehru, appealed this week to students of Allahabad University for more youths to undertake technical studies. Of the 50,000 graduate degrees gained each year, two-thirds are in Arts and Science. The proportion is too high in a country gravely lacking technicians (notably doctors, teachers and agricultural scientists) who could even now almost all find employment if they were prepared to work in the primitive conditions of the villages instead of expecting jobs in cities and university towns.

"There is much to be said against a system of education," says the current New Delhi "Eastern Economist," "in which every person who completes his course becomes almost automatically an applicant for a job . . . The curricullum and standard of teaching in secondary schools and colleges must be raised if the product of a school or college is to become more self-reliant and resourceful."

OPPOSE RAISING STANDARDS

But students all over India are resisting any attempt to raise standards of examination. Not infrequently examinees have gone on strike against papers they considered too difficult. The magic of the "pass" has become all important to the student, while India's Public Services Commission, which interviews candidates for all branches of the administration, condemns in report after report the low educational standards of those appearing before it.

Of 20 university students recently interviewed in Lucknow, only one had any idea of the nature of India's five-year plan, and he had not read even the abbreviated version of the plan. The same students knew very little scandal of local politics, and were always willing to throw their weight into any political agitation "to defend their rights."

It is on record that when Gandhi first decided, as a matter of conscious policy, to use the students as a weapon in the resistance movement against the British, senior members of the Congress Party warned him that the future morale of colleges and universities would suffer. And that has happened. The tradition of poltical agitation in Indian colleges seriously hampers education.

Communism, because its policies offers so many easy attractions, finds many converts among India's students. That conversion is the more likely to be confirmed when half of each year's matriculates and graduates leave school and university to find themselves unemployed.

2 Die In Crash

PENHOLD, Alta. (CP) — Two men were killed Thursday in the crash of a Harvard training plane near this town 100 miles south of Edmonton. Names of the victims are being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Scale Mount Robson

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—The first successful climb in 14 years to the summit of Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, was reported Thursday. Five young United States mountain climbers scaled the summit of the 12,972-foot peak Tuesday. The mountain is near the Alberta-British Columbia boundary 250 miles west of Edmonton.

Seek To Bridge Dollar Gap

LONDON (CP)—A mission sponsored by the Scottish Council (Development and Industry) will seek to place more Scottish exports, particularly heavy machinery, in expanding Western Canadian markets.

Sir Alexander McColl, mission leader, will direct attempts to assess unsatisfied needs in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, for goods to be supplied direct from Scotland or from branch outlets where justifiable.

Canadian government officials here welcomed the project and spoke of Canada's belief that the dollar gap will best be bridged by expanded, rather than reduced, trade.

The party is due to arrive in Canada Sept. 1, visiting Ottawa and Toronto briefly before proceeding to Vancouver, where it is scheduled to begin work about Sept. 5.

6 BURIED ALIVE

SINGAPORE (AP) — A cliff, weakened by excavations, collapsed Thursday and buried alive six children at play in Batu Pahat, Johore. The bodies of the children, all under 12, were recovered later.

Mosley, 22, suffered multiple wounds when shot down over Korea.

KEEP MOVING, MISS—Joan Anderson, 17, thought she could beat the heat in a Minneapolis, Minn., park as temperatures soared into the 90's. Spotting her lying on the grass, near a "no parking" sign, was special policeman Roland Rylund, who had to tell her to move on.

Paul Frise To Play Rugby With Stampeders In West

Star centre for the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School's Garnet and Grey football teams for several years, Paul (Chub) Frise, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Frise, 498 Bonaccord St., will play for Calgary Stampeders this season. He has been working out with the Western Interprovincial Football Union for the past two weeks.

Frise is the second former collegiate player to play with the Stampeders during the past several years. Don Lech, a 280-pound lineman, played a few games in the WIFU.

The 210-pound centre left Peterborough two weeks ago, strictly on speculation. Since working out with the Stampeders he has been practising with other Canadian and American players attempting to make the team.

INTRODUCED TO FANS

On Monday night the Peterborough boy was introduced to the Stampeders' fans for the first time. This is a special night during which the club's players are introduced. It's called a "Meet the Public" night.

Next week Frise will marry a Peterborough girl, Edna May Nice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Nice, 708 Lansdowne St.

Frise is expected to accompany the Stampeders east on an exhibition tour of games throughout the Big Four centres later this month prior to opening games in the WIFU. The Stampeders will play against Carl Voyle's Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Alouettes.

Last year the former collegiate centre attended PCVS but was ineligible to play in the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association games. In previous seasons he starred with Bev Goulding's senior Garnet and Greys, being centre on the COSSA championship team in 1951.

Frise started his football career in the junior Garnet and Grey ranks under former coach, Alex Londry. There he started first on the line and then was worked into snap position. He was a member of the COSSA junior champions from PCVS during those years.

Whitakers Meet Lincoln County For Prov. Title

Peterborough Whitakers Cricket team, representing Peterborough county, will travel to St. Catharines on Monday to meet Lincoln county team in the final match for the Ontario County Cricket Championship and the R. C. Matthews Trophy.

The locals won this trophy in 1945 and have made a good showing in later preliminary rounds.

This season they took the opening match in the first round by the default of Wentworth county and on July 1 defeated Middlesex county in the semi-finals.

The match will begin at noon on the Ridley College grounds in St. Catharines.

The following will make up the team: E. Cotton (captain), R. Roberts (vice-captain), E. Bedford, F. Booth, C. Boardman, T. Clarke, K. Illingworth, T. Scott, G. Smith, R. Smith, W. Wright.

Short-Handed Petes Lose 10-9 To Dundas

Minus four players, a goalkeeper and a coach, Peterborough's Junior OLA entry couldn't quite catch Dundas in the final minutes Thursday night and lost 10-9.

Tonight the juniors get a chance to really show what they can do when they take on the first place Long Branch squad. Long Branch has lost only one game this year, but Peterborough is going all out to hand them another defeat.

The Pats have lots of hustle and scoring punch. Lacrosse fans who haven't seen the juniors perform will be giving themselves a treat if they see the locals take on the league leaders tonight.

The Pats had to improvise with a Dundas supplied goalie and sweaters found for them. The reason was that a car driven by Bill Killingbeck, who was going to handle the squad, broke down at Bewdley on the way.

With Bill were the sweaters, the goalie and four players. By the time another car was found, officials decided it was too late to send reinforcements.

The boys in Dundas were on their own. As it was they did credit to themselves. At the end of the first quarter they were leading 4-1. But at the final gong Dundas had been able to slip an extra counter behind the substitue goalie, Walker.

Bob Allen was top scorer for the Pats with six goals and one assist. Other goal getters were Frank Farley with two and one assist and Bob Curtis. Willie Logan and Bob Hobart both counted assists.

The Dundas goals were scattered among almost all the players.

The Peterborough stalwarts played their hearts out trying to make up for their handicap and nearly managed to take the win, but a few easy shots were muffed by their lend-lease goalie and that spelled defeat. Lineups:

Peterborough: Walker, goal; Carl Brioux, Jerry O'Reilly, Willie Logan, Bob Allen, Bob Curtis, Bob Hobart, Tommy Hunt, Frank Farley, Junior Daniels, and Garry Smith.

Dundas: Clark, Hutchison, Blanchard, Main, Hambly, Lebanowitch, Stout, Williams, Walker, Fama, J. McKinnon, Brazier, Amsden, D. McKinnon.

McLean, Bell Win Junior Golf Tourney

TORONTO. (CP)—Steve McLean of Toronto York Downs and Billy Bell of Aurora Thursday won the eighth annual Ontario junior best ball golf tournament at the Summit Country Club with a one-over-par 72.

Three other pairs tied for second with 74s. They were Doug French and Dale Butler of Toronto Scarboro; Bill MacBeth of London Highland and David Lee of Dundas and Mike Clancy of Toronto Lambton and Bruce Perrin of Toronto Cedar Brae.

Gary Cowan and Herb Hausser of Kitchener Rockway carded 78 for the best show in the 15 years and under age group. Jack Cranston of York Downs and Doug McIntyre of Niagara-on-the-Lake had low net scores of 56.

Cardinals Announce Farm Club Shakeup

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals of the National League Thursday night announced the shift of a manager and 14 players in a major shakeup in the club's farm organization.

Redbird coach Dixie Walker takes over as manager of the Houston club in the Texas League, replacing Al Hollingsworth who will become a scout for the St. Louis team.

Chief among the player shifts is the acquisition of outfielder Harry Elliott from Houston and pitcher Willard Schmidt, from Columbus, Ohio, by the parent club.

LOTS OF BALLS

Canadian manufacturers produced nearly 140,000 dozen golf balls in 1951, up from 104,000 dozen the year before.

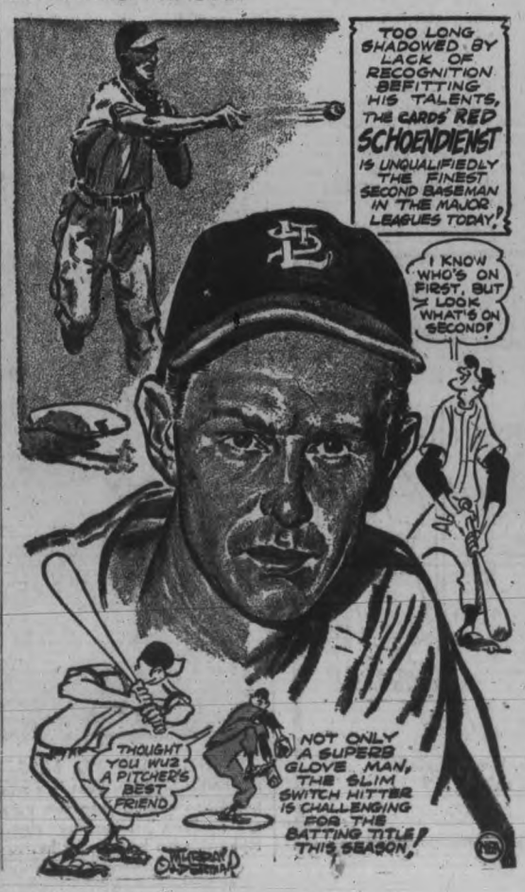
Tomcat To Get Bronze Medal

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—"Taffy" is going to get a medal.

The seven-year-old grey tomcat is the 1953 selection for the Puss'n Boots bronze award.

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Joyes of London, "Taffy" has been chosen as the outstanding example of feline intelligence, devotion and loyalty.

And all because "Taffy" walked 60 miles.



In October, 1951, the tomcat hiked from Brigden to London after an unscheduled truck ride to a fair. It took the cat seven days, 17 pounds of flesh and a few layers of paw tissue to make the return journey home.

The story of this escapade caught the eyes of the Puss'n Boots bronze award selection committee which decided the medal and citation for 1953 belonged to "Taffy."

In making its selection the committee said that "news stories of this kind further an interest in the intelligence and loyalty of cats and stimulate an appreciation of their true worth as companions of man."

Royals Edge Ottawa In 6-5 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, fresh from a three-game sweep over Toronto Maple Leafs, clash with Montreal Royals in a four-game series starting at Montreal tonight which may determine the first-place finisher in the International Baseball League.

The Bisons top the circuit. The Royals moved into second place, 2½ games back, by edging Ottawa Athletics 6-5 Thursday night while Rochester Red Wings lost 5-4 to Syracuse Chiefs in 12 innings and are 3½ games off the pace.

Buffalo disposed of Toronto 7-5 in 10 innings Thursday night in a see-saw game with both teams chalking up 14 hits.

Homers by Frank Carswell and Bill Tuttle in the 10th gave the Bisons the sweep at Toronto. Paul Foytack, the last of five Buffalo pitchers, won his second game in two nights. Jack Wallaesa hit a three-run homer for the Bisons in the first, his 23rd circuit clout of the campaign.

IMPRESSIVE APPEARANCE

Outfielder Bob Boyd, recalled by Chicago White Sox of the American League, made an impressive farewell appearance with the Leafs by hitting safely in five trips to the plate. He clouted a triple and four singles.

The Royals used three reliefers to edge the A's at Ottawa for an even split in a four-game series. Art Fabbro, the second of four Montreal hurlers, won. Outfielder Sandy Amoros hit his 18th homer for Montreal.

Third baseman Hector Rodriguez cracked a ninth-inning double to drive in the tying run and lashed another double in the 12th to knock in the winning run as the Chiefs edged the Wings at Rochester.

Baltimore Orioles edged the tail-end Cubs 2-1 at Springfield on Arch Wilson's fifth-inning single. Dick Starr started for Baltimore and got credit for the win, although relieved in the sixth.

BRANTFORD (CP) — Marlene Stewart Thursday became the first woman to equal women's par at the Brantford Golf and Country Club as she carded a 75 to lead a field of 154 women in a ladies' invitation tournament here.

The 19-year-old Fonthill girl who recently won the British Women's Open birdied the fifth and 12th holes in mastering the long, 18-hole course. She missed breaking par when her 20-foot putt on the final hole rimmed the cup.

Mary Gay of Kitchener shot an 85 for second spot.

MEXICAN STAR Melita Ramirez successfully defended her Canadian singles tennis championship at Toronto recently. She defeated challengers from the United States, Australia and Canada in the Dominion classic and proved a popular champion.

White Sox Pounce On Boston To Victory of 17-1

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

A week of watchful waiting opens today in the American League. New York will be waiting for the Chicago bubble to burst and the White Sox will be watching to see that it doesn't. These two clubs—the defending champion and the one genuine contender—go their separate ways against second division also-rans for the next seven days, then collide head-on in a vital four-game series in Yankee Stadium starting a week from today. The White Sox, 4½ games behind and deep enough into the season that even a temporary let-down could prove fatal, face a considerably tougher task than the Yankees.

They stop off in Washington tonight for the first of four single games with the Senators, whom they've beaten nine out of 14 so far. But the next jump is Philadelphia and the Athletics have won 10 of their 15 games with Chicago.

Meanwhile, the Yankees will be feasting on the hapless St. Louis Browns (12 victories in 14 games) and the almost-as-lowly Detroit Tigers (10 out of 15).

EVEN YANKS PAUSE

The way the Sox played Thursday in Boston was enough to make even the ardent Yankee fans pause. The Chicagoans blasted lefty Mel Parnell, a 14-game winner, for six hits and seven runs in three innings, then pounded two second-line throwers for 15 more hits and 10 more runs. The final count was 17-1 on 21 hits, the Sox' heaviest barrage of the season. It was their third straight triumph in Boston and dropped the Red Sox to fourth place.

The Yankees bowed to Cleveland 4-3 when Bill Glynn tripled after Wally Westlake walked in the eighth inning. Early Wynn picked up the victory in relief. He's the first man this season to beat the champions three times.

Washington's Chuck Stubbs checked Detroit until Walt Dropo drilled a three-run homer in the ninth, but the Senators still won handily 7-4 In the only night game in either league, Philadelphia Athletics scored five times in the second inning for a 5-3 decision over St. Louis Browns. Gus Zernial of the A's hit his 23rd homer.

SLICE OFF GAME

Milwaukee sliced a game off Brooklyn's imposing National League lead by whipping New York Giants 5-0 while the Dodgers were bowing to Chicago Cubs for the first time in seven games, 3-2. Brooklyn still holds a seven-game bulge over the second-place Braves.

Enos Slaughter, who was playing pro ball before a lot of the Pirates were born, led St. Louis Cardinals to a 10-4 victory over Pittsburgh. He collected two doubles and two singles in four tries and ran his unbroken hit string to seven.

Del Ennis drove in six runs with four hits, including a pair of home runs, as Philadelphia Phillies outslugged Cincinnati 17-8.

BLANKS GIANTS

Lew Burdette became the third Milwaukee pitcher in four days to blank the Giants. He scattered six hits while his mates routed Sal Maglie with three runs in the first inning. The loss pushed the Giants into second division.

A home run by Ralph Kiner with two on in the first inning gave the Cubs their victory over Brooklyn. Chicago's infield almost threw the game away with three errors which led to the two unearned Brooklyn runs. But Bob Rush posted his fifth victory despite the sieve-like defence.

Harvey's Century Highlight Against Surrey

LONDON (Reuters)—A century racked up by young left-hander Neil Harvey—his ninth of the tour—was the highlight of Australia's first innings at bat against Surrey in an exhibition cricket match Thursday.

The tourists passed Surrey's total of 209 for eight declared for the loss of only two wickets. At the close they had scored 327 for nine wickets to lead by 118 with one wicket in hand.

Harvey played a brilliant innings for 113. With Lindsay Hassett, he put on 117 in 70 minutes for the third wicket.

Close of play scores in Thursday's first class matches:

Surrey 209 for eight declared, Australian Tourists 327 for nine.

Middlesex 300 and 20 for two, Hampshire 152.

Lancashire 265 and 262 for eight, Worcestershire 191.

Essex 392 for six declared, Somerset 175 and 147. Essex won by an innings and 70 runs.

Canoe Regatta Opens Near Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's 1953 two-day paddling classic—the 53rd annual Canadian Canoe Association championship regatta—opens today on the quiet waters of Mooney's Bay course near Ottawa.

Four 10,000-metre events will get the regatta under way while 17 events are carded for Saturday. Close to 500 paddlers, representing 17 clubs, will be out to cop individual honors and the regatta championship. The club that compiles the most points is awarded the association "burgee," emblematic of club supremacy.

Lloyd Rice, 25-year-old Toronto textile cutter, will probably be one of the busiest blade-wielders at Mooney's Bay. Rice, who paced Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club last year to their first championship in 39 years, captured two of the four 10,000-metre events and today will be defending those honors.

OTHER EVENTS

It was the first time in CCA history that a paddler had taken two 10,000-metre events in the same day. Rice captured the 10,000-metre double blade single in a kayak and the 10,000-metre single blade single.

The other two 10,000-metre events to be run off today are the single blade tandem and the double blade tandem.

Five clubs are entered from Montreal, three from Toronto, two from Ottawa and one each from Carleton Place, Ont., Gananoque, Ont., Lachine, Que., Trois-Rivieres, Que., Quebec City, Sudbury, Ont., and Winnipeg.

Pros Take Over In Millar Open

TORONTO (CP)—For a while Thursday it looked as if the amateurs might have a chance in the opening medal play of the Millar Trophy tournament at the suburban Islington Golf Club. However, the chips-down match play between the 32 qualifiers saw the pros begin ripping Islington's par-72 course severely.

No mention was made of Alf Hill, Peterborough Golf Club's pro.

Willie Lamb of Toronto Lambton topped the medal round on a 68 with Gord Brydson of Toronto Mississauga second on a 70 and Gord DeLaat of Weston third with 71, tied with Bob Lamb of Toronto Summit and Murray Tucker of Toronto Scarboro.

Willie Lamb continued to share honors in match play by downing Hal Butler of Oshawa one up while Wib Gooderson of Orillia clipped DeLaat one up. Gooderson came through with seven birdies and two bogies.

Bob Gray of Scarboro was in good form, shooting a four-under-par 68 to sideline Bob Burns of Cherry Hill, three and two, while Brydson ousted Lou Cumming of Toronto, four and three. Bill Kerr of Beaconsfield knocked out Norm Himes of Kitchener Westmount, four and three.

Duke Adams of Brampton came through with a one-up victory over George Clifton of Niagara-on-the-Lake. Merv Costello of Renfrew won two-up over Stan Karman of Dundas and Al Balding of Oakville downed Stan Kolar of Ottawa three and one.

Furgol Leading In All-American Golf Tournament

CHICAGO (AP)—Marty Furgol, a perennial contender but seldom a winner, blasted a pair of 33s for a brilliant six-under-par 66 Thursday to wheel to the front in the $30,000 All-American golf tournament at Tam O'Shanter.

Furgol, of Los Angeles, was just one member in a wrecking crew that plastered par 36-36—72 on the 6,900-yard Tam course.

Among first-round hotshots in the scramble for $3,420 top prize included Doug Ford, Harrison N.Y., with 33-34—67; Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N.Y., 35-32—67; Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind., 35-33—68; Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., 35-33—68; and Ed Furgol of Clayton, Mo., Lloyd Mangrum, the Tam O'Shanter representative, and Walter Burkemo, the 1953 U.S. PGA champion from Franklin, Mich., each with 69.

"It was the best golf I ever shot," said the 35-year-old Furgol.

Babe Zaharias, making her first tournament appearance since her cancer operation April 17, posted a 45-37—82 in the All-American Women's Open. Feminine par is 38-38—76.

"I felt like quitting after the first nine," said Babe. "But that closing 37 made me feel real good."

Betty Hicks of Culver City, Cal., shot a regulation 76 to take the first round Women's Open lead. She held a one-stroke edge over Patty Berg and Betty Jameson.

Tam O'Shanter's Club champion, John Levinson, topped the All-American men's amateur division with a sparkling 68.

Co-Op Business Shows Increase At Warkworth

WARKWORTH (ENS). — Reg. McCann and Gordon McGee were elected directors of the Warkworth Co-operative for three years at the first annual banquet and meeting.

Alex McComb was elected for two years to fill the vacancy created by the death of Harry Doxtator.

Manager Harry McMillan reported an increased volume of business and cautioned members to try to pay cash for purchases so earnings could be increased.

C. Croswell, in his auditor's report, said that sales of $130,000 and a gross margin of 17 per cent was exceptional for a Co-op in its first year. Savings for the year amounted to $2,316.

A patronage return of three per cent was passed by the 70 members present. G. H. Ward, CA, was appointed auditor for the coming year.

Arthur Musgrave, a director of the United Co-operators Insurance Association, was guest speaker.

ECONOMIC DEMOCRACIES

He stated that Co-ops are economic democracies in which members can control their own purchases and finances through their locals and other co-operative endeavors, such as co-operative insurance companies, medical associations and credit societies.

He challenged the meeting to do $200,000 volume in 1953-54. If Warkworth could do this for five years, he claimed, the members would own their own business 100 per cent.

The membership fee was lowered to $5.00. Chairman for the election of directors was Claude Billinger.

Head-table guests included the directors, the Rev. T. E. and Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Musgrave, Clinton Croswell, Claude Billinger, and Rod Blackwell, United Co-operative members.

The Codrington WA catered for the banquet in the town hall. Lucky draw winners were Stewart Atkinson, Kenneth Maybee, Mrs. Clarence Potter, Gordon McKee, Mrs. D. Honey and John Goodfellow.

Angry Bee Lands Horse Takes Off For Short Flight

CAMPBELLFORD ENS) — Babe, a Campbellford milk horse, livened things up along her milk route on Thursday morning when she took off on a short-lived tour of the town at a speed that would have made some of the finer bred trotters sit up and take notice.

A bee is blamed for Babe's sudden flight. It apparently stung her—right on Canrobert St., while the driver, Charles Shaw, stepped out of the wagon to deposit a couple of quarts of milk on a nearby verandah.

CAUGHT BY BRIDGE

Babe dashed off down Canrobert St. and turned the corner onto Inkerman St. She continued on until she got the wagon tangled up with a bridge over a small creek. It was at the bridge that Mr. Shaw finally caught up with his steed. He had galloped in hot pursuit but was unable to coax the horse to stop.

Babe surveyed the scattered milk cases and broken bottles at the scene and allowed herself to be led quietly back to her stall at the dairy. Mr. Shaw continued on his route—with a truck.

Rare Vacation

TORONTO (CP) — Charles Del Grande, proprietor of the barber shop in the Star Building here who recently returned from his first two-week vacation in 17 years, thinks the holiday is the greatest invention since the haircut. His last vacation was his honeymoon. It's not that he didn't want a holiday, but "there just wasn't time."

Liberals Hold Garden Party At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD —(ENS). — John James, Liberal candidate for Durham County was guest speaker at a garden party held at the home of W. A. Hogle of Campbellford on Wednesday evening. The garden party, under the auspices of the Liberal Ladies' Association of Campbellford attracted an estimated 800 people.

GROUNDS ILLUMINATED

Strings of light illuminated the grounds, and seats were placed conveniently around the large lawns.

Mrs. P. H. Macmillan, president of the Ladies' Organization, convened the program, which consisted of vocal solos by Art Dollock, accordion solos by Gerald Taylor and a cornet solo by Ernie Archer.

Dr. Fred G. Robertson, Liberal candidate for Northumberland, spoke briefly. He told of his personal interest in obtaining the best for his people. He stated that although the new industry (Flight Equipment Limited) was small at the present time, there were possibilities for expansion as time goes on.

Dr. Robertson introduced John James, who spoke highly of Dr. Robertson. Mr. James urged the people to put forth every effort to see that he was elected on August 10. He stated that if, as the opposition says, the Liberal Government is so terrible, why is it that we have such things as unemployment insurance, and why is employment as high as it has ever been in history?

OPTIMISTIC OF FUTURE

The Canadian dollar, he said, is now the best in the world. The standard of living in Canada is high, and industries are coming to Canada because they are optimistic of the future. He said farmers now are more prosperous than any farmers in the world. He attributed the cuts in taxes and the reduction of the national debt to the Liberal party.

Mr. James added that a million and one half dollars were spent annually in Durham County for old age pensions and for family allowances alone.

Mayor Jack Burnett of Cobourg spoke briefly urging the people to give their full support to Dr. Robertson.

Mrs. P. H. Macmillan thanked Mr. Hogle for the use of his home, and he, in turn, thanked all who had helped to make the garden party a success.

During the evening, refreshments, hot dogs and sandwiches were sold at the refreshment booth, and at the conclusion, the guests were served a lunch in the dining room of Mr. Hogle's home.

Elaborate Plans For Burlington Bridge Frost Says

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario has "most elaborate plans" for a high-level brdige costing more than $16,000,000 to replace the lift structure at Burlington near Hamilton which was wrecked some time ago when hit by a freighter. The Burlington bridge connects parts of the Queen Elizabeth way.

In a joint statement Thursday, Premier Frost and Highways Minister Doucett said: "The province has not only most elaborate plans for a high-level bridge at Burlington to take care of road traffic, but has acquired at least $500,000 worth of property and is ready to take possession and start work."

The statement was issued to offset what Mr. Frost and Mr. Doucett said were contentions by Liberal candidates in the Aug. 10 federal election that the province is the cause of the delay in starting the new bridge.

"Federal contributions to this work, which includes an overpass over navigable water into a very important port, have not been settled," the statement said. "The province feels that this work should be on a basis of equal contribution.

"We have been advised by Ottawa, however, that in view of there being an acting minister in charge of this department, that the matter will remain in abeyance until after the election."

Boat Owners Warned Against Speeding

STIRLING (ENS)—Owners of speed boats on Oak Lake have been warned regarding the danger of operating these boats at high speed on such a small lake.

Complaints have been received by provincial police. The inspector has asked the co-operation of such boat owners in reducing the speed and operating in areas away from swimmers and other boats. He pointed out that reckless operation of motor boats on inland waters is contrary to the marine act and noted that provincial police officers would patrol the Oak Lake area in the future.

A sum of $300 was unanimously voted to the United Church building fund. Small miscellaneous grants during the course of the year totalled more than $400.

5 Fliers Face Court-Martial

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF said Thursday that five members of the RCAF at Lachine, Que., have been charged with stealing public funds and will face court-martial.

They are LAC. J. J. O. Lambert, 21, Grande Rivier, Que., LAC. J. E. P. A. LaPorte, 30, Montreal; LAC. C. T. Howard, 30, Victoria; and two brothers, AC. C. Therien, 20, and LAC. J. Y. R. Therien, 18, both of St. Remi, Que.

The RCAF said all five were taken into custody last week. The date of the court-martial was not known here.

The air force said earlier this week the five were arrested following an audit of financial accounts at the Lachine air base.

It said about $4,500 had been misappropriated, and that a large part of the money had been recovered.

Unofficial reports put the amount involved as high as $20,000.

The Montreal Gazette in a news story quoted an informant as saying that pay cheques of the men involved were increased, and cheques made out in the names of fictitious wing commanders or air commodores to cover the difference.

Get Government Out Is Cry Of Country, Fraser Claims

COBOURG (ENS).—Pinch-hitting for John Diefenbaker, who was prevented from attending by plane delay on his trip from the Maritimes, Gordon K. Fraser, PC candidate for Peterborough, spoke Thursday at a Conservative rally in support of H. O. Taylor of Cobourg, candidate in Northumberland. Chairman was Gordon Flint of Trenton.

"Everybody is talking 'change,' from one end of the country to the other. Get that Liberal government out of Ottawa. That is the cry from coast to coast," declared Mr. Fraser in his opening remarks.

The Liberals were on the defensive for the first time in their long tenure of office at Ottawa, Mr. Fraser said. Their record smelled. It had no management, system or method in its operation and it was time to put in a new governemnt.

George Drew had outlined a 16-point platform. Back in the days of his political campaign in Ontario, he had outlined a 22-point program and carried it out to completion, until now Ontario was the banner province of the Dominion. He can do the same for Canada in his 16-point programe. Mr. Drew can cut five hundred million dollars from the taxes. Churchill said he would cut taxes and his opponents threw up their hands in alarm and said Britain would go broke, but she didn't. Truman said it was impossible when Eisenhower said he would cut defence spending, but Eisenhower did it because he knew where the money was being wasted, and in the present case the Conservatives knew where money was being wasted and would do something about it, Mr. Fraser said.

The Prime Minister had said Drew would form a coalition party from the splinters and this showed that the Liberals were worried about the outcome of the election.

The Liberals were uttering absolute falsehoods when they said that to cut five hundred millions in taxes would mean cutting down on social welfare benefits. It could be handled by cutting out the waste that has been going on, Mr. Fraser said.

He went on to say that on one government job the architects' fees were $400,000 but the contract was pigeon-holed. Another job which cost $49,000 for construction, had $48,000 in achitects' fees. Down at Ottawa, the government spent $194,000 for fill alone at the new statistical building. These were among the extravagances which were piling up the cost of running the country," he declared.

GOODFELLOW SPEAKS

William Goodfellow, minister of welfare for the province, lashed out at the Liberal party in a manner that was rather unusual for Mr. Goodfellow. He declared that the Liberals were absolutely falsifying things when they intimated that a Conservative government at Ottawa would discontinue the mothers' allowances and other social welfare sevices. The Ontario government paid 100% of the mothers' allowances as well as other social services. It was intimidation of a low order to threaten the recipients of public welfare assistance with cessation of these benefits. At the last election (1949), a poll was placed in the counties home for the aged at Cobourg, said Mr. Goodfelow and he hoped that this time the Liberals would not be bribing the old gentlemen with cigars, and the old ladies with chocolates, to get their votes.

"If I ever had to set up a poll in the home for the aged it will be time for me and my party to get out of politics," said Mr. Goodfellow. He said that he knew Mr. Drew well as a man who was best qualified to be prime minister. It was disgusting to hear public men disaparage him in the way that they did, he said.

Mr. Taylor said that if the federal government had done its duty and imposed a dumping duty, the Bradford Dyers in Cobourg would not have closed its plant. At Colborne they had built a $200,000 post office, too big for the village and jammed it in between a service station and a store with no room for landscaping.

Ghost Of Priest Returned To Celebrate Mass

By BERTRAND THIBAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Legends are growing up around some of Quebec's 17th and 18th century churches.

Typical is one told by a former Quebec premier, P.J.O. Chauveau, in his book "Souvenirs et Legendes," published in 1877.

The ghost of a Lotbiniere county parish priest returned every night at midnight for 100 years to celebrate a mass he had neglected to celebrate during his lifetime.

One night, the sacristan saw the apparition Terrified, he reported the affair to his parish priest who informed his Bishop. Returning from Quebec where he had called on the bishop, the parish priest begged the sacristan to be in the church at midnight to assist the ghost in celebrating the mass.

ASSISTS GHOST

That night, the sacristan locked himself in the church. On the stroke of midnight, he saw the ghostly priest approaching the altar in liturgical robes.

The trembling sacristan knelt beside the phantom priest and pronounced the responses to the mass. On completion of the ceremony, he walked to the sacristy followed by the priest. The ghost removed the mass vestments, bowed in gratitude, and vanished forever.

Another legend is connected with the construction of St. Laurent parish church on the Island of Orleans, near Quebec.

The men working on the church, so goes the legend, complained that the task of transporting stones was too arduous.

STRENGTH OF FOUR

The builder promised the men a black horse of such strength that it could drag the load of four horses.

The following day the builder showed up, leading the most beautiful horse ever seen on the island. He told the workers to work him mercilessly but not to remove the bridle.

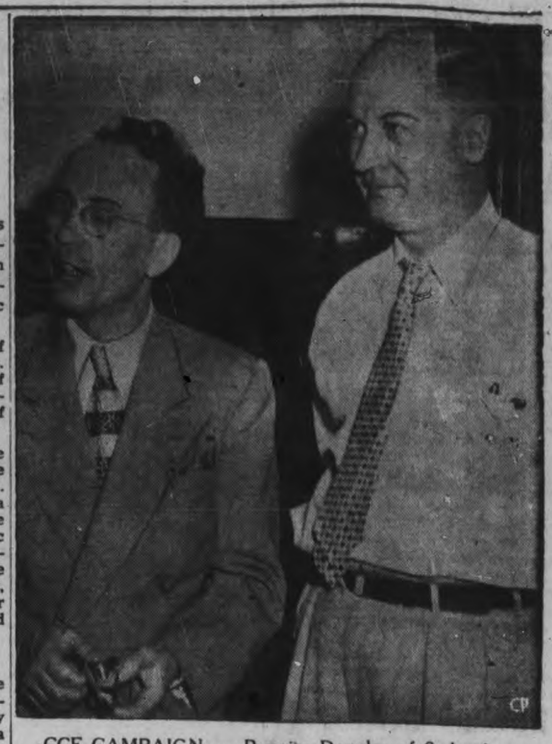
A youth was placed in charge of the animal and work proceeded at a fast pace until the animal became thirsty. The youth removed the bridle to enable the horse to drink and it leaped into a creek where it became transformed into an eel and swam away.

The legend goes on to say that the church was completed but for the placing of one stone The church was demolished in 1864.

SHARK-CATCHER—Shark fisherman Lester Fleet, 18 (right), is almost dwarfed by the 1,000-pound killer he caught off Louisbourg, N.S. It is not the Forchu Rammer which has been terrorizing the Cape Breton coast, Fleet says. The shark measures 11 feet three inches. With Fleet is a friend, Gordon Bussey.

Party Makes Prospecting Trip In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—In Quebec's northland, in the uninhabited region around Clearwater lake, an enthusiastic party is busy at prospecting, exploration, scientific study and sport.



Clearwater lake, the centre of operations, is about 40 miles long. It is roughly 800 miles north of Montreal and due east of Richmond Gulf on the eastern side of Hudson Bay.

Some of the party are from the United States, interested in the possibility of iron ore locations. When the expedition returns in a month or six weeks there may be important information for Quebec as a result of the scientific research. There likely will also be information about giant lake trout, speckled trout, the arctic charr and the little-known golden-colored trout.

HAVE LICENCES

Members of the party all have prospectors' licences and paraphernalia for staking claims. They have formed themselves into a company—Clearwater Exploration, Ltd.

Members of the party include Rae Reid of Guelph, a pilot; Jim Harquail, Toronto; and George H. Carpenter, executive editor of the Montreal Gazette who conducts an outdoor column under the pen name Izaak Hunter.

CCF CAMPAIGN — Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan (left) visits Brantford to speak on behalf of Jack Gillies (right) CCF candidate in Brantford constituency in the August 10 federal election. Premier Douglas accused the Liberal party of having failed to implement a promise made 34 years ago to introduce a national health insurance plan. He said the CCF hospital care plan in Saskatchewan has provided "more hospital beds in proportion to population than any other province in Canada."

B.C. Stumping Northwest In Big Pipeline Campaign

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia supporters of a natural gas pipeline running from the Peace River area to Vancouver have started to stump the Pacific Northwest states to drum up interest in the proposed project.

For the pipeline to be economically feasible, it will also have to deliver gas to the populous states of Washington and Oregon. B.C. business men are trying to convince the Americans they will be better off with Canadian gas than that from United States sources.

W. C. Mainwaring, vice-president of B.C. Electric, has fired the latest round in the battle of words between the rival pipelines.

He journeyed to Yakima, Wash., Thursday night to tell business men attending a joint service club meeting that natural gas from Canada will provide almost as much power for the Pacific Northwest as two Grand Coulee hydro dams.

GREAT FACTOR

An abundant supply of gas, he said, "will be one of the greatest factors in the ultimate development of the entire Pacific Northwest."

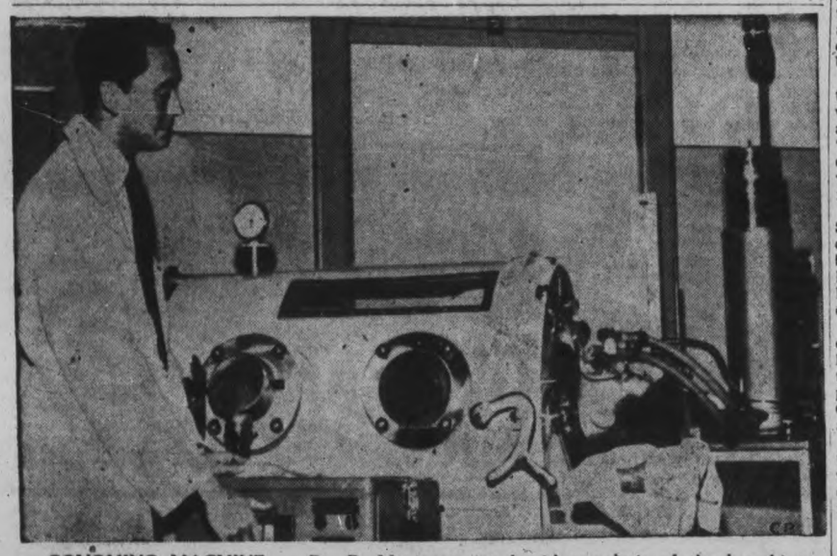
Mr. Mainwaring spoke in support of Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., which now is testifying before the federal power commission at Washington on its pipeline application.

While he spoke, service club members had before them full-page newspaper advertisements by the Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corp., which wants to bring gas from New Mexico and Colorado. The advertisements claimed that if the U.S. took gas from Canada it "could become an economic vassal" of Canada.

Mr. Mainwaring told club members his company has been exporting electricity to Washington state for several years without controversy.

"We Canadians would like to sell more of our natural resource products to the United States because at the present time our purchases from the U.S., approximately $3,000,000,000 a year, are $500,000,000 more than Canada sells to the U.S."

Car Crash Kills Two



DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) Two men were killed and two others severely injured Thursday when the car in which they were riding went out of control and smashed into a tree near this centre 60 miles east of Montreal. Dead are Wilbrod Yergeau, 50, of St. Joachim de Courval, driver of the car, and his brother, Urgel, 45, of nearby Marcotte.

To Navigate Thames

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two Royal Canadian Navy "Fairmiles" will voyage up the Thames river to Chatham Saturday as part of a program to promote navigation on the waterway. Immigrant Drowned

TORONTO (CP)—Police dragged a large pond at nearby Richmond Hill Thursday night for the body of Arne Johnson, a 21-year-old Danish immigrant who was drowned during an evening swim.

COUGHING MACHINE — Dr. R. M. Cherniack, of the physiology and medical research department, Manitoba Medical College, switches on the "cough machine" during a test in the Princess Elizabeth Hospital, Winnipeg. The patient inside the iron lung has a complication of poliomyelitis associated with paralysis of the breathing muscles. He has recovered control of the muscles, but is unable to take deep breaths. The machine, called an exsufflator, an artificial coughing machine, is the only one of its kind in Canada and was loaned by Columbia University.

16 Canadian Soldiers Arrive From Korea

VANCOUVER (CP)—A draft of 16 Canadian soldiers returning on leave arrived Thursday aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines flight from Tokyo.

The soldiers include: Capt. (Matron) E. B. Pense and Sgt. E. C. Byers, both Kingston; Gnr. A. D. Steeper, Parkhill; Pte. R. M. Davis Kirkland Lake.

New Pattern Of Society

LONDON (CP)—Ernest Watkins, British author and radio commentator, says he thinks Canada will carry the "torch lit by Europe" farther than any other country.

Just back from a three-month visit, Watkins said in a BBC broadcast he is convinced a new pattern of society is growing in Canada, something different, fresh, exciting—not just a copy of the United States.

One big difference, he said, is that U. S. industrial techniques were developed mainly to satisfy a home market, making her a "self-regarding" country. Canada, on the other hand, received her view of the world, as had Britain, from international trade.

"One might say that the United States is learning about the rest of the world reluctantly, lest she be hurt if she does not. Canada has a more positive reason for learning—she will starve if she does not."

Difference No. 2 was the American revolution. Americans were left with a belief that they had to throw off the yoke of Europe, particularly Britain, by violence. Canada grew to freedom naturally, as a child grows.

"Canada is the one country in the Americas of European stock which has become a nation without fear of Europe, without resentment of Europe."

Jailed For Cruelty

PERTH (CP)—Magistrate R. A. Jamieson Thursday sentenced Lionel Easton, 19, of nearby Lanark to three days in jail and a $25 fine for throwing inflammable fluid on a live skunk whose fur was aflame.

Man 53, Plans Lake Erie Swim

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—A 53-year-old grandfather plans to swim through Lake Erie waters next Monday in an attempt to be the first to cross from Point Pelee, Ont., to nearby Cedar Point.

U. S. Coast Guard officials said the distance between the two points is 30¼ miles.

William Sadlo, a Brooklyn, N.Y., swimming instructor, hopes to make the swim in about 18 hours, Cedar Point resort officials said Thursday.

He will plunge into Canadian waters at 3 a.m. EDT Monday, they said, and will try to reach American soil by 8 p.m.

Sadlo's sponsor and coach is Patrick V Roach of Toronto, who will accompany the swimmer in a rowboat.

Top Oarsman Dies Following Accident

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald Gordon (Danny) Boal, 47, prominent Ottawa business man and sportsman died in hospital Thursday from injuries suffered in a car accident Wednesday.

Mr. Boal was one of the top oarsmen in Canada and for many years was coach of the Ottawa Rowing Club. He competed for Canada at two Olympics and in the 1930 British Empire Games. He coached many winning crews in the Canadian Henley.

He was vice-president of Ottawa Business Consultants Ltd.

He was fatally injured when his car left the road on a sharp curve, rolled into a 20-foot ravine and pinned him underneath.

Child Fatally Injured

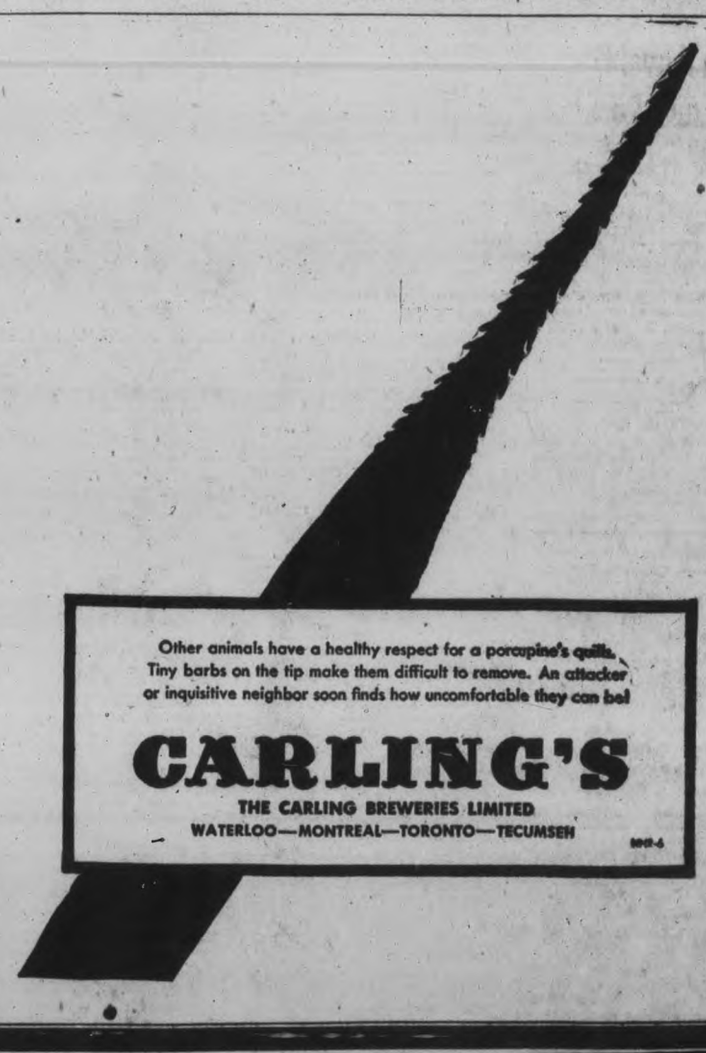
BELLEVILLE (CP) — Sharon McCormick, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCormick of RR 6, Belleville, died in hospital Thursday of injuries received earlier in an auto accident. The child was in her mother's arms in a car driven by Mrs. Elizabeth Greatrix when it went out of control, hit a ditch, then a telephone pole. The child was thrown against the windshield.

Last Of Patients Will Be Discharged

IN KOREA (CP)—Canadian brigade headquarters announced Thursday that the last two of 87 members of the Royal 22nd Regiment who suffered food poisoning will be discharged from hospital soon.

Headquarters announced Tuesday that the men suffered poisoning just before the Korean ceasefire became effective. The outbreak was attributed to contaminated ham served Monday.

Judge Rules AgainstDamages



TORONTO (CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court judge Thursday ruled in effect that an employee who takes time for coffee or tea does so at his or her own convenience and so cannot claim damages under the Workmen's Compensation Act for injuries suffered during the rest period.

Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly dismissed Mrs. Mary Lachance's claim for damages because of negligence. He found there had been no proof of negligence on the part of Murphy-Gamble Limited, Ottawa department store. In the event of appeal, he assessed damages at $4,597.

Evidence was that Mrs. Lachance, returning from having a cup of tea, slipped on a waxed floor and suffered a broken right arm. She and her husband, Philip, claimed damages totalling $17,649.

Selling of Milk a Paramount Job For Dairy Industry....Hereford Club Plans Exhibit at International Plowing Match....Regional Swine Show at Oshawa Cancelled....Bus Trip For 4-H Clubs Wed., Aug. 19.

"Let's Really Sell Milk" is the title of a challenging article in the new issue of Country Gentleman.

Owners of dairy herds, seriously concerned about their industry and their income, should read it. John Bird, the author, asserts that "there is an almost unlimited opportunity to "sell" more milk". The proposal is that farmers should put their efforts into selling more than they ever imagined while they were content to be merely producers.

The Examiner has been publishing that kind of story, including the Gaylor Hauser articles on the beguiling theme of live longer, look younger. This latest contribution leads in the same direction, and suggests a switch in stress from butterfat to the content of minerals in the phrase 'solids not fats'. Instead of bemoaning edible oil competition, that they should virtually start John Bird tells dairy farmers from scratch and do a thorough job of selling their products on the basis of their merits.

MORE SALES-MINDED

Milton Hult, director of the U.S. National Dairy Council, affirms: "There never has been a time when the industry was in such a ferment, or so sales minded."

The potential market across the border has expanded tremendously, from 132 million possible customers in 1940 to 159 million today. An official of the American Dairy Association is quoted: "We have to prove to the consumers that they "need" more dairy products, that dairy products taste good and are good for them, and that dairy products are 'bargains in food value'."

"We haven't scratched the surface" says a man who has studied the problem long and intensively, Prof. Roland W. Bartlett of the University of Illinois. He estimated that by 1960 the consumption of market milk and cream can be increased 20 per cent per capita. And, he adds, "if the dairy industry becomes really aggressive, it should be more like 30 per cent."

Herrell DeGraff, professor of food economics at Cornell's School of Nutrition, calculates that if only one person out of four used an extra glass of milk daily, there would be no milk left to go into surplus butter.

The article touches on the "flight from fat", warns that there are no 'skimmilk cows', and advises that the swing should not go too far in the direction of non-fat solids.

MUST PAY FOR IT

The pith of John Bird's survey is in the need of developing sales.

"The truth is that the dairy industry hasn't spent the money needed to get the story of its products across to consumers. For example, dairymen (U.S.) sell more than $4 billion a year of milk and cream. On the other hand, the advertising budget for the national voice of the dairyman, the American Dairy Association, is now around $2 million a year—only 1/20th of 1 per cent.

More than five times as much has been spent in a year to advertise oleomargarine. Many firms making soap, whisky or breakfast food spent 6 to 12 times more than the dairy industry in promoting their products.

WISCONSIN EXAMPLE

The campaign to sell milk started in Wisconsin where producers got together and promoted a new, expanded program under which the American Dairy Association would, within two years, build up a $10 million advertising schedule.

The old 60-day per year set-aside of 4c per cwt. on milk and 1c per lb. on butterfat which finances the ADA, would be enlarged with a year around assessment of 2c per cwt. on milk and ½c per lb. on butterfat."

The dairy farmer who cannot perceive the dietary value of the calcium content in milk is not likely to be fired by any articles on market opportunities and sales campaigns. It is just fluid to them.

"Only 25 per cent of adults drink milk regularly. There are loads of scientific proofs that there is no better health drink in the world, for old or young, than a glass of milk.

The trouble is, consumers have not heard about it. The ADA aim is to tell them about it—day after day. C. C. and S. M. Furnas write in Man and His Food: "Calcium deficiency may explain a great deal of 'poor to middlin' health ... displayed by people who have been dead on the job for 20 years and never realized it."

And the clincher pointed out by Dr. DeGraff is this: Milk and whole-milk foods are the only practical source of the calcium we need. A quart of milk daily—costing less than a package of cigarettes or a bottle of beer—will supply that calcium, plus sales-building extras of valuable proteins, minerals and vitamins."

Every barn could be converted into a dairy products sign board if the herd owners were convinced of the value of their industry to humanity to say nothing of its palatability.

So far there has been little or no mention of the amount of the Canadian dairy set-aside in June. If there were more bus trips to Wisconsin to enquire into the selling of milk it might be more profitable than delving into methods of production.

V. S. Milburn said at Nicholls Oval the other day that the Ontario farmer has the best know-how in the world.

Hereford Club Meeting

Archie Clysdale and Milton Cornish were appointed by the Eastern Ontario Hereford Club Monday night to select four mature heifers, probably two to three years old, for display at the International Plowing Match at Cobourg. They will look for show type and uniformity in size.

Alan R. Linton and Mervin Cochrane volunteered to spend some time daily at the exhibit.

Homer Hawkey was chairman of the meeting in the office of the Department of Agriculture and William Mood was secretary. Fifteen of the members attended. Some of them drove 40 miles, and stayed until nearly 11 p.m.

The Club is maintaining its interest in the boys and girls, 45 of them, who acquired heifers that are to be brought out for display and competition at Norwood Fair. Dave Kerr is giving a championship trophy. Some special prizes have already been offered, and others are expected. The method of their allocation was discussed at some length.

A picnic Saturday, August 15 at Col. F. E. Birdsall's farm is particularly for the juniors. Ontario Association crests have been received and will be presented. Mr. Mood and Mr. Cornish were appointed to arrange a program.

Tremendous Farm Job

The harvesting of grain crops extends right across the board, wheat, oats, rye and barley in some of the counties as reported in the weekly review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The general estimate of wheat is "an excellent crop", although a few counties sound a minor note of exception. Yields are 30 to 40 bushels to the acre. The Lanark summary: "crops generally never looked better" is variously repeated.

Barns are full of hay in Grey where "some farmers are leaving fields for pasture because of lack of storage space and help".

Peel says: "Second growth hay crops have come on rapidly, and most farmers' storage space is already filled". A tendency to keep sows is reported here and there on the basis of the satisfactory price of hogs, which have been steady around Stratford at $33.25.

Warm weather has stimulated growth of corn. Pasturage continues good to plentiful, but a few counties "could do with some rain".

This is Northumberland: "The combining of wheat and the spraying of tomatoes is in progress. Much of the hay especially in bales remains to be stored. With community sales not handling swine, the season and the tendency is to let livestock utilize it. Most granaries are empty, and farmers are waiting for fall wheat to carry their hogs and poultry. It appears that barns will be well filled and feed supplies good for next winter."

Straw is "a tremendous crop". Corn and soy beans show much promise in Dundas county and Carleton. Fairly large acreages of timothy seed will be harvested.

In south Cochrane "test plots of Rideau wheat came through the winter with only a small percentage of killing.

In south Simcoe the milk flow has declined, but is still good for this time of the year because of continued good pastures.

Ontario farmers have rarely been faced with such a rush of work with no spacing between haying and the cutting of grain crops.

4-H Club Trip Aug. 19

Details of a 4-H Club bus trip, Wednesday, August 19, have been arranged by Ken Best, and approved by F. C. Paterson. Its purpose is to enable the boys and girls to see a variety of farm establishments in a day's journey.

The program begins with assembly at 8 a.m. at the King St. bus terminal, leading off to the Massey-Harris farms at Milliken. There they will have an opportunity of seeing Holstein and Shorthorn cattle, barn hay-drying, strip cropping and machinery tests.

Lunch will be at Oshawa Park, and at 1 p.m. the buses are due at George McLaughlin's Elmcroft Farm, north of Oshawa.

At 1.45, they arrive at the horse breeding farm of E. P. Taylor, and at 2.30 they come to Heber Down's farm, near Brooklin. These places are in Ontario County.

The first conservation demonstration was quite an agricultural event at Mr. Down's farm about four years ago. Last call will be at the Keith Rynard Farm which can feature a milking parlor and Yorkshire swine. The young people will be home again at 6 p.m. The cost of the trip is two dollars which does not meet the entire expense. President Henry Sharpe, of Peterborough Federation of Agriculture, promised yesterday the association's usual contribution to the financing of the 4-H Club outing.

Some other events on Mr. Best's list for Juniors are:

Judging competition at CNE, September 9.

Judging competition at Junior Farmers' Day at Peterborough Exhibition, September 17. Entries are already arriving at Mr. Paterson's office.

Achievement Day at Norwood Fair, first day, October 10, for Norwood 4-H tractor, grain and calf clubs; and Monday, October 12, Norwood Swine Club, Thanksgiving Day.

Achievement Day for the Forestry Club has not yet been decided. Peterborough 4-H Clubs Achievement Day, Morrow Park, Saturday, September 26.

Total 4-H Club membership is more than 210. Mr. Best was estimating that at least 140 boys and girls would make the trip, in four buses. If more than that number responded, additional accommodation could be arranged.

Care of the young people will be supervised by Mr. Paterson, Mr. Best and club leaders.

THIS EXPANSE OF WILD CARROT, with the fanciful and figurative name of Queen Anne's Lace, provides profusion of attractive bloom near the upland intersection of No. 7 Highway and the 6th line of Otonabee. It delights the eye of passing motorists, but is a burden and bane to the dutiful spirit of County Weed Inspector Melville H. Johnston. Not in that locality particularly, but wherever he comes across it, and that is far too frequently.

A few years ago, several Peterborough farmers, home from a provincial plowing match in western Ontario, told of having seen miles of the carrot, of which, they said gratefully, this county was comparatively free. Here it is, carpeting the roadsides and adjoining fields and visible from a distance up the long slope to the sixth line.

Of course, the Weed Control Act authorizes county municipal agents to destroy noxious weeds in fields and on adjoining road frontage, and assess the cost to the owners of such properties, through their tax bills. That is realistic, but is also too drastic a method of bestirring public opinion to action.

Mr. Nickels' photograph at the right catches the gracefulness of this weed flower and the aptness of the graphic name it has acquired, possibly from the time of Queen Anne. Its petals are so fine they deserve the suggestion of floral filigree, but for all that they come close to the top position in the list of noxious weeds.

Meanwhile, the golden rod is burnishing fresh color and will soon be in full glow, and that raffish fellow, the blue sailor (chiccory) lingers brightly in the rural scene. Ideally, it is advocated, 2,4-D would rid the roadsides of the lot of them, leaving only grass, as in Frank Paterson's color slide of an exemplary Johnston treatment, but what a bare and drab vista would it be without them.

Wild Carrot No Fragile Beauty

Queen Anne's Lace is the frilly name of one of the weeds that worry farmers and the Ontario Department of Agriculture. For all its fragile beauty of flowering along rural roadsides, the wild carrot is more appropriately designated "Devil's Plague" a wild form of the biennial garden carrot.

The department's appeal to farmers to deal with this weed as the enemy of agriculture is quoted as it was issued.

"This persistent weed is another European immigrant that has firmly entrenched itself in our Ontario countryside. To the city dweller, out for a drive in the country, it is a thing of rare beauty with its delicate white flowers brightening the roadsides and fields. To the country resident it is a pest which competes with his pastures and meadows for nourishment from the soil and causes an off-flavor to milk produced by cows eating it.

The carrot shaped leaves are poisonous to some people, though they and its white, flat topped flower clusters which are in evidence from June until late autumn, make it easily recognized. When old, the flower clusters curl up to resemble a bird's nest.

Flowers and seeds are normally produced in the second year of growth and if the plant is prevented from seeding the second year it will die off. That is not the end of the weed unfortunately, as seed already in the ground may germinate after several years and a new crop will spring up to harass the farmer.

If there are only a few plants, and if one has a strong back, hand pulling is recommended. Cutting is also practical but requires persistence as the plant puts out regrowth several times before it finally gives up and dies. Where there are large areas infested with Wild Carrot the land should be plowed and put into a clean cultivated crop for a couple of years before reseeding to grass.

If no clovers are present, chemicals may be used in the eradication of Wild Carrot. One pound of 2,4-D acid per acre applied late in spring will kill most of the current crop. It may be necessary to repeat the applications until all seed in the ground has germinated."

Farm Immigrant To Canada Returns To Hampshire Now Owner Of 7,000 Acres

A master-farmer of 7,000 acres, with more than 100 employees, in Hampshire, England, Rex Paterson turned his beck on western Canada and its agricultural attractions to seek fortune in the homeland he had left as a youth.

Since 1929 has has acquired "a six-figure personal fortune" (in sterling pounds), medals of the Royal Society of Arts and the Royal Agricultural Society, and has 17 dairy herds distributed among seven farms, each with its own management, labor force and equipment.

Of special interest to a Peterborough district farmer is that Mr. Paterson is convinced of the virtues of grassland farming.

His story was recently published in the London Times. He left a farm in Kent to emigrate to Canada when he was 16. He worked on farms and a cattle ranch, ran his own dairy farm in British Columbia, and returend to England in 1925 "convinced that farming opportunities here were gerater than ever they were for a pioneer, provided that one used methods suited to the times and needs. It was a view not widely shared in the depressed 1920's."

NEW START IN 1929

"Paterson was without capital. He fought a hard battle for a chance to try his ideas until in 1929 a dealer put him into a farm for which a suitable tenant could not be found, and gave him three years to pay. In three years he took over another 300 acres. In 1942 he was farming 12,500 acres. Since then the heavier capital requirements of post-war farming, and the difficulty of accumulating adequate working capital under the present taxation have caused him to reduce his holdings to 7,000 acres."

All Mr. Paterson's resources are concentrated on the production of three staples—milk, grass and corn. Last year he produced 611,349 gallons of milk, 3,068 tons of corn, and 7,000 tons of silage.

FLEET OF 80 TRACTORS

His 100 employees use 80 tractors. One man and a semi-skilled assistant or learner look after, feed and milk each herd of 60 to 75 cows. There are carefully calculated production targets and incentive bonuses for all employees.

Of the central office staff of four, one man is concerned exclusively with the collection and analysis of statistics on costs and production. Plans for production and the development of new methods are guided not by hunch but by these figures.

The cows live out summer and winter. They would give more milk if they lived in "cow palaces", but not enough to pay for the palaces. So they live out.

Ten years ago the cows were eating a ton of cake each year in addition to grass and silage. The average British cow still does, but the figures indicated to Mr. Paterson that the cost of cake (since quadruple what it was before the war) was not fully reflected in increased yields, or animal welfare, so—cake-feeding has been progressivey reduced. Last year it was 100 pounds per cow. Milk yields were satisfactory.

Like Henry Ford's early cars, which could be in any color provided it was black, Mr. Patersons' cows can have anything they want to eat, as long as it is grass.

TIME FOR PLANNING

One of his maxims is "I aim always to delegate everything possible, leaving myself to devote particular attention to one problem or another as it arises."

The central office does all the selling and buying, and the manager is free to concentrate on his primary task—production. The farms are divided into 200-acre blocks, each of which supports a dairy herd of 60 to 75 head, or the equivalent number of young stock.

Mr. Paterson is now focusing attention on the growing of grass as a crop, and feeding it, as grass or silage, as the year round staple diet for cattle.

PASTURE MIXTURES

"Those who hurry past his green Hampshire fields may not realize that the "grass" is a mixture of plants as carefully blended as a cocktail to suit the palate of a cow, and that the costs of producing and feeding it are as meticuously assessed and recorded as an industrial chemical process.

The measuring unit for production is the cow-day, that is, the amount of grass and silage

LONG-DISTANCE PEP TALK PEPS UP ALLEGRETTA'S APPETITE—Eddie Rauss put in a long-distance phone call to his Doylestown, Pa., home when he learned that his dog had refused to eat since Eddie had left for the recent Boy Scout Jamboree in Newport Beach, Calif. At right, Allegretta, a German shepherd dog, takes the call along with Eddie's mother, Mrs. Lillian Rauss, and brother, Curtis. After the call the dog ate for the first time without forced feeding. The family hopes the dog will continue to eat when a recording of the talk is played back to him.

Charges Strikers Follow U.S. Lead

TORONTO (CP) — A transport official Thursday accused striking Hamilton truck drivers of "following the dictates of the American teamsters' group who are endeavoring to control Canada's entire distribution system."

The charge came from William Murray, manager of the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau. He was commenting on an announcement that James Hoffa of Detroit, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL), is to be in Hamilton today to address a union meeting.

At Hamilton, Pat Delaney, business agent for the 1,200-member Windsor-Hamilton local, said union representatives from London, Windsor, Chatham and Hamilton are to attend the meeting.

The strike, over wages, nearing the end of its second week, has tied up interurban traffic in southwestern Ontario.

AFL Membership Believed To Now Total 10 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Federation of Labor now is privately counting its strength at more than 10,000,000 members, and expects to announce so officially in a few months.

The AFL's claimed new membership figure, 10,600,000, represents some modest actual gain in worker members. But mostly it reflects a drive to get AFL unions to give an accurate count of what members they already have.

It's been an open secret in labor circles for many years that many AFL unions understate their membership. This saves them money in paying per capita dues.

Thus, while the AFL has been officially saying its membership is just of 8,000,000, the labor department directory of unions published a few weeks ago estimated the AFL actually had 9,500,000 members.

The AFL itself took the bull by the horns this summer. At the AFL executive council's May meeting it was decided that henceforth all unions would report regularly on actual membership and keep the figures up to date.

Considerable progress has been made, it was reported, in getting AFL unions to do this. So much so that a top AFL leader told a reporter that the 10,000,000-member figure will be adopted officially either at the AFL convention at St. Louis in September or, anyway before the first of next year.

Besides further dwarfing the CIO's 5,000,000 or fewer members, the "honest-count" AFL membership will be more lucrative to the parent AFL.

It gets four cents a member a month in per-capita dues. The additional 2,000,000 hitherto - unreported members will mean an added $1,000,000 a year revenue to the AFL. The CIO's monthly intake is 10 cents a member.

Mechanic Wins Fight With Death

PICKERING (CP) — Chester Showers fought a three-minute battle with death, and won.

The 45-year-old mechanic was repairing a combine on a farm near this village eight miles west of Oshawa when his leg became caught in a moving conveyor belt which carries the grain into the separation cylinder.

Showers dropped his tools and pulled with all his strength. He freed himself, but not before his trousers were almost ripped off and his boot was torn from his trapped foot.

Stringent Rules

QUEBEC (CP)—City council has passed a by-law with 26 regulations governing massage parlors. Among them is a stipulation that operators practise "only on persons of their own sex."

Hogs were 2,513 head. Prices were steady at $33.50 for grade A; dressed sows dropped one dollar to $22.

Sheep and lambs totalled 1,577 head. Lambs opened steady at $30 for good ewes and wethers delivered by rail and $29 by trucks. The close was at $28 for tuck lambs with bucks $27 and culls from $17-25. Good sheep $8-10; culls downward to $5.

The Ontario stockyards will be closed Aug. 3, a civic holiday.

Danish Hospital Ship Had 15 Doctors, 45 Nurses

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

INCHON, Korea (CP) — When Pte. Rodney A. Buchanan of Prince Albert, Sask., drove his 2½-ton truck into a Seoul traffic circle he suffered injuries which blacked him out for five days.

Worried Commonwealth doctors at the Commonwealth medical unit in Seoul decided he needed neuro-specialist care, and when he came to Buchanan was "at sea."

Skilled Danish surgeons and attractive Copenhagen nurses were tending him. His meals—when he started taking an interest in eating—were appetizingly prepared in the continental way. For Buchanan, a driver at 25th Canadian infantry brigade headquarters, wa saboard the Danish hospital ship Jutlandia.

ANCHORED OFF COAST

The vessel is anchored off Inchon the port of Seoul, 25 miles west of the RoK capital.

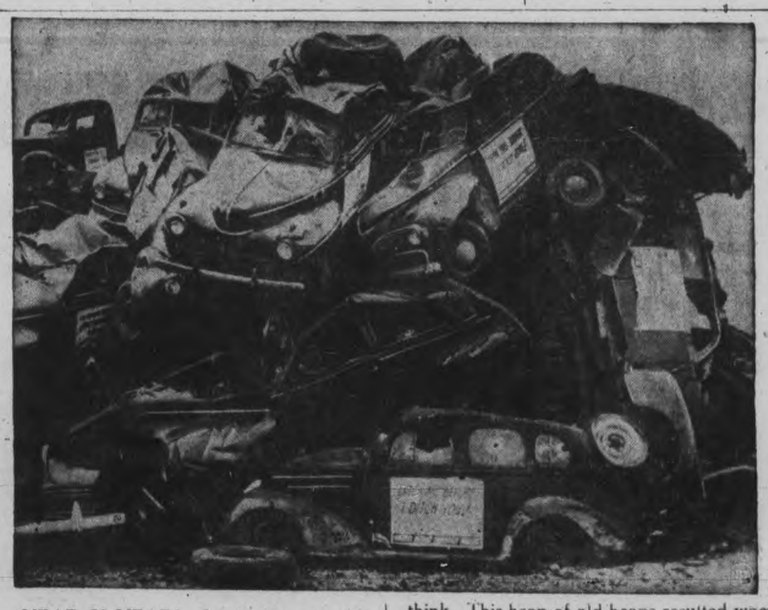
Of the more than 5,000 UN casualties from 20 countries which the Jutlandia has treated, 200 have been Canadians. Additionally, both aboard ship and in clinics ashore, her doctors and nurses have cared for unnumbered thousands of Koreans.

Jutlandia, converted especially from a passenger liner to a hospital ship in 1950 at a cost of $1,000,000, was equipped to handle 350 patients, and in an emergency, 500. Fifty of Buchanan's fellow-patients were RoK soldiers, wounded in recent heavy fighting.

Commodore Kai Hammerich, former president of the Danish Red Cross and a retired commodore of the Royal Danish Navy recalled to duty to command the expedition, implied that inactivity among professional people is as bad for their morale as it is for soldiers.

"We've got to keep them interested, and as work drops off aboard ship we dispatch them in small parties to help out in the hospitals and clinics of Seoul and Inchon."

There are 15 doctors, 45 nurses and 30 attendants in addition to secretaries, masseuses, laboratory assistants, a pharmacist and a chaplain. There are three surgeries equipped for particular types of work, and a dental clinic.



Including the ship's sailing complement of 100, there are more than 200 Danes aboard.

UNIQUE AMBULANCES

Jutlandia has a helicopter deck. Casualties were flown directly from front-line aid stations. The ship's ambulances are two specially-equipped heavy sea-going motor launches.

She has made two trips to Europe, repatriating severely-wounded soldiers, and these voyages, plus her routine journies between Yokosuka, Japan, where she puts in once every two months to replenish stores, Pusan and Inchon, add up to the equivalent of 2½ trips around the world.

Hammerich says that maintaining the Jutlandia in the 2½ years she has been in UN service has cost Denmark $5,000,000.

Ontario Department Of Health Poliomyelitis Bulletin Says—

WHAT DO WE KNOW ABOUT POLIOMYELITIS

If an outbreak of poliomyelitis has occurred, it is now believed that those exposed are most susceptible when—

1. Tonsils and adenoids have recently been removed.
2. Chilling has occurred, such as by swimming in too cold water, playing in wet bathing suits, etc.
3. Too strenuous exercise has been taken. Furthermore among those who develop the disease, the more severe forms of paralysis appear to occur in these individuals who have been over-fatigued, when not well.

Flies are known carriers and breedsrs of many diseases. Play safe—destroy them!

Think of being free, during hot summer days and nights, from biting, dirty flies. No more sticky, unsightly fly paper, no more spraying or swatting. Here at an amazing low cost, is all season relief and health protection for your family, pets and livestock!

House Buyers Show Attraction Of Peterborough

Peterborough is becoming increasingly recognized as an expanding business centre.

The evidence, Herb Mason of Mason & Rishor says, is in the number of enquiries by incoming managers of new businesses and agencies for houses, for rent or sale.

Of the ten houses already sold in the Cordach subdivision on Park St., north of McDonnel St., nearly half of them are for newcomers and mostly in commercial affairs. Others were tenants at the Hatton property, now vanished.

The Cordach houses are not built yet. Some are only getting under way. However, 21 should be completed this fall, and four others will be winter work.

NAME OF HOME

Cordach was the name of the home of the first resident Presbyterian minister in Peterborough, the Rev. Mr. Rogers of St. Paul's Church. As a new residential subdivision it is listed by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, for example, as central. It is almost down town. The bus service is convenient.

Houses are all brick, thoroughly modern, with extras in electrical equipment; five-room bungalows.

There are two styles, one and 1½ storeys respectively; two sets of plumbing in the larger house; heating is forced air, oil-fired.

Cordach was also the home of the late Judge George M. Roger, and finally became the property of the late G. Walter Green.

Ask Construction Bids On Kingston By-pass

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of highways today called for construction bids on three major structures of the Kingston by-pass.

The plans call for an underpass on Monday street, an overhead bridge across the five-track Canadian National Railways right of way and an underpass of Highway 15 at the northeast end of the city.

Construction of the by-pass will add another link to the four-lane expressway, Highway 401, now being built between Windsor and Montreal.

Perfect Weather

Industrial employees are turning their thoughts, many of them their steps, homeward after two cloudless weeks of holidaying. There have been vacations from which they returned with something of a grievance against the weather—"we just started when the rain came", but not this fortnight now ending. The sun was their daily companion with only brief absence. For the thousands getting back Tuesday it should be a pleasant memory. All that and moonlight, too!

Lift Lock Hiding Need Signs Say Tourists

"Yes, yes," echoed tourists. They were packed around balconies and steps of the lift lock. Asked if they had difficulty finding the locks, they were unanimous in answering.

One visitor asked four people. Another received directions from a policeman. Others asked directions from the Jaycee Tourist Booth. All agreed there should be signs pointing the way from the city's main entrances.

"You've got a good thing here; you hear about the lift lock everywhere. But once you get to Peterborough, you can't find them without asking two or three people." This comment came from a Brampton man, travelling with his wife and family.

Jaycees are faced 25 to 30 times a day with the question: "How do we find the lift lock?" This number is doubled on the weekends and everyone agrees that a series of signs pointing the way to the locks would encourage visitors.

Then comes another question: Who is to erect the signs? The city? The Trent Canal System? The Chamber of Commerce? The Jaycees?

Ron Balaam, chairman of the Jaycee's tourist committee, felt it the duty of the Trent Canal System to erect signs directing traffic there. He said the canal was maintained as a tourist attraction; why then shouldn't the system get full benefit of the lock by directing non-nautical tourists there?

He said the Jaycees considered such a project at the beginning of the year but shelved it in favor of other work.

Jaycee president Doug Vaisey thought the Jaycees might undertake the job. "The city and Chamber of Commerce have had 45 years to do it and they haven't; we might as well."

Jim Fraser, manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, referring to a letter urging signs, printed in the Examiner Wednesday, thought it "an excellent idea."

"The Chamber of Commerce would be pleased to do the job if the city fathers will grant us permission." He visualized signs along Hunter St. and George St. pointing the way to the lock.

Stanley Exell of 27 Leahy's Lane, in a letter to the editor, commented: "We have a million and a half dollar project here and we don't even have signs to tell where to find it . . . lots of tourists go away without seeing it because they can't find it."

Buffalo Family Escorted To Dying Man

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Ontario provincial and municipal police forces along Highway 2 teamed up on Thursday to provide an escort for a Buffalo family, and to bring them to Campbellford to the bedside of a dying relative.

Moses O. Barish, age 57, a resident of Buffalo, New York, died at Mullock's Woodland Estate on Thursday of coronary thrombosis.

Relatives in Buffalo were notified when Mr. Barish became ill, and provincial police arranged the escort system, picking up the American car at the border.

The escort at Buffalo took them to Hamilton, where they were turned over to a different officer at each detachment along the way. Toronto city police supplied a motorcycle escort through that metropolis and the car was again picked up at the city limits. Police of Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Cobourg and Brighton also assisted.

STACKED AND BROKEN TOMBSTONES of pioneers in the abandoned, bulldozed old Anglican cemetery in Omemee.

A bulldozer was sent in last week to level the formerly hallowed ground. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Old Cemetery In Omemee Cleared Out With Bulldozer

OMEMEE (By Staff Reporter)—Omemee's ancestors were bulldozed last week, and the village is wondering why. A bulldozer was sent into the pioneer Anglican cemetery, a house-lot north of the village main street just east of the bridge. The bulldozer levelled it, graves, tombstones and all. The formerly hallowed ground looks today more like a junk yard or untillable waste land than a cemetery.

Even so, people curious enough to visit the deserted, virtually abandoned cemetery before the bulldozer did its work, say that the place looks better than it did.

The cemetery is the old Anglican burying-ground, used, according to the dates on scattered and shattered tombstones, from about 1847 to 1867. In it are buried some of the pioneer settlers of the district.

LUNDY'S LANE HERO

One of the graves contains the remains of the man who carried the King's colors at the battle of Lundy's Lane in 1812. This grave has not been disturbed by the bulldozer.

It is fortunately in a corner, and also the tombstone is fastened to a solid block of field stone. Further, the memorial tablet was put on the grave by the Orangemen of Emily township.

It is the grave of Lieutenant Matthew Hancock, who served with the 89th Regiment of the Line and who was a native of Maryborough, Queen's County, Ireland. The horizontal tablet reads: "He served with distinction in the war of 1812, and was present at the battle of Lundy's Lane and carried the King's Colors the entire of that eventful day. He afterwards served at the siege of Fort Erie and died February 26, 1858—aged 74 years".

DISUSED FOR 80 YEARS

No interments seem to have been made in the cemetery for more than 80 years. It is still owned by the Church of England in Omemee, whose church building is now situated almost directly across the road from the pioneer cemetery.

The bulldozer which a week ago obliterated graves and markers, has revealed the outlines of the foundation of what was apparently the small original church there. The cemetery was thus the churchyard of this building.

Omemee's Anglican church has no rector at present. The Rev. Charles Richmond left the charge in June, to minister in California. The new incumbent, the Rev. W. Smith of Gore's Landing, does not take charge until the fall. In the meantime, the two churchwardens have local responsibility for the church property. The churchwardens are George Stephenson and Walter Reeds. Mr. Stephenson is also an Omemee councillor.

WHY THE BULLDOZER?

Asked why the bulldozer had been sent in, Mr. Stephenson said: "To level the ground". He discounted rumors that the cemetery was to be sold for building lots.

When it was suggested to him that the levelling had been done in order to control weeds, he concurred that weeds would be more easily kept in control. He said: "It is our intention to have the soil tilled and grass freshly sown". He minimized any damage the bulldozer had done.

Mr. Stephenson said that the cemetery had been in a sorry state for many years. When the Emily cemetery was opened nearly a century ago, relatives of some of the deceased in the old graveyard had the remains shifted to the new cemetery.

About five years ago a few church people became interested in the neglected pioneer cemetery, had dying trees cut down and the weeds sprayed, Mr. Stephenson said. Yet the tangle of undergrowth, fallen tombstones and general litter remained. He said that the church wardens this year decided to clean up the place.

Tombstones are now strewn and stacked in corners and along the sides. Mr. Stephenson said most of this had been done in other years, to preserve them. He explained that the newly-broken stones, and newly-moved ones, showing signs of the bulldozer's work were dug up from under the ground in which time and neglect had concealed them. He denied that the bulldozer had done any appreciable damage.

Broken headstones, some newly-cracked, still strew the ground. The tombstones heaved to the sides and corners of the filled chipped and broken bear names and inscriptions; and some of these can be pieced together.

ARCHDEACON VIEWS

Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of Peterborough, whose archidiaconal jurisdiction extends into Victoria county and includes Omemee, inspected the shambles Wednesday afternoon. He viewed the situation seriously and is communicating with the Synod offices in Toronto.

The old stones whose legends can still be deciphered record deaths of numerous children about 1848. It is believed that diphtheria epidemics took them. Many of the old stones have hand-carved weeping willow trees.

Survey Shows City Earns, Spends More Than Average

(Special To The Examiner)

NEW YORK. — Peterborough stands out as a rich market with families earning more and spending more than those in most cities in Canada. This is revealed in a new, copyrighted survey, of buying power covering Canada and the United States, prepared by Sales Management.

Larger incomes made it possible for families in Peterborough to buy more and live better than those in most other places. This is indicated by the volume of business done by the local retail stores during 1952.

The figures show that this retail activity reached the high mark of $44,345,000, an increase over the $40,993,000 recorded for 1951. It was much more than the total to be expected for a city of its size. On the basis of population, local retail business should have been only .2853 per cent of the national. Actually, however, it was .3813 per cent.

BETTER EARNINGS

The large-scale buying, which meant more luxurious living, was made possible by better earnings. The data shows that the 11,000 families in Peterborough attained a net income after deduction of personal income taxes of $55,822,000, which was a gain over the $53,502,000 accounted for in the prior year.

Divided by the number of families in Peterborough, it represents an income per family of $5,075. This was more than was earned generally throughout Canada, an average of $4,336 per family, and than the $4,940 per family in the province of Ontario. The figures, it is noted, are straight arithmetical averages.

Despite the good business in Peterborough retail stores in the year, much of the money available for spending went into reserves and investments and remained untapped. This is evidenced by the fact that only 79 cents of each dollar of income went into retail purchases.

How each community stands with relation to others in purchasing ability and economic wellbeing is shown in the survey by a "quality of market" index. This is a weighted figure that takes into account population, income, sales and other factors. Peterborough's index is given as 120, or 20 percent above the national average.

County Warden Urges Safety

Ernest J. Leeson, warden of Peterborough County, has issued an appeal to the citizens of the county to drive with care and avoid accidents during the weekend Civic holiday.

"This coming weekend, when you load up the car for the Civic Holiday, will you do one thing—determine to drive with care and good sense?" said Warden Leeson. "The combination of a holiday weekend and peak tourist traffic puts a tremendous strain on road travel everywhere. But if everyone will exercise a little patience and regard for other drivers we'll all get through the weekend safely."

Nineteen people were killed last Civic Holiday in motor vehicle accidents in Ontario.

Warden Leeson urged drivers to remember that highways are designed to take them safely from one place to another.

"White lines tell you whether you can see far enough ahead to pass another vehicle safely. Never cross a solid line when it is on your side of the road.

"Road signs are for your safety. They tell you what to expect ahead. And as for speed—does it really matter whether you get where you're going in three or hours or four"?

Those who have been killed or injured in motor accidents all thought "it couldn't happen" to them. But it did. Concludes Warden Leeson: "Don't let it happen to you".

The Invader

Alarmed by an advancing porcupine Thursday night, two Water St. residents, female, armed themselves with a hose and kept it at bay in their backyard. Porky, distressed in turn by the hose, took refuge in a tree at the corner of Water and Antrim and when last seen as darkness fell, was anxiously eyeing from his precarious perch, the roadway some 40 feet below. By morning all was clear.

Building Used As Centre Will Be Sold

Sale of the building at Burnham's Point that was renovated and used for some time as a community centre is being recommended to the council by the property committee. David Gerolamy, 14 Edgewater Boulevard, has offered $200 for it.

The building was the final remnant of the old property and plant of Peterborough Lumber Co. when Eastwood Construction Co. moved in to be built by contract from the Crown company the wartime houses in that area. It was the last of the sawmill buildings on the point.

It was used for the housing of the Eastwood work of prefabricating, by turning out in quantity lumber forms and other materials required in the building. Eventually, it was proposed for a community centre. It was overhauled and fixed up for winter use. For three or four winters it was accommodation for recreation affairs, and then interest began to dwindle.

Mr. Gerolamy undertakes to remove the building, and City Clerk Outram will have it surveyed for lots which will be sold for a nominal sum to the owners of adjoining properties. They are expected to pay the cost of transfer of deeds. The extra ground will enlarge somewhat their present lots.

Property committee this week also arranged for necessary repairs to Dixon House, the community centre in the northwest end of the city. Plaster on three walls is to be removed and replaced with lath and stucco, white chrystalite exterior, three coats. Estimated cost is $634.

Goodfellow and Dougherty were recommended for an eavestroughing job at $125.

City Clerk Outram was authorized to repeat his effort to obtain bids on Queen Mary Hospital building. Ald. H. S. Longhurst was chairman.

Ballot Boxes Sent Out For Election

Rural Areas Receive First Boxes Of 125 Needed

District Returning Officer Arthur J. McClellan's headquarters presented a busy scene today as the first of the 125 ballot boxes required in Peterborough riding for the August 10 general election were mailed out to Galway, Cavendish and Harvey townships in the northern part of the riding.

About a month ago, the boxes were taken out of storage in the customs building where they have stood since the last general election four years ago. They have been cleaned up and made ready again for this year's election.

This morning Mr. McClellan placed the Deputy Returning Officer's instructions, grant of poll notice and the required number of ballots in each box which was then sealed and sent by registered mail to the DRO of each subdivision.

On receipt of the boxes, the DROs will break the seals and remove the contents. The boxes will then be sealed again, not to be re-opened until the closing of the polls on August 10 for the first count of ballots. The official count will be made a week later on August 17 with the candidates' official agents present. The ballot boxes will then be returned to their place of storage in the customs building to await the next election.

SUBDIVISIONS

Of the 95 polling subdivisions in the riding, four are triple polls and 20 are double. The remaining 71 are single polls. There are four double polls in the rural part of the riding. The rest of the multiple polls are in the city. The other ballot box is required for the advance poll next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The double polls in the rural area are divided alphabetically, from A to L and from M to Z. With one exception, the multiple polls in the city are divided according to the order in which the names appear on the voters' lists, as evenly as possible but without splitting the names on any one street.

An exception occurs in the area of Smith township annexed by the city where, because of a lack of street numbering, the voters' lists were made up alphabetically. In this case, there is a double poll at Queen Elizabeth subdivision, with the names divided from A to H and I to Z.

Special Issues Confronting UN Assembly

By ARCH PARSONS, JR.
(Special to The Examiner)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — United Nations delegates are preparing to open informal discussions on the problems which will confront the UN General Assembly when it begins its consideration of post-truce issues in Korea on August 17.

The specific issues confronting the assembly appear to be these:

1. What nations should attend the post-armistice political conference on Korea?

2. Where should the conference be held?

3. What should it discuss?

The armistice agreement signed at Panmunjom leaves the answers to these questions up in the air, providing only that both sides—the UN Command and the Communists—will recommend that a conference "of a higher level" be held within 90 days after a truce to "settle through negotiation the questions of withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea, the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc."

Behind the specific issues before the assembly, however, is the more significant question of Chinese representation in the UN. The Soviet Union has developed an almost traditional practice of opening nearly ever session of any UN body by demanding that Nationalist China be unseated in favor of delegates from the Peking regime. UN observers considered it likely that Russia will not pass up the opportunity to make this move again when the assembly opens.

It is just as certain that the move will be defeated, just as it has been in the past, on the ground that the time will not be appropriate for a discussion of this issue.

PLENTY OF TIME

The United States is known to hold the view that the armistice agreement notwithstanding, Communist China is still a beligerent in the Korean war and that there will be plenty of time to discuss the Chinese representation question after the political conference—if that conference is successful in dealing with the specific matter of unifying Korea.

The more specific questions before the assembly, however, imply consideration of the same problem and others just as knotty. A basic issue is whether the assembly should attempt to make recommendations about the entire make-up of the post-armistice conference or should confine itself merely to deciding what nations should represent the UN at the conference.

If the assembly decides that it has responsibility for making recommendations for the entire composition of the conference, it seems likely that Russia will be among those recommended. If not, the assembly must decide whether or not it is obligated to include the Soviet Union among those nations representing the UN.

Regardless of the outcome of debate on this question, the assembly will have to designate some nations, and here again the issue of Chinese representation will be involved. Nationalist China is considered certain to demand participation in the conference.

The United States, as the chief supporter of the Formosa government in the UN, may be recalled upon to push for Nationalist China's representation. But delegates are inclined to doubt that the Communist Chinse will sit at the same table with delegates from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's administration.

All sorts of formulas are being advanced at UN headquarters to get around this problem.

16 NATIONS SUPPORTED WAR

One would have the UN represented at the conference by the 16 nations who fought in Korea at the UN command. This would omit Nationalist China, but would also omit India, the sponsor of the assembly resolution on prisoners of war that ultimately formed the basis for final agreement on a Korean armistice. Indian sources have made it clear that they intend to press for a seat at the conference.

Even the question of whether the group of nations attending the conference should be large or small has yet to be answered here—and there are delegations tentatively lined up on each side of the issue.

The chioce for a location of the meeting are—as they were several weeks ago—Geneva, Ceylon and New Dehli.

As to what specific issues the post-truce conference should discuss, the inclination here is to leave that up to the conferees themselves and not to lay down hard and fast recommendations in the assembly.

But there is no doubt that the consultations that will be held in the next three weeks will be aimed at arriving at some unity of opinion. Among the major powers supporting the UN in Korea, at least, on this mater.

The period before the assembly is also expected to offer Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold his first real chance to act as a go-between for the UN's members—particularly between the United States and its allies on one side, and Russia and its satellites on the other.

The office of the Secretary General has not been able to perform this important function since Russia ceased to recognize the existence of Trgve Lie, former Secretary General, after he expressed the opinion in 1950 that the UN had a right to intervene in Korea to stop Communist aggression.

Magnetic Memory Device To Aid Air Traffic Control

NEW YORK — A "magnetic memory device" to simplify future air traffic control by simultaneously recording and comparing the flight plans of up to 2,000 airplanes is being developed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The device will be ready by fall and then will be subjected to extensive evaluation and testing before being put into actual operational use. It is expected to be adaptable also to the instantaneous checking of air line passenger reservations, one of the chief present bottlenecks in the handling of air travellers, and to many other operations in aviation requiring high-speed handling of complicated data.

The "magnetic memory" originated in connection with plans of CAA air traffic experts for creating a new overall air traffic system. Rapidly increasing movements of both air line and military planes across the skyways of the United States are making this necessary.

The CAA disclosed that the "magnetic memory" operates on a basic principle similar to punched card record keeping, but many times faster. The air traffic control device has a drum with a revolving cylinder inside on which magnetic "marks" can be made and then read off with lightning speed. In the process of filing a new flight plan, the drum searches all its previous records in less than half a second and discovers whether there have been others with similar details.

Just as each hole in a punched card has special significance due to its position on the card, each magnetic "mark" inside the drum has special significance by virtue of its position with respect to the drum's axis and circumference.

It is possible to feed information over a teletype hook-up to the "magnetic memory" on aircraft departure times, destinations, routes, payloads and many other matters. After this new material has been compared with other flight plans already recorded, the results are transmitted back to the original sender to complete an automatic circuit. The sender will know whether his proposed flight plan is acceptable.

The new device's primary advantage over the human and mechanical operations now used to carry on its job lie both in speed and accuracy. The drum processes teletype characters at the rate of 23,000 a second and can retain its "memory" up to 312,000 characters consisting either of figures or letters.

Approximately 100 teletype lines will be required to handle the peak load which the "magnetic memory" is capable of turning out. At 10 minute intervals the device automatically will "thumb through" its entire store of information and transmit over a teletype network a message containing relevant data.

WRAPPING UP — The orders are to remove all United Nations equipment from the demilitarized zone in Korea and these two gunners of the Royal Canadian Artillery wrap up their big weapon after word had been passed along the line to cease fire under terms of the armistice agreement signed at Panmunjom. At left is Gunner Peter Roach, of New Waterford, N.S., and at right, Gunner John MacNeil, of Glace Bay, N.S. Both are members of the 81st Field Battery.

Canadian Intelligence Corps Fights Delaying Action

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CAMP BORDEN, Ont. (CP)—Fifty Reserve Army members of the Canadian Intelligence Corps fell back in good order to Camp Borden today after a week-long exercise in which they fought a realistic delaying action against the Fantasian Army.

The casualties were imaginary. But in almost every other detail, Exercise Coverall was a faithful reproduction of actual battle conditions.

An RCAF Lancaster flew reconnaissance missions and brought back pictures of the enemy battle lines for processing by the air photograph interpretation section. Prisoners and suspicious civilians were grilled by interrogating officers and interned in a prisoner-of-war cage, manned by alert trainees of the Provost Corps.

COMMUNICATION NETWORK

Patrol reports were received over an elaborate communications network manned by army signals and up-to-date situation reports were plotted and passed to army units deployed along miles of hilly Dufferin county terrain a few miles southwest of here.

Neighboring farmers helped out by permitting the setting up of division, brigade and battalion headquarters on their land. Officers' wives, RCAF fliers on ground survival exercises and officer cadets acted the parts of transient civilians and PoWs.

Every participant in Exercise Coverall except the intelligence trainees themselves was carefully coached in his part. Suspects were given detailed stories to tell, with instructions to give vital information only if their interrogators asked the right questions.

Much of the 500-page program for Coverall originated in the fertile brain of Maj. R. A. (Tex) Noble of Calgary, commander of the Canadian School of Military Intelligence, officially opened today by Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff.

Noble and his staff invented the Fantasian language, a hodgepodge of French, German, Spanish, Dutch and several other tongues, readily translatable into English. He equipped his prisoners with Fantasian Army paybooks and insignia. The cap badge was a yellow globe with blue markings, surmounted by a white dove of peace.

CAREFUL PREPARATIONS

Preparations included a detailed battle plan and the invention of the subversive Peace party, operating espionage and sabotage units behind the Canadian lines.

Umpires were Reserve Army officers with Second World War intelligence experience, headed by Major John Wicks of Winnipg, a Swiss-born officer who did Canadian Army liaison work with the European underground. He expressed regret on learning of his assignment that he hadn't been delegated to "blow up something" instead.

The exercise had its moments of unscheduled drama. One prisoner collapsed under routine questioning and his puzzled interrogators debated methods of bringing him to. He turned out to be genuinely ill from a touch of over-exposure to the sun and was withdrawn from the exercise until he recovered the next morning.

One defiant "civilian," shouting threats that he would use his influence to demote his captors, was given the pleasant punishment of immersion up to his neck in a nearby stream until he cooled off.

The Fantasians? When last heard from they had suffered heavy casualties and were about to be clobbered by the heavily-reinforced Canadian troops.

Reinstate Port Arthur Too Late For Finals

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Port Arthur United, challenge cup champions at the Lakehead, have been reinstated, but apparently too late for participation in the Dominion soccer playdowns.

United, ousted for illegally forfeiting a game, were reinstated at a New Ontario Football Association meeting here Wednesday night. But at Winnipeg, George Anderson, secretary of the Football Association of Canada, said it was "too late" for the squad to get back into the playoff picture.

United and Winnipeg Scottish were to have met in a Western Canada semi-final at Winnipeg Aug. 1 and 3.

Say New Laws Contrary To Laws Of Moses

(Special to The Examiner)

JERUSALEM. — The dispute as to whether life in the modern State of Israel should be regulated in all details by the three thousand five hundred-years-old Laws of Moses, or whether this ancient code should serve only as an ethical guide, is threatening to split Israel's internal unity.

A National Service Bill for women, which passed its first reading in the Knesset (Parliament) by a majority of fifty-nine to six on July 22, brought the issue to a head. The Bill was passed despite bitter opposition from the ultra-religious minority, whose ten thousand supporters from all over Israel took a formal oath in the Holy City not to consider binding "any decree passed in opposition to the Laws of Moses."

As a concession to religious Jewry, the new National Service Bill exempts from military conscription girls from highly religious families. Instead, it enlists them for two years' civilian service in religious agricultural settlements, immigrant camps, social welfare and similar occupations. It does not impose on these girls uniforms or the military discipline of army camps. Despite these concessions, the religious extremists continue to fight tooth and nail. They are the members of the Agudat Israel Party and its workers' branch, and the followers of the "Naturei Karta", a fanatical anti-Zionist group, which is opposed to the State of Israel "because it is not established by the Messiah." Together, these two groups have five out of the Knesset's one hundred and twenty seats.

REFUSE TO FALL IN LINE

The Agudat Israel party's opposition has two main roots: a genuine feeling that an unmarried girl's place is in the home, and the ambition of some extremist rabbis to impose the ancient way of life on the largest possible numbers of Israel's population. The second is causing strong resentment among the over-whelming majority who, even if belonging to religious Jewry, are anxious to blend the old traditions with modern achievements and needs. Thus, for example, the main orthodox parties, the Mizrahi and the Mizrahi Workers, having double the Agudat bloc's strength in the Knesset, refused to fall in line with those opposing the Women's National Service Bill.

Representatives of the Mizrahi Workers originally introduced the new National Service Bill as "a fair compromise". Despite tremendous Agudat pressure and a change of mind on the part of Israel's Chief Rabbinate, which first supported the Bill and later opposed it, the Mizrahi bloc did not yield and abstained from voting.

The non-religious Israeli majority object to the "abuse" of religious prayers and sacred symbols, like the ram's horn which, in the past, sounded only when Jewry's survival was theatened by outside danger. The majority also object to the use of ultra-orthodox youth for anti-National Service demonstrations, instead of for a contribution to Israel's efforts in agriculture, new immigrants' education and so on.

Premier David Ben Gurion's Mapai Labor Party and the country's second largest party, the General Zionists, as well as a number of political leaders of various shades, are accusing the leader of Agudat Israel, Rabbi Itzhak Meir Levin, of inciting the religious extremists in order to regain his cabinet seat as Minister of Social Welfare, which he lost last autumn, or at least to increase the political influence of the extremist Rabbis around him.

Wherever the truth lies, it seems certain that the Women's National Service Bil, which needs to pass its second reading, will still cause much controversy — as will the growing dispute between a few determined religious extremists and the rest of Israel.

Veterans Fail To Claim War Medals

Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—There are 30 tons of unclaimed war medals lying stored in New Zealand government offices.

The government wants to get rid of the medals, but Second World War veterans for whom they are intended have not applied for them.

Veterans are being asked to wear the medals during the visit of the Queen to New Zealand at the end of the year, but so far only 60,000 of the 300,000 men and women entitled to medals have picked up their awards.

The chief trouble lies in the method of distribution. The government says it would be too big a job to go through the file of everyone who served in the forces, work out the medals to which he is entitled, and locate his present address.

Large numbers of veterans claim they are entitled to be sent the medals and should not have to "go ca in hand" to the government asking to be decorated.

Many veterans also object to the fact that the medals are not engraved with the owners' names as was the case after the First World War. They claim that "anonymous" medals are not worth collecting.

Some of those who served for comparatively short periods in home service units also feel it would savor of "heroics" to fill in a form applying for medals. Other home servicemen do not even realize that they are entitled to awards.

Calgary's Zoo Acquires Sumatra Tigers

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary's zoo has acquired a pair of 400-pound Sumatra tigers, the only ones in Canada.

The handsome gold-and-black striped animals came from Rotterdam zoo in Holland and are valued at about $5,000. Both were born in captivity. The male is 22 months old, the female 18 months.

Their diet? Instructions from F. Siewertsz van Reesma, curator of the Rotterdam Zoo, call for a daily meal of about 17 pounds of fresh horse or cow meat, complete with bones.

Once a week they are supposed to lunch on a whole animal such as a goat, hide and all. The hair, attendants say, is necessary for the tigers' digestive systems.

A. M. van Ostrand, president of the Zoological Society here, is enthusiastic about the tigers. However, somewhat annoyed was Rex II, lion king of the Calgary zoo. His mate had just had three young cubs. He was fully prepared to do battle with the tigers when they were put in an adjacent cage.

Canada's Motion Picture Industry Grows Into Multi-Million Dollar Baby

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's motion picture industry is growing into a lusty, multi-million-dollar baby.

In its first comprehensive survey of the industry, the bureau of statistics reports that 31 privately-owned firms grossed $2,600,000 on operations during 1952. This sum was divided into $1,331,393 from production and $1,274,137 from printing films.

The commercial industry employed 386 persons and paid them $1,006,918 in salaries and wages but that was exclusive of the people employed on three feature-length films made in Canada during 1952.

The industry produced 15 theatrical shorts and 206 non-commercial films of five minutes or longer. Most of the latter were in color with English sound tracks. Sixteen were produced for sponsors outside Canada.

Government agencies such as the national film board produced 58 theatrical shorts and 102 non-theatrical films of five minutes or longer. Most of the non-theatrical films were in black and white with English sound tracks.

The agencies also produced five theatre trailers, 75 newsreel stories for theatres and television and 96 filmstrips.

The bureau said employment and revenue figures for federal and provincial government agencies were not requested because they are not directly comparable to similar data of private industry in relation to films produced.

the average cow will consume in one day.

Old established grass averages 100 cow-days per acre per year. Some established grass mixtures average 180. Newer mixtures now "going into production" have averaged 240 cow-days per acre. In some cases they have gone up to 325 cow-days per acre, more than treble the output of ordinary permanent grass. Mr. Paterson has estimated that if 400 cow-days per acre could be reached, as seems possible, feeding costs could be reduced to about sixpence per gallon of milk."

His other preoccupation is the extent to which the grouping of farm units is capable of wider application leading to increased efficiency of production.

How To Restore Holiday Luggage

Did you take out your vacation luggage only to find it was so dulled from dust and soil you were ashamed to carry it?

It's possible to restore the sparkle it had when new. You'll want the inside to be free from dust and lint, so clean it out with the nozzle attachment of your vacuum cleaner.

As for the outside, wash it thoroughly with saddle soap. Then apply a paste wax, polished to a high lustre by hand or (if you're lucky) with an electric polisher. On no account use a strong soap on leather luggage. If you don't happen to have any saddle soap, use castile or similar fine toilet soap.

After your trip, simply wipe off your luggage with a damp cloth. If you're storing it for any length of time, you might protect it with plastic film cover.

FRUIT 'N' ICE CREAM TARTS

Borrow an idea from the Queen of Hearts and "make some tarts . . .all on a summer's day." Bake them in the cool of the morning if the weather's hot. Then just before serving fill the bottom of each tart generously with chilled and well-drained canned fruit cocktail, reserving the mraschino-style cherries for a garnish. Add a large spoonful of ice cream and top each serving with a cherry. . . a smart, simple, and festive dessert.

"Don't Want Shorter Skirts" Local Poll Is Unanimous

The skirt-slashing war that Christian Dior hopes to start around the world of fashion is going to meet a heavy artillery barrage in Peterborough—if it ever spreads outside of Paris.

The women aren't for it — though who can say they are are against it. Everyone knows they'll wear them 16, 17, yea 18 or 19 inches from the floor, if it becomes "The Style."

But the men are dead against it—at least for their wives. One said Thursday, "If skirts go to the knee, my wife is going to wear slacks—and that's not because she doesn't have pretty legs."

In a poll taken on the street and in business offices of the city, there wasn't a man or woman who hadn't read about the Dior reverse to up-to-the-knee skirts and a loosely draped waistline that isn't even in the natural place. However, they weren't excited about it, yet. They just don't seem to think it can possibly catch on.

The woman-on-the-street was very guarded in her comment. She wouldn't want to be quoted and have to stick to mid-calf length dresses if everyone else's go up. But she spoke of knee length skirts as "vulgar," "unbecoming," "unladylike," and wanted to chat about the fact that other top designers are flying in the face of the idea and showing even longer dresses.

A very fashion conscious lady, who sometimes commentates at Peterborough fashion shows, said "I don't like it at all. It's just a money-making angle as far as I can see.' She added, "Too few women have really nice lower limbs to show them off like that."

The teen-age office girl, who has never been through a short skirt era, could easily be convinced that "it's time for a change," but she added, "I don't think they will look nice."

A smartly dresesd secretary pulled her stylishly slim skirt up several inches and asked "Wouldn't I look awful?" She didn't at all though, because her five foot two height and trim figure were pleasingly accentuated, but, at the present length the men in her office declared she looked "just right."

A man who is an X-ray technician, and therefore has "seen a lot," said, "I tell you skirts have never been more sensible than the last few years."

A businessman sat back in his swivel chair, where he would get unobstructed view of a knee-length skirt if it came along, and recalled his college days, the roaring '20's. "Every time a girl sat down her skirt went several inches above her knee. At that time they wore 'bloomers'," he confided, "and there was usually some of the bloomer leg showing. Then they brought in 'rolled stockings' and it was the height of fashion for the roll to be just hidden by the hem when the girl was standing—you can imagine what happened when she sat, or bent over."

PROTEST KNEES

But women here don't seem worried about possibly showing their knees. It's the men who are protesting. No, Peterborough men aren't different from other men—they want to see women's legs all right, but not their knees.

At the insurance office down the street it was explained why most women's knees are knobby though their calves and ankles may be deliciously curved. "No woman who has worn high heels has pretty knees," said the boss.

A young salesman, with brown eye on the lookout for a female customer, preferably blonde, said, "Sure, make them shorter, we like to see legs," but when knees were mentioned he wasn't anxious.

Your pollster came back to the office and took a final shot at the city editor. "What do you think about women's skirts being shorter"

"I think they'll look like the devil, but they'll wear them just the same," he replied, and went on planning today's paper.

COLDSPRINGS—(ENS)—Approximately 40 members of Baltimore Women's Institute were guests Wednesday night at the hall of Coldsprings WI. Altogether there were about 80 in attendance.

On the platform were the Baltimore president and secretary, Mrs. E. Davey and Mrs. J. Staples, and the Coldsprings secretary Mrs. H. McKinley and president, Mrs. A. Linton, who presided for business.

The secretary-treasurer's statement showed a balance on hand of $137.15. The Sunshine report by Mrs. N. Timlin showed two get-well cards and a box of fruit sent since the last meeting.

The president gave a summary of what had been purchased for serving dinners at the International Plowing Match.

It was decided to accept the invitation to attend the meeting of Fenella Institute next Wednesday.

Plans were made to sponsor two dances on August 14 and 28, party groups one and two to be in charge.

Mrs. H. West was convener of the program, with Baltimore supplying three numbers. Mrs. E. Davey of Baltimore, presided for the program, which included a monologue by Mrs. Mulhall and a solo by Eleanor Noble, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. M. Noble. Mrs. W. Graham (nee Lenore McBride), of Windsor, a vacation guest here, gave a talk on her trip to Scotland last year.

The highland fling was presented by eight juniors, Misses Linda Davey, Shirley Stevenson, Elaine Minifie, Marlene Turk, Roger May, Ray Turk, Gordon Minifie and Heusti Ven Huizen, with Mrs. C. Brisbin playing the piano accompaniment. Mrs. C. Minifie and Mrs. C. Timlin sang a duet.

The meeting closed with the National anthem. Lunch was served by Mrs. H. West and group. Mrs. E. Davey moved a vote of thanks to Coldsprings for their invitation and hospitality.

International Nursing Code Aims At Bettering Mankind

PETROPOLIS, Brazil (CP)—The first international code of nursing ethics — an all-embracing code aimed at the betterment of mankind—was adopted unanimously at the 10th quadriennial congress of the International Council of Nurses here.

The attendance of more than 1,300 in July represented 46 national nursing associations from many parts of the world, including Canada.

Before presentation to the ICN, the code was adopted by the grand council, meeting a few days earlier in Sao Paulo.

The preamble states that "professional sisters minister to the sick, assume responsibility for creating a physical, social and spiritual environment which will be conducive to recovery, and stress the prevention of illness and promotion of health by teaching and example."

"They render health service to the individual, the family and the community and co-ordinate their services with members of other health professions.

"Service to mankind is the primary function of nurses and the reason for the existence of the nursing profession. Need for nursing service is universal. Professional nursing service therefore is unrestricted by cosnideration of nationality, race, creed, color politics and social status."

LINK, WITH W.H.O.

Before adjourning, the congress discussed the relationship between the World Health Organization and professional nursing.

Lyle Creelman, a graduate of the Vancouver General Hospital and the University of British Columbia, said the ICN is one of the first non-governmental agencies to be granted relationship with W.H.O.

Miss Creelman, nurse consultant in the nursing section of W.H.O., said that because of this official relationship the ICN "has the right, through its representative, to speak for professional nursing."

"The objectives of W.H.O. in nursing are to help in all countries to develop a profession which can contribute its specific knowledge and skills in the attainment by all peoples of the highest possible level of health."

One paper presented at the congress by Gladys Sharpe, director of nursing, school of nursing, Toronto Western Hospital, dealt with new trends in the curriculum for schools of nursing.

PEARLY SHIMMER

The shimmering glow of iridescent nail polish results from a sparkling pearl essence added to the formula. The makers claim that this material gives longer wear. The pearl essence will remain in suspension for a long time before stirring becomes necessary, they say.

FASHION NOTE

Take one part fashion, one part cotton, and one part brown or grey, and you have this season's fashion formula for summer-into-fall. Frosted grey or brown cotton gives you that new "fall look."

NEW DRAPERY and slipcover fabrics come in many interesting patterns and motifs, like the one shown in the accompanying picture. Stylized pea-pod designs in white on olive green and colorful scenic patterns add life and beauty to that hard-to-decorate room.

Modern Fabrics Simplify Home-Decorating Problems

By KAY SHERWOOD

New drapery and slipcover fabrics make a strong pitch to contemporary home owners with such decorating problems as too much window glass to curtain and open floor plans.

Reversible prints, correlated patterns, colors and textures designed to avoid monotony are aimed to help solve these problems.

Those of us in older homes benefit too. Fabrics and motifs are adaptable. Some of the most handsome are priced, I'm happy to report, for the "mass" market, which means you and me.

One of the most interesting fabrics I've seen is the reversible print on washable, pre-shrunk cotton. The cloth is roller-printed simultaneously on each side in perfect color register. Used to curtain a window, the fabric will present as colorful a face to the street side as it does to the inside. Five patterns ranging from modern abstract to traditional scenic will be available.

Rambler or ranch houses, with open floor plans blending one living area into another, sparked another collection of sailcloth and bark cloth patterns. With the correlated designs and colors, you can cling to a basic color scheme throughout the house—even to a zoo train motif for Johnny's room.

One of the designs, which looks like pea pods to me, shows up printed in reverse colors on a semisheer rayon casement cloth. Colors are muted for the most part and motifs are neat and sharply defined.

Close harmony in another firm teams printed patterns on semisheer casement cloths with matching patterns on heavy sailcloth. These can be used as side drapes or slipcover material. The sheers have soft pastel backgrounds, including a delicate watery green, as well as white.

Nothing muted or delicate about colors used in another new, textured, drapery cloth. The brightest plaid I saw on my rounds was woven of solution-dyed acetate and flashed a brilliant red, kelly green and chrome yellow, cut with a modicum of black.

Aluminum foil coats the back of a glazed cotton chintz to double as self-liner and insulator when the chintz is made up into draw drapes. The patterns are pleasantly floral. The material would not only look well at a window but would serve to cut down excessive drafts or screen a room from excessive amounts of burning sun.

Get All From Refrigerators In Summer

Chill'n Serve Cooking. There are literally hundreds of dishes which can be cooked by chilling. Your menu choice runs from soups to snacks. Some require hot cooking at one stage of the preparation but this can be done in the cool of the day. Then, too, there are oven meals which are prepared ahead, refrigerator-stored, cooked later. This is a refrigerator wonder.

SPACE FOR EVERYTHING

Today's refrigerators have ample space with flexible arrangements and cold-controlled areas for every size and shape of food needed during the week by the average family. However, this space should be budgeted wisely. Many foods don't need refrigeration—catsup and other condiments, peanut butter, coconut, and shortening (except butter and lard) are a few.

Perishables, like meat, milk and opened cans, must be refrigerated carefully. Meat should be wrapped loosely or kept in its original wrapping if of moisture-vapor-proof material. If meat is not to be used within 3 days it's best to freeze it. Milk should go into cold quarters promptly after delivery and covered closely. Opened cans may be stored in the original can but should be chilled and covered at once.

Defrosting Data. The Department of Agriculture recommends the removal of frost on the evaporator when it is ¼ inch thick because thick frost lets the inside of the refrigerator warm up. If your refrigerator does not have automatic defrosting, follow the manufacturer's directions for this process. As a rule the freezer compartments will need defrosting only once or twice a year although it's wise to check and remove the frost when it's about ½ inch thick.

COLD CUTS AND FRUIT SALAD

Arrange half slices of old fashioned loaf and bologna slices on a tray. Cut a fresh pineapple in half lengthwise, leaving the green top on. Scoop out the pineapple and cut into bite-sized pieces. Mix the pineapple with any other fresh fruit. (Strawberries, pear, blueberries, cherries, grapes and bananas are in plentiful supply now at reasonable prices.) Refill the pineapple shells with the chilled pineapple chunks and the other fruit. Serve with a sour cream dressing or a favorite fruit one.

USE PRINTED WOOLS

NEW YORK—Both Tina Leser and Carolyn Schnurer use printed sheer wools effectively, and Mrs. Schnurer is helping to lead the way in the use of new washable, cleanable leather as a decorative trim on smart new fashions.

CORDUROY is no longer a classic. It's come out of the woods to enter a new fashion world. This fall, it's used for young fashions and for sophisticated clothes as well. In some of the fine-ribbed patterns, Aztec weaves are copied in colors both subtle and odd. These patterns appear in slacks and in dance dresses. Black corduroy is cut into a late-day dress and corduroy in a khaki tone is seen in long shorts paired with a shirt in a lighter shade. At (left) is a weskit and flared skirt in a chevron tweed pattern. This is a fine-ribbed corduroy. It's worn here with a long-sleeved white blouse. Printed corduroy (right) is almond green and black. This is a riding jacket suit with leather bindings. The skirt is straight and slim.

Readers' Friday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: (from Jessie M. A. re: Angel Food Dessert)

ANSWER: (cont'd. from last column): When angel food cake is baked and cool turn it upside down on wax paper and slice entire top from cake about 1 inch down. Now remove enough of the cake crumbs to leave a one-inch wall all around the outside and at the centre hole, for this is to be filled and top slice of cake replaced. Now make filling. Soak 2 teaspoons gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water then dissolve it by stirring over hot water. Now mash 1 pint of fruit. This may be strawberries, raspberries, apricots, peaches, drained crushed canned pineapple, drained mandarin oranges, or banana. Add to fruit 2 tablespoons sugar and the soaked and dissolved gelatin. Chill When partially set fold in 1 cup cream which has been whipped until stiff and slightly sweetened. Fill cavity in cake with this. Replace top slice. "Ice" cake with sweetened whipped cream and decorate with pieces or slices of whichever fruit you use in the filling. Chill thoroughly.

Another mouthwatering version of filled Angel Food Cake is made by mixing together 6 tablespoons sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 6 tablespoons cocoa and 1½ cups whipping cream whipped stiff. Chill this 1 hour. Then whip until stiff. Into half of this fold one-third cup cut up toasted almonds. Use the nut part to fill cake. Replace top of cake and spread remaining chocolate whipped cream on top and sides of cake. Sprinkle with more toasted almonds. Chill 3 hours before serving. This is very popular—as you can imagine with one eye shut.

QUESTION: My mother used to make a rice pudding which I was very fond of but I do not know what amounts to use. The pudding was made of rice, milk, sugar, nutmeg and baked in oven and stirred often. Would you know any recipe like this? Also would you please send me Cherry Puff recipe? I have lost mine . . . the baked pea-meal bacon is grand . . . Grace S.

ANSWER: Thanks for reminding me of Cherry Puff.

OLD-FASHIONED BAKED RICE PUDDING

Combine in buttered large baking dish 4 cups whole milk, ½ cup sugar, ¼ cup washed raw white long-grain rice, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ to ½ teaspoon nutmeg and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Bake uncovered at 325 deg. Fahr. for 2 ½hours, stirring frequently. As this pudding cools it becomes deliciously creamy. It is usually served with cream. One-half cup raisins may be added 1 hour before baking time is up if desired.

CHERRY PUFF

Four cups stoned sour cherries (OR sliced plums or peaches), ½ cup water, 2½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 2/3 cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sifted cake flour, 6 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon-colored, 2 egg whites, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar. Bring to boil the cherries and water. Combine tapioca, sugar and salt and add gradually to fruit mix and boil 1 minute, stirring. Pour into buttered baking dish and keep hot. Sift flour once and measure it. Add sugar gradually to beaten yolks. Beat whites and salt until foamy. Add cream of tartar to whites and beat until stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Fold egg yolk mixture into egg whites. Then fold in flour, a small amount at a time. Stir hot tapioca-fruit mixture; pour the batter over it. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 50 minutes or until batter is baked. Serve this warm. This is very delicate. I think when it is made with Lombard plums it is at its best.

QUESTION: I recently tried your recipe for dandelion wine and would like recipes for other homemade wines. Do you have a recipe for really good baked beans. Mine are always hard and tasteless. Mrs. G. B. M.

ANSWER. I have mailed you other wine recipes.

BAKED BEANS

Soak 2 cups washed white beans in cold water overnight. Drain. Cover with salted boiling water and simmer slowly for 1½ hours. Drain. Put in greased baking dish or bean pot with ¼ lb. cut up salt pork with some rind on. Mix together ¼ teaspoon each salt and dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, then add 2 cups hot water to this dry mix. Stir this into the beans. Bury a small onion in the beans if desired, peeled of course. Dot top with butter. Cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 3 hours, or until beans are soft. Uncover during last 30 minutes.

DOROTHY DIX:

Shorn Lamb Asks Friend Give Up Dancing, Smoking

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been engaged to my future wife for three months. We went steady for six months, and have been happy except for one thing. To please her, I gave up dancing, movies, the little drinking I did, and now she is begging me to give up smoking. Her folks don't think much of my people because they allowed me to do these things. Should I give in to Eva again, or what?

JERRY.

WHAT NEXT?

ANSWER: When will she get around to suggesting you give up breathing? You alone, Jerry, can decide how much Eva is worth, but my guess is that from now on, you won't be able to do anything you like. What Eva doesn't think of, her folks will. Of course, giving up these things won't do you any harm, and if the girl is honestly convinced that she objects to them on moral or religious grounds, her requests are justified. However, if her idea is simply to mold you into a carbon copy of her sedate family, better watch out. Henpecking comes easy—and has the darnedest habit of sneaking up quietly.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm quite an attractive girl of 16. A very nice boy of 17 has just moved into our neighborhood, and while he's very friendly when we meet, he's never asked for a date. How can I become better acquainted with him?

CHRISTINE.

ANSWER: Since he's a newcomer to the neighborhood, would it not be nice to suggest a picnic so he could get to meet the other young people? You have overcome the first obstacle by getting him on a friendly speaking basis; take advantage of the opportunity and invite him to a get-together. This could be a simple barbecue in your own backyard, a square-dancing session in someone's recreation room or as suggested above, a picnic or beach party.

DEAR MISS DIX: My 20-year-old sister has been going for the past year with a young man of 26. They date at least twice a week, but the man has never mentioned an engagement or marriage. My sister has asked where she stands with him, and his answer is that he's not ready to settle down. My sister said that in that case she thought she should date other men on Saturday night. However, she does see this fellow during the week. My mother feels she should break with the man entirely, since seeing him, even occasionally, probably will prevent her from becoming serious over someone else.

PETER B.

ANSWER: Your mother is undoubtedly right. The man certainly shows no indication of ever developing serious intentions and as long as he figures in the girl's dating program at all, he's likely to occupy too large a place in her affections. I would recommend a complete break.

DEAR MISS DIX: Our problem is a girl friend. She's pretty, but rather plump and very self-conscious about it. Actually, no one would notice it much, since she's good company, but she draws attention to her overweight. She's continually asking, "Do you think I'm too fat?" and, of course, that embarrasses and bores the boys.

SUE AND BETTY.

ANSWER: The very best way to improve your friend would be to make her lose weight. Why not get together with her mother and see if you can't establish a low-calorie program for the girl, in accordance with doctor's instructions, of course? Apparently the young-lady needs morale bolstering, and that you're ready to give. Point out how foolish her present line of chatter is, and try imposing some sort of forfeit everytime you hear her mention weight, or plumpness. If she works faithfully on those two angles, she'll soon win back her popularity.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a widow 53 years old, and the mother of four children. My husband died a year ago, and I've been in deep mourning ever since. We were very devoted to each other, and the light of my life died when he passed away. My problem is that the children want me to wear something beside black all the time. I don't know what to do. I don't want to make people talk, or to have them say I've forgotten my husband.

MRS. M. A. M.

ANSWER: A year of deep mourning is certainly enough to show the proper respect for your husband, and I agree with the children that you should begin to wear colors again. Today, few people wear mourning for a year, even for their closest relatives. It's time, too, for you to get about and be active. You are still a comparatively young woman; don't make the grave mistake of retiring entirely from contact with other people, and don't depend on your children alone for companionship. You need other people, and they need you!

Dressing Gives The Zest To Salads Of Any Sort

A salad without dressing is like soup without salt and here are four recipes for salad dressings that will add zest and flavour to salads and increase their popularity with everyone in the family.

FRUIT SALAD DRESSING

3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons flour
Few grains salt
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Grated rind of lemon
¾ cup canned fruit juice
1 egg
¼-½ cup mayonnaise
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Mix sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler. Add vinegar, lemon juice and rind, fruit juice and slightly beaten egg. Blend well. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened and continue cooking about five minutes. Chill just before serving, fold in mayonnaise and whipped cream. Yield: about 2¾ cups—12 generous servings for fruit salads.

FISH SALAD DRESSING

To add a special touch to any fish salad, add one tablespoon of chopped capers or one-quarter cup of finely chopped mixed pickles to one cup of any type of dressing.

VEGETABLE SALAD DRESSING

2 eggs
1 cup sour cream
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup cider vinegar
Few drops Worcestershire sauce

Beat eggs until very light; add sour cream, salt, dry mustard, sugar, vinegar and Worcestershire sauce. Blend well. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened, about five minutes. Yield: 1¾ cups.

TOSSED SALAD DRESSING

3 slices bacon
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon flour
2 teaspoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup water
¼ cup cider vinegar

Cut bacon in small pieces and cook until crisp. Add onion and cook a minute or two. Blend in flour, sugar and salt. Add water and vinegar and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is smooth and slightly thickened. While still warm, pour dressing over your favorite salad greens and serve immediately. Yield: ½ cup which is sufficient for a tossed salad to serve six.

Toss Together A Season Salad

2 cups cooked or canned flaked fish
¼ cup chopped green onions
¼ cup chopped radishes
½ cup grated carrots
1 cup shredded lettuce
½ cup salad dressing

To cooked flaked fish add onions, radishes and carrots. Mix well. Add shredded lettuce then salad dressing and toss all together. Serve on crisp greens.

MANLEY—In loving memory of Minnie Manley, who passed away July 31, 1951.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture
Of a loved one gone to rest,
In our memories' frame we will keep it,
Because she was one of the best.
Sweet are the memories that never fade,
Of one we loved but could not save,
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory she left behind.
—Ever remembered by her sister, Mrs. W. Mathews and niece Mrs. G. Lee.

PRICE—In loving memory of a dear husband, Albert E. Price, who passed away three years ago today, July 31, 1950.
Calm and peaceful he is sleeping
Sweetest rest that follows pain;
I who loved him sadly miss him
But trust in God to meet again.
—Ever remembered by his wife, Alice.

Old Cemetery

Some of the stones bear family names still common in Omemee and Emily township. There are names like English, Keir, Clarke, Armstrong, Pogue.

Asked if there was any intention of moving headstones, monuments and graves to the present Emily cemetery, Mr. Stephenson thought not; there were difficulties in the way.

CEMETERY LAWS

Many strict legal regulations govern the preservation and conduct of cemeteries in Ontario. There is a Cemeteries Act. The Act states that "no dead body shall at any time be removed" except under regulations as provided by the Act. Action requires consent of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, notification of intention in the official Ontario Gazetter, and in the local newspaper in four successive weeks, and notice sent by registered mail to every plot owner whose address can be ascertained.

The owner of a closed cemetery (such as the old Omemee cemetery) "shall re-erect or replace all monuments or headstones", if the cemetery is to be abandoned.

Cemetery land cannot be sold, leased or otherwise disposed of, until all legal requirements are complied with and the county judge issues a certificate that the "owner" of the cemetery "has removed from the cemetery and reinterred as hereinbefore provided all the remains which with the exercise of reasonable diligence he has been able to find buried in such a cemetery."

Another section of the Cemeteries Act states that "No person shall wilfully destroy, mutilate, deface, injure, or remove any tomb, monument, gravestone or other structure placed in the cemetery".

MUST BE CARED FOR

The local Board of Health is empowered by law "to see that every cemetery is properly fenced, kept clear of weeds, and otherwise cared for in a proper manner."

Where the owner neglects to keep a cemetery in good order, the local Board of Health may order him (or the corporation, such as a church) to do so.

The Act states that "When the owner of a cemetery cannot be found or is unknown, or is unable to maintain it, the council of the local municipality shall be charged with the duty of maintaining it".

LEGAL SNAGS

In their desire to clean up the old Omemee cemetery, neglected for so many years, the churchwardens' zeal for bulldozing may have struck legal snags tougher than overturned tombstones. A legal interpretation of the privilege of ancestors is this: "Persons having an estate or interest in a plot of ground set apart and used as a family burying ground in which bodies of ancestors and relatives are interred, may sue to restrain injury to or interference with the graves or the gravestones upon them."

Omemee now has the distinction of having one of the most decayed cemeteries in the Province and one of the finest rural cemeteries—the Emily cemetery, which has been financially supported by Lady Eaton, a native of Omemee.

Rupert's Land Archbishop Sherman Dies

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—The Most Rev. Louis Ralph Sherman of Winnipeg, archbishop of Rupert's Land, died in hospital here today after a brief illness.

The 66-year-old Anglican church leader was stricken with a brain haemorrhage Tuesday while vacationing at Clear Lake, Man., and taken to Brandon general hospital.

As archbishop of the metropolitan see of Rupert's Land since his enthronement in 1943, he was in charge of an area covering 28,000 square miles and embracing the three Prairie provinces and part of western Ontario. It extends as far north as the Arctic circle and included 10 dioceses.

A broad-shouldered, vigorous six-footer, Archbishop Sherman was always known among his people as a "man's man," who, in his younger days played tennis, badminton, baseball, football and golf.

He was a fearless preacher and was recognized as a brilliant pulpit and platform speaker. He would, it was said, "fight to the last ditch for any cause he believed was right."

For years, he strongly advocated a fully self-supporting Canadian church. Before an Anglican audience of 10,000 persons at the 1934 general synod Service of Witness in Montreal, he begged his brother bishops to "sign on the dotted line" with him that night to relinquish monetary grants coming from England.

Although his plan met considerable opposition, within a decade he saw it adopted without a dissenting voice.

Born in Fredericton, Aug. 26, 1886, he was the youngest of three sons and three daughters of Louise Walsh and Alic Maxwell Sherman.

YOUNG BISHOP

He was one of the youngest bishops in Canada at the time of his consecration in Calgary in 1927. In Calgary, the popular churchman took a prominent part, not only in religious affairs of the community, but in peace work, welfare endeavors and in municipal affairs in general.

Archbishop Sherman attended the Lambeth conference in London in 1948. He was one of 21 Anglican bishops and archbishops who represented Canada at the church's decennial conference held in Lambeth Palace.

In June, 1951, he preached at a thanksgiving service in St. Paul's cathedral before members of the Royal family.

U.S. Senator Has Denounced British Trade With China

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Karl Mundt (Rep. S. D.) today denounced what he termed new "blood traffic" by British traders with Red China, and called again for a penalty cut in foreign aid to Britain.

Mundt pointed to an announcement from London Wednesday that Britain has authorized immediate export to China of nearly $10,000,000,000 worth of non - strategic goods. The announcement came from an unofficial British trade group, which said British businessmen want to ship the Reds an equal value of goods on the borderline of being strategic for war purposes. The British board of trade declined comment on the announcement.

Mundt said he plans to call the London anouncement to the attention of the U. S. state department and the mutual security agency.

PROMPT SUPPORT

Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.), another bitter critic of British trade with China, gave prompt support to Mundt's declaration. McCarthy waged a futile battle to amend the foreign aid bill to withhold foreign aid sums from any nations trading with the Reds.

"The London announcement," McCarthy said, "points up how useful that amendment would have been. Here we have people deliberately building up the war potential of Red China for blood money and we are putting up money to help them. They are cutting down the possibility of any peace (in Korea)."

The London announcement was made by the British Council for the Promotion of International Trade, a private group which says its main purpose is to foster trade with Iron Curtain countries.

VOTE SWINGER

Mundt said he believes the announcement, if it had come to Senate attention in time, would have swung enough votes to write McCarthy's penalty amendment into the foreign aid bill.

State Secretary Dulles told McCarthy last May, in an exchange over the issue of Allied trade with the Reds, that the U. S. had adequate laws to withhold aid from countries which traded with the Communists.

Dulles said then that U. S. policy, while barring U. S. trade with the Reds altogether, acknowledged the right of free world countries to deal with them in non-strategic goods. The theory, Dulles said, is that it is better to have small, controllable trade of this sort than to attempt to block it and run the risk of opening up wide, uncontrollablue trade channels.

vention ballot, after a bitter preliminary battle over a number of contested Southern delegates, he said. "This is the last time I'll ever run for President. I'll be too old."

The Senator, who came from Ohio's leading political family, was generally regarded as a controversial figure. Some called him an isolationist and arch-conservative. He rejected that as a smear.

KNEW WHERE HE STOOD

There was never any dispute over Sen. Taft's honesty and outspokenness. He knew exactly where he stood on every major issue and never hesitated to put his stand plainly on the record. He was not afraid to take the unpopular and minority side of a question, even to the point of risking his political future. "It's dishonest to be tactful," he once remarked.

Perhaps the keystone of his political philosophy was strong resistance to a trend in his period—a trend toward a more powerful and independent executive at the expense of Congress. He criticized Franklin D. Roosevelt on this from the start and carried on the same fight with Harry S. Truman.

Foreign policy was the biggest issue facing the country while he was in the Senate, and it was for pronouncements in this field that he became best known. World War II began the year he went to the Senate, and he fought all Roosevelt policies which he thought might involve the United States in the war.

He voted against the establishment of selective service in 1940, against repeal of the neutrality act and against the deal sending 50 American destroyers to Great Britain. He charged that President Roosevelt had no right to risk involvement by sending American troops to Iceland.

He contended that President Roosevelt was "leading us steadily toward war, and . . . he intends to get us into the war."

Once the United States entered the war, through declaration by Congress right after Pearl Harbor, Sen. Taft was in favor, as much as anybody, of fighting it all out to victory.

After the war he voted for ratification of the United Nations Charter, but against legislation implementing American UN participation. He contended the law empowered the President to commit the United States to war without consulting Congress.

OPPOSED ATLANTIC PACT

Sen. Taft opposed the Bretton Woods international fiscal legislation, and in 1949 he voted against the Atlantic Pact, calling it "an old fashioned military, alliance."

"The pact is essentially aggressive, not defensive," he said. "If Russia sees herself ringed by so-called defensive armies from Norway to Turkey she may decide this arming will lead to an attack on Russia.

In 1951 Sen. Taft challenged the President's claimed authority to send troops to Europe without Congressional approval, and he opposed sending more than six divisions there. He called the Korean war "a Truman war."

Critical of "land-minded" military men, Sen. Taft advocated building the Air Force greatly and wanted a combination of air-sea power "which cannot be challenged by Russia."

Sen. Taft's definition of a foreign policy was this:

"The principal purpose of the foreign policy of the United States is to maintain the liberty of our people. Its purpose is not to reform the entire world or spread sweetness and light and economic prosperity to peoples who have lived and worked out their own salvation for centuries according to the best of their abilities."

He went on to say that the United States did have "an interest in the economic welfare of other nations and in the military strength of other nations, but only to the extent to which our assistance may reduce the probability of an attack on the freedom of our people."

FATHER U.S. PRESIDENT

A ruddy-faced, sparse-haired man more than six feet tall, Sen. Taft was born Sept. 8, 1889, in Cincinnati. His father was William Howard Taft, Governor-General of the Philippines, Secretary of War, President of the United States and finally, Chief Justice of the United States. His paternal grandfather, Alphonso Taft, served as Secretary of War, Attorney General and Minister to Austria and to Russia.

Young Bob attended public school in Cincinnati and in Manila, where he lived from the age of 11 to 14. Then he went to his Uncle Horace's Taft School, Watertown, Conn., and was graduated from Yale in 1910 and from Harvard Law School in 1913. At both Yale and Harvard he was first in his class, and he was editor-in-chief of "The Harvard Law Review."

After graduation, he went back to Cincinnati and started law practice, as his father and grandfather had before him. The next year he married Martha Wheaton Bowers, whom he had met at the White House when her father, Lloyd Bowers, was Solicitor General under President Taft. His wife, a witty and vivacious speaker, hit the hustings with him on many a political campaign as his career developed.

REJECTED BY ARMY

Sen. Taft tried twice to enlist for service in World War I, but was rejected for poor vision. He became Assistant Counsel to Herbert Hoover's United States Food Administration. He was in Europe shortly after the armistice and was decorated for food relief work by France, Belgium and Poland.

Back in Cincinnati after the war, Sen. Taft and his brother Charles developed their law firm to prosperous proportions with a number of large corporations as clients. Meanwhile, he went into politics, winning election to the Ohio House of Representatives where he served from 1921 to 1926. He was Republican Floor Leader in 1924 and Speaker in 1925. In 1931-'32 he served a term in the Ohio Senate.

Ohio made him a favorite son candidate for the Presidential nomination at the 1936 Republican National Convention, but after one ballot he followed the pattern and threw his votes to Alf M. Landon, who won the nomination. Two years later he ran for the United States Senate and defeated Democratic Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, a staunch new dealer, by a plurality of 172,000 votes.

TAFT-HARTLEY ACT

His sponsorship in 1947 of the Taft-Hartley law was an example of his political courage—organized labor didn't like the law, and Sen. Taft came from a state with a big industrial vote.

The law, hardening federal policy toward labor unions for the first time since approval of the Wagner Act in 1935, banned the closed shop, put restrictions on the union shop, empowered the government to seek an injunction to stop a big strike for eighty days and was generally welcomed by employers.

The law was passed over President Truman's sharply worded veto. The President called it "dangerous legislation," said it would hurt "our national unity" and so "render a distinct dis-service not only to this nation but to the world."

Sen. Taft said the legislation was far from "a slave labor law," as some union leaders contended. He argued that within two years after it became effective, unions gained a million members and enjoyed the best contracts, wages, welfare services and pensions they had ever had.

In 1949 Sen. Taft was agreeable to modifying some of its provisions, but to repeal it—as President Truman urged—he said, "would produce an economy dominated by the labor unions which today are political parties which believe in a Socialist form of government in the welfare field."

The next year, when Sen. Taft ran for his third Senate term, he was re-elected by a plurality of 431,000—the greatest ever achieved by any candidate for that office in Ohio. His victory came despite opposition within the state from the Truman Administration and by organized labor officials.

As a seeker of the Republican Presidential nomination, Sen. Taft always ran second. His first try was in 1940 when he had been in the Senate and on the national scene for only two years.

Among the regular Republican candidates he was the leader that year at Philadelphia, but Wendell L. Willkie's remarkable campaign won the nomination during the sixth ballot. On the fifth Mr. Willkie had 429 votes to 377 for Sen. Taft.

In 1944 Sen. Taft ran again for the Senate, leaving Ohio's part in the national convention up to Sen. Bricker, who sought the Presidential nomination, was defeated by Thomas E. Dewey, and then accepted the vice-presidential spot.

In 1948 Sen. Taft had 274 votes on the second ballot to 515 for Mr. Dewey, and the New York governor won on the third ballot.

Sen. Taft set his sights determinedly on 1952 and began to work hard and openly for the nomination that year. His supporters invaded virtually every state, lining up delegates long in advance. As time for the July convention in Chicago neared, a majority of the Republican National Committee was made up of Taft men. And this meant an advantage in various arrangements and booking of speakers.

Gen. Eisenhower, who had announced his availability six months before the convention, was his big opposition. Admittedly, nobody else had a chance unless a deadlock forced selection of a dark horse.

Much bitterness dogged the convention. The pro-Taft National Committee seated pro-Taft delegations from Texas, Georgia and Louisiana, though rival pro-Eisenhower delegations insisted they were the rightful ones. Then the credentials committee reversed the national committee in the case of Louisiana, and the convention itself ruled for Eisenhower in the case of Georgia. At this point, Sen. Taft yielded in the case of Texas, and things were already going Gen. Eisenhower's way.

On the first ballot, Sen. Taft got 500 votes while Gen. Eisenhower got 595, only nine short of victory. Before a second ballot was started, Minnesota switched all its votes to Gen. Eisenhower, and it was all over. Sen. Taft's last bid for the Presidential nomination had failed.

UNYIELDING OLD GUARD

The very qualities which had won for him the name of Mr. Republican probably contributed largely to his defeat. He was known as an unyielding old-guard man, and the Republicans wanted a more middle-road man to attract independent votes and Democrats impatient with Truman policies, also, he had the bad luck to compete against a national military hero.

There was heartbreak and strain on Sen. Taft's face when, right after the Eisenhower nomination, he was visited by the victor who called him "a great American." In turn, Sen. Taft said, "I will do everything possible to assist him (Eisenhower) in his program when he is elected President."

CALLED MR. REPUBLICAN

Sen. Robert Alphonso Taft, son of a President and three times a serious contender for the Republican nomination, was such a strong exponent of undiluted party policy that he was called Mr. Republican.

A powerful force nationally in the party since his Senate debut in 1939, he drove unsuccessfully for the Presidential nomination in 1940, 1948 and 1952. In 1944 he stepped aside for the aspirations of a fellow Ohioan—Sen. John W. Bricker.

Sen. Taft's major bid was in 1952 against Dwight D. Eisenhower. When he lost on the first con-

Brawl Results In Fine $55

A seaport type brawl on George St. Thursday night resulted in a total of $55 in fines to Kenneth Deck, 21, of 933 Water St. today in magistrate's court. Deck paid the fines and left soon afterward to return to sea.

Deck left his mark behind him, though, in the form of a four-inch gash in PC Edward Nizol's shin. When he appeared in court today, he faced four charges; two of assaulting an officer; one of assaulting Grant Howard, and one of causing a disturbance.

PC Nizol told the court the circumstances. Aproaching a crowd in front of a downtown hotel, he found Deck standing over Howard who apparently had undergone a workout.

Howard told the officer he wanted to lay a charge of assault against the accused. Deck spat a few curses and walked away but returned at the bidding of the officer who grabbed him on the shoulder.

A minor scuffle ensued during which PC Nizol clamped a headlock on the accused. Deck backed the policeman against a wall and tried to loosen his grip by smashing the officer's body against it; "it wasn't harmful."

At this point a brother of the accused tried to pacify Deck but succeeded only in making things worse, and the three landed on the ground, PC Nizol beneath. It was at this point he sustained the leg injury.

Reinforcements arrived in the person of PC's Cec Bowyer and Robert Muldoon and the trio eventually succeeded in subduing the sailor.

In court today, one charge of assaulting an officer was dropped while the assault charge concerning Howard was also dismissed.

Magistrate W. R. Philp warned the seaman, however, that Peterborough "isn't a seaport town; fights on the streets won't be allowed."

The accused was fined $40 and $2.50 costs on the charge of assaulting an officer with intent to resist arrest, and $10 and $2.50 costs on a charge of causing a disturbance.

Wheat Continues Flow To City Till Midnight

The trucking of wheat from grain fields of the district continued Thursday in sustained volume until close to midnight. It was a 17-hour day at the receiving end, and trucks resumed rolling down Queen St. again this morning.

Stewart Lockington at Quaker Oats remarked that "everybody wants bags; we got in another 6,000 of them this morning; and have had 50,000 on loan to the wheat farmers."

Quality is high, deliveries are heavier than local mills expected, even after seenig the fields as they were close to maturity.

The dust of combining the grain and also of threshing in the fields hangs above the Peterborough countryside as the seasonal sign and mark of harvest time.

Quaker Oats were telling farmers today their mill would not be open on Civic Holiday, Monday.

GOOD ALL OVER

Reports today from other sections of the province all indicate that the soft wheat marketing this week is an extraordinary activity in both the quality of the grain and the quantity flowing through the farm equipment.

The shuttling truck lines from all around the district converge at Simcoe and Queen Streets. That's cereal lane, leading to Dewart's mills and Quaker Oats. Some of the grain is coming from the Bowmanville district on the west, from Trenton on the east, and from 15 miles west of Lindsay.

Buyers are reluctant to talk about price in the face of the huge crop.

CHILD 4 TRAPPED IN BURNING GARAGE

FOUR-YEAR-OLD NANCY ROSE burned to death in this garage behind her parents' home today. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Rose, 1164 Clonsilla Ave. Her body was not found until firemen had been fighting the flames for about 15 minutes. Then they located it in front of the loft, below the open doors shown in the picture above which was taken before she was found. Cause of the fire is unknown. A New York tourist first noticed the fire and advised the girl's mother. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Firemen Find Girl's Body Huddled In Front Of Loft; Passing Driver Spots Fire

By JIM ENGLISH

Four-year-old Nancy Rose, 1164 Clonsilla Ave., burned to death today in a garage behind her parents' home. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Rose. Firemen fought the blaze for about 15 minutes before they discovered the child's burned body huddled in the front of the loft over the garage. The fire started about 10 a.m. from unknown causes, and as yet it is not known whether any other children had been playing with Nancy in the frame building. First to see the fire was a New York tourist, Fred Karl, of Lancaster, N.Y., returning to the U.S. from holidays at Chandos Lake.

The Karls were leaving the city by Clonsilla Ave., when "we saw the thing burning at the back of the house.

MOTHER SLEEPING

"We didn't see anyone around," said Mr. Karl, "so we went in and woke them. She (Mrs. Rose) was lying on a couch."

Janice Karl, Mr. Karl's daughter, said: "I pounded on the door and then went straight in when there was no answer."

Fire department officials said at press time today there was still nothing to show what had caused the fire. They added that an officer of the fire marshal's office in Toronto would arrive later today to investigate.

Relatives and neighbors of the Rose family were unable to give a reason for the little girl being in the loft. Normally she played in the yard at the back or side of the house.

"There must have been some other youngsters there, too," said John Kelly, an uncle of the girl. "I don't think she would have gone up there herself."

Mr. Kelly explained that to reach the loft of the garage, a person would have to climb steps at the rear of the building, then open a trap door. He thought the door would probably be too heavy for her to lift.

BELIEVED HELPED

His theory was that other children had helped her into the loft, and that when the fire started she found the trap door too heavy. Doors at the front of the loft, from which there are no stairs, were latched on the inside, and Mr. Kelly doubted she could have opened those.

Mr. Karl, the tourist who first saw the fire, said that Mrs. Rose came out of the house "and wanted me to put on the garden hose. She was all excited.

"I asked her if she had phoned the fire department. She said, 'Do you think we need it?' I told her, 'But definitely'."

Reds Plan Send 400 PoWs Daily

Sick and Wounded Will Go First Authorities Announce

MUNSAN (AP)—The Communists today informed the Allies they plan to hand over 400 Allied captives daily beginning 10 a.m. Wednesday (8 p.m. EDT Tuesday).

The Reds said they will deliver the Allied PoWs in groups of 100 each hour for four hours each day.

The Red Chinese Peiping radio said earlier the first Allied prisoners released would be "non-Korean" sick and wounded, including Americans and Britons.

The UN captives "are about to start moving" down toward Panmunjom, the Communists said.

FIRST DETAILS

The Wednesday starting date had been announced several days ago, but this was the first disclosure of what time of day the exchange will begin.

Red correspondent Wilfred Burchett of the Paris daily L'Humanite told Allied correspondents outside the conference hut he believes sick and wounded prisoners will make up the bulk of the first exchange. The Reds have said they hold about 500 disabled Allied prisoners.

The Communists said they held 12,763 Allied prisoners, including 14 Canadians. The Allies are handing back about 74,000 Reds.

At the announced rate of exchange, all Allied PoWs should be free after 32 days. Truce terms set a limit of 80 days from the signing last Monday for completion of the trade.

Coldwell Calls Social Credit Dangerous Cult

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Social Credit was described here Friday night by CCF leader M. J. Coldwell as "the most dangerous cult we have seen in this country at any time."

Since he started his campaign in British Columbia at Kimberley on Wednesday, Mr. Coldwell has concentrated his attack on the Social Crediters. Friday night he said:

"I have no respect for those people who suddenly blossom out as Social Crediters to be used by a machine which would subvert democratic institutions through the misuse of the Holy Bible."

The party, without philosophy, program or policy, seemed to be sidetracking people along a road of which no one saw the end.

ASK COMPLETE TRUST

Social Credit asked the people to trust its leaders.

"That," said Mr. Coldwell, "is what Hitler said. That is what Mussolini said. There is little difference between the teachings of Hitler and Mussolini and those of William Aberhart, and little difference between their legislation and that which Social Crediters tried to put on the books of Alberta."

The CCF leader was speaking in support of his colleague in Parliament, O. L. Jones, who is contesting the fruit growing riding of Okanagan-Boundary. An audience of 220 half-filled the high school hall for the meeting.

Speaking of advantages co-operative working had given to local fruit growers, he said the co-operatives had prevented price spreads which deprived the producer of his reward and made the consumer pay more.

He accused the Liberals and Conservatives of being unsympathetic to co-operatives because, he said, those parties had always catered to big interests.

He said a national health service, "the thing dearest to my heart," would not only help the country in peace but would also be an investment in defence.

In an "astounding statement" the defence department had said that 51 per cent of volunteers for service in Korea were turned down for physical or mental defects, and 98 per cent of those who enlisted required immediate dental care.

Mr. Coldwell motors to Vancouver today and will cross by ship to Nanaimo where he is to speak tonight.

PM Refuses To Repudiate Liberal Letter

CORNWALL (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has accused George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, of "distorting" the facts of one of Parliament's most controversial documents—the Currie report.

And he has rejected Mr. Drew's demands that he repudiate a Liberal federation vote-getting letter sent to Canadian troops in Korea and implying that a Conservative government would lower the living standards of Canada's fighting forces.

With the Aug. 10 voting date drawing closer, the fighting between the two party leaders has heightened.

Mr. St. Laurent charged Friday night that Mr. Drew and Progressive Conservatives "magnify" every arrest of a serviceman and try to claim "it is further evidence of the breakdown of the defence administration."

"We all know that all but a handful of our soldiers and sailors and airmen are good, honest Canadians who are giving devoted service—and that is also true of the civil servants in the defence department," Mr. St. Laurent told a crowd of 2,000 in Cornwall's armouries.

DISTORTING FACTS

The controversial Currie report, handed down in the last Parliament, stated there was a breakdown in the administration of the defence department's works branch. It told of horses being placed on the payroll at Petawawa military camp, of theft of steel rails and camp buildings.

But Mr. Drew "is misrepresenting and distorting" the facts of that report, said Mr. St. Laurent. There had been no horses on the payroll, and Mr. Drew had been told so. But the Progressive Conservative leader continued to say that the horses-on-the-payroll episode had never been denied.

As for theft of steel rails, the facts had been given repeatedly that a "few rusty rails from a disused siding" had been stolen, "and yet the way Mr. Drew tells the story, many people might suppose the siding in question was something comparable with this Grand

Drew Promises To Reduce Taxes On Cars

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — George Drew says a Progressive Conservative government would tackle the problem of how to cut taxes on automobiles.

Addressing about 1,000 persons Friday night in this automobile-producing city, the Progressive Conservative leader estimated that taxes make up some 40 per cent of the cost of cars in Canada. Taxes loaded on the cost of production has added to the cost of production in many ways.

"This tax burden on necessary transportation is something which must be tackled right away."

NEED THOROUGH STUDY

It was not possible, without a thorough study of the situation, to say how much taxes on cars could be reduced.

"But, recognizing that this is imposing an unfair burden on our wage earners, there will be an immediate and thorough inquiry into the whole question so that taxes can be reduced. This will not only ease the burden on the individual purchaser but will help to reduce the cost of production in other fields where the price of automobiles enters into the cost of these other products."

Mr. Drew today winds up an election campaign swing through southwestern Ontario, speaking in Palmerston, Arthur, Mount Forest, Kincardine, Southampton, Meaford and Owen Sound before returning to Ottawa Sunday to speak Monday in his own riding of Carleton.

He also criticized Liberal government housing policies in his Windsor speech. He said federal taxes make it difficult for municipalities to provide serviced land for home-building.

Order Inquest In Bus Crash

MORRISBURG (CP)—An inquest was ordered today into the bus-truck collision which killed 20 persons here Friday. Hospital officials in Cornwall reported an improvement in the condition of the drivers of the two vehicles. The inquest was announced in Cornwall by Crown Attorney P. J. Milligan. He did not state where the inquiry would be held but it was expected to be in Morrisburg. Officials of the Cornwall General hospital said the condition of Max Roodman, 40, of Toronto, driver of the truck, "had improved." They said earlier that he might not live. Most of the 20 victims were believed to have drowned when the two vehicles hurtled into the Williamsburg canal after the collision. Nineteen persons escaped.

The hospital said no one, including police, has been permitted to see either Roodman or Lorne Chesebrough, 30, of Kingston, Ont., the bus driver who suffered severe shock. No interviews will be allowed until each is out of danger.

Meanwhile, the number of dead positively identified now totals 17, including 11 men and six women. One man and two women still have been only tentatively identified.

LAUNCH INVESTIGATION

An investigation was launched by Ontario provincial police but essential information about the early-morning tragedy will not be available until police talk to Roodman and Chesebrough.

Of the 20 who perished, 12 were men and eight women. Nineteen persons escaped, including 17 passengers, Roodman and Chesebrough.

Undertaker Leonard Keck said the women were more difficult to identify than the men because women normally carry their only means of identification in their purses. The purses were washed about inside the submerged bus or floated free of it and have not been recovered.

The Colonial Coach Lines express bus was rolling toward Montreal when at 4:05 a. m. it smashed into the stalled, half-ton delivery truck. The bus tossed the truck into the canal, running beside the highway, then followed it in an arc like a mammoth projectile. It

Congressional Leaders Plan State Funeral For Taft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders arranged today for a state funeral for Senator Robert A. Taft, probably on Monday, with details to be announced later. Jack Martin, administrative assistant to the late Senate leader, said Mrs. Taft and the family had consented to the state funeral and that burial would be at Cincinnati, Taft's home town.

Taft's death Friday, from cancer, continued to evoke expressions of grief and praise.

In the midst of their eulogies, many of the Ohio Republican's Senate colleagues had proposed that his body be brought from New York to lie in state in the Rotunda of the capitol.

WORK OUT DETAILS

Senate officials arranged to work out final details today.

The Senate recessed Friday in respect to Taft, but the House of Representatives solemnly continued in session and Friday night formally adopted a resolution expressing profound sorrow before adjourning out of respect.

Among the early callers at the Taft's residence in Washington were the president and Mrs. Eisenhower.

In a public statement, Eisenhower had said:

"The American people have lost a truly great citizen and I have lost a wise counsellor and a valued friend."

This came from the man Taft had fought bitterly last year for the Republican presidential nomination then had pitched in to help discharge the White House respon-

Says Attack 'Unprovoked'

TOKYO (AP)—"It was absolutely an unprovoked attack, 40 miles from Russian territory," said the co-pilot of a United States B-50 bomber shot down at sea in a Russian jet attack off Siberia Wednesday.

Capt. John E. Roche today directly contradicted Moscow charges that the big plane and its 17-man crew were over Siberia near the Red naval base, Vladivostok, and that the Americans fired first.

Roche said at a press conference:

"We were definitely 40 miles from Russian territory. Our navigation is almost infallible. It was visual, Loran and Q13 (radar). We weren't any closer than 40 miles."

Roche, 28, said a MiG jet with Russian insignia flashed in and blasted one of the bomber's four engines. Then, so quickly that it might have been a different MiG, an engine on the other wing was shot up.

The right wing fell off and the big plane crumpled into the sea of Japan. The crew was ordered to bail out.

Roche, of Washington, D.C., was the only crew member rescued by U.S. ships.

German Crown Jewels Stolen

HECHINGEN, Germany (CP)—An international police hunt was in full swing today for a gang of thieves who stole the crown jewels of Frederick the Great from the Hohenzollern Castle museum here Thursday night.

Though the basic value of the historic jewels is placed at $225,000, collectors estimate their value to be at least $7,000,000.

All German frontier checkpoints and airfields were alerted and all people leaving Germany were carefully searched.

Police believe the burglars climbed over the castle wall during the night and with special tools cut the iron grate of a museum window and smashed the panel.

Inside the museum they smashed four show cases containing the crown jewels.

Police said only the crown of the German emperors remained untouched.

Truce Commission Has First Meeting

MUNSAN (AP)—The four-nation neutral commission which will police the Korean armistice met at Panmunjom today for the first time and heard the Communists' chief military armistice delegate wish it success.

Meanwhile, the first group of Allied prisoners was reported on its way down the road to freedom and the UN command prepared a full dress reception rehearsal for Monday to speed their homeward journey. The prisoner exchange is scheduled to begin Wednesday at Panmunjom.

The neutral commission officers from Sweden, Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia were introduced and exchanged credentials in a formal meeting at the dusty truce site.

The commission's chief function is to watch for violations of the armistice.

Maj.-Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, the Allies' senior delegate to the UN-Red military armistice commission, introduced the Swiss and Swedish representatives. Lt.-Gen. Lee Sang Cho, Bryan's counterpart on the commission, introduced the Poles and Czechs.

Report U.K. Has Guided A-Bomb

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Britain will try guiding an atomic missile by remote control in the October test scheduled at the Woomera range in Australia, the Sydney Herald says today.

The newspaper's London correspondent quotes a "responsible source" for his report.

He says the new aiming device couples an electronic system whereby the target area appears on a detailed radar map, with a remote control system to guide the bomb accurately to its target. The course, he said, would be traced on the radar map.

UNION PIER, Mich. (AP) — Nathan Butler Swift, 41, vice-president of Swift and Co., huge meat packing firm, was killed late Friday night in an automobile accident.

Michigan state police said Swift's sports car was rammed broadside by an automobile driven by Semour Gottlieg, 25, of Lakeside, Mich.

The collision occurred when Swift drove onto a highway from a restaurant where he had dined.

Swift lived in Chicago.

De Gasperi Refuses To Head Next Gov't

ROME (Reuters)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi will refuse to head Italy's next government, a spokesman said today.

The 72-year-old premier, who has headed seven post-war governments, failed to get a vote of confidence for his one-party government from Parliament early this week.

The spokesman gave no reason for De Gasperi's decision. It was taken to mean, however, that the premier believed his withdrawal would lead to an understanding between his Christian Democratic party and the Monarchists.

De Gasperi's outspoken opposition to coalition with the Monarchists ruled out all possibility of Monarchist support for him.

9 Of Dead Escaped Bus, But Drowned

MORRISBURG (CP) — Connor McGuire, department of transport diver, said today that nine of the 20 dead in Friday's bus accident got out of the bus but were drowned before they could get more than 15 feet from the submerged vehicle.

McGuire, 27, brought up eight victims from the canal where a Colonial Coach Lines bus with 37 aboard plunged after crashing into a parked truck.

He said in one case a woman was halfway through a window. Behind her was a man with his hands and body in a position showing he had been trying to help push her through.

Most of the windows on the uppermost side of the bus had been pushed open or broken, showing the frenzied efforts of passengers to escape.

"Although nine of the dead got out of the vehicle, all but one of those were very close to it. The other was about 15 feet away."

Defy Arrests, Confiscations

Hungry Berliners Snatch Up Food Parcels

BERLIN (AP)—Defying Communist arrests and confiscations, new masses of hungry East Germans swarmed into West Berlin today to snatch up free Western food parcels. Distribution of the U. S.-financed gifts was due to pass the 1,000,000 mark during the day.

In the crowds, as the gigantic give-away rolled through its sixth day, were the vanguard of a weekend invasion of thousands of Russian zone factory workers, using their day off to "come and get it." They included employees of the huge Leuna synthetic gasoline refinery and other large state-owned industries.

Many of these workers had defied Communist police and Russian tanks in the great strikes and demonstrations of June 17. Now they again showed their defiance of Communist orders by accepting the Western bounty.

THREE BLOCKS LONG

By mid-morning the crowds around the big Schoenberg city hall relief station were three city blocks long, with the standees four and six abreast.

West Berlin authorities announced there would be enough food for all who applied. This could mean that parcels would be made available for all the more than 18,000,000 inhabitants of the Russian zone.

Hundreds of East Germans had their prized fats, milk and flour seized Friday by Communist police.

Most of the confiscations occurred at Potsdam and other stations at the end of Berlin's suburban railway lines. The Communists then distributed the confiscated Western food as Soviet aid. West Berlin police quickly broadcast a warning for East Germans to find other safer routes home.

SERVE RUSSIAN ZONE

This weekend, the food stations served only residents of the Russian zone, many of whom rode miles on overcrowded trains and buses. So big was the flood to Berlin that in many places the public transport systems became snarled.

In the horde were scores of crippled and war amputees, many leaning on canes or on the arms of friends. Hundreds stood through a heavy early morning rain to get their gifts.

Communist propagandists hammered away at the relief campaign with threats of reprisal against the takers.

WHERE 20 DIED—Twenty persons were killed when a Colonial Coach Lines Limited bus, bound from Toronto to Montreal, crashed into a truck on the highway near Morrisburg, Ont., and both vehicles plunged into the nearby Williamsburg canal. The bus is shown lying partly submerged in the canal.

Cloudburst Halts Power, Traffic In City of Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP)—"Sunny Alberta," beset by floods in the south in June, now is reeling from record rains in the north. The downpour, which at times reached cloudburst proportions, dumped nearly three inches of rain on Edmonton Friday night in a little more than four hours. Driven by winds that at times reached 52 miles an hour, the rains flooded basements, stalled automobiles, cut off light service and disrupted communications.

The weather office could not say whether the 3.6 inches that fell since Thursday night was a record.

Water three feet deep sloshed around in the basement of the administration building at the Edmonton airport, cutting off power to the weather office on the second floor.

NO FORECAST

Lack of power shut off the teletypes and because there were no reports from correspondents, the regular 9 p. m. forecast was not put out.

The thunder storm extended as far south as Red Deer, west to Jasper and north to Whitecourt, 120 miles northwest of Edmonton. The storm was moving slowly east and south and the weather office said indications were most of Alberta and northwestern Saskatchewan would have rain today.

Weather forecasters, working with flashlights, reported 2.16 inches of rain fell at Edmonton in 90 minutes July 16, 1949, the previous high forf fierce rainfall.

No reports were available immediately on whether the storm damaged grain crops, but a less severe storm late Thursday and early Friday had hit crops and roadbeds.

The earlier storm brought hailstones "larger than eggs" to the St. Albert area, 15 miles north of Edmonton. Some farmers reported 100-per-cent damage and turkeys killed by the hailstones.

Prevents Aggression

OSHAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday he is becoming "more and more convinced" that the defence build-up of Canada and her allies will be effective in preventing further Communist aggression. But Canada had to maintain her bulwark of strength to make certain that her young people are protected from the "terrible consequences" of a third world war.

Young Bicyclist Hit By Car On Highway 7

George Allman, 16, R.R. 2, Indian River, was taken to Civic Hospital shortly after 1.30 p.m. Friday suffering from injuries to the left side of his face and his left ear and possible neck injury.

His condition was reported satisfactory by hospital authorities today.

The youth was thrown to the south shoulder of Highway 7, 14 miles east of Peterborough, when his bicycle was struck from behind by a car driven by Andrew Bortolotti, 39, of Toronto.

SWERVED IN FRONT

Bortolotti was driving to Quebec on his holidays with his wife and three children, proceeding east on Highway 7, when he saw the bicycle going in the same direction ahead of him. He said he slowed down when he saw the bicycle but it suddenly swerved across in front of him.

Allman said he did not see the car approaching.

The rear wheel of the bicycle was struck by the left front hood of the car. Allman was thrown onto the shoulder of the highway from the bicycle, which was hurled about 19 feet from the point of impact. He was brought to Peterborough in a Nisbett ambulance.

OPP Constable John Cawood investigated.

Raspberries End Corn Comes In

This morning saw the last of the local raspberries on the open market and corn made its first appearance of the season.

Farmers and jobbers were asking 60 cents a dozen for corn and 50 cents a box for raspberries.

The biggest sellers of the day were garden vegetables. Farmers were asking $1.06 for six quart baskets of tomatoes and $2.50 for six quart baskets of blueberries. Cucumbers were selling for 5 cents; peppers two for 15 cents; cabbages 10 to 15 cents a head; carrots and beets two bunches for 15 cents, and lettuce 5 cents.

Bunches of gladioli were selling for 40 cents.

Grade A large eggs were selling for 73 cents, oversize 75 cents, and medium 68 to 70 cents. Chickens were selling between 45 and 50 cents a pound.

New potatoes varied in price, but most farmers were asking between 35 and 40 cents a basket. Cherries were selling for 35 cents a quart.

A local bee producer was asking 30 cents a jar for honey and 45 cents for a section.

There were several loads of wood on sale. Hardwood was selling for $14.50 and soft wood $10.

Priest Fined For Intimidation

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP)—The Rev. Georges Beland, Roman Catholic pastor of the little lumbering village of Val Senneville, 10 miles northeast of this northwestern Quebec mining centre, Friday was fined $25 and costs for intimidating members of the Witnesses of Jehovah.

Magistrate Felix Allard announced the conviction and sentence—which carries a 15-day jail term if fine and costs are not paid—11 months after hearing the evidence.

Father Beland, husky, middle-aged former miner, was given 15 days to pay.

Max Danyleyko, 24-year-old Val d'Or minister of the sect who laid the charge, testified along with two other witnesses that Father Beland told them they would "never get out of Val Senneville alive."

He had also used the word "kill" as the witnesses were "spreading the good news of the Kingdom of God" in the settlement May 22, 1952, feast of the Ascension.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

If we have fine weather on Monday it would appear as if our mixed doubles tournament might be quite an affair. Several entries were on the board last night and the committee is expecting as many more by tonight. Just remember that two ladies playing together will be an official entry but not two men playing together.

Mrs. H. Wilson, Mrs. R. Dyer and Mrs. C. Renaud won second honors Friday down at Port Hope at lady bowlers open treble tournament.

There was a fair crowd out Friday night in the mixed rink tournament. The winning skips were E. Wall, J. Fitzpatrick, L. Bearne and F. Downey.

Tonight "the family hour" tournament at 7:30 o'clock.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices showed a firm tone in active trade Friday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Some activity was connected with closing operations in July contracts.

Local trade was affected by firmness of U.S. markets in oats and rye, and reports of the spread of rust in the northwestern states. Prices of top grades of Class 2 wheat were ⅞ cents higher. IWA and domestic prices were ⅛ lower.

Armchair Commander

Televise Combat Exercise

By NEWTON H. FULBRIGHT
(Special to The Examiner)

FORT MONMOUTH, N.J. — The day when a commander will be able to direct a military operation from an armchair was viewed as a near possibility here this week by 50 cadets of the United States Military Academy who were guests of Army Signal Corps Engineers in an experiment to televise a combat exercise.

The cadets, seated in comfortable chairs before eight commercial-type television sets, viewed a mock amphibious attack on an "enemy" hangar on Sandy Hook, 12 miles away, by a 40-man platoon in two amphibious ducks.

They beheld a surprisingly clear picture of the hangar and surrounding country, and could see the platoon streaking across the screen, white wakes churned up behind the ducks.

The landing on the white, frothy "enemy" beach was seen minutely, the men piling out of the ducks and charging the objective, setting off smoke pots to conceal their movements.

A voice, in a running commentary, told the cadets to consider themselves in command of the platoon. Sitting at a command post on a battle field and in radio contact with both sections of the platoon, they would be able to look down upon the scene, upon the "enemy" as well as the platoon, and direct every movement of their men by television.

The continuous TV picture was taken from an L-20 airplane that circled 3,000 feet above the target.

The day would probably come, said the voice, when a plane would be built "with blisters" to accommodate the television camera an dtransmitter equipment. But now, the camera was "fixed" and the plane had to circle to give an uninterrupted picture of the action.

Trunk line I have travelled over today from Toronto to Cornwall."

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Drew also has distorted the facts surrounding the theft of some army buildings "in a bad state of repair" at Farnham, Que. Mr. Drew had stated that the Currie report had disclosed a breakdown in the administration of the defence department. This was not true—the report said the breakdown was in only one small branch of the army—the works branch, "but he (Mr. Currie) did not say there had been a breakdown of the department."

BREAKDOWN IN PARTY

"The real breakdown" was in the Conservative party, added Mr. St. Laurent. Mr. Drew had the opportunity at the last Parliament to delve into defence expenditures through Parliament's defence committee, but he "made very little effort to use it for a serious examination" of defence spending.

As for Mr. Drew's latest charge, that the National Liberal Federation had sent a dishonest and libellous vote-getting letter to Canadian troops in Korea, Mr. St. Laurent said he did not know it had been sent, but on examining it, he found nothing in it libellous and dishonest.

The letter attributed to Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Progressive Conservative defence critic, certain statements suggesting that troops should forego "some amenities" rather than have a lower standard of living for all Canada.

READS FROM HANSARD

Mr. St. Laurent said Gen. Pearkes made the remarks in Parliament last March 18. He read from Hansard, Parliament's official report, to prove his statement.

Mr. Drew had asked him to repudiate the letter, but he would not do so, no matter how many times Mr. Drew repeats his charges.

Mr. St. Laurent, ending a week-long stumping of Ontario hustings, today journeys to Compton, Que., the village where he was born, for a private visit. He resumes his campaigning with a meeting in Sherbrooke, Que., Sunday night.

At Cornwall the prime minister also said he is "getting a little tired" of Mr. Drew's repeated charges that Defence Minister Claxton is negligent of his duties.

"Every one in Parliament—including Mr. Drew—knows that there has never been a more devoted or hard-working or competent minister than Brooke Claxton," Mr. St. Laurent said.

He said the down payment on homes should be reduced to about 10 per cent and a 30-year period should be allowed for paying off loans in which the government plays a part.

Earlier Friday, Mr. Drew spoke at Chatham, where he promised that a Progressive Conservative government would create a long-term policy to ensure stability in Canada's sugar beet industry, and at Wallaceburg, where he said such an administration would bring into the cabinet Canada's first woman minister in the federal field.

He declined to say what woman he might name for a cabinet job. Speculation in Ottawa has been that it might be Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, who represented Hamilton West in the last House, and that the cabinet post might be minister of labor.

Holmes' wife was reported in "fair to good" condition with cuts on her head and legs.

Abrams, the driver, and Mrs. Miller were in one car. The others were riding in a car driven by Holmes.

PULLED TOGETHER

More than any other thing, the 63-year-old Ohioan had wanted to follow the footsteps of his father, William Howard Taft, into the White House.

But with their differences buried for the sake of national and party unity, Taft and Eisenhower pulled together.

From people who opposed him, as well as from his supporters, there were tributes.

Former president Truman, generally at odds politically with Taft, said his death was America's loss.

John L. Lewis and other union leaders, who often criticized the Ohioan and the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act, he co-authored, mourned his passing.

EXPRESS REGRET

In Europe, leaders of Britain, France and Italy quickly expressed their regret. Even Moscow radio, in a broadcast monitored in London, took note of Taft's passing, but in a one-sentence account:

"According to London radio, the prominent member of the U. S. Senate, Taft, died today."

There had been published reports that Taft knew the malignant nature of his ailment long before his death. But neither the family nor his physicians could confirm this.

Four Policemen Refuse Trade Punches

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Four policemen Friday turned down an invitation to "take the first punch" during a controversy with striking truck drivers which occurred after police outwitted the strikers in assisting two trucks to leave the Chrysler Corporation of Canada plant.

Later police said a charge would be laid against the driver of a car which almost struck a motorcycle driven by constable John Branagan.

Some 75 strikers, among the 1,500 members of two locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, (AFL-TLC), who are on strike over wages against trucking firms in Western Ontario, were called to the Chrysler plant after it was learned two trucks had arrived there to deliver four machines.

LINE UP AS ESCORT

The picketers blocked the gate through which the trucks, owned by a small, non-union Hamilton firm, had entered the plant. Then some 19 police officers, six patrol cars and four motorcycles arrived at the plant.

Three police cars lined up to escort the trucks out through the gate. Angry strikers allowed the police cars through but insisted they would try to detain the trucks.

The trucks suddenly turned away from the gate and roared some 200 yards along the inside of the fence to escape through another open gateway.

PILE INTO CARS

The strikers piled into cars and tried vainly to overtake the trucks.

Police said two cars raced up behind constable Brannigan's motorcycle and then swerved to each side at the last minute.

Police and strikers met subsequently and the strikers called police "part-time drivers" and "scabs," pushed at the officers and invited them to strike back. The outnumbered officers ignored the attacks.

1 Dead, 3 Hurt In Collision

BRANTFORD (CP)—One youth was fatally injured and three others were in hospital after a truck-car collision early today five miles north of here.

Godby Marion, 22, of Brantford, died of a fractured skull a few hours after being admitted to hospital.

Hospital officials said Wesley Pilgrim, 22, of London, Ont., was in only fair condition with a possible fractured spine and severe cuts. Merlin Mallette, 22, of Brantford, driver of the car, suffered possible broken ribs and face cuts and Jerry Lalonde, 22, of Brantford, shoulder and ankle injuries.

Police said the car sideswiped an automobile transport truck on No. 24 highway, left the road, ran up a steep embankment and rolled over, landing upright on the shoulder.

Fourth Man Dies In Highway Crash

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — The fourth man to die in a highway crash in northwestern Ontario Friday was tentatively identified today as Fernand Paradis, about 25, of Lake Megantic, Que.

The man thought to be Paradis suffered fatal injuries in a bus-car crash in which three others, all from the Lake Megantic area, were killed. The others have been identified as Fernand Couture, driver of the car, Clement Roy and August Paradis.

Police said complete identification was difficult because of the damaged condition of the car after it collided with a Canadian National Railways bus. The bus driver, Bill Peterson of Port Arthur, suffered cuts about the face and several passengers were treated for minor injuries.

The crash occurred three miles west of Beardmore on the Trans-Canada highway. Beardmore is 100 miles northeast of Port Arthur.

The four Quebec men are believed to have been bush workers in search of jobs. Their car bore Quebec licence plates.

LIBERAL MEETING

The Douro township Liberal Association will sponsor a meeting in support of Liberal candidate Max Swanston in SS7 school building next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. Speakers will include Mr. Swanston, Dit Clapper, John Dewart and Gus Faux. Chairman will be F. D. Leahy.

SUBMITS RESIGNATION—Alcide De Gasperi talks to the press from his automobile, at Rome, after submitting his own, and his government's, resignation to Italian President Luigi Einaudi. De Gasperi, who had been the Italian Premier for over seven years, resigned after his 13-day-old Christian Democratic Cabinet failed to win a vote of confidence. It is reported he will refuse to form Italy's next government.

Retirement Age, Question In Superannuation Act

OTTAWA (CP) — This fall the government is expected to proclaim a new deal for about 60,000 civil servants. They will be brought under the Civil Service Superannuation Act.

The act, approved at the last Parliament, probably will be proclaimed Oct. 1. It will almost double the number of contributors to the civil service pension fund by including about 131,000 where only 60,000 now are covered.

But the big question mark of the act is retirement age. Under present legislation, civil servants retire at 65. However, some exceptions are made in particular cases on the recommendations of department heads to the treasury board.

RETIREMENT AGE

Some civil servants favor retention of the 65 retirement age with provisions for exceptions. Others have urged that the government fix no definite retirement age.

When the new act is proclaimed the statutory requirement that civil servants retire at 65 will disappear. However, the act leaves it to the cabinet to make regulations stating the retirement age and this power can be exercised at any time by order-in-council.

The effect will be, said one senior civil service official, that civil servants will find it easier to remain on the job after reaching 65, provided their health is good. (The Canadian Press reported erroneously June 24 that the arbitrary retirement age provision had already been lifted.)

The government also has relaxed regulations on the ages at which civil servants may be hired. Until June 1, age limits ranging between 16 and 40 were set on certain classes of civil service jobs, including office boys and girls, stenographers, typists, office appliance operators and also some clerks.

However, the cabinet by order-in-council removed these age limits and left it up to the civil service commission to decide on hirings. The commission now may consider persons irrespective of their age provided they are mentally and physically capable of doing the jobs for which they apply.

COVERS MANY EMPLOYEES

The new Superannuation Act will cover about 58,000 permanent employees, another 76,000 classed as temporaries and about 2,000 ships' crew members who are on annual salaries.

Those hourly-paid employees classed as prevailing-rate employees—about 22,000 skilled artisans—will continue under present retirement schemes. It is not yet known how many, if any, of the 11,000 remaining persons on federal payrolls will come under the new act.

One provision of the act makes the pension and other benefits applicable after five years' service. Such benefits now do not apply until after 10 years' service.

Another new feature is provision for the federal government to enter into agreements with the provincial governments and Crown corporations to permit employees who change jobs to carry with them their pensions benefits. Thus, a federal employee who switches to a provincial government job or one with a Crown corporation would suffer no loss of pensions benefits. The reverse also would be true.

KNEW TOO LATE

The water was pouring into the open windows before most of the dozing passengers knew what had happened.

Police declined to issue an official statement on the accident before interviewing the drivers. Neither was in condition to talk. Highways Minister Doucett of Ontario said there would be an immediate and searching inquiry into the accident.

At Montreal, Colonial said the truck was stalled, without lights, on the highway, apparently pointed east, in the same direction as the bus was going, and that the truck driver was standing beside his vehicle when the accident occurred.

Tools Are Stolen From Store Room

LINDSAY (ENS)—Sgt. Eberts, of the Lindsay police, is investigating a break-in which took place last night at the store room of the T. A. Wilson Construction Co. A number of valuable tools are missing. The company is engaged in building a dozen new homes.

Mysterious Killer

FORT GARRY, Man. (CP)—Officials are bewildered about the source of 2-4d, a weed killer which damaged plants in the market garden of N. Lambo. He complained to the Fort Garry council that the damage came from spray used in an anti-mosquito campaign, but officials said only DDT was used.

Lost and Found

STRASBOURG, Sask. (CP)—Mrs. H. Anderson lost her wedding and engagement rings during a picnic a year ago at nearby Long Lake. This summer, when the family returned to the same site, the rings were found in the sand—untarnished and good as new.

Fighting Salmon

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP) — William Haryat required hospital treatment for injuries suffered when he attempted to land a 20-pound salmon. The fish lunged at him and drove a hook through his thumb.

Uncertain Fate For Ike's Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's 11th-hour plea for a $15,000,000,000 boost in the U. S. national debt ceiling goes to a highly uncertain fate before a dubious Senate finance committee today.

The House of Representatives gave the president a victory on the politically explosive issue by a 239-vote Friday night. Then House Republican leader Charles Halleck of Indiana announced the House should be ready to quit and go home by tonight.

But there appeared to be far more opposition in the Senate, particularly among the Democrats. And the Senate Democrats are in a majority now, 47-46 over the Republicans, because of the deaths of Senators Charles Toney (Rep., N. H.) and Robert A. Taft (Rep., O.).

The finance committee session was called to meet behind closed doors, with Treasury Secretary George Humphrey as the star administration witness.

Humphrey has said that, if the ceiling on what the U. S. can legally owe is not boosted to $290,000,000,000, the government might not be able to meet its payroll or pay its bills. And that, he contends, "would just cause a near panic."

Pike Waters Increase In Northern Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Pike are being caught in waters that didn't exist a few years ago. The new waters, extensions to old lakes, have been created by various hydro-electric developments.

Long famous for its pike, Lac Seul 150 miles north of Fort William now has grown in size since a hydro dam backed up waters along the Red Lake road. Great areas of low-level land that had no commercial value now are a happy fishing ground for pike fishermen.

The same thing occurred on the lower Nipigon river where a new lake was formed 110 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, and on the Mississagi river 150 miles west of

Many Passengers Caught In Stampede At Bus Door

By BOB JOYCE

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Englishmen—George Tinsley, 28, of Liverpool, and David Christian, 35, of Barrow-in-Furness — told graphically Friday of their escape from the bus which went into a canal at Morrisburg with loss of 20 lives.

Both reached Montreal, with others among survivors, dressed in borrowed overalls and work shirts.

Here is Tinsley's story:

"I was dozing and awoke as the bus began rocking. There was a jar, a screech of wheels and a crash. I slid down between the seats. The bus lurched and tore down the bank. Then there was a splash.

"The lights in the bus suddenly came on. Then it began settling in the water, the rear end first.

"Women were screaming and several people had fallen into a heap at the front.

"The bus driver was yelling 'be calm' but many of the passengers were hysterical. One old woman seemed to think the bus wouldn't sink. I yelled to her: 'Get out and swim.'

"The driver got the front door open before the bus settled too far. He dived out, shouting to the others to follow him.

"There was a crowd around the door fighting to get out. I kicked out a window on my side, which appeared going down faster than the other side.

"By then the water was as high as the racks.

"I don't know how I got out. I must have dived through the window. I climbed to the top of the bus. I didn't know the depth of the water or even that we were in the canal. I could still hear the women screaming inside.

BEGAN SWIMMING

"I thought the bus had settled on the bottom but it lurched and I began slipping. I am not a strong swimmer but I started out. I went down several times before I managed to get over on my back. I couldn't get my shoes off and my clothing made it hard to swim.

"Someone grabbed me and hauled me to the bank."

And here is Christian's story:

"When the bus went into the water I knew what was happening. I've been through that sort of thing before. In Italy, during the war, 18 of us soldiers were in a bus that went sailing across a bridge that wasn't there. The Italians had blown it up. Twelve of the 18 got out.

"This time I just sat and waited. Then I saw the water coming up fast inside the bus. Those at the back had made a rush for the front door and were falling all over one another.

WENT THROUGH WINDOW

"I saw that wasn't the way to get out so I kicked through the glass window, held on to the baggage rack and swung my feet through the hole in the window. Then I got hold of the top of the bus, and as I went out I could feel the bus pulling me down with it.

"I managed to swim away and reached the bank.

"I saw two young girls holding on to each other in the water. They were screaming for help. I went back, got one of them and hauled her ashore. All she said was 'For God's sake get the other girl out.' I went back and got her."

Prime Minister Charges Drew Distorting Currie Report

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

A "dishonest" campaign letter, those Petawawa horses, motor-car taxes and co-ops figured in the federal election campaign Friday. Prime Minister St. Laurent said at Cornwall he has no intention of repudiating a Liberal federation campaign letter sent to Canadian troops in Korea. He said the letter is neither dishonest nor libellous. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said the previous night at Sarnia that the letter was the "most dishonest" he had ever seen and demanded that Mr. St. Laurent repudiate it. The letter said the Liberal government is trying to make certain troops get a "fair share" of Canada's "high" living standards, but that the Progressive Conservatives "think the government has been extravagant in providing such lavishness and luxury for the armed services." It quoted Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Progressive Conservative military critic, as saying troops might forego "some amenities" rather than Canada have a lower standard of living.

Mr. St Laurent said he had found on inquiry that Gen. Pearkes had made the statement in Parliament's official report.

DISTORTING FACTS

The prime minister, on another subject, charged Mr. Drew with "misrepresenting and distorting" the facts of the Currie report, which said there was an administration breakdown in the army works services.

Mr. St. Laurent said there had never been any horses on the payroll at Petawawa, but no matter how often he told Mr. Drew this fact "he keeps on asserting this statement which is not true."

He was "getting a little tired" of Mr. Drew's charges that Defence Minister Claxton is negligent: "Every one in Parliament—including Mr. Drew—knows that there has never been a more devoted or hard-working or competent minister than Brooke Claxton."

At Windsor, Mr. Drew said cars are over-taxed and promised an inquiry into how much the taxes should be reduced.

Speaking in Canada's biggest car-manufacturing centre, he said automobile taxes are adding to the cost of production in a thousand ways in this country. He estimated that taxes make up some 40 per cent of the cost of cars in Canada.

MUST BE TACKLED

"This tax burden on necessary transportation is something which must be tackled right away," he said.

On housing, he said: "We have one of the sorriest records of any industrial nation because of the bungling and lack of planning of our government." Down payment on homes should be reduced to about 10 per cent and a 30-year period should be allowed for paying off loans in which the government takes a hand.

At Chatham, Mr. Drew said a Progressive Conservative government would create a long-term policy to ensure stability in Canada's sugar beet industry.

At Wallaceburg, he said that if he became prime minister he would apoint Canada's first woman federal cabinet minister.

OBSTRUCTING CO-OPS

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell, still campaigning in British Columbia, said at Penticton that the Liberal government not only had failed to help in the development of co-operatives but also had obstructed consumer co-ops. It had refused to recognize that they gave their members non-profit service and had taxed them as if they were profit-making companies.

"This is perhaps understandable in view of the fact that the Liberal party, like the Conservatives, has always catered to the large and vested interests. As long as either of these parties controls the government the development of co-operatives will be retarded."

At Moosomin, Sask., CCF premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said an inevitable depression had been postponed only by the Marshall Plan and the Korean war.

"The hands of the clock are close to midnight, close to economic chaos," he said.

PROPER PERSPECTIVE

Mr. Claxton, in a broadcast over radio station CFCF, Montreal, made what he termed an attempt to "put in proper perspective" press reports of theft charges against service personnel being "played up" in Progressive Conservative newspapers.

"The armed forces and other government agencies do everything possible to prevent loss. When there is fraud or theft it is prosecuted. . . . But when the magnitude of the operation . . . and the speed with which the build-up has occurred is taken into account, I think you will find that the losses have been smaller than those suffered in comparable activities on civvy street."

At Rothesay, N. B., Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of the last House for Toronto Eglinton, said the Liberals refuse to tie themselves down to any specific platform so they can "have a free hand to do exactly what (they) please" if re-elected.

After his week-long campaign in Ontario, Mr. St. Laurent today rests at his birthplace, Compton, Que., before resuming his electioneering at Sherbrooke, Que., Sunday.

Mr. Drew visits Mount Forest, Walkerton, Meaford and Owen Sound, Ont., and takes Sunday off at Ottawa.

Mr. Coldwell speaks at Nanaimo, B.C., tonight and rests Sunday at Victoria before taking up his campaign again there Monday night.

Must Continue Defence Despite Truce — Claxton

LAUZON, Que. (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said Friday Canada's defence effort must continue despite the signing of an armistice in Korea. Mr. Claxton spoke at ceremonies marking the launching of HMCS Trinity, a Royal Canadian Navy minesweper, in this town across the St. Lawrence river from Quebec. The ship was the 22nd launched for the navy since a new naval construction program was started in 1948.

"An armistice has been signed in Korea, to the great relief of all of us, and particularly of those wives and mothers and friends who have anxiously and proudly watched the work of our men in the Far East," said Mr. Claxton.

SOMEWHAT RELAXED

"In consequence, it seems that the international tension may be relaxed to some extent, but that is no reason for decreasing our defence effort.

"Nothing has yet occurred to justify such a decrease.

"To the contrary, the events of the last weeks can be attributed to the fact that those nations which have had peace as their objective have built up their strength so as to enable them to stop aggression and maintain peace."

Roebuck Says Drew Changes Like Chameleon

GRIMSBY — George Drew is changing his political color like a chameleon in his attempt to become Prime Minister, Senator Arthur Roebuck of Toronto charged here Friday night.

" Who can tell what he would look like should he secure that office?" the senator asked at a meeting on behalf of Harry Cevers, Liberal candidate for Lincoln riding.

Before he was elected Premier of Ontario, Mr. Drew promised an Ontario housing commission, the senator said. No commission was created and not one house had been constructed under provincial auspices when he left the premiership.

"He promised to appoint an Ontario forest resources commission for conservation, reforestation and soil control," the senator continued. "Nothing done. He promised to take the hydro out of politics, and it is today deeper in the mire of political manipulation than ever before in its history."

WHERE ARE SUPPLIES?

"Where are the adequate supplies at reasonable prices of fuel, milk and other basic necessities that Mr. Drew promised in point 19 of his manifesto?" the senator asked.

"The price has been steadily advancing and Mr. Drew has done nothing to reduce the prices of these things."

The senator concluded with quotations from two press reports of Mr. Drew's statements in 1935 and 1936, calling for one central government instead of 10 "conflicting" governments. Contrasting these statements with Mr. Drew's recent denunciation of centralization of authority in Ottawa, he said:

"Why should anyone in Quebec or elsewhere pay the slightest attention when Mr. Drew now thinks it to his interest to pose as the champion of provincial rights?"

Question:

Mr. Swanston, it is reported that your opponent is using a magician at his political meetings. Any comment?

Answer:

A magician would certainly be necessary to explain how taxes can be cut at the same time that Government expenditures are increased. That's one trick I'd like to see!

PRIME MINISTER ST. LAURENT waves to crowds at Cobourg Friday in a flying visit he made there. Speaking from the bandshell in the town's Victoria Park, he said that Progressive-Conservatives knew they could not fulfil their leader's promises if they were to form a government. If voters found the Liberal record a good one, he said, they would endorse that record August 10—(Murray Smith Photo).

Few Promises, "Do Our Best", St. Laurent Tells Cobourg

COBOURG (ENS) Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent came to Cobourg Friday ,arriving by special train at 1.05 p.m. He was taken to a waiting convertible and headed by the Cobourg Kilties Band and followed by a train of several score cars, paraded to the bandshell in Victoria Park where he was given a thundering ovation by a huge crowd.

At the bandshell, he was given a civic welcome by Mayor John D. Burnet, Mrs. James Denike of Colborne, president of the Northumberland Women's Liberal Association, presented Mrs. Samson, the Prime Minister's daughter, with a bouquet of roses and the Prime Minister promptly planted a kiss on Mrs. Denike's face in acknowledgement, he said, of the honor paid his daughter. The Prime Minister asked his listeners to express their opinion on August the 10 as to whether or not they felt that the Liberal Government had faithfully carried out the task with which they had been entrusted. "If you feel that we have done a good job, then cast your ballots in favour of the Liberal candidate in Northumberland, Dr. Fred Robertson and you will be endorsing the Liberal Government and what it has accomplished. There has been a growing conciousness of the meaning of our Canadian citizenship and its responsibilities and we are more appreciative of the individual problems of the people who make up Canada."

"On August 10 you will be exercising one of the great advantages of the constitution of our Democratic form of Government" the Prime Minister said. Speaking of the recent coronation which he atended, he said that he was deeply impressed by the Queen pledging herself to the service of the Commonwealth.

ABSOLUTE MASTERS

"We are absolute masters of our affairs, while under the name of the Queen but nothing can be done that is not recommended by the Prime Minister and that is why I did not blush too deeply when your Mayor said that I was an important man. I cannot recommend anything without the consent of Parliament and the members of Parliament sit only at the pleasure of their electors so that it all goes back to the source of authority, the people of Canada", he said.

The Prime Minister declared that the Liberal Party was not making many promises but vowed only to do its best. Other Parties, such as that of Colonel Drew were making promises which his Party knew could not be carried out. Holding up an election advertisement of the Conservative candidate in this riding, he said, that, contrary to what was claimed in the advertisement, it was the Liberal Party who instituted the first Dept. of Labor when it was made part of Sir William Mullock's Postal Department, late o become a separate department with William Lyon MacKenzie King as the first minister of labor. The workmen's compensation system was established by Sir James Whitney in Ontario a long time ago but that did not give the Conservatives the right to proclaim it as their institution. Unemployment insurance was established by the Liberal Party in 1941 and collective bargaining was brought about as a war measure because it was considered essential to the war effort at that time.

The present Government had been accused of denying labor the right to arbitrate at the time of the railway strike, but he felt that, after all efforts at solution by arbitration had failed, and the whole transportation system of the country was in peril, the only course of action was the one which he took and he said if the same situation occurred again, he would have to act in the same manner.

Drew Promises Woman In Cabinet

WALLACEBURG (CP)—A Progressive Conservative administration would give Canada its first woman member of a federal cabinet, George Drew said Friday.

The Progressive Conservative leader, campaigning in southwestern Ontario, expressed the hope that all nine women candidates of his party in the general election will be elected Aug. 10.

He said it would be a good thing for Canada to have more feminine members of the Commons.

Expectations are that Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, member for Hamilton West in the old Parliament, would be the woman member of a Progressive Conservative cabinet, possibly as minister of labor.

World Suffers Loss In Taft Death–Drew

WALLACEBURG (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Friday the world has suffered a loss in the death of Senator Robert Taft of Ohio.

Mr. Drew took time out during a political meeting here to say the Republican senator's death in New York was regretted by "everyone who respects honesty, decency and integrity in public office."

Moving Statue

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Officials at Otahuhu, near Auckland, have discovered with alarm that a memorial statue of a soldier on horseback is moving forward on its pedestal. They are taking steps to tether the horse more securely before it leaves the borough.

Housing Plans

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP)—The South African Institute of Architects is making free plans of cheap yet efficient houses available to non-Europeans wishing to build their own houses in controlled areas.

Receives Bullets Through Mail

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Delphis Lachance, speaker at a Progressive Conservative rally here Thursday night, said he had received through the mail a parcel containing gunpowder and revolver bullets.

Mr. Lachance, secretary of the central committee of Trois-Rivieres Catholic Syndicates, said the powder and the bullets were carefully packed in a package of cigarets.

The parcel, he said, "will be placed in the hands of the RCMP so that an investigation may be launched."

Pickersgill Ambition To Be PM Chore-Boy

BROCKVILLE (CP)—State Secretary Pickersgill said Friday his only ambition is to be "chore-boy" to Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The former clerk of the Privy Council told an outdoor meeting that he had been "chore-boy" to Mr. St. Laurent for the last 4½ years. He had no other ambition but to carry out that job just as long as Mr. St. Laurent is prime minister "and I hope he will be prime minister for a long, long time."

Harmonious Set-up Started By Macdonald

BEAVERTON (CP)—J. M. Macdonnell said Friday night Canada's first prime minister, Conservative Sir John A. Macdonald worked out policies under which English and French-speaking, Canadians can live together in harmony.

The Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Greenwood in the last Parliament said the party Sir John founded has continued to maintain those traditions. It had a clear record on the subject of racial tolerance.

Team Of Four Speakers Criticizes Liberal Policies

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal government policies in defence administration, housing, agriculture and municipal relations were criticized Friday night by a team of four Progressive Conservative speakers. The "team"—Hon. George Drew's own words—consisted of E. D. Fulton, member of the last Parliament for Kamloops, B.C.; George Hees, Toronto Broadview; Gordon Graydon, Peel, and George Nowlan, Annapolis-Kings. Opposition leader Drew introduced the four.

The speeches were recorded for delivery over the CBC's Trans-Canada network in the free-time political series.

Mr. Fulton renewed Progressive Conservative charges of Liberal inefficiency in defence administration and spoke of his party's pledge, if elected, to cut taxes by $500,000,000.

He said:

"The Liberals, of course, are trying to frighten you with their usual Liberal bogeymen and say it (tax reduction) can't be done. . . but you know that taxes can be reduced just by cutting out the fluff and eliminating inefficiency in all government administration."

REITERATES PLEDGE

Mr. Hees reiterated his party's pledge to make it possible for persons with "moderate" incomes to buy their own homes.

There are two main reasons, he said, why Canadians "are building only about half the number of houses (they) need each year."

The first was the 20-per-cent down payment which amounted to $2,000 on the cheapest National Housing Administration house. The second was the 20-year period during which NHA loans must be paid off.

Mr. Graydon charged the federal government had been riding "piggy-back" on the municipalities by requiring the local bodies to pay sales and excise taxes on their equipment and by exempting federally-owned properties from municipal taxes.

"We propose to end all this when we get in."

On agriculture, Mr. Graydon said a Progressive Conservative government would attempt to break down the "dollar-pound" barrier and enable Canadian farmers "once again to enter the profitable United Kingdom Market."

Mr. Nowlan pledged a Progressive Conservative government to "an aggressive, effective national policy of the development of Canada's great resources for the benefit of one and all."

Says PM Father Of Seaway Plan

CORNWALL (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier Friday night described Prime Minister St. Laurent as "the father" of the St. Lawrence seaway.

But Mr. St. Laurent—who has been described by other cabinet colleagues as the "Great White Father" and the "Father of the Canadian Nation"—suggested he would rather be known as the seaway's "godfather."

"I am inclined to believe," he told a Liberal rally, "that it was conceived before I got there."

Introducing the prime minister, Mr. Chevrier said were it not for Mr. St. Laurent's "insistence" and his talks with President Eisenhower and former President Truman, the New York state authority might not have been recently granted a licence to co-operate with Ontario in constructing the power phase of the seaway.

Canadian Armed Forces Going To Polls Monday

OTTAWA (CP) — The armed forces at home and abroad go to the polls Monday, getting the jump on other Canadians who won't cast their ballots in the federal election until Aug. 10.

Special civilian returning officers, aided by liaison officers from the three armed services, have their election machinery geared to handle the vote in Edmonton, Ottawa and Halifax in Canada; Kure in Japan and London, England. Kure takes the votes of troops in the Far East and London those in the United Kingdom and Europe.

The vote from overseas will be the hardest to handle. In Europe, there are Canadians serving in France, Germany and Britain and some may be travelling elsewhere on the continent. In the Far East, there are Canadians in Japan and Korea.

SPECIAL OFFICERS

These five headquarters are in charge of special returning officers, some of them retired servicemen. At London it is Maj F. R. Palmer of St. Thomas; Lt.-Col. Aime DesRosiers, of Baie d'Urfe, Que., is at Kure; Col. Edgar W. Mingo of Halifax at Halifax; Lucien Bouchard of Montreal at Ottawa; and Archie Baptie of Edmonton at Edmonton.

Their job is to count the vote and forward the result. The votes come to them inside two sealed envelopes. The inner envelope contains the soldier's ballot, marked by him and sealed in secret. The outer envelope is airmailed personally by the voter to make sure it gets to the special returning officer.

Next-of-kin of Canada's 18 servicemen taken prisoner-of-war in Korea may exercise their right to cast an extra vote as proxy for their absent menfolk.

Among those assisting the special returning officers at territorial headquarters are Lt.-Col. N. M. Gemmel of Peterborough at Kure and Lt.-Col. W. H. Ellis of St. Thomas at Halifax.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 1, 1953

August

The august month, the royal month of summer has arrived. We leave behind half the summer, half the summer holidays, and the Korean War, we hope. We enter upon the month when Earl Baldwin was born (1867) and Tennyson (1809) and Rupert Brooke (1887)—none of them as far as we remember has said anything particularly good about August, so there is really no need to mention them here. In August (the 4th, 1914) the Great War started. In August (the 14th, 1945) Japan surrendered. On August 10th, 1953, Canadians go to the polls.

* * *

Grass does not grow as fast in August as in July, August clouds have a fine puffiness, there are many beautiful and serenely warm days this month, usually, and, in this part of the country, much of the harvest is gathered.

Dry August and warm
Doth harvest no harm.

There is a good moon in August, Orion returns to the midnight heavens and occasionally Northern Lights spangle the August night.

* * *

The moon is full on the twenty-fourth at 21 minutes past four o'clock, DST—in the afternoon, but it does not rise until nearly eight o'clock and sets at five the next morning. The sun rose this morning at six o'clock and sets at 8:38 p.m. We mention the sun to remind our readers that it is now taking a shorter daily course than last month, or as people sagely observe when the night air at the cottage permits a sweater coat: the days are drawing in.

* * *

A good month, August, an Augustan month.

Champlain Lost An Astrolabe There

The Ottawa Valley, a term which Ontario economic statisticians use for their convenience, includes the five counties of Carleton, Lanark, Renfrew and the united counties of Prescott and Russell. People from this part of the world and even as far off as Toronto are cursorily familiar with the region: they pass through it on their way to Ottawa, not to the Ottawa of Bytown and Miss Whitton, but to the Ottawa which is the capital of Canada. They speed past one of the more complete collections of log farm-houses and barns extant and say: hum, must be poor land or unprogressive people hereabouts. They see a sign pointing to Lanark and a highway leading to it and promise themselves sometime, just for fun, to drop in on Lanark. But they seldom do.

This sort of view is indeed a fleeting one of the Ottawa valley. The Ontario statisticians, in the current issue of their monthly Economic Review of Ontario, see more steadily and look behind the log buildings and road signs and below the fine panorama of Gatineau hills on the horizon across the river.

They also take a quick look into back years. The only settlement in the region during the French regime was the Seigneury of Longueuil, in and around L'Orignal. Champlain visited the area in 1613 and while portaging from the Ottawa River to Muskrat Lake in Renfrew county, lost an astrolabe. The astrolabe was the precursor of the modern sextant. Champlain's instrument was found 254 years later, in 1867. A fitting year for the thing to turn up in the Ottawa valley—Confederation year. Foreproof that when Ottawa became the capital of Canada it would be able to know the way to take?

Timber drew the first settlers; hard times in Ireland sent other batches. Scotch people also arrived, to impart their moral tone and thrift to the lumbermen and Irish thereabouts. Perth was the first community in the area (founded 1820), apart from L'Orignal, and Perth remained the metropolis until Bytown became Ottawa and the capital.

One of the interesting towns in the district is Richmond "the city of magnificent distances." It is said to be a romantic example of town planning that failed.

Ottawa now sets the pace for the entire area, and civil servants sprawl throughout twenty suburban miles of it. Ottawa's boundaries now include a quarter of a million people, and thanks to the generosity of the people of Canada, who provide millions of dollars to improve Bytown (the reluctance of Ottawans to spend money themselves for the city's improvement is notorious), Ottawa is becoming a unique and outstanding capital city.

While mentioning the chief centres of population we should include Petawawa Military Camp, and Chalk River (whose atomic physicists and families live at Deep River). Apart from Ottawa, the chief centres are in Eastview (Ottawa suburb) 15,933, Pembroke (12,579), Smiths Falls (8,347), Renfrew (7,533), Hawkesbury (7,287—mostly French-speaking), Perth (4,991), Carleton Place (4,590), Arnprior (4,528) and Almonte (2,499). Perth is the most solid-looking town of the lot—pleasant with large houses, lawns, retired well-to-do farmers, and producers of patent medicine and other pharmaceuticals. We should mention, by the way, that metropolitan Ottawa's population increased 24.6 per cent. during the intercensal period 1941-51; an indication of the growth of government and its agencies.

The civil service is not the only industry in the district. In fact, agriculture is also pretty important. The area is primarily a dairy country. There are two good clay plains, one stretching from Prescott up the Ottawa Valley to Pembroke, and the other, a northern extension in Russell and Prescott of the clays of the St. Lawrence region. These are fertile and good cash crops are grown. Livestock, field crops and poultry are worth annually about twenty-eight million dollars. In addition, dairy products of the Ottawa Valley were valued in 1951 at $21,151,900.

Manufacturing is also indulged; chiefly in Ottawa and its suburbs, but only some 4,500 Ottawans are engaged in factories. Compare this with 32,689 classified civil servants in Ottawa. Ottawa factories produce bank notes and beer, cream cheese and paper products (we refer to bags and boxes, etc., not to white papers and memoranda). Manufactured products of the entire district have a gross value of some 150 million dollars.

The people of the district are a varied lot; due not so much to the cosmopolitan pull of the capital, as to settlement and propagation. According to the last census, 56.9 per cent. of the population racially belonged to the British Isles, 30.6 per cent. were of French origin, and 4.3 per cent. were of German ancestry. Other races accounted for 8.2 per cent. of the population.

The Ottawa Valley has changed its social and economic features since Champlain lost his astrolabe, but thanks to the Capital Plan and the hills, rivers and lakes, the countryside about is still attractive. Indeed, 901 people this fortnight think Ottawa sufficiently attractive to ask voters to send them there.

Senator Taft

Senator Robert Taft, Republican leader in the U.S. senate, served his country faithfully, and, if possible, his party even more. The greatest position, that of President, was denied him, though he sought it long, and before the two last presidential elections worked hard to become his party's candidate. Following President Eisenhower's nomination, he faithfully supported Eisenhower, but preserved his independence and unchallenged role as "Mr. Republican", the voice and controller of traditional Republicanism. He was a power in the United States.

Senator Taft's labour policies and his views on international affairs were not pleasing to many Canadians. He was inclined to be an isolationist, even since the war, and his reaction against liberalism in social and industrial spheres marked him as a man not only out of step with his times but antagonistic to them. But his integrity and sincerity were beyond question. Admired for these qualities, respected even by his opponents for his conservative, right-wing doctrines and practices, his people rejected him as national leader because he was out of step with his American times—not ahead of them or behind them, but in very basic economic and social matters, beside them, balking where they led..

Senator Taft's death removes from the U.S. Senate its most influential figure. It also removes a possible embarrassment to measures which President Eisenhower may wish to take. His death also influences the Senate in another way: the vacancy will be filled by a Democrat, since the Governor of Ohio who will make the nomination, is a Democrat. This will take from the Republicans their one-vote majority in the House of Congress and give the Democrats a one-vote majority instead.

The Americans have lost an important man, but even at this time of loss there must be relief that Mr. Taft did not win the Republican nomination, and the Presidency last year. His Vice-President, who would now take office, might not have been as inadequate a man as Vice-President Richard Nixon, but he would not have been as good a man as Taft.

A Peterborough workman went fishing during his noon-hour last Wednesday. Within five minutes and after four casts he caught and landed an eighteen-pound muskie and an eight-pounder. We offer our condolences. He could not have them for lunch for he had to get back to work. Anyway, Peterborough does not allow campfires to be built on its main street. You see, he caught the fish at Little Lake dock, in the commercial centre of the city.

Wales Clings To Its Roots

By KENNETH HARRIS

"WELL, if you want to see Wales," said Morgan ApMorgan Lloyd — he looked more like a Roman Emperor with pince-nez than a newspaper reporter; he carried his umbrella, the crook in his hand, and the ferrule resting against his shoulder, as a consul might have borne his staff — "you have started in the right place." He gazed proudly and proprietorially upon the pleasant, undulating, parkland in which the great crowd seemed to ebb and flow in perpetual motion around the enormous tent. "The Eisteddfod," he said in awed poetic tones, "the National Eisteddfod. What Wynn Gryffiths calls the 'Olympic Games of the Mind.' Yes, Mr. Harris, my dear Sir, if you want to see Wales, you have started in the proper place."

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THE BIG TENT under the snapping, crackling, windswept standard — the Red Dragon of Wales on the green and white background — the full-throated, uninhibited, almost birdlike choir-singing ceased. There was a long pause in which all we could hear was the faint murmur of the verdicts of the judges. Suddenly there was a great roar of joy, tenor, descanted with wild, soprano screams of ecstasy. "The Rhosaman ladies' choir has won again," said my mentor. He shook his head gravely and looked up towards Snowdon as though, through the clouds, he saw the storm brewing around its peak. "Tonight in Gosammon Fawr," he observed darkly, "the women will be mad with rage. It will be no place for a Christian man."

✧ ✧ ✧

I LOOKED at the people who were passing us. A short, open-faced, mild little man strolled by, hands in the trouser pockets of his navy Sunday suit, jacket and mackintosh open, art silk muffler neatly around his neck in place of collar, soft grey cap, blue scars on his forehead. "Miner," said my mentor, "Merthyr Tydfil, or the Rhondda." A dark, quick-eyed, sharp-faced, wiry little man, with strong tough legs bowed as though by climbing: "slate quarryman from Blaenau." A serious-looking fellow in a sober black suit wearing a stiff white collar and a bowler hat: "country-town shopkeeper from Carmarthen."

"He looks a very distinguished shopkeeper," I said. "Chemist," said Morgan ApMorgan, confidently.

"Wonderful thing about Wales, you know," he said as we walked to the exit. "And keep it in your mind, wherever you go. In other countries, the great national event is an athletic meeting, a cattle show, or a parade of troops. But in Wales," and a note of pride came into his resonant voice, "we meet every year to play the harp and sing a song. We have done it for more than eight hundred years. Those people you've just been looking at may have spent a year's savings to come and do it this year."

✧ ✧ ✧

NEXT DAY, in Aberystwyth, I was introduced to Rhys Jones, the schoolmaster. "Most Englishmen who visit Wales never really see it," he said to me. "They cross the Severn in the south, rush in fast, comfortable, trains to do their business in the industrial areas. Or they bowl along on holiday over the smooth motor roads in the north. They miss what is most Welsh about Wales — her inaccessible places."

"And consequently," he went on, "they miss the old culture of Wales. The culture of Wales is the culture of an old, upland, pastoral, cut-off people. It's a culture of language, speech and song, not a culture of painting, books and architecture — those things need a materially richer ground.

"It's very difficult to penerate Welsh culture, you know," he said. "Our language is complicated enough, then inside that, so to speak, are more complications — verse and music, whose forms are more labyrinthine still. 'Penillion' now — 'the brightest jewel in the Eisteddfod's crown.' It's a song to be composed to be sung to the harp, but to be sung descant-style over the harpist's melody; very complicated, you see. Then there's 'Cynghanedd' — alliterative or 'consonant-chiming' verse. Very intricate inner structure. Full of the kind of metaphor which is intelligible to the heart rather than to the head, you know — Dylan Thomas's poems have a lot of it. And the 'Englyn' — that's a one-stanza poem. Well, I don't want to sound too chauvinist, you know; but for prosody the englyn makes a Petrarchian sonnet sound like a nursery rhyme."

✧ ✧ ✧

WELSH HISTORY, I gathered from many people, is only too easy to record. From the Industrial Revolution on down, the Cymru began to come down from the hills into the valleys, leaving their sheep and settling around the coal pit or the iron foundry. Depressions drove thousands of them to England, Welshmen exiled themselves to Australia, New Zealand and Canada. (In Patagonia, I was told, there is a Welsh-language newspaper edited by a Welsh-born journalist who speaks Spanish, but no English.) There are Americans around Burlington descended from the Merioneth slate-workers who came to quarry marble in Vermont, in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio, descended from the pitmen of Glamorgan. John L. Lewis, the American miners' leader, and Benjamin Fairless, the great steel magnate, are only a couple of the famous names in American affairs whose seed was grown in Wales.

✧ ✧

YET, even though half-a-million Welshmen left Wales between the two World Wars, Welsh culture seemed to hold its ground. The choir, the chapel, and even the coal-mine — where on Mondays, deep in the black bowels of the pit, miners discussed the sermon as they swung their picks — were its repositories. Then the strange paradox began to be revealed: the prosperity of the two-and-a-half million who live in Wales today seems to corrode the nation's life as poverty never did.

I heard the best account of it in the kitchen of an old tin-plate worker a mile or two from Llanelly. We sat back in his two wooden arm-chairs at the open hearth, and watched the flames shine back from the brass candlesticks and kettle-stands on the mantelpiece. "Now take Rhys Watkins who used to live next door," he said. "He used to work in the tin-plate works over in the Cym. He was a craftsman, used to work by hand. He knew all the other men in the works — they were his butties — because it was small, and he knew everybody here in the village, because that's small too, you see. When he came home from work, he used to go up to chapel two nights a week — choir on Thursdays — all Welsh hymns, and anthems, you know — and chapel meeting on Fridays — electing a new deacon, or wondering how to pay for the new organ, or something like that — and all in Welsh, you understand. Of course, Rhys was out of work as often as he was in. But he had roots, roots that went back to the old Wales."

"Now look at Rhys Watkins. Rhys isn't here any more. They've shut down that little tin-plate works, you see. Not economical — too small, too far from the road, and too old to put this new machinery in. So Rhys had to go and work in Port Talbot — big mass-producing plant, thousands in it. He just looks after a machine. When he got home, he was spending two hours a day in the bus, mind you, he was too tired to go and sing and he lost interest in the chapel. Good pay, mind you, oh yest, I'm not saying. Last month Rhys moved to the new housing estate they've built in Port Talbot, quite near where he works. Lovely place, too—bathroom, electric fire, everything. But no chapel, no choir, not even a pub. So there's Rhys bach — money in his pockets, but no roots. Television, but no oratorio. And all Wales is gradually going where Rhys is now."

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS is the state of affairs which inspires the Welsh Nationalists to demand self-government for Wales. Few of them, I find, are anti-English; they are not complaining, as so many Scots nationalists are, that they get less out of the United Kingdom's chest than they put in; they do not complain of being badly governed and base their demand for Home Rule — or at least, a Welsh Parliament — on the ground that Welshmen could govern themselves better. They are concerned about the way the Welsh life is disappearing — about the way in which the Welsh language — repository of Welsh culture, Welsh morality, and Welsh nationhood — is dying out; and they think that Wales if given more scope to govern herself might be able to prevent it.

"Yet, it's not so much Welsh nationalism, we're working for," said the Penillion-singer-cum-solicitor's-clerk who talked to me in Rhos. "It's something which belongs to everybody. It's not nationalism so much as individualism. We're trying to protect the individual culture of Wales against the mass culture with which a mass-producing age is swamping us. There's nothing specially Welsh about our problem. They've got the same kind of problem, I am sure, in every industrial country in the world."

An American Opinion:
"AH, MAY I ISSUE A WORD OF WARNING, GENTLEMEN?"

Tale Of Two Captains

(VANCOUVER PROVINCE)

THERE was a little story from Copenhagen recently that compressed within its few lines the tremendous differences between the two great systems of human behavior now locked in silent but titanic struggle all over the world.

It was a simple little story that said Poland's luxury liner, Batory, which lost its captain in Britain a week or so ago, now has two captains. One is Tadeusz Meissner, a man who grew up with the sea and is a master mariner.

The other captain is Szemiel Piotz, who is no sailor at all. Piotz grew up in the Communist Party. Captain Meissner will command the ship and Captain Piotz will command Captain Meissner.

The little Copenhagen yarn added only that these two captains replaced Jan Cwiklinski, the Batory's former captain who jumped ship in Britain and won political asylum there.

It is not hard to follow Communist reasoning. They lost one captain who didn't like communism. They aren't going to take any chances that the new captain will get fancy ideas while enjoying the fleshpots in ports of the decadent democracies. So the comrade captain goes along to con the ship's ideological course. From now the Batory, crew-wise, will not deviate a point from the Communist line.

Here, in essence, is the reason communism can never hope to endure. It has no faith. It has no faith in itself or its adherents. It has reached a point where it doubts whether the philosophy and the life behind the Iron Curtain can prevent desertion. It begins to set men to watch other men, particularly men who are in authority.

How far can this hysteria of suspicion go? One captain is told to watch another captain. One general is told to keep his eye on another general. One commissioner spies on another. Eventually everyone is checking up on somebody, and being checked up on.

For our side, the story of the Batory and its two captains is an important and significant one.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Revelation of Jesus Christ which God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant John: who bare record of the word of God, and of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things that he saw.

Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand. (Rev. 1:1-3.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud: and a rainbow was upon his head, and his face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire. (Rev. 10:1.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And I John saw these things and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel which shewed me these things.

Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellowservant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God.

And he saith unto me, Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand. (Rev. 22: 8-10.)

Letter To The Editor

FRIENDLY TREATMENT IN U.S.

Sir: It seems that Mr. J. Senrab (or is it Mr. J. Barnes?) is out of date or misinformed about the treatment Canadian visitors receive in the States. During a recent trip in New York State, we found only the most friendly and courteous treatment—and our money was accepted at par in all cases without question or comment.

The current premium on the Canadian dollar was only about one half of a cent, and I suppose that they would have to pay the same bank exchange charges that we do on their money. Therefore, I fail to see why the writer feels that our guests from the United States should be penalized, or why Mr. Ball should use them as an excuse to charge all the traffic will bear for gasoline here. Of one thing I am sure—the American service station operators gave far more miles for either dollar.

If the backward Mr. Barnes feels that he was "rooked" in the Niagara Falls restaurant, he should remember that gyp artists are not confined to the American side—the same type of rodent takes all he can from tourists who visit Canada. However, those responsible are NOT a fair sample of the people on either side, so let us not loosely classify the whole by the exception.

Yours truly,
E. G. BROWNE.

HOLIDAY SEASON IN SUEZ CANAL

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

While viewing a regatta last weekend, as a spectator for a change, I sat on a grassy bank with Bud Craig. The events went off with considerable dispatch but with less personal interest than in former years because neither of us knew any of the contestants. We considered ourselves lucky if we recognized some of the parents standing near us; certainly, the two generations of frollicking guys and dolls were complete strangers.

The fancy float event was right up our alley, for, an ancient naptha launch, outboard-powered, rocked into view. One of those long low types with a squat superstructure marked its vintage as pre-First World War. Bud knew all the dope.

The launch was called the "Jessie" and owned originally by the late Judge Hudspeth of New York, an old-time Stony Laker. It had been beached for 40 years, Bud said, but the present youthful owners got her afloat and rigged a kicker under her fantail stern. In her heyday she was powered by a naptha engine like many of her type on the lakes.

Among the old boats we talked of were those belonging to the Breezes, Donnells, McBains, Strattons, Dr. Races, the Bucks and even Tom Hull's supply boat with lean-to additions on port and starboard sides.

We even shed a tear for the old lake steamers that had vanished—Islinda, Empress, Stony Lake and Manita. In fact we were so busy with our thoughts of yesteryear that when we resumed interest in the watersports before us the course was clear and the crowd had gone home.

Best regatta I ever attended.

RHUS TOXICODENDRON

Have you had anything to do with Rhus this year?

If you haven't, you are lucky because Rhus is a stinker of the lowest common garden variety. A bushy plant with THREE shiny green leaves that turn beautiful blushing shades in fall. You will guess by now that I am referring to poison ivy.

Woke up the other morning scratching some familiar orange-pink lumps and knew from long experience, though half asleep at the time, what it was. Have had the Thing so many times a season it doesn't worry me because I have a home cure that many doctors recommend—yellow laundry soap scrubbed into the pimples with a nail brush. Calomel lotion is a soother in between scrubbings. These tactics localize the pest but you still have to go through the itching sensation till water blisters appear and break.

The stuff that causes all the trouble is a poisonous oily agent in stems and leaves called urushoil. It won't evaporate and you can even get yourself a dose of it working with poison ivy brush in the dead of winter.

You don't even have to touch it to get it. The family pet trailing through the vines will carry the poison on its fur if you pet it afterward. Some people who have made bonfires of the stuff have been known to get their eyes puffed shut from the infested smoke and one garageman claims he caught it from working on a car that had driven through it.

You can't win with poison ivy and doctors say that no one has natural immunity. So, you should be smart enough to get acquainted with the stuff and treat it with plenty of respect.

What makes me mad is wondering where I got THIS jolt of it THIS time.

LIGHTS, CAMERAS, (PLENTY OF) ACTION

Was a time when proud parents marked one of the important milestones of their children's progress the day the moppets took their first hal' ng steps unassisted. Not any more. Parents of the same children in these parts get the same thrill now, and a few years later, as junior buzzes off on a pair of water skiis behind a fast outboard.

The infant that fell every second step now does a nose dive into the water in a great shower of spray every second mile.

(We are properly convinced of their skill on their first two passes in front of the dock at All Saints' Rest but feel like reaching for the razor strap as the spectacle goes on hour after hour.)

DREAM STUFF

Fishing reports range from punk to perfect but I suspect that a good many fishermen are getting their fair share though they won't admit it. Here are some highlights:

WHITEFISH: Because this species seems to be taking the hook in isolated spots these days it is doubtful that fishermen can go all out and take as many as they want. True, no section of the Fish and Game Act in the Kawarthas makes reference to the taking of whitefish in season, but, when you snaffle half a dozen of these large babies you are putting yourself in the commercial fisherman's category. That requires a licence. In the meantime the Regional Lands and Forests office warns "Take it easy, brother". They will issue a directive from Queen's Park very shortly.

'LUNGE: Lacrosse-hockey player Don Ashbee set the town on its ear on Wednesday by making four casts from the George St. wharf and snaring two keepers, 18 and 8 pounds. An army of aspirants followed Don's footsteps and whaled their casting arms from their sockets with nary a nibble. I mean to say, what other city in Canada can a chap take his 'lunge limit, in the heart of his hometown during five minutes of his lunch hour? (Brag! Brag!)

The great 49-pound 'lunge reported taken at White Lake by a Mr. Perrin still hasn't been steered into town. Ron Balaam of the Jaycee Tourist booth promised some action and proof 'long about Thursday of this week but no dice, no fish. We are still waiting hopefully, however, but regret all that shrinkage that has taken place in some icehouse in the meantime.

PICKEREL: Biggest walleyes come consistently from Chandos Lake each season and this year is no exception. Glance at the photo alongside of Rollit J. Goldring of Toronto who is holding a trophy specimen that weighed 12 pounds, 13 ounces, shortly after it was yanked from the water. They don't come much better than this.

LARGE-MOUTH BASS: Jack Butler of Waterdown caught himself a fine green specimen in the old Sawmill Bay at Young's Point; it weighed 6 pounds, 12 ounces. He tried to tell me it was a Small-Mouth when he brought it to the news room to have its pitcha took, but the long mouth line told the story. Nice fish all the same.

PANFISH: Ebullient restaurateur Babe Fontaine whose establishment shelters ye scribes between news assignments is closing his business for a week of fishing—claims he is going to give the whoppers in Chandos Lake what-for. This section a week hence will be reserved for tales of rock bass, perch and sunfish, if any, but nothing any larger.

Huxley Receives Prize

The Kalinga Prize for distinguished popular writing in science was presented to the British scientist, Julian Huxley, by Dr. John W. Taylor, Acting Director-General of Unesco, at a ceremony in Paris on July 2. Dr. Huxley, who was Unesco's first Director-General, had been nominated for the prize by both the Royal Society of Great Britain and the Institut de France.

The Kalinga Prize of one thousand pounds sterling which was established in 1951 by Mr. B. Patnaik, Indian industrialist, is awarded annually for outstanding and continued achievement in the dissemination and interpretation of science to the general public in books, articles, radio programmes or films. The first award, in 1952, went to the French scientist, Prince Louis de Broglie.

CHARACTERISTIC OF THE DOZENS of steamboats which used to ply the Otonabee, Rice Lake and the Trent is the Whistlewing. This photograph was taken three-quarters of a century ago. The vessels were popular for Masonic and Sunday school picnics and were, nearly a century ago, vital to commerce and communication. The Denne Collection at the Public Library has tinted photographs of many of the old and loved steamboats referred to by Mr. Clarry in his article on this page.

Golden Era Of Steamboats On Otonabee And Rice Lake

By E. S. CLARRY

The recent announcement by the Muskoka Navigation Company that they had withdrawn from service their one remaining passenger steamboat on the Lake of Bays after a continuous service of seventy-five years is a further striking reminder of the decline of passenger steamboats on the inland waters of Ontario.

The company in making the announcement pointed out that the construction of paved highways to points on the Muskoka lakes enables cottagers and tourists to reach summer resorts more quickly than had been possible before the development of automobile transportation. The operation of their boat on the Lake of Bays had been in recent years financially a losing proposition.

LAST OF STEAMBOATS

The Kawartha chain of lakes and the Rideau saw the last of their passenger steamboats some years ago and in fact it is not only the inland lakes and rivers that have witnessed this great change in passenger transportation for it includes lake Ontario as well.

No more striking instance in this respect may be noted than the fact that today not one commercial passenger boat operates out of Toronto, a city that is the centre of a population of one million people. The old days when one could each day, throughout the summer season, take a trip by boat from Toronto across the lake to Niagara and return are gone. The once popular boat trip over the weekend to Prescott and return on the old Kingston is but a memory to the thousands who at one time or other took in that delightful cruise.

Automobile transportation has ruthlessly all but completely exterminated the steam powered passenger boat on our inland waters. While this state of affairs will be regretted especially by the older generation nothing could be done to prevent it and we must resign ourselves to the march of progress. The invention of the internal combustion engine which ushered in the era of the passenger automobile, the motor bus, the gas powered truck and tractor has brought about enormous changes in our way of life for in addition to its displacing steam powered passenger boats on our inland lakes and rivers it has played havoc with our railways and has pretty well crowded the horse from our city streets and rural highways; in fact from many of our farms.

The older generation will however look back with feelings of regret to the passing of the good old steamboat days and no city in Ontario was more active in this respect than Peterborough. The old Wolfe Street wharf was in the 1890's and for a short time into the 1900's the home port of a number of passenger boats.

The Queen of the Otonabee and Rice lake waters was the Golden Eye in the 90's re-named The City of Peterborough and still later re-named the Otonabee. Also claiming Peterborough as their home port were the Waterlily, the Daisy and the Pearl. Then there was the Rainbow owned and operated by Frank Burnett of Burnett's landing on the north shore of Rice lake as well as the Beaver operated by Capt. Harris of Gore's landing.

WATERLILY, GOLDEN EYE

Each week day throughout the summer months the Waterlily made a trip down the river to various points on Rice lake and return and these were well patronized. The Golden Eye was busy throughout the season carrying Sunday school excursions and excursions under the auspices of various lodges and societies. These were not always made up of Peterborough people as many excursion parties came into Peterborough by rail and boarded the Golden Eye at the Wolfe street wharf.

Each Saturday morning throughout the navigation season the Waterlily, Rainbow and Beaver arrived at the old Wolfe street wharf with farmers and their wives from various points on Rice lake and the Otonabee river with their butter and eggs, their dressed poultry and vegetables and other farm produce to be disposed of on the Peterborough market.

Occasionally on other week days the Beaver and the Rainbow would participate in the excursion trade. Being much smaller vessels than the Golden Eye they were able to take on a good sized excursion party only by lashing a scow to one side. This was equipped with benches on which the excursionists could sit as they sailed merrily along to their destination. On other days the same scows might be used in transporting hogs from points on Rice lake and the Otonabee to the Matthews packing plant or carrying lumber, cordwood, grain and other products to Peterborough. In any event the boats were kept pretty busy throughout the navigation season.

CALCUTT'S FLEET

Henry Calcutt who operated the Calcutt Brewery in those days was the power behind the development of the steamboat business on the Otonabee and Rice lake. He truly loved steamboats but it is doubtful if he really made any money building and operating them. It was he who owned the Golden Eye, Waterlily, Daisy and Pearl in the 1890's. The Pearl was a trim little vessel he kept pretty much for his own private use. He operated his fleet of steamers under the high-sounding name of Calcutt's line of steamers which could be seen lettered on the sides of his boats.

The largest of these was the Golden Eye which was a picturesque sight as she cruised down the Otonabee, a huge side-wheeler with her walking-beam steadily and powerfully pumping up and down and for a great many years she had as her wheelsman Sam Lombard, a veteran of the local waters.

Sam knew every rock, stump and shoal from the Wolf street wharf to Healey's Falls. In fact there were some who claimed he could pilot a boat from the Wolfe St. wharf to Jubilee Point blindfolded. He was a quiet spoken, modest man, but there was one incident in his navigating career to which he would sometimes refer. That was the occasion on which he piloted the boat across Rice lake with the Prince of Wales, later King Edward the Seventh, as one of the passengers.

When the Prince was making his tour of Canada in the sixties it was arranged that he should travel over the old Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora railway to Peterborough which crossed Rice lake from Harwood to Hiawatha. The bridge had taken a terrific pounding from the ice and winds the previous winter and those in charge of the Prince's tour felt there was a possibility of it collapsing while the royal train was passing over it. A steamboat was provided to carry the Heir to the Throne from Harwood to Hiawatha and Sam Lombard was at the wheel. He was very proud of this honor that had been thrust upon him.

THE PRINCE ON BOARD

The prince boarded the train again at Hiawatha and continued his journey in to Peterborough. He returned to the lake front however by way of the Midland railway via Millbrook to Port Hope. It may be noted that while Sam Lombard piloted the boat across Rice lake with the Prince of Wales as a passenger in the 60's and had been piloting steamers on Rice lake and the Otonabee for a good many years previous to that time, he was still acting as wheelsman of various boats on the local waters well on into the first decade of the 20th century.

In order to build up business for his line of steamboats Mr. Calcutt developed a number of resorts on Rice lake and the Otonabee river. Idlewilde on the south side of Rice lake just a short distance east of Harwood was perhaps the most pretentious of these and was a popular spot for Sunday school excursions. Here he built a hotel and a dancing pavilion and underbrushed a large area making it an ideal picnic ground. Another resort he established was Jubilee point at the mouth of the Otonabee river where he also built a hotel and dancing pavilion and cleared a large area which he made into an athletic field.

JUBILEE POINT

Jubilee point was not always so named, it formerly being known as Fothergill's point as, in the very early days of the settlement of the Peterborough district it was owned by Charles Fothergill, a prominent promoter of various enterprises in the old Newcastle district. He was in the 30's a member of the legislature at Toronto for Durham and while he was nominally a supporter of William Lyon Mackenzie he opposed the organization of the rebellion of 1837.

Mr. Calcutt also underbrushed a beautiful pine grove at Wallace's point, equipped it with picnic tables and swings, which he named Victoria park and it was the destination of a goodly number of excursions.

In fact the writer can recall a very large Sunday school excursion to Victoria park from Cobourg in the early 90's. It came by rail to Harwood and then by the old Golden Eye to the dock at Wallace's point with Sam Lombard at the wheel.

TO SHIP IRON

Of course there were steamboats on the Otonabee, Rice Lake and the Trent before 1890. In the seventies and eighties there were the Kingfisher, the Whistlewing, the Isaac Butts and others. The Isaac Butts was a powerful craft built to carry iron ore from a point on the Trent River and across Rice Lake to Harwood.

It seems rather hard today to believe that away back in the 70's an attempt was made to mine iron ore in the Marmora area and ship it over to the United States when transportation means were so primitive, but it is a fact nevertheless. A short railway line was built from the mines to the Trent River over which the ore was transported. It was then loaded onto scows and hauled up the Trent and across Rice Lake to Harwood. At that point it was loaded onto railway cars and hauled to Cobourg where it once again was loaded onto boats and carried across Lake Ontario. Still once again it was trans-shipped onto railway cars and finally reached the blast furnaces at Pittsburg.

Even before the days of the Kingfisher, the Whistlewing and the Isaac Butts there were steamboats plying the local waters. In the earliest days of the settlement of the country there was the Forester and the Sir Alan McNabb and possibly others.

GOLDEN ERA

However, the golden era of steamboats on the Otonabee River and Rice Lake was undoubtedly in the gay nineties. Those who are old enough can remember the moonlight excursions on the Waterlily and other boats down the river to Wallace's Point; the Sunday school excursions on the old Golden Eye; the great activity at the old Wolf Street wharf on Saturday mornings when three steamers arrived loaded with farmers and their wives to sell their produce on the Peterborough market.

If old Sam Lombard, long since gone, were to return to this life and see the devastation that has come upon the steamboat navigation on the local waters he would beg to be put to sleep again.

Your Garden:

For A Good Tomato Crop

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

Tomatoes form the major portion of most home vegetable gardens. While final results are usually satisfactory, there are many moments of worry during the summer.

The way to get a crop from your vines is to give them the best possible care now.

That means cultivation of the soil to eliminate weeds, fertilizing when necessary, mulching to conserve soil moisture, and last but most important — spraying or dusting to control insects and to prevent damaging diseases.

Reports indicate that a virus disease is attacking the tomato crop again this summer.

The disease is known as tomato mosaic and the increase of the disease is probably due to the recent mild winters.

The mild winters allow the survival of larger numbers of the insects which carry the virus and the perennial weeds on which the virus live.

The main culprit in tomato mosaic is the aphid, which carries the virus from infected weeds to the tomato plant. The most obvious symptoms are mottling and distortion of leaves.

Stunting of the infected plants also may occur. Many times brown streaks of dead tissue appear along the stems and peticles.

However, something can be done to get rid of the aphids and the weeds that are infected. Scientists report that before killing the weeds, they should be dusted or sprayed with an insecticide. Otherwise, the virus will move from the dying weeds to the tomato plants.

Tests show that nicotine sulfate is one of the best agents to knock off the aphids. This spray, however, will not give permanent protection and the battle must go on continually.

If diseased plants are noticed in an otherwise healthy field of plants, it is best that they be sprayed. Since it is difficult for the average home gardener to tell blight, leaf spot, and other diseases apart the wise gardener will follow this schedule, recommended by a gardening expert.

Dust or spray, beginning shortly after the plants are set out, with fermate, then in 10 to 14 days dust or spray with a fixed copper.

Two weeks later fermate again and so on. Alternate them until the crop has been harvested.

Gardening Questions

Q.—The flower spikes and some of the leaves on my delphiniums always become very distorted. What is the trouble, and how can I remedy it?

A.—Your delphiniums are probably troubled with cyclamen mites. Cut off and burn the most seriously infested parts. Then spray the remainder every week or 10 days with a nicotine or dimite spray, making sure to get into all the tiny spaces between the flower buds and leaves where the insects hide.

Q.—Will you tell me when Oriental poppies can be divided?

A.—It is best to divide them while they are dormant in August after the leaves have withered. Be careful to injure the roots as little as possible.

Q.—What is the purpose of pinching marigolds, zinnias, and other annuals?

A.—Pinching back young annuals makes them bush out and thus produce more bloom. To pinch, remove two inches or more of the tip growth with the thumbnail and forefinger.

Q.—Our tuberous begonias in past years have been a disappointment because of slug damage. What can be done?

A.—Purchase a poison bait having a base of metaldehyde. Apply as directed.

Don't let tomato mosaic or aphids make themselves at home in your tomato patch. Keep after them.

6-Room House $5 A Month But Wages 50c A Day: Peterborough In The 70's

(Ed. Note: This interesting account of Peterborough in the seventies was written a dozen years ago by a former resident of Peterborough who has died since. We print them almost unedited from the typewritten manuscript. They are personal memoirs, and subject to the writer's prejudices, views and sometimes unprecise memory of the events and people of eighty years ago. The Examiner does not vouch for their accuracy of detail).

NEW IMMIGRANTS

In 1879 the Ontario and Quebec Railway, now the CPR, was building the Ottawa to Peterborough line. One Sunday morning early in May about 200 Irish labourers and their families arrived in Peterborough. No one in Peterborough knew of their coming, an employment agency had brought them out. The mayor was called, fire bells were rung, the churches were asked to announce that an immigrant shed would have to be built before night. Lumber was provided and the shed completed before night. Women brought their surplus clothes and bedding. See what could be done in the old days when a housing shortage developed.

The Midland Railway was the only railway in the early seventies. It ran to Port Hope and to Lakefield and another line to Belleville. Later on another branch was built from Peterborough to Lindsay. It was called the Missing Link and instead of going to Port Hope Peterborough people went to Lindsay and via Blackwater Junction to Toronto. Later on Peterborough residents could go via CPR to Toronto a much shorter route, go in the morning and get back that night.

RENTS CHEAP

Rents were cheap in Peterborough in the seventies, choice shops on George St. $300 to $400 a year, a good six room frame or rough cast cottage $4.00 to $5.00 a month; the landlord paid the taxes. The business section of George St. has changed little since the seventies, little since the fifties I have heard older people say. Wages were low in the seventies. Labourers 50c to $1.00 a day, experienced clerks $3.00 to $9.00 a week. Railway section men probably $1.00 a day. School boys would drive a butcher wagon on Saturday for 10 cents, boys 8 to 12 years of age would work in the shops all day Saturday and bring their lunch with them (probably do a man's work) for 10c. Not many boys went to school after they were twelve.

They would find employment in the shops or factories at $2.00 a week or less. Women help was not employed in the shops to any extent. The book shops had one or two girls. Doran & Gibbons had a female clerk and there was one at the Registry office.

When the Dr. Barnardo Home was started about 50 boys came out. They did not like Canadians, they called them Canadian sausage. They were a scrappy lot and many fights occurred with Peterborough boys.

WHISKY 5c

At the hotels and saloons whisky and beer was five cents. A schooner of beer, the finest Scotch, or Bass' ale and 6 or 7 more for a quarter Have seen a quarter buy drinks for everybody in the bar, perhaps a dozen men and women. Some women smoked a pipe, a clay pipe generally and patronized the bars.

In the seventies we heard much of anarchists, nihilists and the Klu Klux Klan. Mr. Powderley was just starting his Knight of Labour then. No doubt if it had not been for labour unions men would still be working for small wages. There were no paved streets in Peterborough in the seventies. There were plenty of pitch holes on George St. In the winter time lots of snow, sometimes the snow was so high in the centre of the road one walking on the east side could scarcely see the heads of those on the west side. No snow removed in the winter time, no snow-plow for the sidewalks. Some cleaned off the snow in front of their houses, some didn't; no curbs and gutters. Those who had carriages had a step at the curb so that they could enter or leave their carriages without effort.

The step often was of stone and had their name on it; they were the aristocracy. Sidewalks were of lumber, no stone or cement sidewalks There were a few sidewalks made of tar and gravel, they were put in by Italian contractors, recent importations from Italy and Sicily. They were not a success and Peterborough went back to board walks.

The street crossings were planks and wore out quickly. No street cleaning, cigar butts everywhere. The town buildings and police station were on Simcoe, Water and the Market Square. Two policemen, Chief Johnston and Constable Smith, later on a night watchman was engaged. Constable McGinty, a thin tall man about 6 ft. 6 in. with a chin-whisker, the boys called him "Uncle Sam."

THE MARKET

Peterborough had a good market, an open market, later on a covered market house was erected. Wednesdays and Saturdays were the chief market days. Farmers came to the Peterborough market from 10, 20, 50 miles and more. Large quantities of vegetables, grain, hay, wood, hogs, beef, a nice dressed hog about 125 lbs. 3 to 3½c a lb.; a quarter of baby beef 3½ to 4c lb. Many grain buyers and keen competion for each load of grain; often the grain buyers would meet the farmers on the outskirts of the town. No creamery butter, many of the better class of householders would give an order to a farmer's wife in June for a firkin or more of butter, perhaps enough to last them a year. It was well made butter and would keep indefinitely. Eggs were packed in salt and kept indefinitely, few fresh eggs in the winter time. Householders usually prepared for a "hard winter."

HOSPITALS

In the early seventies Peterborough had no hospital and Robert Nicholls of Nicholls and Hall donated the Nicholls hospital to the town. It was rumoured that it was for Protestants only and no Roman Catholic could be treated there. This caused quite a controversy. Finally the town council would not accept the gift on these terms and concessions were made. Robert Nicholls was a Presbyterian and an Irishman and attended the old Kirk. At a later date the Sisters of St. Joseph purchased a site in Ashburnham and St. Joseph's Hospital was founded.

The County House of Refuge was located in Peterborough. There was a Board of Trade also an opera house and at that time no Public Library, but they had a Mechanics' Institute. The total population at this time including Peterborough, Ashburnham, Auburn and the suburbs would probably be about 7,000. At that time most of the population were British-born. Most of the Irish were Protestants from the north of Ireland. There were also U.E. Loyalists, and French-Canadians. There were also many Hessians, decendants of those whom George III had raised in Germany at the time of the American Revolution. Canadian newspapers featured British and foreign news. Disraeli and Gladstone were then in their zenith.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Just a little hash to munch on today.

First of all the football season is upon us again. Other centres, particularly in the Big Four cities, the fall sport has been going several weeks in preparation for games this month. The Orfuns begin practices Tuesday night.

Coach Tony Kotowski said today, "We'll have a pretty good team" and added a big "if" the Orfuns have the same club as last season. Then, you'll remember, they went through to the Canadian intermediate finals, losing out to Winnipeg.

The big lads will start the season off with a few push-ups and other exercises to take off the excess fat. Tony also plans some obstacle courses for the Orfuns to climb, run and crawl through.

After slimming the boys down to playing size and to a condition where they'll be able to play more than five minutes without huffing and puffing like the big, bad wolf, they'll practise fundamentals. You can't play the game unless you know the basic ideas.

Tony believes conditioning goes a long way in winning a championship. He says, "How we'll turn out depends on the shape the players are in."

Jim Milligan and his Orillia friends, Bob "Rabbit" White, Jack McIntyre, Bob Wilde and several others will again be making the trips back and forth to Peterborough. Orillia's "millionaire" was the club's mainstay last season.

Jim Wilde and Fred Ouelette won't be back this year, at least so it appears. After signing Argo contracts, the lads if they don't make the big team, will probably see action with Balmy Beach or some other Argo branch. Please keep them away from Cobourg.

But little Jimmy has come up with a replacement and one which several years ago was quite a thorn in the Orfuns' defence. He's Mush Bond. He'll be a welcome newcomer to the Orfun ranks.

Several others from the Eastern Champions' lineup may not make appearances this season. The two regular ends, Don McGillis and Clive Naismith, along with hefty Frank Fitzgerald are doubtful Orfuns.

Clive is now in Lindsay with the OPP detachment and may find the three shifts won't work too well with Orfun practices and games. Frank may suffer from work too now that he's a Peterborough fireman. Past injuries may keep Don out.

Tony expects Bus Jensen, Roy Armstrong, Bill Huntley, Hank Russelle, Jerry McGillis and Lou Nickle (after lacrosse) back for the backfield. He also hopes to have wingmen Gord Beatty, Bob Howe, Joe Berthiot, Johnny Conlin, Al Beavis, Johnny Gardino, Rocky DeCarlo and others back.

At any rate, with old and new, the Orfuns will have their first game in Ottawa on August 22. No, they're not going to play the Roughriders, but the Roughriders' farm club, the intermediates, who lost out to Montreal last fall. It's an exhibition affair, prior to league games later in August or early September.

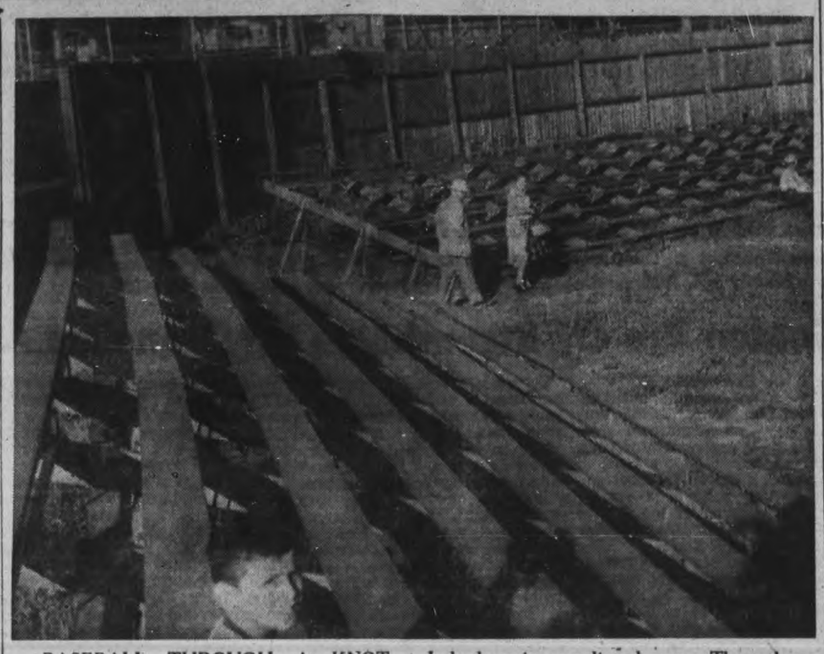
- - - - - - -

Orillia has their lacrosse crying towels out once more. This time they're weeping that poor crowds will probably mean no senior "A" lacrosse there next season.

It boils down to this. Apparently William G. Clarke, this year's sponsor who took over from the Toronto interests, is beginning to lose faith in the project. He's quite downcast about the support. He has been having between 800 and 1,000 fans a game.

They're finding it takes the crowds (and large ones at that) to make lacrosse thrive. The Orillia interests clearly state that Orillia can't compete with the Trailermen and the Athletics in the player market for the "best" players without better financial help.

- - - - - - -



It's playoff time already for the city's softball teams. UEW and Seabrooke's will begin the city semi-finals Tuesday night in a doubleheader at the bowl; they'll play a best-of-five, the winner meeting the TPT Petes for the title.

At the same time the two clubs will be deciding who'll represent Peterborough in the senior "B" Ontario playdowns. Other teams in this zone are Ottawa, Kingston and Oshawa. The TPT Petes, the top team in the league, will represent the city in the intermediate "A" and will probably soon begin meeting teams from Belleville, Kingston, Ottawa or Whitby.

A third team from the city in Ontario play this year is the Civic League's Foresters. They have been entered in the intermediate "AA" bracket which includes in this zone Belleville and Kingston.

That's about it for now. Take it away, Cecil.

BASEBALL THROUGH A KNOT-HOLE — Peterborough's junior baseball club, the Liflocs, will enter Ontario playdowns August 15, probably meeting Belleville first. This year baseball officials attempted to revive baseball by having a strong junior nine, playing games in the Lakeshore intermediate league. There they have won six games. But most of the ball fans must be taking the games in through the old knot-hole (top photo) because the stands (lower photo) have been empty for most of the Liflocs' home games.

Pats Outplay Long Branch To Take 17-14 Win At Bowl Hill, Curtis, Allan Star

Lou Vitarelli's junior Pats finally came into their own Friday night. Hitting a stride which Coach Vitarelli has claimed throughout the season that they're capable of playing, the Pats outplayed first-place Long Branch Friday night to win 17-14. The victory, Long Branch's second loss of the junior OLA season, grouped the four top teams, Long Branch, Brampton, the Pats and Oakville, closer together and gives the Pats a better chance of reaching second place.

Bob Curtis flashed in four goals in little more than six minutes during the second period to take top honors, but Ray Hill played an exceptionally good game—which is really something; his ordinary game is better than average. The visiting team soon became discouraged trying to beat the Peterborough goalie. Lionel Bloom played a hard game both ways, at one time ignoring a head cut to stay in there.

Larry and Peter Rusé were the big names in the scoring circle for Long Branch, Pete accounting for five goals and Larry four. Neave and Coleman fought hard and at one time a stick swinging match broke out between Bloom and Neave, but was quickly doused by referee Russ Slater.

The game was an exceptionally hard checking affair and 14 penalties were handed out, eight to the 'Pats' and six to Long Branch. All of these were minor offences however—and no real trouble occurred.

The 'Pats' averaged five goals each for the first three periods and settled for two in the final period. Bob Curtis kept up the record in the second with his four consecutive triumphs and no doubt he aided the 'Pats' morale. Long Branchers trailed throughout and in the final periods tempers began to burn. The penalties increased with three handed out to each team in the final period, which incidentally was the only period that Long Branch outscored the 'Pats'.

Lineup:

Long Branch: L. Ruse, G. Kapasky, F. Tomchischen, J. Walton, P. Ruse, H. Smith, J. Rawson, L. Gerough, P. Henderson, D. Bonner, N. Neave, D. Coleman, L. Anderson.

Manchester Has For Test Matches Monsoon Season

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—Britons are a patient race whose leisurely qualities are exemplified in the game of cricket, but they have just about had enough of this Lancashire city and its sodden treatment of the game.

They know all about rain and the hazards it inflicts on cricket. But most figured it was a bit thick when Asutralia and England failed again this year to reach a decision in the rain-soaked Test match attempted at Old Trafford pitch here.

Largely because of rain, there hasn't been a completed Australia-England Test match here since 1905.

There have been pointed suggestions that the match, one of five of the rarest plums in the cricket world, be given to some drier city

"MONSOON SEASON"

Stung, the city hastened into print with a letter to the Times to explain itself meteorologically and to offer a suggestion.

"The truth of the matter is," said an official, "that Manchester, like India, has a 'monsoon season' in July and August, when the rainfall is sometimes more than double that of other months."

It was suggested "the obvious answer is to change the Manchester test to the month of June."

It wouldn't be the first time that Manchester's over-abundant precipitation had caused a shift. In 1926, despairing authorities decided to advance the match to mid-July, from the end of the month, after only five minutes' play was possible on the first day of a three-day contest.

The change helped a bit, but not enough, apparently.

By tradition, the five Test matches played in this country, when Australia invades, are at Nottingham, Lord's (London), Manchester, Leeds and the Oval (London).

Any change would mean advancing the Manchester date to the second or first match.

There's little likelihood of the city losing the match, since so many of the game's stars hail from the county, yet even the hardy northern cricket fans feel they deserve something better than they usually receive.

DISMAL SECOND

Just for the record, here's Manchester's test cricket story for the last 40 years.

In 1912, there were five hours' play in three days. In 1921, a glittering summer, one of three days was washed out, almost the same thing that happened to 1926.

In 1934, the teams had an all-out bash at each other, producing 1,307 runs in the four days. They still drew. Only three hours were lost in 1938's four-day test but in 1948 a full 1½ days were lost to rain, plus shower interruptions. That five-day match was drawn too.

Actually, Manchester annually receives under 30 inches of rain, but weather statistics back up the contention that July and August get more than their share.

Dip Into Farm Clubs As Deadline Arrives

NEW YORK (AP)—The deadline for the majors' new minor league option recall rule passed at midnight Friday with six clubs dipping into their farm systems during the final hours for additional strength.

The rule forbids a major league club to recall from the minors after midnight July 31 any player out on option. It does not however, prevent a major league club from purchasing a minor league player at any time.

New York Yankees, leading the American League by 5½ games, got under the wire by a few hours with the biggest deal. They called up four players, including one of the top pitchers in the class-A Eastern League.

Recalled on option were Bill Miller, left-handed pitcher from Kansas City in the American Association and shortstop Jim Brideweser from Syracuse of the International League.

PURCHASE TRIANDOS

The world champions also purchased Gus Triandos, 225-pound catcher-first baseman, from their Birmingham farm in the Southern Association and southpaw pitcher Steve Kraly from Binghamton in the Eastern circuit. Kraly has compiled an 18-2 record with seven shutouts.

To make room for Miller and Brideweser, both of whom had been up with the Yanks, the New York club asked for waivers on catcher Ralph Houk and veteran pitcher Ray Scarborough. Since both Triandos and Kraly are returned servicemen they can be carried as extra men over the 25-player limit.

Twenty-four hours earlier St. Louis Cardinals brought up outfielder Harry Elliott from their Houston farm in the Texas League and recalled pitcher Willard Schmidt from Columbus in the American Association to handle relief work.

STRENGTHEN HOPES

Chicago White Sox sought to strengthen their pennant hopes by recalling Clifford (Conie) Johnson a pitcher with a 6-5 record for Charleston in the American Association, and outfielder-first baseman Bob Boyd from Toronto of the International League. Johnson was scheduled to make his first appearance against Washington today.

During the last couple of weeks, Brooklyn Dodgers brought back outfielder Dick Williams from Montreal, catcher Dick Teed from Mobile and pitcher Glenn Mickens from Fort Worth.

Boston Red Sox quickly put their latest acquisition, pitcher Frank Sullivan, into action. Just up from Albany he hurled two innings Friday night against the Tigers and gave up two hits.

Pompeyo Davalillo, farmed out after one day of spring training, was recalled from Charlotte by Washington Senators. He's due to take over the shortstop spot.

Out At The Kawartha

LADIES' SECTION

In the 18-hole event Thursday's competition was low gross on the back nine which was won by Mrs. H. Woodcox who received a point and Mrs. D. Chamberlain won the silver spoon. Mrs. E. Collins and Mrs. D. Chamberlain tied for low net and each was given a point and Mrs. D. McDougall won the golf ball.

The competition for the 9-hole group was lowest number of putts which was won by Mrs. C. Touchburn and Mrs. W. Griffin. Mrs. G. White won the silver spoon and Mrs. Wm. Wedlock won the golf ball.

BUSINESS GIRLS

The B.G. attendance has certainly dropped but we expect more girls to be out next week when a great many will have finished vacationing. The low gross winner for Thursday evening was Ruth McKee, who was given a point, and Doris Acford won the silver spoon. In the competition for low score on even holes, Ruth McKee and Barbara Siddall each won a point and Audrey Oliver won the spoon.

All plans have been completed for the ladies' tournament on August 22, so all we can do now is to hope for a day of sunshine.

Browns Request Court Injunction

OTTAWA (CP) — Cleveland Browns through their lawyer here asked Friday for an Ontario Supreme Court injunction to restrain John Kissell, 250-pound lineman, from playing football with Ottawa Rough Riders.

W. G. Burke-Robertson, lawyer representing the club, said the writ of summons seeking the injunction was issued Friday.

Kissell allegedly signed contracts with both the Browns and the Ottawa Football Club.

Jim McCaffery, president of the Ottawa club, said: "We'll fight to the limit to retain Kissell. He wants to play here and he'll play here unless the courts rule otherwise. The club will protect Kissell in every way."

Samuel Berger, QC, Ottawa club legal representative, said: "We have Kissell under contract and we intend to do our utmost within legal means to keep him here."

Sterling Newell, Jr., lawyer and acting secretary of the Browns, said: "Kissell is our property. We renewed our option within the appointed time and he signed the contract. We'll go to court to see that Kissell honors the contract."

Kissell said: "Spent all day at the beach. Gee, that sun is great."

No Equestrian Sports In 1956 Olympics

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—There will be no equestrian sports in the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne because of Australian quarantine laws, the International Olympic Committee announced today.

Otto Mayer, chancellor of the committee, said the organization's committee of games in Melbourne had advised the committee it was impossible to obtain relaxation of the Australian law requiring a quarantine period of six months for horses entering Australia.

Montreal Hands Buffalo Worst Beating Of Season

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The charging Buffalo Bisons ran up against a stone wall Friday night.

Full of confidence after sweeping a three-game series from Toronto Maple Leafs, the Herd invaded Montreal with hopes of strengthening their hold on the International Baseball League leadership.

But the Royals handed the leaders one of their worst lickings of the current campaign—a 14-2 setback—to advance to within 1½ games of first place.

Pennant-hopeful Rochester Red Wings bounced back into the victory column at the expense of the tail-end Cubs. The Birds whipped the cellar-dwellers 10-4 at Springfield, and now are only 2½ games behind Buffalo.

14-HIT ATTACK

The Wings used a 14-hit attack against three hurlers. Niles Jordan relieved by Jack Crimian in the eighth, received credit for the victory.

In the only other scheduled game Syracuse Chiefs defeated the Orioles 3-1 at Baltimore as Art Hartley limited the home club to seven scattered hits. The victory moved the Chiefs into a tie for fifth place with idle Toronto.

Getting back to Montreal, the Royals had four big innings. They scored three times in each of three innings and four in another frame.

Hamp Coleman went the distance for Montreal, allowing the Herd only seven scattered hits. Frank Lary, first of five Buffalo moundsmen, suffered his eighth loss against 10 victories.

Brydson, Gray Stage 26-Hole Golf Marathon

TORONTO (CP)—Gord Brydson of Toronto Mississaugua and Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro staged a 26-hole marathon Friday in the quarter-final round of the Millar tournament at he suburban Islington golf club before Brydson earned the right to enter today's semi-final round of the professionals' and assistants' tournament.

Both played it close through the first 18 and were two under par on the next seven when Brydson dropped a 15-foot putt for a birdie-three. Gray missed a four-footer to close out the match, the longest in Millar history.

The previous record was set in 1949 when Gray beat Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield after seven extra holes.

Norm Smith of Toronto York Downs and Merv Costello of Renfrew surprised the experts by surviving Friday's play and entering today's round against Brydson and veteran Willie Lamb of Toronto Lambton.

Smith edged Duke Adams of Brampton two and one, then came from behind a three-hole deficit to defeat Lloyd Tucker, Kitchener Rockway, on the 18th.

Costello shunted aside Jack Windsor of Oakville two-up in his morning round and then clipped defending champion Al Balding on the 18th to eliminate the Oakville expert.

The 50-year-old Lamb bested Clair Chinery of Hamilton Chedoke one-up in the morning and then put away Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield two and one.

Chicago White Sox Slow Down Bow 2-0 To Nats

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

If Paul Richards still hopes to have pennant aspirations when he hits New York next weekend, he better set up a base-hit ration system for his "feast or famine" Chicago White Sox. Thursday the second-place Sox broke out with their biggest barrage of the year—21 safeties that produced 17 runs at Boston. But Friday night at Washington the Sox managed only three hits off Bob Porterfield and lost 2-0. The loss cost them a full game in the flag chase since New York Yankees smothered St. Louis as expected, 11-5. Chicago now trails by 5½ games.

In Washington, the league's two most prolific shutout pitchers faced each other. Virgil (Fire) Trucks, winner of eight straight since joining Chicago in mid-June, had pitched five scoreless games. So had Porterfield.

MAKE IT CERTAIN

The Senators made certain in the first inning that they weren't the ones who were going to get whitewashed. Jackie Jensen drove in one run with a double and scored the second on Jim Busby's single. Porterfield at one point retired 15 in order.

Seven of New York's runs against St. Louis were unearned as the bumbling Brownies committed four errors. Yogi Berra drove in three runs with a triple.

Cleveland whipped Philadelphia Athletics, 12-6. Wally Westlake hammered five straight hits including a home run.

Ralph Branca, the pitcher no club in the National League could use, won his second game for Detroit Tigers, beating Boston 5-3. The loss dropped the fourth-place Red Sox 10½ games behind New York.

BREAKS JINX

Brooklyn finally broke its west-of-the-Mississippi jinx with a 2-1 squeaker over the Cardinals in St. Louis. It was the Dodgers' first triumph in six tries in the Cards' home park this season. Carl Erskine posted his sixth victory of the month, striking out 11 men.

By winning, the Dodgers ran their National League lead to eight games over Milwaukee braves, who bowed 5-1 to Robin Roberts in the first game of a twilight-night doubleheader with Philadelphia Phillies. The second game, a scoreless pitching duel between Bob Miller and Max Surkont, was halted in the top of the 11th inning because of rain.

The storm had threatened all day, but 29,802 Braves fans showed up, running Milwaukee's attendance for the year to 1,009,119, second only to New York Yankees, who have played six more home dates.

GIVES UP 4 HITS

Roberts gave up just four hits in winning his 18th game, four more than any other pitcher in the majors.

New York Giants beat Cincinnati 9-1 behind Larry Jansen's pitching. The victory was Jansen's 10th of the year and fifth over Cincinnati. His lifetime mark against the Reds is 24-3.

After losing 22 of their last 26 games, Pittsburgh Pirates whipped Chicago Cubs 4-0 on Murry Dickson's eight-hit pitching.

Toronto Club Carries Slim Regatta Lead

OTTAWA (CP)—Paddlers of the Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club carried a slim lead today into the second and final day of the 53rd annual Canadian Canoe Association championship regatta on the Rideau river.

The club went out in front Friday as one of their paddlers placed first in one race and second in another for seven points. Two points back, battling for third spot with one win each, were three clubs—Toronto Island Canoe Club, Lachine, Que., and Sudbury. The Manitoba Paddling Association from Winnipeg, with two seconds, was next with four points.

Hoisting the Sailing and Canoe Club into top spot was Lloyd Rice, 25-year-old Toronto textile cutter, who retained one championship and lost one in two of the four opening day 10,000-metre events.

Seventeen races are scheduled for today with the team compiling the most points carting away the association burgee, emblematic of team supremacy. Last year, Rice sparked the Toronto Sailing Club to their first championship in 39 years.

As a 20-mile-an-hour northeast wind cut across the usually quiet waters of Mooney's Bay, Rice retained his championship in the 10,000-metre double blade single, but was upset in the 10,000-metre single blade single by Don Stringer, 20-year-old husky from the Sudbury Canoe Club.

Rice stroked across the finish line in the double blade event a quarter of a mile ahead of Bill Brigden of Winnipeg with a time of 54:0.8. Pat Way of Ottawa Rideau placed third.

The Toronto youth looked tired in the single blade event as he came home three-eighths of a mile behind Stringer, who stroked home in 62 minutes, 31 seconds The battle between the two for the championship goes back three years. In 1951 Stringer copped the honors with Rice placing a close second but last year Rice came home ahead of Stringer. Norm Lane of Ottawa Rideau was third behind Rice.

Les Melia and Bob Smith of Lachine racing club won the championship in the 10,000-metre double blade tandem with a time of 47:18.8. They spurted after being pressed hard by Winnipeg's Lorne Smith and Bill Brigden most of the way. The Winnipeg entry was second.

Top honors in the other long distance event, the 10,000-metre single blade tandem, were carted away by Bill Stevenson and Tom Hodgson of Toronto Island Canoe Club.

EARLY CHURCH STYLE—In the early days of the Roman Catholic church in Quebec province, church architecture followed along lines of designs popular in the 17th and 18th century. Many, such as the parish structure at St. Jean Port Joli, 30 miles below Quebec City, adhered to a combination of the Romanesque and Louis XIV styles, brought to Canada by the Recollet Fathers, early missionaries.

MODERN CHURCH STYLE — New individualistic designs in church architecture have replaced early 17th and 18th century styles in Quebec province. This Roman Catholic church at Boischatel, on the outskirts of Quebec City, built in 1937, is typical of the change. Its simple lines are in sharp contrast to the elaborate styles of earlier architecture.

Quebec Churches Undergo Big Architecture Change

By BERTRAND THIBAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—In staid Quebec province church architecture has undergone such changes in recent years that ancestral beliefs would be shaken if faith rested with the shape of temples.

New, individualistic designs have replaced old designs, imported from Europe by early French settlers. Canadian architects and Canadian materials have been used to erect churches, the design of which would probably have shocked the builders of earlier places of worship.

The early settlers built their churches along lines of two designs popular in the 17th and 18th century. Now, no set pattern is followed.

IN TWO STYLES

Builders of the 17th and 18th centuries designed churches built in the form of a cross or in Recollet style.

The cruciform church, a creation of provincial France, consists of a long nave, cut by a transept to give it a cross-like shape, and ends in an apse or semi-circular dome. The nave is covered by a pointed roof and the structure topped by a steeple.

The Church of St. Pierre parish, on the island of Orleans, dating back to 1716, is one of the most perfect remaining examples of the transeptal style.

The Recollet design is a combination of Romanesque and Louis XIV and is named after a religious order whose members were New France's first missionaries, the Recollet Fathers. This order was founded in Spain in 1484 by reformed Franciscans.

ROMAN DECORATION

Characteristic of the style is a square-like apse at the altar-end of the nave, decorated in the shape of a Roman arc of triumph. This mode of decorating the main altar with an arc-design was in vogue for many years.

The change in style has developed gradually and has been particularly noticeable in recent years.

With the coming of big industrial development in the province, new parishes have been opened and new churches erected. Impetus has been given to Canadian creative effort, stifled while the European church styles were in vogue.

A whole generation of artists has been trained and meticulously labors to discover new church designs, modern yet religious in character.

Quebec's sculptors, cabinet makers, painters, goldsmiths and stained glass artists take part in the decoration of contemporary churches as their ancestors did in the first days of the colony.

USE OF CONCRETE

Use of concrete, instead of wood, field stone and mortar, has given Quebec's churches greater solidity while enabling architects to design churches with wide airy interiors.

Semi-darkness was a tradition in old churches. It has been replaced with lots of daylight filtered by pastel-shaded stained glass which shows up elaborate interior designs made with colored brick.

This new use of light produces a wide variety of color tones, replacing the severity of Quebec's old grey churches with a cheerful atmosphere.

Quebec's pioneers would feel strange to find themselves in churches not solely lit by the flickering flame of the sanctuary lamp and would look with amazement at patron saints sculptured in the modern manner.

BAHA'I WORLD FAITH
What are some of the distinguishing features of the Baha'i Faith?
Its all-embracing belief recognizes not only Baha'u'lalah and Jesus, but also Moses, Muhammad, and the Founders of other living religions. Followers of all these religions have discovered the oneness of religion through the Baha'i Faith.
It is unique in having the actual writings of the Prophet.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CVI. No. 179 SATURDAY, AUGUST 1, 1953

Main Street Topics

HIT BY BB PELLET

Ten-year-old Jean Douglas, RR 10, Peterborough, was treated as an outpatient at Civic Hospital Friday for a cut above the right eye caused by a BB-gun pellet.

BACK FOR SEVENTH TIME

Back for the seventh time to the Kawarthas are Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Morgan, of Toronto, in their new 40-foot cabin cruiser Lady Alva II. They docked at the George St. wharf this morning to pick up supplies before going through the lift lock and on up the canal to Lake Simcoe. This is the maiden voyage of the boat.

SHACK BURNS DOWN

A wooden shack near the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. burned down Friday afternoon after a red-hot cinder from a passing CPR train is believed to have set it ablaze. The one-storey structure contained nothing of value. A booster tank and a 2½-inch hoseline were used by firemen to extinguish the fire that spread to the surrounding grass.

To Investigate Marketing Of Own Wheat

Appointment of a committee to represent Peterborough wheat growers in prospective discussions of marketing their product was left to Henry Sharpe and J. Harold Lewis at a meeting Friday night in the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

This meeting was sponsored by the Federation of Agriculture of which Mr. Sharpe is president. He was chairman for the evening. Mr. Lewis is the county federation's fieldman. Seventeen men attended, and Mr. Lewis reported that many others had telephoned him that they were too busy with the crop to take time out for a meeting.

Cecil Belyea, fieldman of the Ontario Federation, reviewed the facts of the present crop yields and prices, and outlined possible marketing agencies which were mentioned at a recent meeting of wheat producers of the counties of Elgin, Kent, Essex, Lambton and Middlesex. Salient in his report was his statement that it was too late now to undertake any movement for the marketing of the 1952-53 winter wheat.

PREFER HOG PLAN

The western group indicated at their meeting in Chatham a preference for a marketing scheme similar to that which the Ontario Hog Producers adopted towards the end of the winter. Possible authorities, it was said, are the Canada Wheat Board the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act, and the Agricultural Producers' Co-operative Marketing Act.

The Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act would require a preliminary referendum of growers, with at least 66 2-3 per cent in favor of accepting that scheme. However, the Minister of Agriculture, Hon. Fletcher Thomas, is ill.

"Even if he were in his office," Mr. Belyea said, "it is unlikely that he would feel in a position to undertake setting up a scheme without considerable deliberation."

Mr. Thomas had previously said that he wanted time to look into the marketing situation.

Various details were discussed by the meeting, including the financing of a marketing plan by a levy on producers, and even in that particular, Mr. Belyea said, the legal aspect of it was not fully clarified.

The meeting was merely preliminary to further steps leading toward organization of wheat growers of the province. Immediate action is entirely out of the bounds of possibility, and under the most favorable conditions it appeared that probably no active result could be expected until some time next year.

TOPPLING INTO EIGHT FEET OF WATER while fishing from the breakwall at the rear of the Canada Packers plant about 9:30 a.m. today, eight-year-old Leslie Montgomery, 21 Edgewater Blvd., was rescued by Charles Klingensmith, 33, 39 Manning Ave., assistant chief engineer at Canada Packers, who dove in fully clothed and brought the lad almost 50 feet to shore. The boy's father, Fred Montgomery, is shown thanking Mr. Klingensmith in the UPPER LEFT photo. The UPPER RIGHT photo shows the badly frightened boy being consoled by his two sisters, Barbara Ann, 6 (left) and Alice, 10, who gave Leslie her sweater and rushed him home as soon as he came from the water. In the LOWER PHOTO, Mr. Klingensmith points to where he rescued the boy, about 50 feet from shore and 100 feet south of the CPR bridge, which is visible at the top of the picture. Under his right arm, Mr. Klingensmith holds the pail in which the children intended to place what they caught on their ill-fated expedition. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

District Mining Striding Ahead

The post-war development of mineral deposits in the Peterborough district has given the area a new economic role as an important mining centre. Although some mining operations were carried on in the last century, they remained dormant until about six years ago. In 1947 American Nepheline brought an important new industry to Lakefield when it took over property which years ago was worked as a source of mica. Two years later the huge Bethlehem Steel Corporation, acting on the findings of a magnetometer survey by the Ontario government, began the development of an iron ore deposit near Marmora. The surrounding area had not been worked for more than 50 years. Then, a year ago this month, Garnet Burns, of Downers Corners, and Bob Steele, of Peterborough, discovered uraninite deposits in the area of Paudash and Centre Lakes. Today The Examiner publishes three stories which illustrate the increasing significance of these important mineral developments for the future wealth of this section.

Bethlehem Steel To Build Smelter

MARMORA (ENS)—Within a week or so, a big construction program is to be started at the local mine of Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The contract, which has been given to the Canadian Turner Co., Ltd., with head office in New York city, is for one year of operations in which the buildings to house crushing equipment, the smelter and other processing machinery will be erected. William Bear will be resident engineer in charge for the construction company, and Francis Rothernel will be supervising engineer for the Bethlehem Mines Corporation.

When operations get in full swing, from 75 to 100 men will be employed. The superintendent's office staff and key men will be brought in, but it is planned to employ a large number of local men as well.

HOUSING PROBLEM

In a number of cases, employees of the construction firm are planning to bring their families with them if living accommodation can be secured. But already the influx of new residents is creating a housing problem.

It is being realized that any residents who could provide small apartments or suitable rooms in this contingency would be rendering a community service for which there would be reasonable remuneration.

The erection of the new buildings is a further indication that within a year or so the Marmora mine will be in active production of iron ore.

The new look-out erected by Bethlehem mines just outside the fence and near the office is receiving a good amount of patronage. It enables the interested public to watch a good deal of the operations as well as if they were on the property, without hazard to anyone.

Nepheline To Expand, Issue Dividend

Expansion of American Nepheline's plant at Lakefield and declaration of a dividend by the company before the year is out have been predicted.

Both predictions have been made by The Northern Miner, which attributes the company's successful operations to aggressive salesmanship and a smooth running organization, coupled with a spreading realization of the extent of the company's five mile-long ore deposit.

Pointing out that the plant was expanded two years ago to increase the production of nepheline synate from 7,500 tons to 10,000 tons a month, the Toronto mining periodical in its current issue says orders now on hand exceed rated capacity and officials wish the plant was larger again.

Directors are said to have approved at least a modest expansion of somewhere in the neighborhood of another 1,000 tons a month, which would not mean any structural changes.

Sales tonnage for the first half of the year was 37.06 per cent greater than for the corresponding period of 1952. Shipments have been increased to old customers and new ones added. Operating profit is up to $192,736 for the period against $85,874 in the first half of 1952.

As a result of research into the paint industry, equipment for producing a paint extender is expected momentarily which will swell revenues probably by $5,000 to $10,000 a month.

About 70 per cent of American Nepheline production goes to the glass industry and the balance to ceramics.

The company is capitalized at 3,000,000 shares, all of which have been issued. Ventures Ltd. owns 49.3 per cent of the issued capital. Net profit in 1952 was $1,232 and, at the end of the year, current assets were $534,638 against $31,439 current liabilities.

Underground Exploring Confirms Tests

First underground work at Centre Lake Uranium Mines confirms indications of drilling and surface findings that the property looks as if it has a reasonable possibility of providing Ontario with a uranium mine.

Should the property stand up to current tests, S. C. Brown, resident manager, feels that the company will be justified in sinking a shaft and preparing for production. A decision should be possible by late fall, it is reported in the current issue of The Northern Miner.

The property, described as a low to medium grade proposition, leaning toward the low side, is located about 20 miles southwest of Bancroft, eight miles from Highway 28 in Cardiff township, Haliburton county.

The present contract calls for 1,500 feet of lateral work extending from an initial underground penetration.

Recent diamond drilling indicates perhaps half as much tonnage again as the estimate, made last May, of 278,000 tons to a level of 150 feet of .08 per cent uranium with a gross value of $11.60 a ton.

Ore has been found along a length of 3,500 feet but how continuous it is has still to be determined by further diamond drilling. Officials are said to be confident that the ore-bearing sections are strong and persistent with lengths anywhere from 500 to 1,000 feet.

It has also been shown that radioactivity is widespread. It has been found half a mile north on the adjoining Macassa Mines property and near the Centre Lake south boundary, about 7,900 feet south of the main showing.

Two bodies of ore-bearing rock have now been reached underground. A chemical assay on the first one averaged 0.055 per cent, about the same as the surface showings and diamond drill holes in that sector. Geiger readings of both bodies suggest ore grade.

Direction and financing of the operations was taken over in May from Tungsten Corp. of Canada by Charlebois Lake Uranium Mines, controlled by Ventures Ltd.

County Farmers Growing Top Quality Seed Wheat

"A field of ripe wheat is one of the finest works of man." That was a casual remark of conviction by Frank C. Paterson in some other recent summer, rather than a studied utterance. In the stage of the emergence of the short blade when the fields are green, the grain is vital promise. At harvest time, it is fulfillment, and a capital achievement of the farmer.

For some growers, fall wheat is a cash crop, delivered to the cereal mill; for another it is a supply of feed for livestock; and for the top rank of farmers it is seed, mainly for sale.

The growers of registered seed are the elite of the cereal farmers. Their number is slowly increasing in Peterborough county, probably an effect of the Central Ontario Spring Show annually in March at Morrow Park. Prominent in that company is Robert Armstrong of Cavan whose field of the new Dawbul variety of winter wheat was acclaimed as a show piece by the several hundred farmers attending the recent twilight meeting at his farm.

Mr. Armstrong is not peerless in the good grain county of Durham as testified by such names as McHolm, Rickard, Brown, Cruikshank, Bonner and others. And other sections of the district of which Peterborough is the centre have been showing in the last week or so a quality of wheat ready for cutting that deserves a high rating.

WONDERFUL SEASON

Stuart Bowman, seed grain inspector for the Dominion Department of Agriculture, who has been working long days lately visiting fields of grain submitted for registration, agreed without reservation that this has been a wonderful season for fall wheat.

His last call Thursday afternoon was at the farm of Henry Sharpe in Smith. "A splendid sample of wheat" was his verdict.

Mr. Bowman mentions others whom he doesn't attempt to rate other than in the top flight.

Harry Jackson of Emily township, Cornell wheat and Beaver oats; Clarence Mann of Smith; W. W. Dawson; Earl Petrie; Clarence Coons, north of Lakefield, with 50 acres of registered Cornell; Fred Fife; Alex Huston; Reeve R. R. Stewart of Otonabee; Stewart Whittington; near Norwood—Arnold Stevenson and Orland Brown, and Bruce Davidson a comparatively new grower. Bruce Sargent is another moving up with five acres of Beaver Oats.

That is not a complete list. It is quoted without reference to records, and mainly to emphasize the expanding interest of farmers of this district in high quality seed grain.

Mr. Bowman says probably 80% of the registered seed in Durham goes through Garnet Rickard's cleaning plant at Bowmanville. Mr. Rickard has had 127 acres of registered crops of his own production this year; James T. Brown of Newcastle 70 acres; Robert Armstrong 45.

"Durham county leads our district in acreage," Mr. Bowman said. "On the progressive side also are more registered growers in Hastings county, and more in Peterborough."

Mr. Bowman's comment undoubtedly points approval at the Central Ontario Spring Show, already accomplishing what was promised of it if the former Quinte District Seed Fair was established centrally as a permanent exhibition.

Conditions of the registering of seed grain, and particularly wheat, were outlined by Mr. Bowman. "It is registered seed to begin with, sown in a field that did not have the same kind of grain in the last preceding year. It must be sufficiently isolated from adjoining crops, meet the requirements of the Canada Seed Growers' Association in respect of purity of variety. There must be freedom from other kinds of grain and practically freedom from noxious weeds and disease.

INSPECTED

Field inspection of the crop is made as it comes to maturity. The field reports are sent to Ottawa. Samples are included, and the final decision as to the wheat to be accepted for registration is up to the Canada Seed Growers.

If offered for sale, it must be clean and graded. Samples are submitted to Ottawa for purity and germination tests.

The seed must meet the requirements of the Canada Seeds Act, and it should be stressed that our Canadian standards are the highest in the world. Finally, when approved, the registered seed receives the tags and the seals of the Department of Agriculture, which are placed on the bags fully identifying them.

The buyer of that seed is assured of a pure variety, free from weeds, and other kinds of grain; he is also assured of high germination."

Undoubtedly that was the quality of wheat Mr. Paterson had in mind as the handiwork of farmers bent on producing the highest grade of seed. It brings premium prices in the market, and is highly worth it.

No better grain can be found in any other agriculture, and Peterborough district farmers are growing it. They attain the peak of accomplishment when the federal Department and the Canada Grain Growers award their product the seal of registration.

This is the practical aspect of seed grain achievement. Poets can write about the fields of gold with their dank brown patina, billowing in the sunlight and with the midsummer breezes, but the investment of study, preparation of land and other labor, and the precise conformity with official rules, is the work of farmers proud of their profession and of their farms.

The ripe wheat is symbolic of the life sustaining force men cultivate from nature, and thereby is basic of all their other works and pursuits.

Cutoff Highway Not Ready Till Next Spring

No motor traffic will use the highway cutoff from Enterprise to Kendry until next spring, at least.

To date no contracts have been let for gravelling the cutoff — except at intersections with other roads—and next spring will be the earliest a gravel layer can be put down so the surface can bear motor traffic. Later the highway will be paved.

There had been reports that the highway would be gravelled by this fall but there was no basis for this, Department of Highways officials said today. So the cutoff will be a mud road and not open for traffic this year.

The cutoff is designed as a short cut for any driver coming from the west, say Toronto, to Peterborough. Instead of following the present route — Highway 2 to Highway 28 and then north to Peterborough—the cutoff would slant northeast from Highway 35 at Enterprise to a junction on Highway 28, half a mile south of Kendry.

WHERE THEN?

What would happen then to the cutoff is conjecture, but it seems likely that the route would bypass the city, approaching it from the southeast. Present surveys being undertaken indicate that the approach by Highway 28 from the west will not be used.

Surveyors from the Department of Highways have been laying survey lines that curve around to the south of the city and join up with Highway 7, east of the built-up area of the city, in the Downer's Corners area.

A previous survey indicated the possibility of the highway coming into the city just west of Morrow Park on Lansdowne St., but it ran straight into the Simpsons-Sears 10-acre property at Lansdowne St. and Monaghan Rd. Besides, the zone was labelled "industrial" by the planning board so that area was out.

While this last leg of the cutoff —from Kendry to Peterborough —is not confirmed by the department, it seems likely that the route of the highway will be to the east of Peterborough, bypassing the built-up district but giving easy access to the city.

Boy Saved From Drowning By Packers Engineer After Fall Into Otonabee

Unable To Swim But Boy Held Breath Until Bobbed To Surface, Rescuer Dived In Fully Clothed

By PHIL CALDER

Eight-year-old Leslie Montgomery, of 21 Edgewater Blvd., was saved from drowning in eight feet of water about 9:30 a.m. today when he tumbled off the cement wall bordering the Otonabee River behind the Canada Packers plant. Although he was unable to swim, Leslie managed to keep his wits about him and held his breath, taking intermittent gulps of air whenever he bobbed to the surface, until he was rescued by Charles Klingensmith, 33, 39 Manning Ave., assistant chief engineer at the Canada Packers plant.

Leslie and his 10-year-old sister Alice, were fishing from the breakwall when the lad fell in.

"I had my hook in the water and I was walking along the wall, when my two feet slipped in," the badly frightened boy said later. Although suffering from shock, Leslie apparently sustained no other ill effects from his experience.

Alice was fishing a short distance away when she heard her brother call for help.

SHOUTED FOR HELP

"There was a man fishing on the CPR bridge and I yelled: 'Help. My brother's drowning,'" Alice said.

"He ran over and was just taking off his pants to dive in when the man from Canada Packers dove in and got him.

"When they got him out, I took off my sweater and put it on him and brought him right home."

Mr. Klingensmith was in the engine room of the Canada Packers power plant about 75 feet from the river when someone came running in and asked if anyone could swim.

"I rushed out and saw him going down for what looked like the last time," said Mr. Klingensmith, who dove in without bothering to remove even his shoes.

CARRIED 50 FEET

By this time the current had carried Leslie about 50 feet out into the river. Mr. Klingensmith swam out to him and towed him in close enough to the wall that the lad was able to grab the end of one of two poles that a couple of employees of the plant had meanwhile obtained. There is no lifesaving equipment on the bank of the river near the wall.

As soon as her brother came out of the water, Alice gave him her sweater and took him and her younger sister, Barbara Ann, 6, across the CPR bridge to their home, about a quarter of a mile away. Barbara Ann had been sitting on the grass nearby, watching her brother and sister fishing.

The children's father, Fred Montgomery, was working in the garden at the back of his home when the three frightened children showed up a few minutes after the accident. A production employee at the Quaker Oats Co., Mr. Montgomery was on picket duty during the recent strike and is scheduled to return to work next Tuesday.

OFFERED HIS THANKS

As soon as he and Mrs. Montgomery got Leslie to bed and called the doctor, the father went to the Canada Packers plant to thank Mr. Klingensmith.

"It was the least I could do," said the modest rescuer, who is himself the father of a seven months-old boy.

Just across the street, about four doors down from the Montgomery home, lives three-year old Keith Nolan, who was rescued last March when he fell through the ice just across the river on the other side of the CPR bridge from the spot where Leslie Montgomery fell in this morning.

"I warned the children different times not to go fishing on that wall", Mr. Montgomery said.

In spite of his close call, Leslie, unlike most fishermen who topple into the water, didn't lose his fishing rod. It was hooked to his trousers.

Golfers Tee Off At Dawn For Tourney

Canada's largest amateur golf tournament, the Kawartha Golf and Country Club Open started with the crack of dawn today. At 5:50 a.m. when cars driving down Highway 28 still had their lights on the first golfers of 308 entered teed off.

Second flight (handicap from 10 to 20) golfers, R. Barnett, Eric McKinstry and M. D. Irwin, and third flight golfers, W. Griffin, M. Metcalfe and P. Thomas, all of Kawartha, were the first to tee off. Then every seven minutes after threesomes left. The first flight golfers, those with handicaps from zero to nine, didn't start until shortly before noon.

The large entry, golfers from Ontario, Quebec and the United States, exceeded the expected number, 250, by 58. This forced an earlier starting time than in previous tournaments. It also forced the third flight golfers to split their 18 holes, playing the back nine in the morning and the front nine in the afternoon.

Polished Stones Souvenirs Of Banff Visit

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Tourists searching for souvenirs at this Rocky mountain resort are finding something a little different from the Indian handicrafts that make up the bulk of sales. Teofan Pyrcz' lapidary work now is for sale.

His lapidary souvenirs—cut and polished semi-precious stones—are not a native Canadian art, of course. His working materials are obtained from many parts of the world, including Africa and Brazil.

The former University of Alberta student studies each stone individually and traces its formation from exterior fissures. The stone, or mineral, is then cut in halves. If it's a good one, the cutting surface will display a beautiful array of patterns and colors.

FROM ALL LANDS

Pyrcz receives agate from the United States, opals from Australia, tiger eye and malachite from Africa, amethyst from Brazil, bloodstone from India, lapis lazuli from Chile, fluorite and hematite from England and jade from China.

The only material from this district that is suitable for his work is a material called sodalite. Quartz crystals are found in the Yoho and Lake O'Hara districts.

Good iron pyrites are found in the Field, B.C., region, in Yoho National Park. These are bright yellow crystals set in white rock, which have earned the name of "fool's gold."

Whatever the materials, the finished products are proving popular.

Celebrates 100th Year In Court Dock

LIVERPOOL (AP) — Elizabeth Stringer celebrated her 100th birthday Friday in the dock at magistrate's court on vagrancy charges.

She was found asleep on a step by a police officer who said she could not give a satisfactory account of herself.

"I won't go," the constable quoted the centenarian as saying when he informed her he would have to arrest her if she would not go to an aged home.

When she came into court she announced: "Believe it or not, I am 100 today." She said she was an "old artiste of the music halls."

When told to go to the old folks home she said "get a gun and shoot me." But, later, after consultation with two women probation officers she yielded and said she would go.

LONDON (AP)—Col. John Hunt, who led Britain's successful Mt. Everest expedition, Friday was appointed assistant commandant of Imperial Staff College at Camberley.

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Blue Cross said Friday it will make members attacked by polio eligible for hospital insurance benefits. Blue Cross contracts now name polio as an illness for which benefits do not apply.

DEFENDS SEAT — Donald Fleming, 48-year-old Toronto lawyer, is defending his Commons seat in Toronto-Eglinton in the Aug. 10 federal election. He had a quick rise in Progressive Conservative party ranks following his election to the Commons in 1945. In 1948 he was nominated one of three candidates for party leadership in the 1949 national convention that chose George Drew. Mr. Fleming was born in Exeter, Ont.

Children's Toys More Realistic

NEW YORK.—A back-to-earth trend among toddlers is the most striking feature of a preview of Christmas toys.

"One year the emphasis was on westerns, another year it was space, and there was a war year, but not its realism the children want," said Mrs. Janet Freud, director of the exhibit.

On exhibit were such real-life articles as a cake mix set that has everything needed to turn out real muffins—four, frostings, cake tins and bicarbonate.

A workable electric stove, with an oven and front and rear burners — recommended for children over eight—can bake the cakes. The ingredients can be gathered in a miniature shopping cart which at the exhibit was heaped with pint-size packages of brand-name soap powders, breakfast foods, cleansing tissues and shoe polish.

FEEDING DOLLS

Dolls came equipped with the internal gadgetry that will let them take liquids and get rid of it, requiring diaper changes. So far no doll has been invented that will take food, and eliminate it gracefully.

"There's $1,000,000 waiting for the first man who invents it," one of the exhibitors said.

Dolls have been made with "life-like" skin that will permit the use of cosmetics. Brand-name lipstick, facial cream, eye shadow and face powder come in doll sizes, as dolls feeding sets, bathing suits and sun glasses.

These domestic items are not designed exclusively for the future mothers, Mrs. Freud said. She pointed to a complete dish-washing and scouring kit, the kind of thing that future fathers could break in on.

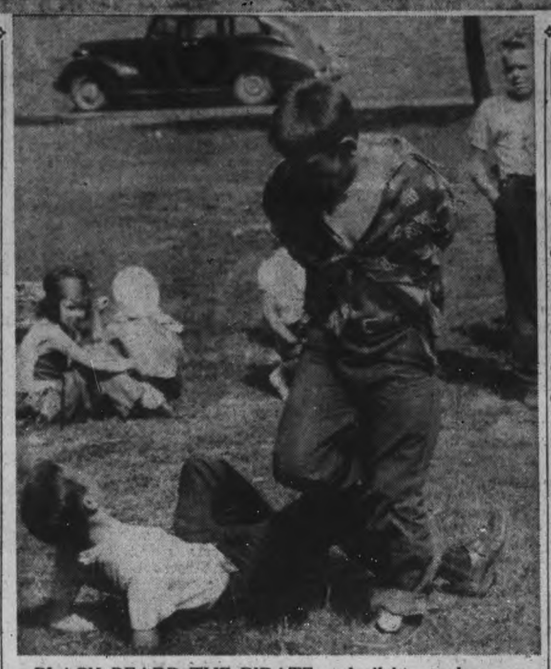
EXCHANGE TOYS

"There is no such thing today as a boy's toy or a girl's toy," she said. "Boys like to play with dolls, girls like to hammer nails."

A chief factor in the trend to realism is that children insist more and more on imitating adult life, she said. Another reason is the powerful influence of television advertising which has made the youngsters conscious of brand-name products, Mrs. Freud added.

The boys can imitate their fathers with their own "electric" shavers. They can play with scale models of fire pumpers that will squirt water 15 feet in the air, or well within ceiling range in most home. They can change flats for rounds or scale-model cars.

WORKING MODELS



There are also working models of farm equipment, hook and ladders, television service trucks, logging trailers, mobile searchlights—some of them so realistic that salesmen of the life-size articles use the toys as demonstrators, Mrs. Freud said.

Crafts and hobby sets are expected to be in particular demand, according to the manufacturers, particularly because finger paints and crayons have been devised so that they are easily rubbed off walls and wallpaper.

Electric trains are still holding their own, but a new spiral arrangement of tracks four feet high allow four trains to circulate up and down in the confines of a medium-size living room.

No Eye Trouble

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Edinburgh's habit of wearing dark glasses even when out of the sunshine has created rumors of eye trouble. Nothing of the sort, said the Evening News Friday. "Like other wearers of sunglasses, he occasionally forgets to take them off."

BLACK BEARD THE PIRATE and all his motley crew were on hand at Riverside Park Friday for Pirate Day. More than 50 children participated in the best costume contest and Nancy Johnson, six, and Stephen Curtain, 5, were judged as "best-dressed" boy and girl parties. The boys won most of the events such as "walking the plank" and "rope tying." Only the boys attempted the "leg-wrestling" game (left photo), but no one could stay up long enough to be judged a winner.

More Than 27,000,000 Years Ago

Great Variety Of Animals In The Country At That Time

REGINA (CP)—Two Saskatchewan scientists, A. E. Swanston and T. R. Walker of the Provincial Museum, returned here recently with a collection of rare fossils found in Hunter Quarry in the Cypress hills. Part of the area on the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary escaped ice-age glaciers.

The men uncovered fossil bones and teeth buried in the sandy deposits of a mighty river of the oligocene period. The 100 specimens found show the great variety and abundance of animals in the country at that time.

Recovering the fossil bones from the deposit, 200 miles southwest of Regina, was a delicate operation. The fossils are likely to crumble when handled, so they are wrapped in tissue paper and swathed in strips of canvas dipped in plaster. This holds them together until they reach the museum.

A number is placed on each cast and they are catalogued. Some of the specimens weigh up to 300 pounds.

An impressive fossil recovered during the expedition was the skull of an adult titanothere which was as numerous in the area in the oligocene period as the buffalo when it roamed the prairies freely 100 years ago.

The titanothere compared in size with the elephant. It had columnar legs and stood eight feet tall. For protection, it had skin-covered, bony horns projecting from the snout. The small brain cavity indicates it was a stupid animal. The creature became extinct 27,000,000 years ago.

The staff of the Provincial Museum works in close conjunction with the National Museum in Ottawa for accurate identifications and comparison of fossil specimens.

Expeditions from the National Museum and the Royal Ontario Museum also have recently uncovered fossils in the area.

Norwood Holds Dinner For Grand Master

NORWOOD (ENS) — Grand Master for East Peterborough, Right Wor. Bro. R. Sanderson was tendered a banquet Friday evening here, with about 200 present.

Among the speakers was George S. White, MP, contesting the elections in Hastings-Frontenac. He said he was proud to live in a district where the Union Jack and the Queen were honored. The Orange order had a great part to play in Canada's future.

Fred Bateman, past grand master, extended greetings to his successor. Members of the clergy and laity also spoke.

Major H. G. Roberts of the Salvation Army in Peterborough, declared that too many Protestant families have insufficient church background. He urged that a family altar be set up in every home.

Bros. R. Leeper and S. Buck presented the grand master with a travelling bag, and County Master Elmhurst read the address.

Eden Church Holds Picnic, Fowl Supper

The Eden United Church, Mount Julian, held its annual picnic and fowl supper on Wednesday, and reported a fine turn out.

The picnic was sponsored by the Women's Association of Eden Church under the leadership of the president Mrs. Stanley Northey. Home-made candy and articles on the bazaar table made a quick sale. A Dutch quilt went to the highest bidder, Miss June Northey for $15.

Secretary Isabel Reid estimated receipts at more than $435 and these funds will be used in renovating and maintaining the church building and grounds.

Named R. C. Bishop

Dives, Strikes Rock Boy Breaks Neck

TORONTO (CP)—Albert Stein, 15, broke his neck July 26 when he dived into shallow water at Balm Beach, Georgian Bay, and rammed head-first into a submerged rock.

Lying in hospital bed Friday, his head clamped by large forceps and heavy weights to hold the broken neck in place, he warned children and adults alike that diving into strange waters doesn't pay.

"Guess I was in too much of a hurry," he said. "I knew there was a rock somewhere, but I dived in anyway. It'll be a long time before I do that again."

Australia is the only country absorbing an entire continent, estimated at 2,973,581 square miles.

Liberal Record Declared Sound

KINGSTON (CP)—Angus Macdonald, premier of Nova Scotia and former member for Kingston, said here Friday night the record of the federal government and its trade policies are sound reasons for returning the Liberals in the Aug. 10 election.

Mr. Macdonald, who represented this eastern Ontario riding from 1940 to 1945 while he was minister of national defence for naval affairs, said the record of previous Conservative administrations was unsatisfactory and the party's present campaign promises unrealistic.

He said the Liberal party is the only party in Canada with a truly national character.

Social security benefits, old age pensions, old age assistance, family allowances and unemployment insurance expenditures had increased more than 50 per cent since 1949.

He said under Liberal trade policies Canada has become the third largest trading nation in the world. This had not happened by chance.

The only true way to judge a party's future, he said, is to look at its past.

Small Building Boom Strikes Gore's Landing

GORE'S LANDING (ENS)—A small building boom has struck this village with four houses either under construction or about to be started.

Most recent property sale was a lot owned by Mrs. F. W. Pratt, situated between Mr. Thos. Fowlie and Mr. Thomas Neill, the postmaster. Mrs. Ralph MacDonald, Toronto, is the new owner and a house is to be built immediately, by Milne and Son.

Two other houses are being constructed by Bruce Manley and his son Ernest, formerly of Cobourg. These bungalows are both immediately south of the home of Cecil Manley.

A fourth home is to be built shortly by Edgar Harris. His old home is being demolished at present. This house was built by the late Major W. Borradaile. The verandah and clapboards have been torn off and the original planks are exposed to view, joined in a "V" shape, on the walls, an ancient building design, in the days when lumber was cheap. Mr. Harris is using the best of the lumber in the old house as a foundation for his new home.

Aid For Refugees

BONN (AP)—The United States mutual security agency said Friday night it has granted $300,000 to five German voluntary agencies to aid refugees from the Soviet zone of Germany.

Buy Uranium Ore

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The government announced Friday the purchase of the first uranium ore mined in Argentina, about three tons of ore from the Santa Ana mine in San Luis province on the Chilean frontier.

Refuse To Dicuss Issues

MOOSOMIN, Sask. (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan says the old parties refuse to discuss the issues in the Aug. 10 federal election.

Speaking here Thursday night in support of L. I. Hockley, CCF candidate for Qu'Appelle, the premier said the Liberals base their campaign on the fact that Prime Minister St. Laurent "is a nice man."

The Progressive Conservatives promised a $500,000,000 tax cut but didn't say whose taxes would be cut, the big corporation's or the working man's.

Premier Douglas said the CCF is the only party with a program of stability and security. The Liberal government was heading into an agricultural depression.

"The hands of the clock are close to midnight, close to economic chaos," said Mr. Douglas.

Piano Industry Given Upsurge By Television

By STEVEN V. DAVID

NEW YORK (AP)—Piano manufacturers are making merry music on their cash registers these days, business hasn't been so good in nearly 30 years.

With the help, surprisingly enough, of television, the industry is counting on selling 180,000 units this year, the largest number since the 1920s

"The future of the piano industry looks very bright indeed," says Harold S. Morse, a director of the 30-year-old Baldwin Piano Company and head of its New York office. "Our own company, although manufacturing to capacity, is thousands of units behind in orders"

DOUBLE 1947 SALES

The present piano boom has built up since the Second World War. Baldwin, largest in the field, did a business of more than $21,000,000 last year, almost double its sales in 1947.

The radio killed the old player piano, and no one but a piano maker ever regretted its passing. But, says the industry, television has been largely responsible for the upsurge in piano sales since the end of the war.

Baldwin officials figure it this way: A piano heard on the radio is invisible, and a good many listeners can't identify it as one of the instruments in an unseen orchestra. On television, however, the piano is seen as well as heard. Its decorative qualities as well as its tone are apparent.

ENTERTAINMENT CENTRE

Moreover, by keeping families home evenings, television has made the home an entertainment centre again. Seeing pianos on TV screens, Baldwin officials say, has created a desire to own one in countless families.

Another factor: Smart redesigning of pianos has made them more practical for the average home, and easier to move.

Better - grade pianos aren't cheap. The popular spinet type ranges from around $800 to more than $1,000. Grand pianos may cost $2,700 to $7,000. The studio upright is available around $800.

6-Room House

PARKS

The Horticultural Gardens at the east end of Brock St. were well kept, a fine display of flowers, nothing better anywhere. Central Park was on George St., corner of Murray and was also used for drill purposes by the militia. Wallis's Gove on the west end and also the Chief Picnic grounds.

COUNTY BUILDINGS

Including the Court House and Jail were behind the Horticultural gardens and the Registrar and Deeds and other County buildings were nearby. There was a good cricket crease behind the jail.

(This concludes these special articles on Peterborough in the 1870s.)

DEATH BUS—A closeup of the bus in which 20 persons were killed shows many of the bodies of the victims were piled forward when the bus, bound from Toronto to Montreal, plunged into the Williamsburg canal, near Morrisburg, Ont., after crashing into a parked truck on the busy Toronto-Montreal highway. Another 17 escaped in a frantic scramble through broken windows and smashed doors as the bus sank in 20 feet of water in the grey light of dawn.

Canada Has More Even Distribution Of Wealth

STONEWALL, Man. (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said here Friday night that under Liberal administration Canada now has a more equitable distribution of wealth than ever before.

He said latest figures show 68 per cent of the total wealth is in the hands of people earning less than $4,000 a year, while those receiving $6,000 or less had 81 per cent of the total income.

Mr. Garson asked how the CCF party could carry out its promises to pay for new and costly services by "soaking the rich and lessening the tax burden on the poor." Even if every peny were taken from the rich, there would still be insufficient money to carry out the CCF proposals.

Labor governments in Britain, Australia and New Zealand tried the system of financing costly social service schemes advocated by CCF leader M. J. Coldwell. The end result was a "crucifying tax burden on all wage earners."

Water Is Best

MONTREAL (CP) — Summer heat sends thirsty people seeking endless varieties of liquid refreshment but water is best of all, says Dr. Adelard Groulx, city health director. However, he warned against drinking too much ice water.

Potent Breakfast Fails To Bring Death

BAYREUTH, Germany (AP)—The late Heinrich Kold, 61, quaffed breakfast coffee loaded with mercury from an old thermometer, a helping of sulphur and a dose of knockout drops.

But when he died, medical authorities said what carried him off was pneumonia.

A German court today sentenced 24-year-old widow Inge Kolb to six years imprisonment for attempted murder. It found her guilty of feeding Heinrich the potent breakfast blast.

The coffee? It caused Heinrich acute discomfort, doctors said, but that was all.

Long Stock Market Calm Broken Prices Move Briskly Upward

By GORDON MacKINNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A month-long calm on North American stock markets was broken late this week. Prices moved upward briskly.

Western oils sparked the rally in Toronto. Wall Street advanced under the leadership of rails and industrials. Montreal markets responded to buying pressure in the industrials section, although the rally developed less steam than at New York or Toronto.

The market ignored the fact that the last week in July usually marks the low point in the summer lull. Too, market observers had expected a downturn as the country began to adjust itself to the idea of a truce in Korea.

In Toronto, western oils Thursday made their best rise of the year following indications from the Alberta conservation board that export of natural gas to Eastern Canada was probable. Buying spread to other sections of the market, selected industrials and base metals enjoying good support.

ATTRACTIVE LEVELS

As background for the advance in western oils, brokers said many issues had reached attractive levels after a month of declining prices.

During this time amalgamations among many junior oil companies had put them in a stronger financial position. Toronto financial editors had been cautiously predicting the upturn for some time, mostly on the strength of this factor.

In discussing the firmer base metals picture, traders agreed with the Financial Post in calling the rejection by the United States House of Representatives on a bill that would have imposed progressive duties on lead and zinc and quotas on petroleum a "great relief" to Canadian mining interests.

Statistics from the two Montreal markets had banks down .05 at 34.04, utilities up .6 at 94.1, industrials up 2.4 at 191.2, combined up 1.8 at 158.9, papers down 3.22 at 695.39 and golds down .56 at 57.17.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto stock exchange's indexes showed industrials up 1.80 at 310.27, golds down .61 at 76.04, base metals down .91 at 153.34 and western oils up 1.07 at 105.61.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks traded on New York exchanges advanced $1.30 to $108.80—the best gain in six weeks.

Want Something Done On Dangerous Road

MORRISBURG (CP) — Reeve George Beavers said Friday something should be done by the Ontario highways department about the road where a bus and truck crashed into the Williamsburg canal killing 20 persons.

"This horrible catastrophe will serve, I hope, to focus attention on the highway along here. It has been an extremely dangerous stretch for many years, narrow and winding along the very banks of the St Lawrence river.

"It has long been recognized by the authorities as one of the worst traffic hazards in Ontario."

Display Subway Cars

TORONTO (CP) — Passenger coaches for Toronto's new subway line went on display Friday. Built in England, the floors are of rubber laid on cork, with a steel frame. More than 100 coaches, each 57 feet long and with 62 seats, have been ordered by the Toronto Transportation Commission at a total cost of about $8,000,000.

FIRST LEG OF JOURNEY HOME — Holding their meagre belongings in their hands, Communist prisoners of war march from their compound on Koje Island. Thousands of Red PoWs, awaiting repatriation, are being shipped from UN island prison camps to mainland stockades. Last minute preparations for prisoner of war exchange are now under way at Panmunjom.

Ponder Coincidence Of Soviet Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials today drafted a rejection of Russia's protest that American pilots shot down a Soviet plane—and pondered the curious timing of the Russian communication.

American fighter planes downed the Soviet craft Monday in the dying hours of the Korean war. The United States says it was over Korea. The Russians say it was over Red China. But the Russians waited four days before protesting.

Meantime, Wednesday their MiG-15 fighters had attacked and destroyed a U. S. B-50 bomber off Siberia. They charged this aircraft violated Soviet territory. The U.S. denied this, protested "in the strongest terms" and demanded a report on some survivors said to have been picked up by the Russians.

U. S. officials wondered, considering the ceaseless contest between East and West for propaganda advantages, why the Russians had delayed and then protested. Were they attempting a bold cover-up for their own action?

CHARGE U S OUTFOXED

Two senators complained bitterly that the United States had been outfoxed.

Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.), a member of the armed services committee, said that letting the USSR tell the world first about the B-50 incident in the Sea of Japan was "just another case of stupidity at the Pentagon or the state department, or both."

Senator Albert Sparkman (Dem. Ala.), a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said: "I think it's a mistake to let the Russians and Communists get the jump on us so many times. It puts us continually in the position of answering Communist propaganda when we could be out first with the real facts".

Flanders said pro-Communist or even neutral peoples could "get the impression that the Soviet is telling the truth and that we're trying to get out of an incident."

The U. S. case on the B-50 was abolished by the testimony of the sole confirmed survivor, Capt. John Ernest Roche, who was picked up by a U. S. destroyer after 22 hours in the sea.

ATTACKED BY REDS

Roche said in Tokyo early today the American plane was attacked "without provocation" by one or two Russian jets at a time when there was "no possible chance" that it was closer than 40 miles to Siberia.

As for the shooting down of the Russian type IL2 transport while the Korean war was still in progress, a state department spokesman said unequivocally "we will reject the protest." He said the responsibility will be placed on the Soviet government for causing the plane to fly through a Korean combat zone.

The U. S. Air Force said the plane was shot down 10 or 12 miles south of the Yalu river, boundary between Korean and Chinese Manchuria. The Russians said the attacking U. S. fighters invaded Chinese territory near the town of Huadian.

There was unconfirmed speculation at the time that the Soviet plane might have been carrying Communist authorities on a mission connected with the armistice signed last Monday.

Czech Refugee Comes Up With Answer To Einstein

Electro-Magnetism Rules The Universe

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — A Czech refugee mathematician has come up with the "next to impossible" solutions of Albert Einstein's latest theory of the universe.

Until experiments provide actual tests, Prof. Vaclav Hlavaty of Indiana University is not fully ready to accept Einstein's theory that the universe is well-ordered.

But, if Einstein is right, Hlavaty said his complicated mathematical spadework will prove that electro-magnetism rules the universe, the basis of all matter, energy and gravity.

Most atomic scientists believe in the quantum theory that everything is based on chance. Einstein, when he proposed his unified field theory three years ago, said: "I cannot believe that God plays dice with the cosmos."

Einstein said the mathematical equations of his new theory were "gropings in the dark." He had no solution for them himself, and the Austrian scientist Schrodinger said the solutions would be "next to impossible."

Hlavaty, who began applying his mathematics to physics problems only three years ago, arrived at his solutions with equations involving 64 unknown quantities. A colleague said the problems were so involved they were far beyond the capacity of mechanical brain machines.

Both Einstein and Schrodinger have commended Hlavaty on his accomplishment.

Hlavaty considers his mathematical work on the cosmic theories unfinished. He said further work needs to be done before his solutions may be compared with results of physics experiments, and he added:

"The crucial experiment has yet to be devised."

Attending the ceremony in company with Lady Ramsay will be five major-generals, all of whom served with the PPCLI, army headquarters announced Friday. They are Maj.-Gen.s G. R. Pearkes VC; A. E Potts; F. F. Worthington; R. F. L. Keller and Chris Vokes.

With the exception of Maj.-Gen. Vokes, head of western command, Edmonton, all are retired from active duty with the army.

Maj.-Gen. Potts, a native of Kingston, commanded the 6th Canadian division for a time during the Second World War.

U.K. Officers Arrive For Canadian Tour

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department announced Friday that 17 students and staff members of Britain's Imperial Defence College will arrive in Ottawa Monday on a month-long tour of Canada and the United States.

The party will spend three days in Ottawa and then visit industrial and defence establishments at Petawawa, Sudbury, Toronto, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Port Arthur, Fort Churchill, Whitehorse Vancouver, Victoria, Lethbridge and Edmonton.

Red Cross Offers Aid In Identification

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. W. Stuart Stanbury, national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, said Friday the Red Cross would be "only too happy" to help in medical identification of the dead in the Morrisburg bus accident if called on

Dr. Stanbury said he had been in touch with Ontario provincial police at Morrisburg and had told them if any help was needed in identification, the Red Cross would bear any out-of-pocket expenses incurred by their men.

Seven-Year Term

TORONTO (CP)—Grant Morgan 20, of Toronto was sentenced Friday to seven years in penitentiary for his part in the June 25 armed robbery of a central Toronto jewellery store. Jan Houska of Toronto was sentenced July 24 to seven years for his part in the robbery. The robbery netted the pair $2,079 in diamond rings and $260 in cash.

Highlights of the week-long affair will include a band festival, fireworks, a regatta, a field day, a soapbox derby, farm exhibits, square dance and fiddling contests, a beard-growing contest, parades and mass picnics.

Ask Court Appearance On Liquor Charges

LINDSAY—"I think these offenders should have to make a personal appearance in police court, rather than settle for liquor charges out of court," said Col R. I. Moore, QC, acting crown attorney, in Magistrate Gee's court Friday.

Five summonses were issued by provincial police, the offenders having been picked up at one of the resort dance halls. Cpl. Dennis stated: "It is just one of our check-ups, our men check the dance halls all the time."

Magistrate Gee said: "It is the usual custom to allow these offenders to settle out of court. If not, a personal service is issued."

Col. Moore: "That's all right, but I think they should appear in court. There were more than five involved in this case. They do not like publicity and that's what they would get in court. It would be a curb on matters."

Magistrate Gee directed that personal summonses be issued.

5 Years For Soldier

BELSEN, Germany (AP)—Gnr. Thomas Dwyer, 22, of Boyd's Cove, Nfld., was sentenced Friday to five years imprisonment by a Canadian martial court for the fatal beating June 10 of a Polish displaced person. Dwyer was convicted in the death of Pietre Boranek, a driver for Dwyer's regiment motor pool. Boranek died of injuries after a brawl outside a tavern near Hohne. The sentence is subject to review.

Rail Unions To Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Hall, chairman of the general conference committee of railway unions in Canada, said Friday a call has gone out for a meeting of the committee in Montreal Sept. 16 and 17 to map union policy. The committee includes the 16 non-operating unions and the four operating unions. Mr. Hall in an interview gave no indication whether forthcoming union demands will include the question of wages.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER — Alex Sinclair, 15, of St. Catharines, Ont., is the first Canadian Sea Cadet to win the $1,500 two-year scholarship to study at HMS Conway, Wales, Eng., a Royal Navy naval training college. He is a petty officer, first class, in the St. Catharines corps, and will report to the college early in September. His application was approved by the Navy League of Canada and he will receive uniform, board and schooling for two years under the scholarship.

Battery System Producing Eggs Arouses Britons

By WILLIAM J. HUMPHREYS
Special To The Examiner

LONDON—Britons, whose sympathetic regard for the animal kingdom is traditional, are demanding freedom for an estimated 40,000,000 laying hens imprisoned in a modern production plan known as "the battery system".

Letters demanding the system's abolition are pouring into the newspapers, and the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which is sponsoring the abolition campaign, said it hopes to have Parliament enact a measure will outlaw the system and restore to poultry its "natural liberty" of scratching and pecking in the barnyard.

Another stake in the growing dispute is the bonus of 150,000,000 eggs which the battery or cage system places on British breakfast tables each year. However, the Ministry of Agriculture, which puts forward this point, is not making much headway with it.

An editorial in "The London Daily Mail" already has asked for "a thorough and authoritative inquiry into the whole matter." "The News Chronicle", in another challenging comment, has stated: "It is conceivable that the caged hens are going to provoke a national argument with a great deal of feeling in it."

The fact that eggs only recently came off the ration list is given no quarter by the champions of reform, who maintain that if a dairy country such as Denmark can abolish the battery system, as it has done, Great Britain can do no less.

HOW SYSTEM WORKS

As practiced in the United Kingdom, the battey system involves placing hens in wire-mesh cages, two feet by two, and automatic feeding to stimulate production. The sheds in which the rows or batteries of cages are housed are kept light 18 out of 24 hours to prolong the working day.

After eight months the birds' organs are overworked and begin to deteriorate. Then the hens are killed for markets and, while the flesh is excellent, the legs may be brittle and atrophied from lack of exercise. This kind of confinement, the Royal Society said, is repugnant.

Arthur W. Moss, the society's secretary, stressed that the "revolting" system means only three eggs a year for each Briton. He said the breeders dislike to sell their chicks where they will become victims of "heartless mechanization."

While the Agriculture Ministry argues that the birds lead "sheltered, comfortable, healthy lives" and prove their contentment in their laying, Mr. Moss said that is all beside the point. The issue, according to him, is the inalienable right of hens to their natural liberties before they make their last move to the butcher shop.

Four Make Trip Of 8,225 Miles On Motorcycles

An 8,225 mile trip that took three weeks down through Western United States, then over to the west coast and on up to Vancouver and back to Peterborough ended this week for four young Peterborough people riding two motorcycles.

They were Fred Hill, RR No. 3, Peterborough, Teresa Lowe, 444 George St. S., John Wharton, 63 Alymer St. and Myrtle Althouse, 299 Sherbrooke St.

The four ardent motorcycle fans had been planning the trip for the past year. They had thought to go later on in the summer, but both Myrtle Althouse and Teresa Lowe were employed at the Quaker Oats and since Quaker was on strike at the time, they felt it would be the ideal time to go.

The trip in all cost them $450.

FEW MISHAPS

Mishaps were few. The only serious ones as far as mechanical failures were concerned was a flat tire. The tire blew out on John Warton's bike, while they were driving around sightseeing in Vancouver. Fred Hill had to buy a new battery in Las Vegas because the heat there had dried it up.

The first jaunt on their trip took them through Detroit down through Indianapolis, St. Louis, Texas, El Paso, Old Mexico and then on through to New Mexico and the Grand Canyon, where they spent some time sightseeing. Both John and Fred climbed down a couple of hundred feet into the mouth of the canyon exploring and taking pictures.

Their next stop was the Petrified Forest, which was one of the biggest thrills of the trip. From there they drove on to the Boulder Dam, Las Vegas, Nevada and drove all night across Death Valley and arrived in San Francisco at 6:30 in the morning.

On arriving in San Francisco they discovered that Teresa had blood poisoning and had to be put in the hospital for the day and the other three stayed with Myrtle's sister, who lives in San Francisco, for the night.

OFF FOR VANCOUVER

After a two-day stay in San Francisco seeing the sights, the quartette pushed on up the west coast and made Vancouver in two days by constant travelling. They spent the next four days in Vancouver resting and seeing the city before starting for home.

It took them five days to get back to Peterborough and the route they took was through British Columbia, along the Hope-Princeton Highway to Spokane, Wash. and through the state of Washington, Idaho, Monatna, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and through the Windsor tunnel and home.

The four of them had the time of their lives and are already planning another trip for next summer. The biggest problem of the trip was the heat. The hottest spot they were in was in Texas, when the thermometer skyrocketed to 145 degrees in the sun.

The most striking experience of the trip was when they passed through the panhandle in Texas. It hasn't rained there in four years and there were cracks in the ground a foot wide. The rivers in Texas, which normally are three times the size of the Otonabee river didn't have a drop of water in them.

RT. HON. C. D. HOWE, Trade Minister, left, spoke in support of Clute Foster, Hastings-Frontenac Liberal nominee, at a meeting in Marmora, site of $20,000,000 Bethlehem Steel Co. iron mine.

Liberal Rally Galway Hall

"Last spring in the House of Commons the Hon Earle Rowe, Progressive Conservative candidate for Dufferin-Simcoe, predicted that in this election campaign there would be some rustling in the mulberry bushes. What the Tories have been doing in the bushes for the past 18 years I do not know, but one thing I'm sure of is that if this man, Mr. Drew, doesn't stop promising to build a new bridge over every creek he comes to, they will all be in the bushes after August 10."

Mr. Gus Faux was speaking on behalf of Liberal candidate Max Swanston at a meeting held in the Galway-Cavendish community hall, Friday evening.

Peter Pearson, reeve of the township, presided. He recommended Max Swanston "as the man to get things done in Ottawa."

Mr. Faux, the main speaker, went on to say that it was a pleasure to be campaigning for a party whose appeal has never before in the history of this country had so strong a case. "All Canadians feel that we have in our Prime Minister the services of one of the greatest statesmen of our time, and he has a team of ministers, the ablest and youngest ever to serve the people of Canada."

11 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

Mr. Faux pointed out that Mr. Swanston was a man with 11 years' experience in municipal affairs, three years as mayor. "We hear today from our Conservative opponent much about lowering taxes . . . we would all like to lower taxes, but we can only have these benefits when the country does not have to make commitments that demand from us the present taxes. It seems to me that the man with several years of municipal politics should know far more about dealing with taxes than our Conservative opponent who has been satisfied with living the life of a gentleman.

"In the Peterborough riding, the Conservative says that Mr. Drew will fulfil his 16-point pledge the same way that he fulfilled his 22 promises to the people of Ontario. We at the Liberal headquarters in Peterborough fully agree with him. They do not tell you exactly how Mr. Drew fulfilled these promises. I am going to deal with a few of them."

Mr. Faux went on to state how Mr. Drew had failed to appoint a minister of mines with any practical knowledge of mining; how the tax burden had been weighted instead of lightened; how any workable agricultural board was non-existent.

"A definite pledge was given to the people of Ontario that forest resources would be taken from the control of the minister of the crown and given over to an Ontario Forest Resources Commission with full operative powers. The first session after the election the government actually introduced legislation to give effect to this promise. The legislation has never been proclaimed nor the pledge fulfilled.

OVERSEAS MARKETS

"We have been hearing a lot about the government losing our overseas markets and British markets in particular. Last year our export trade with Britain increased by 100 million dollars and we could increase it by several hundred million this year if hog, butter and cheese producers wanted to take cuts of 14c, 19c and 17c respectively for their produce.

"The truth of the fact is that our domestic market and our markets with other countries such as Latin America where we have increased our trade by 1,800 per cent since 1939, are satisfied to pay us the prices we are asking, and Great Britain today is able to buy from other countries for less than our domestic markets are paying here in Canada."

No Compromise Rhee Warning

SEOUL (Reuters) — President Syngman Rhee intends to warn the United Nations he will "go his own way" if any compromises are made at the political conference on Korea, his spokesman said today.

He made the statement as American Ambassador Ellis Briggs conferred with the South Korean president about the visit to Seoul next week of State Secretary Dulles.

Dulles is scheduled to leave Washington by air Sunday morning for talks with Rhee.

The spokesman said Rhee will elaborate his attitude in a statement to be issued soon. It is expected to indicate the approach Rhee will make to Dulles.

Rhee will tell Dulles, according to the spokesman, that the UN has made enough compromises in reaching a truce with the Communists and should not enter into any more.

Rhee will also claim that South Korea should have a priority interest in the administration of reconstruction from aid funds it is expected will be made available, he said.

Admission Of Chinees Reds To U.N. If Korea United

By JOSEPH NEWMAN
Special To The Examiner

LONDON—Great Britain and the United States are heading into another Anglo-American dispute—whether to admit the Chinese Communist regime as a member of the United Nations.

Officials and members of parliament were deeply disturbed by the statement to newspapermen by U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that he would not buy Korean unity at the price of admitting Communist China to the United Nations.

This statement created at London an impression that the United States is not prepared to admit the Peking regime to the UN on any terms and is determined to remain in a permanent state of political, if not military, hostility toward the Chinese Communists.

If President Eisenhower upholds this position it will undoubtedly cause another deep crack in Anglo-American unity and at the very top level.

It can safely be said that Prime Minister Churchill will refuse to go along with any American position of opposing admission of Communist China to the UN at any price.

During a recent debate in the House of Commons, former Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor party opposition, said it would be advisable to bring the Peking regime into the UN. Prime Minister Churchill interrupted to say it would not be advisable while a war was in progress in Korea, Mr. Attlee assented to this.

A clear deduction from what Sir Winston said then is that he would favor admission of Communist China once it desisted from hostilities.

The immediate aim of the British government, prior to the special meeting of the UN General Assembly which is to begin Aug. 17 and to the political conference due to follow the Korean armistice, is to ascertain exactly what are the American intentions in the Far East in general and toward the Peking regime in particular.

In reply to a question in the Commons, Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd said the matter of admission of the Chinese Communists to the UN will be discussed "even before open negotiations take place."

This manifestly means that Britain will ask Washington for a clear cut statement of its terms for admission.

Some leftist Laborites here are in favor of admitting Peking immediately, without further ado.

The British government, undoubtedly with the support of the majority of the Commons, would prefer to await the Korean political conference and to use UN membership as a valuable card for bargaining with the Communists in the course of seeking a broad settlement.

Unification of Korea would be widely accepted in Britain as a fair exchange for UN membership for the Peking regime. Mr. Dulles' statement flew in the face of this feeling and it foreshadows another political storm over the Atlantic.

Forest Fire Rages Unchecked

SANFORD, Me. (CP)—A spectacular forest fire that claimed one life and threatened numerous homes raged unchecked today after blackening an area six miles long and two miles wide.

Some 600 firefighters battled to confine the flames to thickly wooded sections of this southwestern corner of Maine.

Fanned by winds that reached moderate gale force in gusts, the blaze broke loose Friday, killing fireman Corydon Goodwin, 66 who was trapped at his stalled utility truck on a logging road.

Korean Bride Insists On Fancy Limousine

SEOUL (CP)—Like any Western bride, winsome Hee Baik-wha balked at being "jeeped" to the church Friday in her long white wedding gown and made her Canadian Army corporal husband hunt up a fancy limousine for the trip.

It was the second marriage ceremony for Cpl. Gilles Grenier, 26, of Montreal and his Korean bride, a graduate nurse.

The couple were married in a Seoul registry office 1½ years ago, but the army recently had Grenier come back to Korea for a second 12-month tour of duty to say "I do" to the army's satisfaction so he can take his 23-year-old wife back to Canada. The first ceremony lacked official army sanction.

Golfers Tee

up to noon today, when he carded a 78. His closest opponent was Lakeview's L. Wilson with an 80. Other low scores were G. Laidley and Al Menzies with 81s, Roy Welch, D. B. Hough, R. J. Pirie and H. Wilson with 83s.

Only three-quarters of the second flight golfers had completed their first 18 holes of the 54-hole tournament, lasting through Saturday, Sunday and Monday. No first- and third-flight scores were available.

Tournament favorite is Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener Westmount. Ontario champion this year Kesselring won the Kawartha tournament last year. About his chances this year Kesselring said: "If I putt, I'll be pretty tough—If I putt."

Shortly before 1 p.m. a large gallery began to form about the first tee, waiting for Ontario's best amateurs to start.

A little later Keith Kirkpatrick of London Highlands, Ernie Bentley of Weston and Don Heller of Kitchener Westmouth teed off. They all had hard straight drives up the fairway.

Seven minutes later Bruce Castator of Islington, Doug McKellar of Scarboro and Gerry Kesseling started, all matching the previous threesome's drives up the fairway. This time a large part of the gallery, about 150, left to follow Castator, McKellar and Kesselring around the course.

HELD BACK

But most of the first tee gallery held back to watch Nick Weslock of Essex, Moe Norman of Kitchener Rockway and Ken Jacobs of Scarboro tee off. After considerable joking between Weslock and Norman, the three wacked long drives well up the fairway.

As Norman, Weslock and Jacobs, all three contenders for the Lord Calvert trophy, started up the fairway, the remainder of the gallery, about 200 people followed along.

Only a few stayed behind to watch other threesomes tee off. Golfers will continue teeing off until the last group scheduled to leave at 6.08 p.m.

British Milers Better World's Relay Record

LONDON (AP)—A quartet of British milers bettered the world's record for the four-mile relay today, running the distance in 16 minutes, 41 seconds.

Anchored by Roger Bannister, the British team sliced nearly two seconds off the listed record of 16:42.8 set in 1949 by a Swedish team. Bannister, who has done 4:03.6 for the mile, assured the record when he ran the anchor leg in 4:07.6.

Chris Chataway ran the leadoff leg in 4:11.8. Bill Nankeville ran the second in 4:06.6 and Don Seaman did the third leg in 4:15.0.

The record performance came in a special event held during a dual meet between England and France.

Oshawa Woman 101 Busy Baby-Sitter

OSHAWA (CP)—Mrs. A. N. Farewell, 101 Sunday, may be Canada's oldest baby-sitter.

She is in good health and helps with the ironing at the home she shares with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mash. She helps look after the Mashs' two children, one 10 and the other a few months.

"The children keep me young," she said today. Her birthday will be marked with a dinner party at the home of friends.

Court Proceedings Conducted In Writing

Picked up on a downtown street Friday night in an intoxicated condition, Ross McLaughlin, 26, of Orillia, revealed to police that he had neither the power of speech nor of hearing.

These deficiencies proved to be permanent when McLaughlin was brought before Magistrate W. R. Philp on a drunk charge today.

The entire proceedings had to be conducted in writing with court officials acting as emissaries between the accused and the magistrate.

In spite of this, the hearing didn't take very long. McLaughin entered a plea of guilty in writing.

He was given the alternative of a $10 fine and $2.50 costs or 10 days in jail. With a litle more than four dollars in his pocket, McLaughlin hadn't much difficulty choosing the jail sentence.

LINDSAY (ENS) — Prof. M. Burridge was elected "Mayor" of Pleasant Point summer resort at a meeting of cottagers. The council: Miss Tucker, D. A. Sinclair and J. G. Baldwin (secretary). It was decided to proceed with the cleaning up of a Point acreage for playground purposes for the use of cottagers and their children, as well as picnic parties.

Red Planes Have Approached NA Arctic Zone Frequently

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian planes have appeared over the polar perimeter of the North American continent and Greenland, where the United States has air bases and other defences, about a dozen times within the last 12 months.

Similar scouting expeditions over Japan average about one every two weeks, a well-informed U.S. Air Force source said today.

This information was made available in answer to questions arising out of the incident two days ago in which Soviet planes shot down an American B-50 bomber which U.S. officials said was flying 40 miles off the Siberian coast over the international waters off Japan.

The information was received before Russia formally protested that four U.S. fighter planes shot down a Soviet passenger plane with 21 aboard near the Chinese-Korean border last Monday.

DATA NOT GIVEN

The exact number of incidents involving forays by Soviet planes in the Arctic, the time, location and circumstances—none of this data may be given. But in only one instance, already reported, were shots fired by American airmen against the Russian aerial reconnaissance parties—when the foreign craft made a firing pass at the U.S. planes which discovered them.

The approximate dozen instances of Soviet scouting of this continent and Greenland are only for the last year. Others are suspected to have occurred before that.

Only two such incidents during the last 12 months have been made public.

Last November, two F84 jet fighters, on patrol at 16,000 feet over eastern Hokkaido, Japan, encountered an LA11—a Soviet - made, propeller-driven fighter — bearing Russian markings. The U. S. Air Force planes closed in and flew alongside the Russian aircraft until it crossed the international boundary and headed for home.

Last Feb. 17, two Russian planes of the same type were discovered by U. S. Air Force interceptors above eastern Hokkaido. The Soviet planes made a firing pass. The two F84s returned the fire, with one of them hitting and apparently damaging one of the LA11s. Neither American plane was hit. The February incident was at least three miles inside the international boundary separating Japan from the Russian-held Kurile Islands, where the Red Air Force reportedly maintains big bases for fighters and long range bombers.

FAR BEYOND ZONE

This contrasts with the Russian attack two days ago on the B-50 which the U. S. contends was 40 miles beyond Soviet territory and far out over international water.

In the spring of 1952 vapor trails were sighted above the Aleutian Island chain which extends outward from the Alaskan mainland. There was no actual sighting of Russian aircraft nor radar pickup. But it caused an alert of U. S. air defences throughout Alaska and the northern United States.

New Waters

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—The grain carrier George Hindman, which brought a big grain load from the Lakehead, was formerly used for general cargo between India and Italy under the name Risacua. The vessel was re-fitted and modernized at Montreal for service on the Great Lakes.

One Prisoner Escapes From Police Station

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Two shots shattered the stillness early today as two prisoners made a break at the police station, one escaping.

City police recaptured Henry G. Lee, 22, of Clinton and returned him there to face a charge of car theft.

Identity of the second man is not known

Police found the men driving against traffic on a one-way street shortly before 3 a. m. Learning that the vehicle was listed as stolen, they brought both to the police station.

Hunt Cheque Artist In Northern Ontario

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—Police are hunting a cheque artist who has also been operating in Timmins and Niagara Falls.

A taxi driver told police he was given a $52 cheque after taking a man on a return trip from here to Timmins. Bank officials told the driver the cheque signer had no account and was being sought by police in Timmins and Niagara Falls for passing worthless cheques there.

Night Club Singer Killed In Accident

OAKVILLE (CP)—Carlotta Paul, 30, Pawtuckett, R.I., night club singer, was killed and her companion, Raphael Wax, 40, also of Pawtucket, was critically injured in a highway accident here today.

Police said the couple were in a car about to make a left turn on the Queen Elizabeth Way when a transport truck struck the car, hurling it against a light standard.

Miss Paul has been the featured singer at Toronto's Club Zanzibar.

Idle Hours Of Truce Offer Time For Memories Of Friends Cut Down

By FRED SPARKS
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

ON THE KOREAN TRUCE FRONT (NEA) — The tedious truce has replaced the yo-yo war.

Since May, 1951—when Douglas MacArthur said the Korean conflict "has reached a stalemate"—we yo-yoed up and down a string of hills like Old Baldy and Heartbreak Ridge, gaining only obituary notices.

Now a mountain climbing journey along the front will show you an army doing nothing much—but in a most military manner.

A handful of soldiers "keep watch on chopsticks," wearing towels around their necks like scarves to sop up sweat.

Blonde Pfc. John Thatcher, 19, of Portland, Me., regularly focuses binoculars on the neutral zone, looking for any enemy which might be advancing under the flag of double-cross. In a nearby mountain stream, Thatcher has thoughtfully parked four cans of beer.

Unless any approaching Communists open fire or try to shake hands with bayonets, Thatcher will reach for his phone instead of his carbine.

He will report "unfriendliness" in forbidden strip. Said report will be rushed to the Armistice Commission. Neutral Swiss or Swedes, the only ones with legal tickets to No Man's Land, will investigate.

Offsiders will merely be given a black mark in public opinion.

Last month I inspected the armistice line between Israel and Arab Jordan. The fear of being labelled "aggressive" by the commission restrains mischief makers there about like a wall of corn flakes.

Unfortunately, the idle hours of truce offer time for memories of friends cut down in the last days of battle.

Sitting hip-high, in the same stream that cooled Thatcher's beer, GIs recalled a corporal who fell to a grenade here just before the truce deadline.

Said one kid as he soaped his hair, "He was the best friend I ever had, he'd share anything with you."

Another scrawn soldier wearing a sock like a glove while washing it said, "That's right, he was built like a tank, and when I got pooped climbing Pork Chop hill he carried my gear."

A third, trying to cup a nervous minnow, said, "Damn it! Why did he have to go after that Chink? He could have let him get away. Now it doesn't make any difference."

Everybody is housekeeping at the truce front now. Most soldiers are prettying bunker walls with magazine cutouts of shapely girls.

* * *

I noted one enterprising mamasan lugging a crudely painted sign reading "God Bless Our Home." It sold as fast as our atomic blueprints would sell in Moscow.

After dark the watch on chopsticks doubles, and the demilitarized zone is lighted by curious searchlights.

These are strange silent nights, after endless months punctuated by whoomph, bam, whoomph, bam, of artillery.

"No kidding," says Thatcher, "it's hard to sleep. Every so often I wake up suddenly and wonder why it's so quiet — what happened?"

Fires Into Ground To Frighten Prowlers

KITCHENER (CP)—Police said Friday a shotgun guard at a transport company yard here fired into the ground to scare away prowlers early Friday.

The incident took place at the yards of Reliable Transport Company where $5,000 damage was done to a truck and contents last week in a fire police said was set.

The company's drivers have not joined the strike of more than 1,500 drivers which has slowed down inter-urban transport in south-western Ontario for the last two weeks.

Basic Principles To Follow In Selecting Wall Paper

Q.—What are the basic principles involved in selecting wallpaper to (a) make small rooms appear larger, (b) make ceilings appear high, and (c) make narrow rooms appear wider?

A.—Small rooms can be made to appear larger by using light-colored wallpaper or by using stripes horizontally around the room. Cool colors, such as blues, greens and soft greys also seem to make the room expand in size.

Panels of scenic wallpaper combined with simple all-over or monotone patterns will make a room seem higher. Vertical stripes or papers in column effects also will accomplish this. The ceiling will also seem to recede if papered with cool, soft colors.

Long narrow rooms can be improved with a subtle two-toned paper on the long walls and a bold pattern paper on the two short walls. This will seem to bring those distant walls closer into the room and square it off.

BOOKCASE DESIGN

Q.—What would you consider the most practical vertical depth for bookcase shelving? I am planning to erect a full wall-length bookcase in my den and would appreciate any suggestion.

A.—Rather than fixed shelving we strongly recommend adjustable shelving supported by pins at each end of the shelf. Space them apart an inch vertically so that shelves may be raised as the need requires. Shelves will not normally require more than 8 or 9 inches depth unless large books are housed. They should be of ¾" material—preferably not exceeding 2' 6" in unsupported length.

Since shelves below 2' 6" height from the floor are not very convenient, shelving below this height might be made deeper to accommodate large books lying flat. Dark colored paint on the wall behind will tend to reduce the contrast between colors of books and the wall—and will even the appearance of an uneven row of books.

PAINTS FOR CONCRETE

Q.—What types of paint are most suitable for concrete floors?

A.—Two types of finishes may be used on concrete floors: enamels that have a varnish base, and rubber-base paints. Where the concrete floor is dry and does not rest on the ground, concrete floor enamels with a varnish base will give good service. Where the concrete floor rests on the ground, and may be subject to dampness, rubber base paints should be used. The floor must be clean and dry, when either paint is applied. Paint film should be protected by floor wax.

EFFLORESCENCE ON BRICK

Q.—When we moved into our new home about two years ago there was a considerable amount of efflorescence on the brick wall facing east. The bricklayers told us this would eventually be washed off by rain, but it remains as unsightly now as the day we moved in. We are beginning to be concerned about the cause and wonder if faulty workmanship is to blame. Could you give us any information as to its possible cause—and whether it is a matter for concern?

A.—Appearance of efflorescence on a masonry wall should always be taken seriously as it is an indication that unwanted moisture is present within the wall itself.

Such moisture, if permitted to collect, will, under certain conditions, eventually contribute to the deterioration of the masonry. Too often it is regarded only as an unsightly nuisance without realizing that its appearance is evidence of a fault in design or workmanship that should be corrected.

Efflorescence is usually a light powder or crystallization caused by water soluble salts in the brick, mortar or plaster, being deposited on the surface upon evaporation of the water. The brick itself is very rarely to blame. Too often an excess amount of water is used during construction which, in the process of gradual evaporation, will carry soluble salts to the surface. If the house itself is well designed and constructed, a final cleaning, or sometimes a few rains, will do the job. If, however, efflorescence persits, it is evident that moisture is continuing to penetrate the wall and steps should be taken to determine the source and correct it. Defective flashings (or the lack of flashings at vulnerable spots), gutters and downspouts, faulty copings or improperly filled mortar joints may, either singly or in combination, be the cause of wet walls.

Water which enters a wall may not always leave at the same spot. Therefore, the location of the efflorescence does not necessarily mea nthat water is entering the wall at that point. However, the location of the efflorescence frequently provides a clue to the source of trouble. For example, its appearance under windows is evidence that the sills or caulking around the window frame should be investigated. A single patch of efflorescence on a wall with no apparent relation to masonry openings, gutters, copings, etc., may be the result of a defective mortar joint or a projecting course of masonry forming a water table. If it appears on the foundation wall close to the ground, especially when rather porous units have been used, it could be caused by ground water drawn up by capillary suction.

If improperly filled mortar joints appear to be the cause, these should be raked out and repointed with a plastic mortar of approximately the same mix is used in the original work. In order to eliminate as much of the original shrinkage as possible, the tuck-pointing mortar should be pre-hydrated by mixing with only a portion of the mixing water one or two hours before using, after which it may be remixed with sufficient added water to produce satisfactory workability. The use of cement, lime and sand or water which might tend to cause efflorescence should be avoided.

If the caulking around door or window frames was completely omitted, all such cracks should be filled with a good elastic caulking compound. Original caulking that has become dried out should be replaced. Raking and repointing mortar joints in sills may also be necessary.

PATCHING CONCRETE WALL

Q.—Can you suggest a good practical method of repairing a leak in a cracked concrete wall caused by checking.

A.—First cut a V-shaped groove about 2 inches deep the full length of the crack. Apply asphalt paint, worked well into the groove. Allow to dry and then fill the groove to about one-half in depth with heavy asphalt. Use cement mortar to fill the balance of the groove.

FAINTING PIPE COVERINGS

Q.—During the past winter we insulated our basement cold-water pipes with cylindrical-shaped split pipe coverings of wool insulating felt with a paper jacket. This was done to eliminate sweating of the pipes during the summer. I have since been told that, in addition, these pipe coverings should be painted on the outside to prevent penetration of water vapor. Is this necessary?

A.—While not always done, it is a good idea to apply a vapor-resisting coat of paint to the jacket covering to prevent water vapor reaching the outside surface of the pipe. If appearance is important, two coats of spar-varnish aluminum paint can be applied to the jacket, followed by a coating of paint of the desired color. Instead of aluminum paint, the jacket might be wrapped with aluminum foil, such as is sold for kitchen use, and painted. If the basement is damp, the paint should contain a fungicide to prevent mildew.

If appearance is not important, the jacket may be wrapped and sealed with aluminum foil or with asphalt-impregnated paper, or it may be painted with an unbroken coating of asphalt.

CLIMATE COAST-TO-COAST

Q.—Could you publish a table of some kind showing relative harshness of winter conditions in various sections across Canada? I like your complete coverage of homes from all across Canada, but wonder how their design and landscaping might be suited to winter conditions in other areas.

A.—The following table will at least serve for comparative purposes. Of the 14 cities listed across Canada, Saskatoon is indicated as the coldest, with 11,490 degree days — Vancouver the warmest with 5,750 degree days.

City.	Days Degree
Saskatoon, Sask.	11,490
Winnipeg, Man.	11,130
Port Arthur, Ont.	10,480
Edmonton, Alta.	10,289
Calgary, Alta.	9,930
Quebec, Que.	9,470
St. John's, Nfld.	8,920
Moncton, N.B.	8,890
Ottawa, Ont.	8,670
Charlottetown, P.E.I.	8,380
Montreal, Que.	8,340
Toronto, Ont.	7,710
Halifax, N.S.	7,682
Vancouver, B.C.	5,750

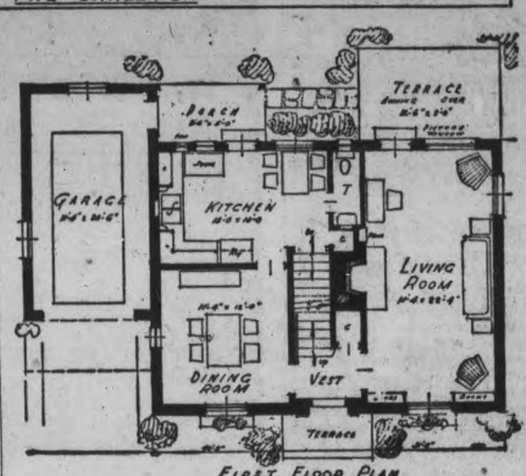
Q.—My wife has recently seen several painted brick houses wihch have appealed to her, and now suggests that our proposed brick bungalow (to be started next September(be painted brick. Could you give us a little information about the durability of paint used on brick—and whether in general, it is a good idea?

A.—Painting of brick is primarily a question of taste and can only be answered by the owner himself. Where the appearance seems to justify the added cost, painted masonry will give satisfactory performance, providing care is taken in the selection of materials used and in their application.

Due to the alternate freezing and thawing to which an exterior wall is subjected, the brick must be harder burned and more resistant to weathering than if they are to be left unpainted. In such cases, an impervious paint, such as an oil base paint, is not as desirable as cement-water paint which has the property of breathing.

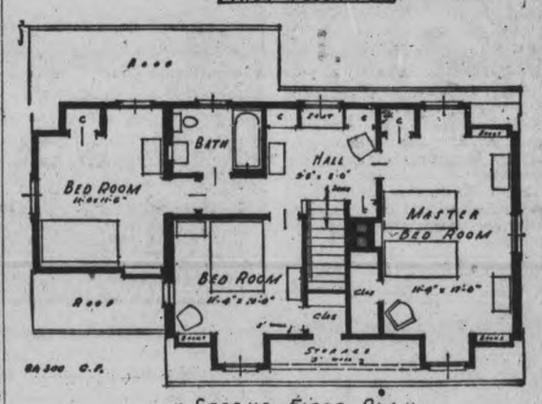
In general, cement-water paints appear to be more durable as masonry paints and have the added advantages of being effective waterproofers and somewhat simpler to apply. The fact that they are brushed on a damp wall is a distinct advantage permitting their application as soon as the wall is constructed.

There are many commercial paints produced expressly for masonry surfaces, many of which have given very satisfactory service. When considering the use of any particular type or brand, it is recommended that its performance under similar conditions and service be investigated, and in any event, its application be made on strict accordance of the manufacturer.



KITCHEN CABINET SPACE

Wall cabinet capacity of six square feet per adult should be provided in the kitchen. Figure base cabinet requirements on linear front feet of cabinet not including range and refrigerator. Here are some figures of the small house:



No. of Persons	Wall Cab. Sh'lf Space	Base Cabinet Shelf Space
3	30 sq. ft.	4½ to 6 lin. ft.
4	36 sq. ft.	6 to 7½ lin. ft.
5	42 sq. ft.	7½ to 9 lin. ft.

These figures are of course subject to special family requirements, such as where an unusual amount of entertaining is done.

Preparing Wood Floors For Asphalt Tile

By MR. FIX (NEA)

If you are planning to install an asphalt tile floor in an expansion attic, or on any wooden subfloor, there are a number of fundamentals you need to become acquainted with.

First, as one manufacturer points out, a resilient tile floor (asphalt tile is included in that category) is no better than the subfloor it covers. If there are cracks, humps, raised nail heads and like defects in the subfloor, they'll show up in the finished job.

Paint, varnish, oil ore wax should be entirely removed from attic subfloors before the tile installation is begun. Cracks wider than ⅛-inch and holes larger than ¼-inch should be filled. The floor must be firm, even and hard.

After the floor has been properly cleaned or sanded, apply a prime coat of floor and wall size to keep the bare wood from absorbing moisture from adhesive.

Asphalt and other resilient tiles should not be laid over single-thickness wood floors. If a single wood floor consists of tongue-and-groove boards less than three inches wide, it may be covered with hardboard or five-ply plywood. If the floor is of straight-edge boards, cover it with tongue-and-groove lumber. Wooden subfloors of straight-edge boards are too springy.

Before installing hardboard or plywood undelayment, cover the subfloor with building paper nailed in place. Install board-type underlayments in 4x4-foot squares with staggered joints, rough side up for better bonding with adhesive, and spaced 1/16-inch apart. Nail underlayment to floor with three-penny cement or resin-coated nails spaced six inches apart.

If you use a hardboard or plywood underlayment, it is not necessary to paste lining felt over it before installing asphalt tiles. Other resilient tiles require lining felt, and asphalt tiles do, too, if laid on floors that take no underlayment.

Where lining felt is used, lay it at right angles to the direction of the floor boards. Seams in the felt should be butted, never overlapped, because the laps will show up as ridges in the finished floor. Cut felt to fit acurately with as few seams as possible.

As each piece is cut, turn it upside down to take out the curl and make it hug the floor. After all pieces are in place, turn one end of each piece back about halfway of the room and sweep the floor. Next, spread lining felt cement on the floor evenly with a notched trowel, covering about 36 square feet with paste at one time.

Keep replacing the turned-back felt as you progress with the cementing, smooth it down as quickly as possible and roll the felt thoroughtly with a 100-pound linoleum roller. Then turn up the unpasted half of the felt and repeat the operation. Roll the felt from the centre out, in two directions.

You are now ready to begin plotting the layout of the tile, a task that requires considerable accuracy, for the tile is started at the centre of the room, not at the end or side walls. This operaion will be explained in the next column to follow.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—How should boards be fitted to irregular wall surfaces?

A—Make sure the board is plumb against the wall first, and devise a means of holding it in place. Set points of a scriber as far apart as greatest distance between the board and wall. Hold one leg of scriber against wall and scribe line on the board. Saw board along line.

A PROPER BASE for asphalt tile may include lining felt on double floors, or plywood to make single floors double thickness.

Got August Blues About Your Hair

Whatever it is about August, it's for sure the month in which hair acts up. Your June permanent isn't quite as strong. The sun and the heat, and daily dips in the lake, have left their mark.

Being human, we all wait until we have to remedy a situation before we do much to prevent it. First aid treatment for that tousle-top of yours is simple — and effective.

Get yourself a bottle of good creme rinse. Douse it on your hair liberally. Wring out a turkish towel in hot water and steam your head for at least 5 minutes. Then shampoo with a mild and gentle shampoo, follow with creme rinse used according to the directions on the bottle, and then see the difference!

Speaking of shampoos—there's a lovely golden oil treatment shampoo that's especially for hair that has been damaged by bleaching, either by chemicals or by the sun. Then, for normal to oily hair, a daffodil-yellow egg cream shampoo, and you know how good egg is for conditioning.

Then for normal to dry hair—especially permanented hair — there's a marvellous shampoo, formulated especially for permanents, and quick, luxurious-sudsing in any water.

Always when you dress your hair, use creme hair dressing. Pour a little of this lotion in the palm of your hand, rub your other hand over it and then touch it to your hair. Polish the hair ends between your palms. Then brush with your head hanging down for as long as you can. That spreads the dressing; spreads your own natural hair oils to the ends of your hair. And how it wakens the circulation!

Too oily? Is that your scalp trouble? Then don't be afraid to wash your hair two or three times a week. Follow with a creme rinse and you'll be keeping your scalp free of dirt-collecting grease, yet you'll be conditioning your hair . . . helping to regulate the over-active glands.

Don't be afraid to wash your hair often. There's dust by the ton in the air and dust-laden oil and grease accumulated on the scalp can invite scalp infections and harm the hair.

Summer Specialty Using Carrots And Pineapple

Summer and cool inviting salads go hand in hand. Glamorize your next party, or give everyday meals a bright "dress-up" with this recipe.

CRUSHED PINEAPPLE CARROT MOLD

1 can crushed Hawaiian pineapple
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup finely grated carrots
½ pint whipping cream.

Drain pineapple. Add enough water to pineapple syrup to make 1½ cups. Heat to a boil. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Add drained pineapple and grated carrots. Whip cream stiff and fold into gelatin mixture. Pour into an 8-inch ring mold (1½ quarts) and chill until firm. If desired, mold in individual molds. (It's best to make this salad a day ahead of serving so that it will be thoroughly set before unmolding.) Unmold and garnish with watercress. Serve with these cheese straws. 8 servings.

Cheese Straws For The Party

Roll ½ recipe plain pastry ⅛ inch thick. Sprinkle ½ cup grated cheese over half; fold over other half. Sprinkle another ½ cup grated cheese on half the folded surface and again fold over. Roll ¼ inch thick; cut in ½ x 5 inch strips with pastry wheel or sharp knife. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) about 10 minutes. Makes approximately 30 5-inch strips.

Meds' "Mother-Confessor" At McGill Retires At 66

MONTREAL (CP) — Gertrude Mudge has retired after "mothering" more than 3,000 students during her 38 years at McGill University.

Officially a secretary in the medical faculty, 66-year-old Miss Mudge was actually the mother-confessor and general adviser for harried medical students, especially those from out-of-town who might be lonely and homesick.

When she retired this year, the faculty made her guest of honor at its annual ball and "her children" chipped in to buy her a radio-phonograph. It was only one of many gestures of appreciation.

"They knew how I loved music," she said. "Almost every Sunday night during the school term I used to invite students and their wives or girl friends to my home for an evening of music. We would sit and listen to classical records or discuss compositions."

At Christmas Miss Mudge often invited groups of students to turkey dinner at her apartment.

"I used to listen to their joys and sorrows, and their sorrows at exam-time were terrible," she said. "They were so nervous. . . they were always sure they had failed." She shared their joy when they passed the stiff medical exams.

Sometimes Miss Mudge would meet an undergraduate whose father she had known in his days as a student. It made her feel very old, she admitted.

Often she became not only mother to a student but godmother to his children. Her favorites are little girls, she said, and she was disappointed when her own niece had four sons.

"I'm going to miss the students terribly," Miss Mudge admitted. "They gave this place so much life."

Eamer-Pettifer

A double ring ceremony in the Campbellford Presbyterian Church united in marriage Helen Catherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pettifer and Percy Edward Eamer, son of Mr. Walter Eamer of Ottawa and the late Mrs. Eamer. The Rev. A. E. Toombs officiated.

Her ballerina length gown was Swiss lace over blue nylon tulle. Her bouquet was of white gladioli. Bridesmaids were Jean Pettifer wearing yellow net over yellow taffeta and Elinor Pettifer wearing pink net over pink taffeta. They carried bouquets of pink and yellow gladioli.

Groomsman was William Reagan of Marmora. The bride's mother received wearing wine nylon dress with white accessories and gladioli corsage.

Leaving for the wedding trip to Calgary, Alberta, the bride wore a navy crepe dress with white accessories.

USE A SPATULA

For spreading sandwiches, especially in mass production, use a spautla, it's more flexible than a knife. For tastier spreads use accent in the fillings.

USE SOUR CREAM

Use sour cream dressing to moisten a blend of equal amounts of chopped apple and finely shredded cabbage . . . and you have apple slaw. Serve tart oil dressing on diced apple and chopped greens, or other apple combination salads.

Ice Cream Party Treats

Want to make a real hit with your offsprings? Any youngster thinks he's having a party every time he eats ice cream; but when you use some of these novel ice cream ideas, just watch their eyes pop out in wonder.

ICE CREAM CLOWNS

Jauntly, slightly saucy-looking ice cream clowns are easy to get ready. Just use large chocolate or ginger cookies for the ruffle round his neck, and top the cookie with a large scoop of ice cream. The ice cream is his face, and raisin eyes and a cherry for his mouth give him just the right "come hither and eat me" look. Stick his clown hat on-really an ice cream cone-and give it a pom pom and a couple of rosettes with whipped cream.

The clowns will be a great sensation-and so of course will the other ice cream treats we're suggesting:. ice cream bunnies, ice cream circuses, ice cream banana boats, and ice cream roosters. For most of these novelties, all you'll need are ingredients you have in your kitchen-cookies, fruit, nuts, whipped cream, and of course ice cream.

ICE CREAM BUNNIES

Use one large scoop of strawberry ice cream for the bunny's body. For the head attach a smaller scoop of ice cream to the body securing with a tooth pick. Then halve lady fingers and stick them to the back of the head for his large ears. Raisins are used for eyes and a daub of whippel cream for his short white tail.

ICE CREAM CIRCUSES

Make large ginger or chocolate cookies about 4 inches in diameter. Place a scoop of ice cream, any flavor, in the centre. Stand 4 small animal crackers around the ice cream. If desired, small candy canes may be placed in back of each animal cracker. An ice cream sauce can be served with this sundae.

ICE CREAM BANANA BOATS

Slice a large banana in half lengthwise. Place a small scoop of ice cream, any flavor, on the centre of the cut side of the banana. Near the back of the scoop stand the sail. To make the sail, insert a colored toothpick through the side of a triangular piece of paper. Write the child's name on the sail.

ICE CREAM ROOSTERS

Use one large scoop of maple ice cream for the roosters body. Attach a smaller scoop of ice cream to the body with a toothpick for his head. (This scoop should be placed at an angle, not right on top of the body). Then place a row of red cinnamon candies along the top of the rooster's head for his comb. Use raisins for eyes and a half peanut for beak. Cut thin strips of orange or lemon peel and place several strips along each side of the body for wings and 4 or 5 at the back of his body for a tail. Pecans may be used for feet. Rooster may be "perched" on a thin piece of sponge cake.

Marjorie Huffman Bride Of G. A. Wilson

Moscow United Church was the scene of the marriage on Saturday of Marjorie June, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan M. Huffman, Moscow, to George Alexander Wilson, son of Mrs. Eleanor Wilson and the late William Wilson, Westwood.

The Rev. Harold Kippen officiated at the double ring ceremony in a setting of gladioli and ferns. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Arthur McQuay, organist, and the soloist, Miss Joyce Huffman, Long Branch, sang The Lord's Prayer and "O Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose an original gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over star slipper satin, fashioned with a fitted basque and Juliet neckline. The bouffant skirt fell into a slight train. Her fingertip veil of embroidered tulle fell from a heart-shaped matching lace headdress embroidered with sequins. She carried a cascade of pink Sweetheart roses and Stephanotis.

Miss Lois Huffman, Long Branch, was maid of honor. She wore a strapless ballerina gown of apple green nylon net over taffeta with matching bolero.

Miss Marian Dawson, of Odessa, was bridesmaid in a matching gown of petal pink nylon net. They carried nosegays of summer flowers with matching headdresses.

Mr. Robert Wilson, Westwood, was groomsman. Mr. Gerald Huffman and Mr. Robert Reid were ushers.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the brids's parents. The bride's mother wore an imported gown of powder blue sheer crepe with pink and navy accessories, and a corsage of Sweetheart roses and blue poms.

The groom's mother wore a navy sheer gown trimmed with white and navy blue accessories, and a corsage of coral roses. The bride's grandmother wore a gown of navy blue sheer, white accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

For travelling, the bride chose a red linen sun dress wtih matching stole and white accessories. Her corsage was of white poms. After a motor trip to Ottawa, Algonquin Park, Niagara and the northern United States, the couple will live in Westwood.

The out-of-town guests were from Hamilton, Long Branch, Mimico, Toronto, Midland, Castleton, Westwood, Keene, Napanee, Picton, Kingston, Odessa, Selby, Yarker, Millbrook and North Gower.

Hopes For Living Painting Portraits

VICTORIA (CP) — Ilse John hopes to make her living in Canada by painting portraits.

Native of Freiburg, Germany, she studied in Berlin, Paris and Switzerland before coming to Canada. She particularly likes to paint children. "Men make good models" she said here, "but they never think they have enough time to pose."

Miss John made a hitch-hiking tour of Eastern Canada recently, carrying a packsack containing her clothes and painting equipment. "I presented an odd sight," she said, "but everybody has been so nice and helpful since I arrived."

Lettuce Tricky

Lettuce is the trickiest of all vegetables to handle. Like other greens, it retains field heat which shortens its life. Prepackaged lettuce often stays garden-crisp even several days in the home refrigerator because it has undergone several types of cooling systems in its progress from grower to grocer.

So keep it in its cellophane jacket. It is that moisture-proof, specially-coated wrapper with the small breathing holes that has kept it dewey-fresh and uncontaminated during its long journey.

Bailieboro News

Mr. and Mrs. John Dyes and son of Toronto were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barnard and son Billy of Peterborough are spending a few weeks at their cottage at Rice Lake.

Miss Phyllis Beebe spent the week-end with Miss Sandra Wilson.

Mr. Elly Patton of Norwood is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Willis Patton.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lackey and family were recent visitors to Ottawa.

Miss Carol Brown of Centreville spent a few days with Misses Sonja and Pat Moncrief this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Caswell and family are guests of Mr. Harold and Miss Lulu Nurse.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Humphries and family of St. Catharines are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Libbey.

CUT FOOD COSTS

Here's news for housewives. Save time and effort and keep down the cost of your family food budget. Serve more salads. Right now, your grocer has fresh supplies of tasty, crisp, nourishing fresh fruits and vegetables. When you do the family food shopping, stock up on plenty of salad ingredients and take advantage of low, peak season prices.

NICE IDEA

Whipped cream is sometimes good as an under-cover. Scoop centers out of cup cakes—fill with sweetened and flavored whipped cream. Top the cream with a canned peach half filled with tart red jelly.

LEAVING FOR IRELAND, Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Toole shown here will fly from Dorval airport Sunday. Friday evening they were given a party by members of their family.

Paris Designer Disagrees With Shorter Skirt Trend

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD
(Special to The Examiner)

PARIS — Paris has gone mad for the animal kingdom this season. Pierre Balmain showed a slinky floor-length evening sheath completely covered with sequins that look like leopards' spots. He faced short coats with lynx and used a zebra striped white fox for sleeves on a dark coat. Mannekins carried big muffs for both daytime and evening.

Balmain's work rooms must have burned the midnight oil for the miraculous handwork on some of the new clothes. Old marquetry floors inspire coats and dress skirts for daytime and evening. Striped tweed for coats is cut out and re-laid in blocks to give the antique palace floor look.

Satin skirts are woven like baskets and evening clothes and even coats are fabulously embroidered like tapestry or Chinese shawls.

Balmain disagrees with the prevailing skirt lengths. His skirts look long. Actually they are 12 inches from the floor for day and 11 for night, about three inches longer than Fath showed.

Balmain does less than other designers so far about the wider top silhouette. His tweed suits have natural set-in shoulders, longish fitted jackets and slim skirts the international look. He shows a group of short, bulky box coats over both suits and slim dresses. They have slightly dropped shoulders or sleeves cut in one with a top yoke. Facings of fluffy fur play up the unshaped look. One of the costumes in this group that everyone liked was a blond, lynx trimmed jacket over a pure cashmere dress with wooden slat belt.

For the tops of most of his clothes, even coats, Balmain likes a soft, cross-over drape in front. Sometimes four buttons give a double-breasted look.

His long, fleecy coats are fitted and many of them printed in paisley patterns or tile shapes—the floor motif again.

He brings back redingotes for cocktail dresses. Wools and velvets button with a tab at the neckline and are filled in in front with soft insets of chiffon in other colors. Tunic dresses from the life and times of Irene Castle fall seven eighths of the way over tight underskirts. Balmain shows them with egret mats.

Lots of white for short evening dresses—white satin in a black Indian lamb print, pale brocade collared and cuffed in mink. Formal evening dresses are Edwardian in their mood. Balmain calls his evening sheath an inverted wine glass, but actually it is the mermaid re-incarnated and flipping its little tail of fullness behind.

Like the rest of the collection, evening fabrics are elegant and the colors all fresh and young.

A white evening sheath is brocaded in pink and red velvet carnations and others covered with crystal embroidered plumes and fleur de lis.

NEED A GARNISH

If fried chicken needs a garnish, try half-slices (fairly thick ones) of fresh lemon, studded with whole cloves or "laced" with strips of pimiento.

DOROTHY DIX:

Model Stepmother Invites Stepson's Wife And Baby

DEAR MISS DIX: Nine years ago at the age of 23, I married a widower with two boys, 15 and eight. We had a daughter, who is now six. I have loved my stepchildren, cared for them as best I could and we have all been very happy together. The oldest boy, who is now in service, is married and a father. They had been living with the girl's mother, but, after the baby was born, were told to find another living place. My stepson will soon go to Korea, and he has asked if his wife and baby could come to us. She is a sweet girl, we all love her and the baby. I want to make her stay with us pleasant, and wish to avoid the hard feelings that do sometimes exist between in-laws. Would you give some advice to a stepmother-in-law?

B.C.

TRUE AFFECTION

ANSWER: Your letter, though short, was so filled with the warmth of family love, that it seems almost foolish for you to worry about the future. You certainly have filled the difficult role of stepmother most admirably, especially considering the few years difference between your age and the boys'. That you will do an equally fine job in your new role of mother-in-law is certain. Your daughter-in-law will be surprised and delighted at the change from her own family's domestic strife to the peace and contentment of your home. Since she has already shown her appreciation of the atmosphere she is about to enter, her co-operation, too, is assured. The only advice you need, or could use, would be to go on as you have for the past nine years, ruling your home with patience and consideration.

The plight of a young wife and mother who faces many lonely months while her husband completes military service is sad enough without the added complication of trouble at home. The devotion of a loving family is the one thing to bring contentment to the period of waiting. Your daughter-in-law is fortunate indeed to have it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Three years ago I married Sam who was divorced and had a six-year-old boy. I was a widow with a seven-year-old son. Sam's ex-wife married a few years before we did, and has a baby girl. Now we also have a daughter. Sam goes to pick up his son once a month, and takes our boy with him. My objection is that he goes into the house and talks to his ex-wife for a while before leaving with the children. I say he should just take the boy and leave.

WORRIED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think you are making an issue of a triviality. Situations like this are bound to come up where a divorce is concerned, and must be faced by the second wife. Perhaps the ex-wife's present husband also objects to the situation. While it certainly would be more diplomatic of Sam to omit the visit, there seems to be no harm to it—at least on the surface—and you will do well to ignore the matter. Don't make a scene over it or let it worry you. You have the man now and that's what is important.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 20 and have been going with a young man for some time. Lately he returned to his home town and I went to visit him. We had a pleasant time but before I left he said he didn't love me anymore—just liked me. He asked that I continue writing. I'm afraid if I do write him, I'll grow even fonder of him.

BRENDA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If you continue corresponding you'll never get over your love for the man, yet, by writing, you may win him back. It's a tough decision to make, especially in view of the fact that, if you do stop the correspondence, you probably wouldn't want to tell him why you did. The best thing would be to forget him—if you can.

DON'T WORRY

Worried about your waistline? Don't go trying starvation diets. There's an easier way. Eat more salads. Nutrition experts agree that the only way to reduce is to eat less calories each day than the body uses. Fresh fruits and vegetables—the main salad ingredients—are low in calories, but have plenty of other food elements you need. Eat more fresh fruits and vegetables and forget about your weight.

HEARTY MEALS

Hearty meal-in-one salads are stand-bys for family fare or feeding a crowd. Cooked and seasoned macaroni shells, cubed ham, diced hard-coked eggs are a good starter trio; so too is cold flaky rice, shredded cababge or chilled bean sprouts, and green peppers. Toss with seasoning, salad dressing, and greens.

SURPRISE SALAD

Surprise your family with a cool, tasty, nourishing salad. Right now, fresh fruits and vegetables are at their flavorful best. Your grocer has his shelves well stocked with field-fresh produce. This is the season of peak production, so take advantage of low prices. Serve salad today and every day.

FALL STYLES NEED JEWELRY

The elegance of fall fashions calls for liberal use of costume-accenting jewelry, couturiers are saying.

Open and collarless necklines demand the addition of a gleaming necklace or choker. Wide lapels or a cardigan jacket is a perfect background for pins or clips.

NICE EFFECT

For an interesting effect on your relish tray remove the centre from carrot coins: insert celery through the ring, fringe end of celery strips: curl in ice water and before serving sprinkle with ac'cent.

Rice And Chicken En Casserole

Ingredients: 3 cups cooked rice, 1½ cups diced or shredded chicken; or slices of chicken (enough to serve 6), 1 can (1¼ cups) cream of mushroom soup, 1-3 cup water, 1 cup grated American cheese, Paprika.

1. Put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil.

2. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking.

3. Leave saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. Remove from the heat. Leave cover on saucepan until you are ready to use the rice.

Spread the rice over the bottom of a greased 10" pie plate or other shallow baking-serving dish. Cover with the chicken. Mix together the mushroom soup and water. Pour over the chicken. Top with the grated cheese. Sprinkle generously with paprika. Place in a preheated 350 deg. F. oven for 30 minutes or until the top is browned.

This recipe makes 6 servings.

LINE TRAY BOTTOM

A graham cracker pie crust mix is fine to line bottom of refrigerator tray: spoon in ice cream: top with more crumb mix—freeze. Same idea works well with creamy type gelatin desserts such as jellied custard, Spanish cream and the like.

Brides Down To Realities Of Living Together

Brides with dreams of pink negligees and breakfast in bed usually come down to earth with a thud.

The typical bridal negligee would drip into the coffee and sweep up the floor. While she may want to have one of these, the bride does well to provide herself with a few washable short negligees with sleeves that stop well above the wrist. She can have them in no-ironing fabric if she wants to make life still easier.

Breakfast will usually be eaten at a table, rather than in bed, with friend husband looking across at her. There are two extremes for the bride to avoid—one is pin-curled, sleepy-looking lipstickless, while the other is heavily made up in evening glamor. Husbands like to see natural, clean beauty across the table in the morning.

ORGANIZE SCHEDULE

If you're a new bride, start organizing a beauty schedule now. Getting up earlier in the morning so that you beat your husband to the bathroom is one answer. Have a shower with lots of soap lather and a bath brush and complete your mouth hygiene routine before he's even up.

Remove your pin-curls, if you wear them to bed, and brush your hair vigorously. Brushing is good for curls. It's an exploded theory that brushing takes them out. Apply a very natural-looking make-up.

Then when you say good morning to your husband, it will be with fresh-faced beauty.

Have your routine beauty essentials neatly arranged in the bathroom, if that's where you always beautify, to save yourself trips to the bedroom. Be sure, however, that they're all together and out of your husband's way. You may find matched sets in plastic more attractive than an assortment of different styles of bottles and jars.

ATTENTION: On July 4 I replied to Mrs. Edith S. who wanted camp quantity recipes. Another kind reader has sent me a letter to forward to her. Would Mrs. Edith S. please send me her address so that I may forward it?

QUESTION: Would you please send me the camp menu recipes you mentioned to serve 50 or 60? My daughter is cooking at a camp and I think she would appreciate these .. Muriel G.

ANSWER: Gladly. I mailed recipe for quantity rice pudding.

TAPIOCA CREAM (for 50)

Scald 13 cups whole milk in top of double boiler. Add 1¼ cups quick-cooking tapioca mixed with 1 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon salt. Cook, covered until tapioca is transparent. Beat 5 egg yolks and combine them with another 1 cup sugar, and stir this into first mixture. Cook 8 minutes. Fold in 5 stiffly beaten egg whites and remove from heat. When slightly cool add 2 tablespoons vanilla. Serve this warm garnished with what ever fresh fruit is in season in your area.

MACARONI AND CHEESE (for 50)

Cook 5 lbs. broken macaroni in 2 gallons water containing ¼ cup salt until tender. Drain. Add 5 quarts white sauce (thin) made by heating 4¾ quarts milk until scalding and stirring into it a paste made of 1½ cups flour and 1½ cups melted margarine, until thick. Add also 2 lbs (or more if desired) of cut up processed or grated cheddar cheese. Pour this into baking pans, cover with 1 quart soft breadcrumbs into which you have stirred ½ cup melted fat. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 to 60 minutes.

PEACH LAYER CAKE

(may be cut to serve 50 or 60)

Thirteen cups canned sliced or fresh peaches, 4 cups granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 quart cream for whipping. Combine peaches, sugar (use more if fresh peaches are used), lemon juice and let them stand until thoroughly chilled in refrigerator. Just before serving beat cream until stiff, fold in peach mixture and use as filling and topping for 8 average-sized 2-layer cakes. Use less cream if plainer filling is desired.

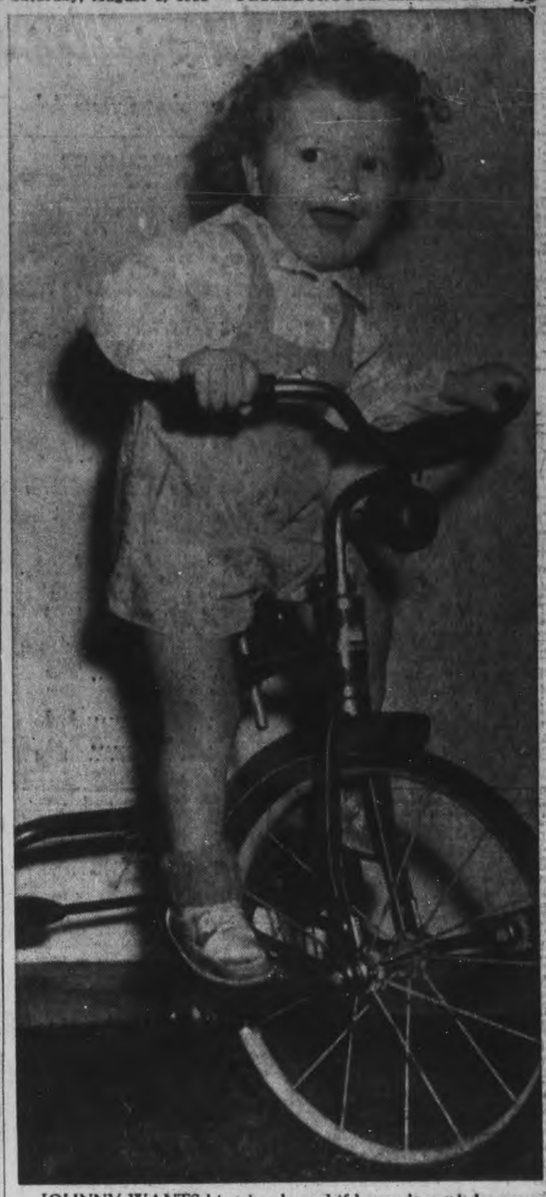
SALMON SALAD (serves 50)

Eight 1 lb. cans good quality salmon (or tuna), 16 cups finely chopped celery, 2 cups cooked salad dressing, ¼ cup finely chopped green onion and tops, ½ cup heavy cream, 2 cups mayonnaise, lettuce, tomatoes, parsley. Flake fish which has been skinned and boned and drained. Add to it the celery. Whip the cream and add it to the cooked dressing and the mayonnaise and fold this into the first mixture. Mix lightly with the onion. Serve in lettuce lined bowls and garnish with tomato wedges and parsley sprigs.

PUMPKIN (EIGHT 9-INCH) PIES

Thirteen cups mashed or canned pumpkin, 16 cups milk, 16 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 5 cups brown sugar, 2 tablespoons cinnamon, 1 tablespoon each ginger and salt. Mix pumpkin with milk and beaten yolks. Combine with sugar mixed with spices and salt. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into 8 pastry-lined 9-inch pans. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes.

BARBECUED CORNED BEEF



Slice cooked or canned corned beef into 50 slices—that is allow 10 slices to each pound and use 5 lbs. Cream 1 cup butter and while creaming add 1 cup catsup mixed with 1 cup chili sauce, 1 cup prepared mustard, ½ cup Worcestershire sauce and ¼ teaspoon cayenne. Brush meat slices generously with this mixture. Put in baking pan and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes.

NOTE: To serve 10 reduce this recipe by making only 1-5 of it. It is a delicious way to serve canned corned beef for family meals.

GINGERSNAPS (120 cookies)

One cup each molasses, shortening, sugar, 1 teaspoon each soda and cinnamon, and salt, 2 teaspoons ginger, 4 cups stirred but not sifted flour. Heat molasses, shortening and sugar together until shortening is just melted. Cool. Add soda dissolved in 2 tablespoons water. Sift together the cinnamon, ginger, salt and half of the flour. Stir this into the first mixture, then add remaining flour gradually to make a dough stiff enough to roll. Chill. Roll on lightly floured board until very thin. Cut out with floured cutter and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. about 10 or 12 minutes.

I hope these recipes help your daughter. This is all I have room for.

JOHNNY WANTS his tricycle and if he can't get it he uses a temper tantrum to try to get his own way. What should mother do about Johnny's outbursts?

FOR PARENTS ONLY:

Child's Temper Tantrum Creates Tempestuous Scene

By NANCY CLEAVER

"I hate you!" Johnny screamed at his mother when she would not let him have his tricycle. Grandma was arriving any moment for a visit. She would be eager to see young Johnny at once. Johnny proceeded to stage a temper tantrum—yelling, jumping up and down, and pulling at the cupboard door where his tricycle was kept.

"Can I hold the dolly?" Susan asked eagerly, pointing to the exquisite doll with lovely yellow curls high on the store's toy shelf. The clerk explained to Susan's mother that it was both expensive and fragile. She could not allow a small child to handle it unless the parent was interested in purchasing it.

When Susan's mother heard the price, she knew it was much more than they could afford. But Susan, who was only three, was determined to get her hands on that dolly! When mother tried to hurry her out of the store, Susan resorted to a favorite device to get her own way. She "went limp," lay on the floor and kicked and screamed, "I want that dolly!"

EXASPERATING

There are few more exasperating phases of behaviour than a child's temper tantrum. They are horrid at home and even more trying in public. These sudden gusts of anger are so violent! The small boy or girl, feeling frustrated and disappointed, loses emotional control. He knows what he wants, and he wants it right now! He strains every nerve, including his vocal chords, towards reaching his objective.

What is mother to do? If she meets anger with anger, the child only becomes more excited. She wants to calm him down and at the same time not give in to him. Mother has seen too many tiny tyrants using temper tantrums as a "Big Stick".

There is no rule which fits every case. Mother should ignore his temper tantrum as far as possible. If it occurs at home she can go into another room or pick him up and carry him into his own room and leave him there. There is no fun for Junior venting his rage with no audience to watch him!

Sometimes his attention can be diverted to something else, and thus a head-on collision is avoided. If he had been building with his blocks and his tower has collapsed and angered him, perhaps he might like to look at a picture book or watch out the window for cars passing on the road.

NO USE REASONING

There is absolutely no use attempting to reason with a child in a temper tantrum, because his emotions blot out his thinking. Threats and physical punishment usually increase his rage. Mother must not show hostility, or make her child feel that she will certainly get even with him for this bit of naughtiness. She should try to mix a casual attitude with necessary firmness about essentials.

Observant parents will notice that temper tantrums are a common affliction of pre-school child-

6—In Memoriam

ATCHISON—In loving memory of our dear daughter, Ilene, who passed away, August 1, 1949.
God knew that she was suffering,
The hills were hard to climb,
So He closed her weary eyelids
And whispered, Peace be thine.
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Sometime, somewhere, we know not when
We will meet our loved one there.
—Never to be forgotten by Mother and Father Gallagher.

BLAND—In loving memory of our only child, Aileen Bland, who passed away August 2, 1944; also my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Elson. Father, who departed this life through accident July 31st, 1917; mother on April 2, 1940.

So many things have happened
Since you were called away,
